26. Powers of Appeal and Revisional Courts to deal with orders made under this section.—See s. 520 and notes thereto

518. In lieu of itself passing an order under section 517, the Court may direct the property to be delivered to the District Magistrate, or to a Sub-Divisional Magistrate who shall in such cases deal with it as if it had been seized by the Police and the seizure had been reported to him in the manner hereinafter mentioned

Order may take form of reference to District or Sub-Divisional Magistrate

Notes.—1. 'Manner hereinafter mentioned.'—See s. 523

2. Scope of the section.—An order under this section can be made only in respect of property (a) regard ing which an offence appears to have been committed, or (b) which has been used for the commission of an offence, or (c) which has been produced before a superior Court, or (d) which has been in the custody of such superior Court, Ratanlal 496. In 14 C. W. N. 215, the High Court set aside an order of a Sessions Judge made under s. 517 without an inquiry as to the ownership of a sum of money found with an acquitted person and held, that an order under s. 518 ought to have been made

519. * When any person is convicted of any offence which includes, or amounts to theft or receiving stolen property, and it is proved that any other person has bought the stolen property from him without knowing, or having reason to believe, that the same was stolen, and that any money has on his arrest been taken out of the possession of the convicted person, the Court may, on the application of such purchaser and on the restitution of the stolen property to the person entitled to the possession thereof, order that out of such money a sum not exceeding the price paid by such purchaser be delivered to him.

Payment to innocent purchaser of money found on accused

Note.—Compensation not to be given out of fine imposed on convicted person.—Where no money is found in the possession of the person convicted as the thief or receiver of stolen property, it is not open to a Magistrate to grant compensation to the innocent purchaser out of the fine imposed on the convicted person. Weir II, 671. See also 3 Bom. L. R. 449 and 764. On the conviction of an accused under s 380, I P C, out of the fine imposed, Rs. 28 were ordered to be paid to one B, an innocent mortgagee who had advanced money to the accused on the stolen property held, that ss 519 and 545 were not applicable to the case as no injury was caused to the mortgagee by the offence committed, Ratanlal 631; Weir II, 672. See Note 16 to s 517 as to the proper order to be made when the interests of pledgees are concerned.

520. Any Court of appeal, confirmation, reference or revision may direct any order under section 517, section 518, or section 519, passed by a Court subordinate thereto, to be stayed pending consideration by the former Court, and may modify, alter or annul such order and make any further orders that may be just

Stay of order under sections 517, 518 or 519

Notes.—1. Enlarged scope of this section.—This section is amended by the addition of the words "and make any further orders that may be just" It "will enable a superior Court to give effect to an order setting aside the order of the Court of First Instance, if that order has been carried out by directing the restitution of property"—Statement of Objects and Reasons See also 5 S. L. R. 153 = 13 Cr. L. J. 21.

Cases superseded owing to enlarged scope of s. 517—Owing to the enlarged scope of s 517, the Rulings in 9 W. R. 87; 1 B. 630; 8 B. 576; 14 C. 834; 22 B. 844 are no longer law. The Ruling in 30 C. 690 though made in 1903, did not take into consideration, the alteration of the language of s 517 and the addition made to this section. The jurisdiction of Courts of Revision is now undoubted by reason of the concluding words of this section. See Note in 5 C. W. N. at p. 43 and 9 C. W. N. 549 = 2 Cr. L. J. 269.

1-A. Application under this section in no sense an application by way of appeal.—Held, that the petitioner's application was in no sense an application by way of appeal from the order of the Magistrate, but an independent application to the Sessions Judge with a view to his taking action under ss. 517, 520 of the Code and no period of limitation is prescribed for such an application. 4 Lab. 49.

2. "Court of appeal" means the Court to which appeals ordinarily lie.—These words are not necessarily limited to a Court before which an appeal is pending. It may very often happen that the question of the propriety of an order under s 517 may, in no way, concern the convicted person, and it is unreasonable to construe this section in a way as shall make the power of the Judge to modify alter or annul a Magistrate's order affecting one person, contingent on the accident whether another person has or has not chosen to appeal, 3 C. 379 = 1 C. L. R. 339; 9 M. 443; 2 A 278. The words 'Court of Appeal' merely imply the Court to which appeals would ordinarily lie, and do not mean that an appeal must lie in the particular case in which an order has been passed as to property, 80 P. L. J. 1911 = 12 Cr. L. J. 400. In Weir II, 679, a second class Magistrate discharged certain persons accused of theft and ordered the delivery of property to them. Though there was no appeal pending, the District Magistrate reversed the order so far as the delivery of property was concerned, and finding that the property had been taken from the possession of the complainant ordered it to be delivered to him. Held, that the District Magistrate had jurisdiction under this section to set aside the order passed by the second-class Magistrate under s. 517, 42 M. L. J. 401; 44 M. L. J. 36. But see 42 B. 664 dissenting from 9 M. 443; 46 A. 623 follows 42 B. 664.

3. Appellate Court not entitled to act, when order of Subordinate Court not one under s. 517.—519.—When property is not disposed of by a Magistrate under this section, a Sessions Judge has no jurisdiction to hear an appeal against the order of the Magistrate and revise the same, 10 B. 197; 1 B. 830. Since an order directing the restoration of property in respect of which no offence has been committed to the person in whose possession the property is found, is not an order under this section, it is not appealable, 22 B. 844; 14 C. 834 followed in 30 C. 690. But the correctness of this last Ruling was seriously doubted in 9 C. W. N. 549 = 2 Cr. L. J. 269 on the ground that 30 C. 690 does not advert to the alterations in the language of this section and the addition made to s. 520. In this last case, though the elephant was found to belong to E, still as the persons whom he charged with having committed an offence in respect of it were acquitted to that offence and they claimed the elephant and denied his ownership the elephant was made over to one of the accused, especially as the elephant was found in his possession. In an appeal from a conviction, Appellate Court has no jurisdiction to pass any order under this section, when no order has been passed under s. 517 by the Subordinate Court which convicted the accused, Weir II, 674. See Note 24 at p. 1257.

* Cf. The Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 30 and 31 Vics c 85 a 9 from which this part on has been taken.

4. Sub-Divisional Magistrate not entitled to hear an appeal under this section.—A Sub-Divisional Magistrate has no jurisdiction to hear an appeal under this section, as he is authorized under s. 407 only to hear appeals preferred by accused persons from conviction M H C Cr Re 525 of 1903, followed in Cr Rev, Case 84 of 1903. 42 M. L. J. 401; 44 M. L. J. 56; 46 M. 162.

5. District Magistrate's power to set aside order for restoring property.—Where property has been restored to the accused on their acquittal a District Magistrate has no authority to reverse the order for its restoration. He should, if he wished to review a Subordinate Magistrate's proceedings, make an order for staying the execution till the disposal of the review and any reference thereon under s. 520, 8 B. 575.

6. The section contemplates but one appeal.—A Sessions Court is not a Court of Appeal from a District Magistrate (first-class Magistrate) in respect of an order already passed by the latter, under this section on appeal from a second-class Magistrate though under s. 438 it might report the matter to the High Court. M H C Cr Re, 238 of 1904. Where a Sessions Court in appeal annuls the order of the trying Magistrate for delivering the property to the complainant, the remedy against such an order is by a petition for revision and not by way of appeal, 1893 A. W. N. 40.

6-A. District Sessions Judge not a court of appeal, reference or revision with regard to an order of a second class Magistrate.—In a theft case a second-class Magistrate convicted the accused, and directed the subject-matter to be handed over to the complainant. On appeal the Sub-Divisional Magistrate acquitted the accused and declined to interfere with the order of disposal. The Sessions Judge, on appeal directed the subject matter to be handed over to the accused. Held the Sessions Judge's order was unauthorized by s. 520 as he was not a Court of Appeal confirmation, etc., with reference to the orders of the second-class or the Sub-Divisional Magistrate. 47 M. L. J. 481.

7. During pendency of appeal none of the other Courts competent to act.—If an appeal against an acquittal or conviction included an objection to an order under s. 517 or s. 518 or s. 519, then, during the pendency of the appeal, the concurrent jurisdiction of the other Courts specified in this section would be suspended, owing to seizure thereof by the Court of Appeal, 1904 C. P. L. R. 107, neither under this section nor under s. 439, will the High Court exercise its revisional jurisdiction, except as a Court of last resort, 1897 C. P. L. R. 47; 1904 C. P. L. R. 17. The fact that by reason of the extent of the sentences inflicted, appeals lie to the High Court, will not, however, in the least divest the Sessions Court of the relation in which it stands to the Magistrate's Court for the purposes of this section.

8. Power of Appellate Court where property erroneously disposed of.—In making an order under this section for restitution the Court is not restricted by the terms of s. 517 or by any limited definition that may be given to the word restitution, it can make any order that may be just. Where, therefore currency notes or current coin were erroneously disposed of under s. 517 and the notes and coin are changed before the passing of the Appellate order the repayment of an equivalent may be ordered 5 B. L. R. 153 = 13 Cr. L. J. 21. The intention of the Legislature in adding the words 'and make just' was obviously to enable a superior Court to give effect to an order setting aside the order of the Court of First Instance if that order has been carried out by directing the restitution of the property. In this case if a Magistrate, contrary to the provisions of the last paragraph of this section, hands over the property to the complainant and a Sessions Judge on appeal annuls the conviction, he (the Judge) cannot direct the Magistrate to dispose of the property as if it were unclaimed. The proper order in such a case would be to direct the Magistrate to return the property to the person from whom he had received it 1397 A. W. N. 26. This will authorize the Magistrate to recover it from the complainant, if necessary, by a civil suit, 19 A. 112.

9. Notice must be given.—An order regarding disposal of property should not be passed without giving notice to the opposite party, 35 B. 253. See also 17 Cr. L. J. 207 (Bar.), 46 M. 162.

10 Court of revision has jurisdiction to act under this section only when there is neither appeal nor confirmation against the conviction—Where the case is one in which an appeal lies any party aggrieved by an order as to the disposal of property must go to the Court of Appeal. In such a case a Court of revision has no jurisdiction to interfere with an order as to disposal of property. It is only when there is neither an appeal nor a confirmation that a Court of revision or reference can act under this section 33 B 253. Where the Appellate Court in dealing with an appeal against the sentence has left untouched an order passed under ss 517–519 there exists no bar to an application for revision of that order being made in anyone of the Courts mentioned in s. 520 17 C P. L. R. 107 = 1 Cr L J 764, 42 B 664.

11 High Court's powers of revision—Where a Sessions Court in appeal annuls the order of a trying Magistrate for delivering the property to the complainant the remedy against such an order is by a petition for revision and not by way of appeal 1899 A W N 40. The words 'any proceeding' in s. 435 are wide enough to empower the High Court to revise an order of a Magistrate made under this section Weir JJ, 669 an 1535. Any order made under s. 517 may be revised by the High Court either under s. 520 or in virtue of the powers conferred on it by s. 439 read with ss 435 and 427(d) 18 C. W. N. 939 = 19 Cr L J 184. See also 36 G. 44; 27 A 415. The High Court will not interfere where the case is one in which an appeal lies, 35 B. 253. See Notes 21 22 to s. 439 43 M L J 87.

12 Illegal orders under s. 517 liable to be set aside under this section—When proceedings initiated under s. 145 (1) are cancelled on the ground that there is no likelihood of a breach of the peace the Magistrate has no jurisdiction to allow one of the parties to reap the crops to the exclusion of the other. Such an order if passed under s. 517 is fit to be set aside under this section 3 C. L. J. 873 = 3 Cr L J 466.

521. (1) On a conviction under the Indian Penal Code, sections 292 293 501 or section 502, the Court may order the destruction of all the copies of the thing in respect of which the conviction was had and which are in the custody of the Court or remain in the possession or power of the person convicted.

(2) The Court may, in like manner on a conviction under the Indian Penal Code sections 272 273 274 or section 275 order the food drink drug or medical preparation in respect of which the conviction was had to be destroyed.

Notes.—1 It was proposed to add a clause to the effect that if conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise the order under sub-sec (1) shall become void but as similar provision is substantially made in cl. (d), s. 423 (1) the addition was omitted.

2 Scope of the section referred to—S. 292 I P C., deals with sale of obscene books, s. 293 with having them in possession, s. 501 with printing etc. defamatory matter and s. 502 with selling defamatory s. 272 with adulterating food s. 273 selling noxious food s. 274 adulterating any drug, etc., and s. 275 with selling an adulterated drug etc.

3. Other provisions of law which provide forfeiture—See ss. 263 (2) 126 and 127 of the Penal Code. So also s. 24 of the Arms Act XI of 1878 s. 15 of the Abkars Act I of 1886 s. 10 of the Explosives Act IV of 1884, s. 41 of the Madras Forest Act V of 1882, ss. 52 and 84 of the Indian Forest Act VII of 1879, s. 9 of the Merchandise Marks Act IV of 1889, s. 4 of the Metal Tokens Act I of 1889, s. 17 of the Ancient Monuments Act VII of 1904, s. 12 of the Opium Act I of 1878 s. 17 of the Petroleum Act VII of 1873 s. 7 of the First 45 Act I of 1904, s. 79 of the Madras Salt Act IV of 1889 s. 12 of the Indian Salt Act XII of 1889 s. 3 of the Madras Nuisances Act III of 1889 and ss. 45 46 48 and 51 of the Excise Act XII of 1896.

522. (1) Whenever a person is convicted of an offence attended by criminal force* or show of force or by criminal intimidation† and it appears to the Court that by such force* or show of force or criminal intimidation† any person has been dispossessed of any immovable property, the Court may, if it thinks fit * when convicting such person or at any time within one month from the date of the conviction† order† the person dispossessed† to be restored to the possession of the same

1. Duty of Magistrate to pass orders in favour of party dispossessed—Where a party was found to have been assaulted and forcibly dispossessed of a bungalow and its contents by the opposite party who was in consequence convicted under s. 323, I P C., held that it was the duty of the Magistrate to pass orders under ss. 522 and 517 directing restoration to the petitioner of the bungalow and its contents, 36 C. 34.

CONDITIONS PRECEDENT FOR ACTING UNDER THIS SECTION.

2. There must be a conviction.—To dispossess a person of property and to replace him by another under this section, it is necessary that there should have been a conviction of an offence. Consequently an order passed under s. 145, directing the possession of a house to be given through the Police is illegal and cannot be enforced under this section, as there was no conviction of an offence, 37 A. 634. When the case is one of civil but not criminal trespass, a Magistrate is not warranted in passing an order under this section. When, during the absence of the complainant, the accused took possession of a house in her occupation and established there a boy, alleged to be the adopted son of the complainant's father, held no order could be passed for delivery of possession of the house to the complainant, as the accused could not be convicted by the Magistrate under s. 448, I P C. The house was ordered to be restored to the accused who were found in possession of it, 12 C. W. N. 269 = 7 C. L. J. 175.

3. Offence of which accused is convicted must be attended by criminal force.—To justify an order under this section, the Court must find (i) that the offence of which the accused was convicted was attended by criminal force and (ii) that some person had been dispossessed of such property by the use of such force. Where, therefore, a person was convicted of criminal trespass (s. 447, I P C.), it was held following 25 C. 434 and 27 C. 174, that the Magistrate was not justified in making the order restoring the property, 25 A. 341. Where the accused dispossessed the complainant of his garden by breaking open the padlock of the gate, but used no force or violence and were convicted of the offence of criminal trespass, held the Court could not order restoration under s. 522, 18 C. W. N. 1166 = 15 Cr. L. J. 176. In 26 M. 49, WHITE, C.J., was of opinion that to satisfy condition (i), it is not necessary that criminal force must form an ingredient of the offence of which the person is convicted. It is enough if the offence though not involving the use of criminal force as an ingredient, is yet attended by the use of criminal force. When therefore the petitioner was convicted of criminal trespass under s. 477, I P C., and the Magistrate made an order under this section directing that the complainant must be restored to possession, without finding that such trespass was attended by criminal force or that the complainant was dispossessed by such force, held on revision the order was made without jurisdiction. In 31 C. 691 it was held by the Full Bench overruling 25 C. 434 and cases like B. C. W. N. 432 that followed it, that if criminal force was used by the accused by reason of which a party was dispossessed an order could be made under this section even though the criminal force was not an ingredient of the offence of which the accused was convicted. In this case, the accused was convicted under ss. 341 and 114, I P C., for wrongfully restructuring a person by the erection of a hut and the Magistrate made an order for the removal of the obstruction. The offence was, on the finding of the Lower Appellate Court attended by criminal force and the complainant was dispossessed by the reason of the obstruction complained of. Still the Full Bench (MACLEAN, C.J., PRINSEP and GHOSH, JJ.) held, that the Magistrate had no jurisdiction to order the removal of the hut. The dispensing Judges (AMEER ALI and BRETT, JJ.), held, that on conviction, the Court had an inherent power to make the order for removal of the obstructions, though not under this section.

(i) The 'force' used must be to 'a person'—The term 'force' is defined in s. 349, I P C., as being applicable to force when used in connection with the human body. Under this section, delivery of immovable property may be made to the person who has been dispossessed of it when the accused is convicted of an offence attended by criminal force. Where therefore the accused were convicted of rioting under s. 147, I P C., with the common object of destroying the complainant's fencing and raising of a new fencing on the complainant's land, it was held that violence herein was caused to the fencing and not to any person and therefore this section did not apply, as there was no use of criminal force to any individual, 18 C. W. N. 1150 = 15 Cr. L. J. 720.

(ii) Finding of use of criminal force necessary to support order—The foundation of an order under this section should be the finding of the Court to the effect that the person in whose favour the order is made has been dispossessed of specific immovable property by the use of criminal force, which force formed a material ingredient in the matter of a criminal conviction. And when such a finding has been arrived at, the order should be in terms to restore to the person who had been so dispossessed the property from which he had been dispossessed, 23 W. R. 54. In 3 L. R. R. 20 = 2 Cr. L. J. 377, applicants were convicted of criminal trespass. There was no finding or allegation that criminal force had been used in the commission of criminal trespass. Subsequently, the complainant made an application to the Magistrate for restoration or possession of land in respect of which the trespass was committed and the Magistrate, purporting to act under this section and without calling on the accused to show cause, ordered the possession of the land to be restored to the complainant. Held, that where there is no finding or allegation that criminal force has been used in the commission of criminal trespass, an order under this section, restoring the possession of immovable property to the complainant cannot legally be passed. See also 7 C. L. J. 175 = 12 C. W. N. 269, 16 P. R. 1919 (Gr.).

(iii) Mere show of force will not do but there must be actual use of it—The words "attended by criminal force" mean not the show of criminal force as defined in ss 349 and 353, I P C., but the actual use of it. Therefore, where the accused was convicted under s 243, I P C., and the Magistrate made an order under this section for restoring possession of certain property to the opposite party, held, that the order for restoration was bad in law, 25 C. 434, 5 C. W. N. 289 and 290. But 25 C 434 has been doubted in 11 C. W. N. 467 = 5 Cr. L. J. 278, where it was held that under this section whenever an accused is convicted of an offence attended by a show of force the Court has power to order the person who has been dispossessed by the accused of any immovable property by such show of criminal force, to be restored to the possession of the same.

An essential ingredient of s 522 is that the offence of which the person is convicted must have been attended by criminal or, at the least, by the show of criminal force. 21 A. L. J. 523.

3. Where dispossession is not the result of criminal force, order for restoration bad—Where the accused was convicted of rioting and an order was passed under this section to the effect that one of the witnesses be put in possession of certain land until ousted by a Court of competent jurisdiction, held, that as there was no evidence proving that the witness had been dispossessed by criminal force, the order of the Magistrate was bad, Weir II, 674, and not warranted by law 1 C. W. N. 356, 4 C. W. N. 57 and 2 C. W. N. 187 and if the Magistrate assumed to act under s 115 the order should not have been embodied in his judgment, but should have formed the subject of separate proceedings. A Magistrate exercising jurisdiction given by this section must be satisfied and show clearly upon his judgment that dispossession has taken place by reason of the exercise of criminal force as defined in s 350 I P C., 25 C 434 followed see 27 C 174. But see 11 C. W. N. 467 = 5 Cr. L. J. 278. See also 28 M 39; 23 B. 494.

5. Action may be taken, even though dispossession was under a claim of title—When it was found that the complainant was all along in possession of a plot of land which he had sowed with paddy, and the accused had failed in certain previous proceedings before the Assistant Superintendent of Survey to get this plot included in his holding held the accused going upon the land with a body of men and ploughing up the paddy seedling in spite of the remonstrances of the complainant's servants, constituted offences under ss 447 and 426, I P C., even though he did so under a claim of title to the land. That under the circumstances the fact that the accused set up a title to the land, did not make the case against him one of a civil nature, and take it outside the jurisdiction of a Criminal Court, 11 C. W. N. 467 = 5 Cr. L. J. 278.

6. Order may be made even when third parties are dispossessed—The object of the provisions of this section is to enable the Criminal Court by a summary order, to restore the state of things which existed at the time of the dispossession by the convicted persons. If, in so restoring possession third parties are dispossessed they must be left to seek their remedy in the Civil Court and sub-sec (2) provides that any right or interest they may have in the property shall not be affected. Thus in 5 C. W. N. 374, an auction purchaser was put in possession of a house by dispossessing a tenant; subsequently, the accused forcibly dispossessed the auction purchaser and the tenant re-entered. On the complaint of the auction purchaser, the accused were convicted and the Magistrate directed the purchaser to be restored to the possession of the house, and ordered the tenant to vacate. It was contended that the order against the tenant was bad, as he was no party to the criminal proceedings. Held the order was good as the auction-purchaser was entitled to be restored to the actual possession of the house which he held at the time of his ejection, and the Magistrate could not go behind the state of affairs at the time of the forcible ejection which led to the criminal proceedings. The ruling in 23 B. 494 was in this case referred to and explained.

7. Section does not apply when there has been no dispossession.—This section is the only provision which enables a Magistrate to restore a dispossessed party, and the power can only be exercised in cases in which there has been a conviction of an offence, attended by criminal force, and dispossession has been effected by means of such criminal force, Weir II, 93. See 15 C. W. N. 399 = 15 Cr. L. J. 302. N obtained possession in September, 1896, of a certain field in execution of his decree against R. On September 27th, 1897, N brought a complaint against R of criminal trespass under s. 447, I P. C., in which he stated that R had illegally entered upon possession of the land about a month and a-half before, and sowed it with rice, and when N went to the field R pushed him out and refused to vacate the land or pass a kabulyat. A third-class Magistrate found that N had obtained possession through a Civil Court and convicted R of the offence charged. On the application of N, dated 18th November, 1897, the same Magistrate passed in order under this section directing N to be put in possession of the land, but ordered the crops to be attached. Later on as R had disclaimed all interest in the crop, the Magistrate directed that, after deducting expenses, the crops should be given to N. At this stage one P intervened and claimed the crops as his, but his objection was overruled and possession of the land was made over to N on 20th January, 1899. Held reversing all the orders of the Magistrate passed subsequent to the date of the conviction of R, that (1) all that the words "is convicted" in this section mean is, that there must be a conviction first had, and then the order can be made, (2) that an application for possession made shortly after the conviction may be considered to be a continuation of former proceedings and (3) that as the accused R had possession both prior to and at the time force was used, the dispossession was, therefore, not made by force, and that the order passed under this section was bad, 23 B. 494. Contra see 4 C. W. N. 308 as to points (1) and (2) and 5 C. W. N. 374, where this Ruling is discussed.

8. No jurisdiction to proceed under this section, when neither party is found to be in possession.—Where neither party is found to be in actual possession, no order could be passed under this section directing restoration of the property, Weir II, 873.

WHEN ORDER SHOULD BE MADE.

9. Order need not be simultaneous with conviction.—An order under this section restoring possession of immovable property to a complainant can only be made simultaneously with the order of conviction and not subsequent thereto, 4 C. W. N. 308. There is nothing in the Code which requires that an order under this section should be contained in the judgment convicting the accused or be passed before the judgment is signed. It may be an independent order and made subsequent to the date of the conviction. But it must be immediate, that is, directly arising out of the proceedings without any fresh decision on facts not before adjudicated upon being imported. The word "simultaneously" used in the judgment in 4 C. W. N. 308, must be taken to mean "immediate," 23 B. 494 and 23 W. R. 54 followed, 14 Cr. L. J. 172 (G.). In this case an order passed four days after the conviction of the accused was upheld. See also 28 C. 1050 and Note 8. The complainant promptly after the dismissal by the High Court of the revision petition against a conviction, applied for an order for possession, but the accused having filed a civil suit, no order was passed on the application until after the disposal of the suit, that is, about 20 months after the conviction when the application was renewed, Held, that the Magistrate had discretion to pass an order for possession under s. 522. It is not necessary for him to pass such an order simultaneously with the conviction, and there is no illegality if he passes such order at any time after the conviction if the cause of delay is fully explained to his satisfaction and the complainant moves the Court promptly after the cause of delay has ceased, 15 P. R. 1914 = 14 P. W. R. 1914 = 15 Cr. L. J. 275 following 23 B. 494 and 14 Cr. L. J. 172, and dissenting from 4 C. W. N. 308.

10. Notice to accused not necessary.—Under the law as it now stands, no notice is necessary to the accused inasmuch as the order for restoration of possession arises immediately out of the findings of the Magistrate in his judgment and is amenable to appeal, 14 Cr. L. J. 172. In this case an order passed four days after the conviction of the accused without any notice to the accused but without any fresh materials was held to be competent as the accused had not been previously heard. Alphonso v. Alphonso, 15 P. R. 1914 = 14 P. W. R. 1914 = 15 Cr. L. J. 275. It is not necessary requiring that a Magistrate who passes an order proposed to make the order an opportunity of shown exercise of judicial discretion, 3 L. B. R. 20 = 2 Cr. L. J. 377.

APPEAL AND REVISION

11 Under the new amendment an order under this section may be made by any Court of appeal, confirmation, reference and revision—Under the new amendment to s 522 by the addition of clause (3) an order under this section may be made by any Court of appeal confirmation reference and revision 46 A 92 and therefore the decisions in 39 C 137 and 1050 disapproving 23 B 495 are no longer good law See also 4 Pat 435

12 Power of Lower Court to direct restitution when order is reversed—A Criminal Court is empowered to restore possession to a party who has been dispossessed by its order under this section when such order has been set aside as illegal by superior authority 5 P R 1895 In a case in which the accused had been convicted of offences under ss 352 and 448 I P C the prosecutor had obtained an order under this section from the convicting Magistrate restoring possession of property the subject of the offence under s. 448 I P C. The accused having been acquitted on appeal applied for restoration of possession The Appellate Magistrate referred the case to the High Court. On a preliminary objection that the High Court had no power to order restoration of property held reading together s. 423 (1) (d) and this section the High Court had the power to order restoration of property and this as a result of the amendment by the present Code of s. 423 of the 1882 Code in order for restitution of possession being a consequential or incidental order 27 A 415. Where the High Court set aside an order of the Magistrate under this section directing possession of a garden to be delivered to a party which had been carried out and on the opposite party applying for restitution the Magistrate refused the prayer on the ground that he had no jurisdiction to direct the Police to restore the possession of the party held that the order of the High Court carried with it the incident of restoration and the Magistrate ought to restore possession through the Police 18 C. W. N 1147 = 15 Cr L J 222 The Rulings in 5 Bom L R 25 and 5 C. W. 250, denying the power of restitution to the High Court when once the order of the Magistrate has been carried out seem to be of doubtful authority See Note II above

13. Period of limitation for civil suit at the instance of party dispossessed—Under Art. 47 of Sch II of the Limitation Act XV of 1877 now I. of 1908 a suit to set aside an order under this section must be brought within three years from the date on which it was passed 43 M L J 372

523. (1) The seizure by any Police-officer of property taken under section 51 or alleged or suspected to have been stolen or found under circumstances which create suspicion of the commission of any offence shall be forthwith reported to a Magistrate who shall make such order as he thinks fit respecting the disposal of such property or the delivery of such property to the person entitled to the possession thereof or if such person cannot be ascertained respecting

the custody and production of such property

(2) If the person so entitled is known the Magistrate may order the property to be delivered to him on such conditions (if any) as the Magistrate thinks fit If such person is unknown the Magistrate may detain it and shall in such case issue a proclamation specifying the articles of which such property consists and requiring any person who may have a claim thereto to appear before him and establish his claim within six months from the date of such proclamation

Notes—See s. 170 (2) for power of Police to send articles and also s 25 of Act V of 1861

1 Provisions of the Codes of 1872 and 1882 compared—The provisions of this section are wider than the corresponding provisions of the 1872 Code (ss. 415 and 416), and they enable the Magistrate to inquire into the ownership of property seized by the Police and deliver it to the person entitled to it instead of to the persons from whom it is taken 8 B 333 followed in Ratanlal 365 In the 1872 Code the Court was not expressly given powers to pass orders respecting property used for the commission of any offence under s. 415 of 1872 Code there was no provision giving him a general power of disposal of the property See 1 C. W. N 561 and 30 C. 690

2. Section applies to all cases where there has been no inquiry or trial—See Note 10 to s. 517 Section 523 contains a general provision applicable to all cases where there has been no inquiry or trial. If therefore there are grounds for suspecting that the property seized was used for fabricating false evidence against the accused in the case the Magistrate must be held to have jurisdiction to pass an order directing its restoration 24 M L J 1 = 14 Cr L J 27

3. Magistrate's power to deal with property seized under a search-warrant.—This section does not apply to property which is produced before a Court in the course of an inquiry or trial under a search-warrant issued by itself under s. 97. To such property s. 517 alone would apply. The scope of this section must be confined to property seized by Police of their own motion in the exercise of their powers conferred on them by law, e.g., ss. 51, 54, 164 and 165. The power of disposal of such property is conferred upon the Magistrate, 17 B. 743. But the correctness of this Ruling has been doubted by FULTON, J., in 26 B. 532, who was of opinion that the words "seized by the Police," apply equally, whether the seizure is made by a Magistrate's warrant or without such a warrant.

4. Standing crops not covered by this section.—Standing crops are not such property as are referred to in this section, 23 B. 974.

5. Discretion given by the words 'make such order as it thinks fit,' must be exercised judicially.—The discretion given by these words must be judicially exercised and in the absence of anything to show the title to the property, it should be ordered to be delivered to the person in whose possession it had been at the time of attachment 5 Bom. L. R. 23; 8 B. L. R. 141 = 16 Cr. L. J. 135; 17 Bom. L. R. 79 = 3 Bom. Cr. Ca. 12 = 16 Cr. L. J. 207. See also 4 L. B. R. 14 = 6 Cr. L. J. 126. The Rulings in 1 B. 630 and 14 C. 834, to the effect that when the High Court finds that property has been disposed of without exercising a sound judicial discretion in the matter, the High Court has no power to order restitution, seem to be of doubtful value when s. 439 is read with s. 423 (1) (d). A Magistrate, after discharging the accused, passed an order in respect of the property before him to the effect that part of it should be given to the accused on his furnishing security for Rs. 100, and the rest to be kept in the custody of the Police. Held that this section was not applicable and the order was (vide 1 B. 630) wrong, and the property must be restored to the accused B. H. C. Cr. App. 24th April, 1884. But the fact that the accused had been in possession of the property when the charge was made is not conclusive. A Magistrate is competent in the exercise of his discretion to order the property which was in the possession of the Police to be made over to the complainant. The Magistrate had to apply his mind to the question as to who was entitled to the possession of the property and if on such materials as were placed before him he comes to the conclusion that the complainant was a Court of Revision will not interfere 12 Bom. L. R. 232 = 11 Cr. L. J. 339. It is open to a Magistrate to disbelieve the evidence of the claimant and proceed under sub-sec. (2), 16 Cr. L. J. 254 (M.). See Note 1 to s. 524.

6. Is Magistrate not competent to attach conditions to delivery of property?—A Magistrate has no jurisdiction under this section to make an order in favour of a party conditioned on his furnishing security. If the Magistrate did not think fit to take the proper steps under the law to secure the production of property before the Court the only course that was open to him when he referred the complaint to the Civil Court, was to leave it to the Civil Court to take such steps as it might think fit for the production of the property in question 7 C. W. N. 322. In Weir II, 676, a Sessions Judge on appeal acquitted the accused who had been convicted by a Deputy Magistrate of the offence of theft of money alleged to belong to a Railway Company and directed that the money found on their person be handed over to the Deputy Magistrate to be dealt with under this section. The Deputy Magistrate rejected the claim of the accused and directed the sum to be paid to the Agent of the Railway Company on his executing a bond binding himself to produce the money before any Court when required, held that the order of the Deputy Magistrate must be set aside as the procedure laid down in this section was not followed. But in connection with a case of theft, certain property alleged to have been stolen was seized by the Police, but the case completely broke down upon investigation and a counter-case of rioting was brought. Before final orders could be passed in the counter case both the parties pressed the Magistrate to pass an immediate order to save the property from possible loss or decay and the Magistrate thereupon ordered that the property should be delivered to one of the parties on certain terms. Held that the Magistrate had jurisdiction to make the order under this section 5 C. W. N. 415.

7. Magistrate must confine inquiry to right to possession and not decide title.—See Note 9.

8. Does disposal of property include destruction or forfeiture of property?—The Code has under ss. 517 and 523 given a general power to the Court to direct the destruction or forfeiture of any property used for the commission of any offence. The Court would no doubt be slow to pass an order for forfeiture in cases of mere suspicion under s. 523 but it would have less hesitation in refusing to restore property to the owner who is suspected to have used it for the commission of an offence. The power to order restoration is discretionary and the Court is not bound to exercise it. If the offence be one relating to property, the proper order would, of course, be to return it to the owner or person in possession. But this cannot be the proper order when the offence suspected is one committed by the person who is the owner or possessor of the property and who has used it for the commission of the offence. The right order in such a case must be to direct the destruction or forfeiture of the property according to its nature, 24 M. L. J. 1 = 14 M. L. T. 431 = 1913 M. W. N. 851 = 14 Cr. L. J. 27. See, however, Note 13 to s. 517.

9. Court may direct forfeiture in first instance even when claimant may be ascertained—Certain money and other articles were seized by the Police in consequence of a complaint of theft preferred by one R against one V. The Police, after a preliminary investigation, came to the conclusion that the case was false and that the articles seized were probably foisted by or his men into V's house. Thereupon R made a complaint before the second class Magistrate. The Magistrate dismissed the complaint under s. 203, and directed under s. 517, that the articles seized by the Police should be forfeited to Government, as they were used for concocting a false case against V. Held, that the order of forfeiture was valid although the Magistrate had no jurisdiction to pass the order under s. 517, he had power under s. 523 to pass an order regarding the disposal of property seized by a Police-officer, which was 'alleged or suspected to have been stolen or found under circumstances which create suspicion of the commission of any offence'. It was argued that it is only if the person entitled to possession cannot be ascertained and no one establishes his title to possession after notice given by the Magistrate that an order can be passed that the property should be at the disposal of Government. Held, the contention could not be accepted. Section 523, cl (1) gives the Magistrate power either to deliver the property to the person entitled to its possession, or to pass such order as he deems fit respecting its disposal. If he adopts the first alternative, he has to find out the person entitled to possession, and if no one succeeds in establishing his title to possession, the property would be at the disposal of Government. If he adopts the second alternative, the section does not specifically state what the nature of the order regarding the disposal should be. If an order that the property should be at the disposal of Government would be proper in the circumstances of the case there is nothing in the section which prevents him from passing such order, 24 M. L. J. 1 = 14 M. L. T. 431 = 1913 M. W. N. 851 = 14 Cr. L. J. 27. See, however, Note 13 to s. 517.

10. Is Magistrate bound in every case to hold an inquiry?—See Note 5. Where a person charged with criminal breach of trust in respect of certain jewels died before trial, and the alleged owner of the jewels which were recovered by the Police applied to be put in possession, held, that s. 517 did not apply, section did not apply, and that the Magistrate was not bound to hold an inquiry simply to determine the ownership of the jewels, 29 M. 373. Clause (2) of this section does not require a Magistrate to make any inquiry at all. He proceeds on such materials as are available before him and he has to decide the question, not who was in possession at the time the property was seized by the Police but who was entitled to possession. The observation of TELANG, J., in 17 B. 748, which suggested that the Magistrate was bound to hold an inquiry before making his order was a mere obiter dictum and found no support in the section itself, 5 B. L. R. 3 = 12 Cr. L. J. 108. In 17 B. 748 it was, however, held a Magistrate is bound to institute an inquiry under this section before making any order touching the right, not of property, but of possession to the property seized by Police. The Magistrate does not decide the question of title but merely decides the question of possession, 12 Bom. L. R. 232. Where things are produced before a Magistrate under a search-warrant, he is bound to proceed and satisfy himself whether the things produced are the things which it is necessary or desirable should be kept in custody, and when a third party appears before him and alleges that the things are his, the Magistrate is bound to hear the party and restore the thing to the owner. There is a power inherent in every Court to satisfy itself that the things produced before it under a search-warrant, are the things which it is necessary or desirable should be kept in custody. When the Magistrate has not made such an inquiry about the things brought before him under a search warrant issued by him, the High Court cannot, however, cancel the warrant and order restoration of property, 26 B. 852.

Disposal of property without taking evidence is legal—Where certain property was alleged to be stolen and its seizure by the Police was reported to the Magistrate, and there was no question as to the property having been taken from the complainant's possession, held, that the Magistrate's order delivering the property to the complainant without any enquiry was legal under this section, and that such order did not conclude the right of any person, Ratanlal 363. See 4 Lah. 38 in which case it was held, that it is not incumbent on a Magistrate to hold a judicial inquiry on oath before passing an order under s. 523. Such an order can be passed on Police reports and papers alone without any independent inquiry regarding the ownership of the property, 4 Lah. 38.

11. Evidence of ownership—Confession made to Police-officer.—Statements made to the Police by accused persons as to the ownership of property which is the subject matter of the proceedings against them are admissible as evidence with regard to the ownership of the property in an inquiry held by the Magistrate under this section, 9 B. 131.

12. Magistrate not bound to take evidence till after lapse of six months from date of proclamation.—It is not intended that any final steps should be taken by a Magistrate acting under this section, or that he is bound to take any final steps, to ascertain whether the property belongs to the person in whose possession it was found, until after expiry of the six months mentioned in the sections, but when the proclamation has been issued and the six months have expired then the provisions of s. 524 come in, and the person in whose possession it was found can come forward and show that it is his own, 22 C. 781. But this Ruling was distinguished in 3 L. B. R. 197 = 4 Cr. L. J. 203, where it was held that in disposing of property seized by the Police, if the Magistrate finds that the person entitled to possession is known, he can lawfully adjudicate on the claims of that person without issuing any proclamation. If he has issued proclamation, that need not invalidate his order for immediate delivery of the property to such a known person. When the Magistrate finds that a claim which has been made is proved provided no other claimants appear, he should before pronouncing final orders, wait until the expiry of the six months specified in the proclamation. A Sub-Divisional Magistrate on appeal acquitted the accused of an offence under s. 414, I P C., but made no order for the disposal of the sum of Rs. 81 produced in the case. On reference it was held that proceedings might be taken under this section, Ratanlal 535. See also 25 B. 552.

13. Magistrate bound to summon claimants witnesses.—The petitioner was charged with the theft of certain money found in his house and acquitted. Proclamation having been made for claimants to come in and claim the property, no one appeared, whereupon the petitioner preferred his claim and asked the Magistrate to summon certain witnesses, but the Magistrate refused to do so and disallowed his claim, held, that the Magistrate was bound to summon the witnesses named by the petitioner, 18 W. R. 5; 2 A. 276.

14. No order can be made as to property already restored.—A District Magistrate cannot treat property already restored or which ought to have been restored by a Subordinate Magistrate as subject to an order under this section, 5 B. 575.

15. No power to review an order already made.—Where once a Magistrate passes an order restoring possession of property, he has no authority to set aside his previous order subsequently, but an order under this section is subject to revision under s. 439 by the High Court, 4 Bom. L. R. 12.

16. Remedy of real owner is to sue the holder of property.—The Magistrate may in the inquiry proceed on such evidence as is available and make an order for handing the property to the person he thinks entitled. This does not conclude the right of any person. The real owner may proceed against the holder of articles for damages as for conversion. Where the Magistrate made an order for the delivery of property upon the mere evidence of a confession of the accused to the Police, that the property was stolen from the adjudged owner, the High Court declined to interfere with the Magistrate's order 9 B. 139; Ratanlal 365. See also Bullock v Dunlop L. R. 2 Ex. Div. 43, Drover v Child L. R. 1 Ex. Div. 172. In 40 B. 200 = 17 Bom. L. R. 979 the case in 9 B. 131 was followed. 5 Pat. L. J. 321.

17. Appeal and Revision—See s. 524 (2) and Note 50 to s. 439.

524. (1) If no person within such period establishes his claim to such property, and if the person in whose possession such property was found is unable to show that it was legally acquired by him, such property shall be at the disposal of the Government, and may be sold under the orders of the Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate or Sub-Divisional Magistrate, or of a Magistrate of the first class empowered by the Local Government in this behalf.

(2) In the case of every order passed under this section, an appeal shall lie to the Court to which appeals against sentences of the Court passing such order would lie.

Notes.—1. Construction of 'unable to show it was legally acquired by him.'—See Note 5 to s. 523. The burden imposed on the possessor by this section, is discharged by the general presumption in favour of every man's innocence and the special presumption enunciated in s 110, Indian Evidence Act, when such person adduces evidence of possession and no claimant appears. There must be some reasonable ground for the "allegation or suspicion" and the mere fact the person in possession belongs to a criminal tribe, cannot be regarded as a sufficient ground—Sind Sadar Ret 52 of 1904. Although there may be a reasonable doubt as to the property having been honestly acquired by the person from whose possession it was seized, unless the evidence clearly shows that that person's claim is a false one or that his witnesses have conspired to support a false claim the proper and safest course is to follow the presumption laid down in s 110 of the Evidence Act and to hold that the person in possession is the owner, in the absence of proof to the contrary. The words 'unable to show that it was legally acquired by him,' in this section do not reverse this presumption. In the absence of proof or title to the property produced, it was ordered to be delivered to the person in whose possession it had been at the time of attachment, 8 B. L. R. 141 = 16 Cr. L. J. 133. In 17 Bom. L. R. 79 = 3 Bom. Cr. Ca. 12 = 18 Cr. L. J. 207, in similar circumstances the High Court, setting aside the order directing the property to be at the disposal of the Government observed as follows—The principal ground on which the Magistrate based his order was that K himself gave an account of how he acquired his wealth, which seemed to the Magistrate to be manifestly untrue. I think the spirit of our criminal law and its provisions both indicate quite clearly that inquisitorial inquiries into the private affairs and concerns of any person are not to be made, except possibly in rare instances unless there is something specific against that person. The circumstance that K gave an account of how he had acquired his property, which did not satisfy the Magistrate is no good reason for maintaining the order which he has made.

2 Confiscation by Government—The procedure prescribed by this and the preceding sections must be followed before making an order to confiscate the property, 9 W. R. 13. In 19 B 688 a bag of money was pointed out by a person, who was convicted of theft, and it was given to the owner. Close by another bag of money and a gold ring was found buried. The Magistrate issued a proclamation under s 523, whereupon a person claimed it as owner of the soil in which it was found. The claim was rejected, and an order under this section was passed placing it at the disposal of Government. He then sued the Secretary of State to recover this property on the ground that it was treasure trove, but on appeal the suit was dismissed.

3. Magistrate empowered by the Local Government in this behalf.—See s 529 (h) as to validity of sale by Magistrate not duly empowered. In Madras (Gaz, 1873, p 598) all Magistrates of the first class have been empowered to act under this section also in the United Provinces (All India, 202), so too in the Punjab (Punjab Gaz, 1883 Pt. 1, p 52) Bombay (Bom. Gaz 1873, p 16), provided that they are not Honorary Magistrates when a special order is required in each case.

4 Appeal under this section is a regular appeal on the merits.—The appeal allowed by sub-sec (2) is an appeal in the full sense of Chapter XXXI and must be governed by its provisions, when an appeal to the Court of Session from an order passed under this section by a District Magistrate, was treated as a sort of miscellaneous application and was summarily disposed of in favour of the appellant the claimant to the property concerned, in an ex parte manner by the Sessions Judge, neither notice of the appeal having been served on the Government nor the procedure of Chapter XXXI followed in any respect; the order of the Sessions Judge was set aside and the case sent for re-trial, 1881 A. W. N. 130.

525. If the person entitled to the possession of such property is unknown or absent and the property is subject to speedy and natural decay, * "or if the Magistrate"

Power to sell perishable property to whom its seizure is reported, is of opinion that its sale would be for the benefit of the owner, † "or that the value of such property is less than 10 rupees" the Magistrate may, at any time, direct it to be sold, and the provisions of sections 523 and 524 shall, as nearly as may be practicable, apply to the net proceeds of such sale.

Notes—1. Proceedings of Magistrates not empowered—If any Magistrate not being empowered by law to sell property under s. 524 or s. 525 erroneously in good faith sells it, his proceedings shall not be set aside on the ground of his not being so empowered s 529, cl (h)

CHAPTER XLIV.

OF THE TRANSFER OF CRIMINAL CASES

High Court may transfer case or itself try it.

526. (1) Whenever it is made to appear to the High Court—

(a) that a fair and impartial inquiry or trial cannot be had in any Criminal Court subordinate thereto or

(b) that some question of law of unusual difficulty is likely to arise or

(c) that a view of the place in or near which any offence has been committed may be required for the satisfactory inquiry into or trial of the same or

(d) that an order under this section will tend to the general convenience of the parties or witnesses or

(e) that such an order is expedient for the ends of justice or is required by any provision of this Code

it may order—

(i) that any offence be inquired into or tried by any Court not empowered under sections 177 to 184 (both inclusive) but in other respects competent to inquire into or try such offence

(ii) that any * particular case or appeal or class of † cases or appeals be transferred from a Criminal Court subordinate to its authority to any other such Criminal Court of equal or superior jurisdiction

(iii) that any * particular case or appeal be transferred to and tried before itself or

(iv) that an accused person be committed for trial to itself or to a Court of Session

(2) When the High Court withdraws for trial before itself any case from any Court other than the Court of a Presidency Magistrate, it shall, except as provided in section 267 observe in such trial the same procedure which that Court would have observed if the case had not been so withdrawn

(3) The High Court may act either on the report of the Lower Court or on the application of a party interested or on its own initiative

(4) Every application for the exercise of the power conferred by this section shall be made by motion which shall except when the applicant is the Advocate-General be supported by affidavit or affirmation

(5) When an accused person makes an application under this section the High Court may direct him to execute a bond with or without sureties conditioned that he will if ‡ 'so ordered pay § ' any amount which the High Court has power under this section to abide by way of costs to the person opposing the application

Notice to Public Prosecutor of application under this section

(6) Every accused person making any such application shall give to the Public Prosecutor notice in writing of the application together with a copy of the grounds on which it is made and no order shall be made on the merits of the application unless at least twenty four hours have elapsed between the giving of such notice and the hearing of the application

* The word such was omitted by § 7

† The word criminal was omitted by Act XVII of 1923

‡ The words so ordered were substituted for the word convicted by § 6 d

§ The words — were substituted for the words the costs of the prosecutor by § 11 d

(6-A)* Where any application for the exercise of the power conferred by this section is dismissed the High Court may, if it is of opinion that the application was frivolous or vexatious order the applicant to pay by way of costs to any person who has opposed the application any expenses reasonably incurred by such person in consequence of the application.

(7) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect any order made under section 197

(8)† If in the course of any inquiry or trial, or before the commencement of the hearing of any appeal, the Public Prosecutor, the complainant or the accused notifies to the Court before which the case or appeal is pending his intention to make an application under this section in respect of such case or appeal, the Court shall adjourn the case or postpone the appeal for such a period as will afford a reasonable time for the application to be made and an order to be obtained thereon.

(9)† Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, a Judge presiding in a Court of Session shall not be required to adjourn a trial under sub-section (8) if he is of opinion that the person notifying his intention of making an application under this section has had a reasonable opportunity of making such an application and has failed without sufficient cause to take advantage of it.

Referring to the amendment of this section the Select Committee say—

"We have found s. 52b somewhat difficult to deal with. One class of opinions presses for greater safeguards against frivolous vexatious or dilatory applications for transfer. Another class depreciates any measure which makes it more difficult to obtain. We think it is unavoidable to retain in the Code some provision for the compulsory adjournment of a case when an intention to apply for a transfer has been notified. But we recognise that the provisions of the section as they stand have lent themselves to gross abuse, and therefore we feel that greater safeguards are necessary. For these reasons in the first place, we maintain the principle of the new subsec. (6-A) which enables the High Court to award costs in dismissing an application. We have however, modified it to this extent, that it will enable the High Court in cases where it is of opinion that the application was frivolous or vexatious to award such amount by way of reasonable costs in the High Court and the Court below as it thinks fit. We think the last sentence of new sub-sec. (6-A) was superfluous in view of the provisions of s. 547.

We consider that the new subsec. (8) proposed by the Bill was unsatisfactory in several respects. The opening words of the sub-section contemplated notification at any stage of the case provided that it was made before the commencement of a day's hearing. But words occurring later to the sub-section indicated that its application was confined to a notification made before the accused was called upon to enter on his defence. The proviso therefore which dealt with an intention to apply for a transfer formed after the accused had entered on his defence was not a true proviso to the sub-section. We considered whether sub-sec. (8) should not refer to an application made at any stage and whether in such case discretion as to an adjournment should not be left with the Court except when the applicant gave security in which case the adjournment should be compulsory. On the whole however, we have decided in favour of rejecting the proposal to provide for a bond. Apart from other objections we think it was calculated to enhance the delays already involved by s. 52b. Our amendment of the Bill therefore provides for a compulsory adjournment at any stage of the case except that a Sessions Court may refuse to adjourn when it is of opinion that the application has been unreasonably delayed.

It was suggested to us that we should add a new clause to s. 52b providing for transfer of a case when the accused has reasonable ground for apprehending that he will not get a fair and impartial trial. We think however that the Rulings of the High Courts are quite clear on the point and that it would be a mistake to amend the section.

Note.—Amendments.—The word criminal is now omitted from sub-sec. (2) of cl. (c) in order to make it clear that the power to transfer is not only limited to criminal cases but it also extends to other miscellaneous proceedings under the Code.

* (6-A) was inserted by Act XIII of 1924

† Sub-sections (8) and (9) were omitted for sub-section (10)

The new sub-sec. (6-A) confers on the High Court the power to award costs to any person who opposes the application to transfer if in the opinion of the Court, the application is frivolous or vexatious.

Under the amended section sub-sec. (8) an application for transfer may be made in the course of any inquiry or trial whereupon the Court shall adjourn the case. Under the old law it was necessary that an application for transfer should be made before the commencement of the hearing of a criminal case.

Under the new sub-sec. (9) an exception to the compulsory adjournment at any stage of the case is provided for and under that subsection a Sessions Court may refuse to adjourn when it is of opinion that the application has been unreasonably delayed.

Notes.—1 Other sections dealing with transfer.—Under s. 29 of the Letters Patent a High Court has power to direct the transfer of any criminal case see p vii of the appendix and see also s. 15 of the Indian High Courts Act 1861 at p. i of the appendix. See s. 192 for power of the District Magistrate or Sub-Divisional Magistrate to transfer a case of which he has taken cognizance. Under s. 267 the High Court may direct that a case transferred to itself be by jury. S. 197 empowers the Government to direct a prosecution of a Judge or other public servant to be conducted by a particular person or Court. See also ss. 178 191 346 407 (2) 487 528 and 556.

I—EXTRAORDINARY POWERS OF THE CHARTERED HIGH COURTS

2 Power of transfer under the Letters Patent.—The High Court has power under cl. 29 of the Letters Patent to transfer any criminal case from one Court to another. Weir II, 680, I, 788 (b) and under this extraordinary jurisdiction it was held the Bombay High Court has the power to transfer a criminal case from the Court of the Resident at Aden to the Original Side of the Bombay High Court and that a single Judge of the High Court has power to order such a transfer. 7 Bom L R 104. See p vii of the appendix.

3. Special Jurisdiction of High Courts.—

(i) District Magistrate and Sessions Judge of Bangalore subordinate to Madras High Court.—The District Magistrate and the Civil and Sessions Judge of the Civil and Military Station at Bangalore are Magistrates subordinate to the High Court at Madras within the meaning of this section. 9 M 355.

(ii) Jurisdiction of the Calcutta High Court over Sonhal Pergunnas.—See 19 C 247.

(iii) Jurisdiction of Bombay High Court at Secunderabad and Perim.—The High Court of Bombay having been vested by notification of the Governor-General of India in Council No. 178 of 23rd September 1874 with original and appellate criminal jurisdiction over European British subjects being Christians resident amongst other places at Secunderabad outside the Presidency of Bombay and within the territories of His character of a District European British subjects by virtue of the appellate jurisdiction so vested in it the power of transferring a criminal case pending in the Cantonment Magistrate's Court either to itself or to any Criminal Court of equal or superior jurisdiction. 9 B 333. In 5 Bom L R 869 it was held that by virtue of 28 and 29 Vict. cl. ap. 15 s. 3 and the notification above referred to the High Court of Bombay has jurisdiction to transfer a criminal case against an European British subject from the Court of the District Magistrate and Superintendent Residency Bazaar Hyderabad Deccan. As to Perim see Notification No. 823 of 1886 and 10 B 274.

4. Transfer of cases from the file of Village Magistrates in Madras.—Though a Village Munsiff is not a Magistrate under this Code the High Court alone has the power under s. 29 of the Letters Patent to transfer a case from the file of a Village Magistrate to that of any other Magistrate. 26 M 394. Where a Village Magistrate refused to adjourn a case to allow the accused to move the High Court for a transfer and convicted the accused, held, the conviction was illegal and the case was transferred to the file of another Magistrate for re-trial, 21 M. L. J. 755 = 12 Cr. L. J. 407.

II.—CONDITIONS PRECEDENT TO EXERCISE OF JURISDICTION.

5 Subordinate Courts should be properly seized of the case.—The High Court cannot, under this section, transfer a case which is not properly before a Subordinate Court of competent jurisdiction to receive and try it. Per BIRDWOOD, J., in 10 B. 274. See also 9 A. 191 = L. R. 13 L. A. 134 at p. 144; 9 M. 355; 6 C. 30; 8 B. 312 may be distinguished, nor where the Magistrate apparently has no jurisdiction, 7 Bom. L. R. 104. The High Court cannot transfer a case taken up by Magistrate who had no jurisdiction, 3 Bom. L. R. 121. The Magistrate should inform the complainant that he has no jurisdiction, and take bail from the accused for appearance before the proper Court. The High Court cannot transfer a case committed to a wrong Sessions Court, 36 M. 337. See Notes 7 and 8 at p. 446.

6. Transfer cannot be made after disposal of case.—This section contemplates the transfer of a case before disposal, or interference on behalf of persons aggrieved or injured by an order of the Magistrate. It is not intended to give power to interfere in order to set aside an acquittal, 2 C. 290 at p. 292. An order of transfer cannot operate as cancelling an order of discharge, 1 Bom. L. R. 782. In 19 M. 375 an order of transfer made by the High Court on December 4, did not in fact reach the Judge till after December 5 when judgment was pronounced convicting the accused, the conviction was upheld.

7. Order for transfer of appeals to be filed in future is bad.—A District Magistrate having sanctioned the prosecution of certain accused persons for having escaped from a quarantine camp, the Sessions Judge asked the High Court to pass an order that all appeals arising out of the proceedings in which the District Magistrate had sanctioned the prosecution should not be heard by him, but transferred to some other Court. Held, that it was doubtful whether the High Court had jurisdiction to make such an order. It could transfer actually existing appeals only, but could not direct that appeals that might be filed in future should, when filed not be heard by the authority to which they might be presented, Ratanlal 973.

8. District authorities to be moved before approaching the High Court.—Ordinarily the High Court does not transfer a case pending before a Subordinate Magistrate, unless the party applying for the transfer has moved the District Magistrate before going to the High Court, 6 Bom. L. R. 437; 11 A. L. J. 741 = 14 Cr. L. J. 855.

III.—PROCEEDINGS LIABLE TO BE TRANSFERRED.

9. "Criminal Case," what it means.—Under the old law there was a conflict of decisions as to the meaning of the words "criminal case" appearing in sub-sections (u) and (uu) of clause (e). And it was doubted for instance, whether a case under Chap VIII could be called a criminal case. But under the present amendment the word "criminal" has been deleted from sub-section (2) of cl. (e), and now s. 526 would include all proceedings under the Code. For instance, in the following cases it was held that the term "criminal case" may be understood as distinguished from a civil case, or in other words, a criminal case is one over which a Criminal Court exercises jurisdiction.—Per GHOSE, J., in 23 C. 709; 34 A. 233. In 23 C. 709, TAYLOR, J., remarked "I am of opinion that 'case' and 'criminal case' as used in the Code of Criminal Procedure are not co-extensive. 'Criminal case' is intended to be used in a limited sense and does not apply to every case cognizable by a Criminal Court." See 25 B. 179 and Note 12 below. In 5 M. H. C. R. Appx. XL, the Madras High Court held that the term 'criminal case' meant 'any case prima facie criminal'. In the new Bill it is proposed to omit the word 'criminal'. A Division Bench of the Chief Court followed the judgment of TAYLOR, J., and held that a proceeding under s. 110 is not a 'criminal case' inasmuch as a criminal case is not the same as a case cognizable by a Criminal Court, and in every criminal case there must be a person charged with the commission of an offence, 5 P. R. 1914 = 134 P. L. R. 1914 = 15 Cr. L. J. 863. In 8 S. L. R. 215 = 16 Cr. L. J. 249, the Judges while following 24 B. 527 were of opinion that the words 'criminal case' should not be restricted to cases arising out of and dealing with some crime already committed and referred to the interpretation put on the words 'criminal cause or matter' in s. 47 of the Judicature Act by the English Courts. 'The general rule of construction adopted is either that the subject matter of the proceeding is of a criminal nature or the proceeding is one in which a penalty by way of punishment is sought or can be enforced in case of disobedience'.

In the Calcutta High Court there has been vacillation. In 33 C. 152, doubts were expressed whether a proceeding under s. 145 was a criminal case. In 2 C. L. J. 614 = 3 Cr. L. J. 83 it was held that a proceeding under s. 145 is a criminal proceeding and a Magistrate has power to transfer the same under ss 192 and 215. In 23 C. 709 the power of the High Court to transfer under s. 526 was doubted but the case was transferred under s. 15 of the Charter Act. In 18 C. W. N. 393 = 15 Cr. L. J. 359 it was held that s. 526 has no application to proceedings under Chap XII while the same Bench held in 41 C. 719 that s. 526 applied to proceedings under s. 107. See Note 9 above.

10. Cases under Chap. VIII.—In 19 A. 291, it was held the High Court could not transfer, when the Magistrate had acted under s. 117, but s. 117 has now been amended. That the Magistrate acted on private information in calling upon a person to show cause under s. 110 is no good ground for the transfer of the case from his file. There is no limit to the nature or the source of information on which a Magistrate initiates proceedings under that section, 27 A. 172. See Note 9 above.

(i) Cases under s. 107 may be transferred.—The High Court has power under this section to transfer proceedings under s. 107 from one district to another, 32 A. 662. It is true that every case that is governed by the Code need not necessarily be a 'criminal case' but it does not from that follow that only such cases are criminal as relate to offences already committed or said to have been committed. Cases under s. 107 are subject to cl. (8) and a Magistrate errs in refusing an adjournment, 41 C. 719. In 8 S. L. R. 215 = 16 Cr. L. J. 249, the Judges stated they were disposed to agree with 41 C. 719 rather than with 5 P. R. 1914. But as a rule, it would not be proper to transfer any preventive proceeding from one district to another. It must be an extremely exceptional case that would justify the interference of the High Court with the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District taking preventive action within his boundaries and imposing such foreign and extraneous duty on the Magistrate of another District, 17 C. W. N. 836 = 14 Cr. L. J. 332. See also 31 C. 350. See Note 9 above.

(ii) Transfer of good behaviour cases.—It may now be taken as settled that proceedings under s. 110 are liable to be transferred from one district to another, 23 C. 709; 32 A. 642; 1 S. L. R. 98 = 8 Cr. L. J. 356; 11 C. W. N. 231, 1 P. R. 1913; 12 A. L. J. 263 = 15 Cr. J. 363.

(iii) Cannot such proceedings be transferred to another District?—It was held in 16 A. 9 and 20 A. 47 that though under this section, a criminal case may be transferred to a Magistrate not having local jurisdiction, but otherwise competent to inquire into or try the case, yet proceedings under s. 110 cannot be transferred to any Court outside the district within which such proceedings have been lawfully instituted. The reasoning in these cases was followed in 34 M. 286.

Contra.—The Punjab Chief Court held that it had no jurisdiction either under s. 526 or under s. 33 or the Punjab Courts Act to transfer proceedings under s. 110 from the Court of one Magistrate to the Court of another Magistrate, 5 P. R. 1914 = 154 P. L. R. 1914 = 15 Cr. L. J. 563. The case in 25 B. 179 and the judgment of TAYLOR, J., in 23 C. 709 followed. See also the referring judgment of RATTIGAN, J. reported as a footnote to 15 Cr. L. J. 563, where it was pointed out that in the case in 1 P. R. 1913 = 13 Cr. L. J. 746, it was assumed without any argument that s. 526 applied to a case under s. 110. See Note 9 above.

11. Proceedings under s. 145.—Under the old law there was a conflict of opinion as to whether proceedings under s. 145 were criminal proceedings, but now under the new amendment by the omission of the word "criminal," proceedings under s. 145 are liable to be transferred under this section. (See Note 9, supra.) The Madras, Allahabad and Oudh Courts have held that proceedings under s. 145 may be transferred, 26 M. 188; 34 A. 533; 11 O. C. 61 = 7 Cr. L. J. 423. The Bombay High Court has, however, held that it has no power under this section to direct the transfer of proceedings instituted under s. 145, as they do not come under the provisions of this section, 25 B. 179. The case proceeds on a strict construction of the language of the section "any criminal case or appeal." The word "criminal" governs the word "appeal" as well as the word "case." A criminal case, like a criminal appeal must arise out of and deal with some crime already committed. Hence this section does not confer any power to transfer proceedings under s. 145 which neither contemplates an inquiry or trial into an offence, nor does it deal with a crime committed, but is concerned only with the prevention of offences. The Bombay view was followed in 8 S. L. R. 215 = 16 Cr. L. J. 249. See also 5 P. R. 1914 = 15 Cr. L. J. 563. For the Calcutta view, see Note 9.

11-A. An inquiry under Act XIII of 1859 (Workman's Breach of Contract Act) is not outside the purview of s. 526 of the Code. (See preliminary note to s. 526) 43 A. 700.

12. No power to transfer case under the Legal Practitioners Act.—The Chief Court has no power to order the transfer of a proceeding under s. 14 of the Legal Practitioners Act (XVIII of 1879) from one Court to another, such proceeding being neither a civil proceeding nor a criminal proceeding, though it partakes of the latter character, as being penal, neither s 25 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882, nor s. 526 is applicable to proceedings of this kind, 41 P. R. 1888. But it is submitted that this is not good law in view of the omission of the word "criminal" from section 526. See Note 9, supra.

13. High Court not competent to transfer inquiry under s. 3 of Extradition Act, 1903.—See 33 C. 550 (footnote) = 15 C. W. N. 735, Note 11 at appendix, p. xvi.

14. Power to transfer case from one Presidency Magistrate to another.—The power conferred by this section is only to transfer from one Criminal Court to another, and consequently the High Court, under this section, has no power to transfer a case pending before one Presidency Magistrate to the file of another Presidency Magistrate, both being Judges presiding over the same Court, 13 M. L. J. 69. In 33 M. 739, it is, however, laid down that the High Court is competent to transfer a case from the file of the Chief Presidency Magistrate to the file of another Presidency Magistrate as they are Courts of equal jurisdiction. In 10 Bom. L. R. 201, the point was not raised, but the High Court transferred a case on the ground that the Presidency Magistrate was biased.

IV.—GROUNDS FOR TRANSFER.

15. Duty of the High Court to create and maintain confidence in the administration of justice.—It seems to be generally supposed that, when allegation of bias is made, the transfer is granted under sub-sec. (d) of s. 526, cl. (1), but except in those very rare cases when the Court itself is convinced that a fair and impartial inquiry cannot be had, the transfer is made under sub-sec. (e). One of the most important duties of a High Court is to create and maintain confidence in the administration of justice, and this can only be done by giving to every citizen an assurance that, so far as practicable, he will never be forced to undergo a trial by a Judge or Magistrate, when he has reasonable apprehensions of the litigant, and not because the judicial officer is adjudged to be incapable of properly performing his duty. Magistrates should not fail to remember that it is their duty no less to preserve an outward appearance of impartiality than to maintain the internal freedom from bias which is incumbent on all judicial officers and that if they allow their executive zeal to appear to outrun their judicial discretion, their action is certain to attract the delay consequent on an application to this Court. 1 S. L. R. 8 = 9 Cr. L. J. 251. C was arrested on a warrant charged with an indictable offence, and brought before E, a Justice of the Peace, who had been asked by the Crown Solicitor to take the depositions. E sat in a room in the Police station, and on the request of the Crown Solicitor made an order excluding all persons except representatives of the accused. Several other Justices for the county endeavoured to enter the room, but were refused admission. C's solicitor applied to E to admit the other Magistrates but E refused to do so, giving as a reason that he was guided by the Crown and directed by the Crown not to allow the other Magistrates to be present. C having applied for a writ of prohibition to prohibit E from proceeding further in the matter on the ground of bias—Held, while entirely acquitting E of any moral blame, that a reasonable public might think that the expression used by E implied that in making his order he was acting by the direction of the Crown and not exercising his own discretion, and that the writ of prohibition should be granted, Rex v. Emerson, (1913) 2 Ir. R. 377—K. B. D. See also R. v. O'Grady, 7 Cox C. C. 247.

16. If otherwise transfer is necessary, the High Court cannot take into consideration—

(i) The effect its order would have on the reputation and authority of the Magistrate—In dealing with an application under this section the High Court has only to determine whether good grounds for transfer have been made out to its satisfaction. While making an order, it cannot take into consideration, the effect its order would have on the reputation and authority of the Magistrate concerned. When the application for transfer is based on the ground that the applicant will not have a fair and impartial trial, the apprehension, to justify the transfer, must be shown to be reasonable, and if there be not sufficient grounds for the apprehension, the High Court will not transfer the case merely in deference to the susceptibilities of the accused, 10 C. W. N. 441 = 3 Cr. L. J. 379.

(ii) Accused getting benefit of trial by jury—In transferring a case, no consideration should be had to the fact that by the transfer to a particular district the accused will have the benefit of the trial by jury, where previously he had none. The real question is that of convenience of parties—Per WOODROFFE and COLE, JJ. 8 C. L. J. 59 = 8 Cr. L. J. 121.

17. It is the duty of the Magistrates to conduct themselves properly so as to inspire confidence in parties that nothing but justice will be done.—Next to the importance of deciding a case fairly and impartially, it the importance of conducting oneself in such a manner as to inspire in the minds of the parties a confidence that nothing but absolute justice would be done to them and if by reason of the words or conduct of a Magistrate or Judge before whom a case is pending, any party reasonably apprehends that there is a bias against him, in the mind of the officer concerned, it would be expedient for the ends of justice to transfer the case from his file though there may not be actual bias, 28 C. 709, which follows 25 C. 727; 8 C. W. N. 75.

18. Reasonable apprehension in the mind of the accused that he will not have a fair and impartial trial is the proper test.—In dealing with applications for transfer, what the Court has to consider is not merely the question whether there has been any real bias in the mind of the presiding Judge against the accused, but also the further question whether incidents may not have happened which, though they may be susceptible of explanation and may have happened without there being any real bias in the mind of the Judge are nevertheless such as are calculated to create in the mind of the accused a reasonable apprehension that he may not have a fair and impartial trial. Of course, it is not every apprehension of this sort that should be taken into consideration, but where the apprehension is of a reasonable character, then notwithstanding that there may be no real bias in the matter, the fact of the incidents having taken place being calculated to raise such reasonable apprehension, ought to be a ground for allowing transfer. Where a Magistrate after releasing the accused on bail, still required him to report himself to the authorities at a certain place, and when he applied for leave to go to Calcutta and Chabassa, he was allowed to go only to the latter place, an order of transfer was held justifiable, 23 C. 495 followed in 19 A. 64, approved in 25 B. 179. See also 10 C. W. N. 441 = 3 Cr. L. J. 778; 9 C. W. N. 619, 36 C. 904, 18 C. 247; 25 C. 727; 128 C. 297; 26 C. 709; 8 C. W. N. 75. What has to be considered is whether the circumstances alleged would create in the mind of the applicant a reasonable apprehension of not getting a fair and impartial trial in the Court of the Magistrate. The position of an accused person is always one of great anxiety and suspense, and incidents, though susceptible of an explanation and which would perhaps pass unnoticed but for the trial he is undergoing alarm him and lead him to think that his guilt is already believed and that his conviction is a foregone conclusion, (19 A. 64 followed.) In this case it was alleged by the accused who was a Mahant and of some standing that the District Magistrate had cancelled his license for arms and refused to see him when he called to pay his respects, it was held that these incidents were likely to lead the accused to believe and to infer that the District Magistrate was displeased with him and the case was transferred, 35 A. 5. In this case it was noted that 19 A. 64 had been followed in various other cases by the Allahabad High Court. In both these cases there were some incidents which had taken place from which it appeared that the Magistrate trying the case might be biased against the accused. Where no such incidents have been put forward, the transfer of a case should not necessarily be ordered, simply because an accused person thinks that he would not get an impartial trial, but the real question to be considered is whether on the facts disclosed in the application for transfer there arises a reasonable inference that the Magistrate who is seized of the case may be prejudiced willingly or unwillingly against the accused, 12 A. L. J. 33 = 14 Cr. L. J. 686, 15 Cr. L. J. 368 (A.). In 4 P. W. R. 1913 = 14 Cr. L. J. 286, however the case was transferred as the accused was under the bona fide impression that he may not have an impartial trial before the District Magistrate though the Chief Court held there were no good grounds for transfer and the suggestions made against the District Magistrate were held to be groundless and without justification.

19. It is not necessary to prove actual bias on the part of the Magistrate.—When the application is grounded on bias on the part of the Magistrate, it is not necessary to prove actual bias, but it is sufficient to show circumstances which may raise a reasonable apprehension in the mind of an accused person, that he will not have a fair and impartial trial and this, though the circumstances susceptible of explanation, have happened without any real bias in the mind of the Magistrate, Weir II, 678; 21 M. L. J. (Bh. N.) 59. Where there is fear in the minds of the parties that they would not receive a fair and unprejudiced trial and that fear is reasonable and founded upon distinct incidents which would really give rise to reasonable apprehension, there is good ground for transfer, although there is really no bias in the mind of the Court from which the transfer is sought 26 C. 297, where 23 C. 495 and 18 C. 247 are followed.

20. But apprehension must be reasonable and based on actual incidents.—It is not sufficient for the accused merely to allege that he will not get a fair trial, but he must lay before the High Court the facts which give rise to this belief in his mind, and if these facts are found such that they will reasonably give rise to this belief, a transfer ought to be made, 10 O. C. 165 = 6 Cr. L. J. 284, where 23 C. 495 is referred to. In 35 A. 239, Sir GEORGE KNOX considered the case in 6 C. 491, 19 A. 64, and Sergeant v. Dale and held following 12 A. L. J. 33 = 14 Cr. L. J. 686, that a transfer of cases should not be ordered simply because an accused person thinks that he would not get an impartial trial, but the real question is whether on the facts disclosed in the applicatio and affidavits there arises a reasonable apprehension that the Magistrate who is seized of the case may be prejudiced willingly or unwillingly against the accused and referred to Leeson v Medical Council, 43 Ch D 386 at p. 384, Reg v Myer, (1875) 1 Q B D. 173—177, R v Handsley, (1882) 8 Q. B. D. 383 and Allinson v General Council of Medical Education and Registration, (1894) 1 Q. B. 750—758 and was of opinion that Sergeant v Dale was a peculiar case and stood quite by itself. Where the incidents suggested are incidents in accordance with law and seem to be a judicious exercise of the discretion vested in the Court and the Judge was apparently upholding the order and dignity of the Court it cannot be inferred from them that there is any danger of the inquiry being unfair or partial.

21. Reasonableness must be viewed from the standard of the accused—Abstract reasonableness is not the standard—On an application being made for adjournment to enable the accused to move the High Court under this section, the Magistrate gave out that he could go on till the accused were called on to enter on their defence and so he continued the examination of certain prosecution witnesses, and further, in his explanation to the High Court stated, that his reason for examining these witnesses before allowing the application for adjournment, was that he was apprehensive that the case might be settled amicably out of Court, and that the witnesses might not afterwards be available, and if available, might not speak the truth against the accused. Held per MITRA, J., (HOLMWOOD, J., contra), that inasmuch as the order of the Magistrate, on the petition for postponement, and his explanation to the High Court, displayed an anxiety on his part that the accused, is really guilty, should not escape punishment they were calculated to raise not unnaturally, in the mind of the accused an apprehension that they might not have a fair and impartial trial before him; and as such apprehension was not in the peculiar circumstances of the case foolish or unfounded, the case should be transferred to some other Magistrate for trial. What is a reasonable apprehension should be decided in each case with reference to the incidents of the case and surrounding circumstances, and in determining whether an application is reasonable, it is the duty of the Court, by placing itself in the position of the accused to consider the fact and circumstances attending his position. Abstract reasonableness ought not to be the standard, 33 C. 1183, where 10 C. W. N. 441 is referred to and explained and 18 C. 455, 29 C. 211 and 8 C. W. N. 77 followed. If the words used by and the actions of a judicial officer though susceptible of explanation and traceable to a superior sense of duty, are calculated to create in the mind of the accused a reasonable apprehension, the case should be transferred, 33 C. 1183, where 31 C. 713 is followed. Confidence in the administration of justice is an essential element in good Government, and a reasonable apprehension of a failure of justice in the mind of the accused should be taken into consideration on an application for transfer. See 1 B. R. 8—9 Cr. L. J. 251, Note 17 above. In matters like these, to use the word of LUSH, J., in Sergeant v Dale, (1877) 2 Q B D 855, "the law, in laying down this strict rule, has regard not so much perhaps to the motives which might be supposed to bias the Judge as to the susceptibilities of the litigant parties. One important object, at all events, is to clear away everything which might engender suspicion and distrust of the tribunal, and so to promote the feelings of confidence in the administration of justice which is essential to social order and security." It has therefore to be seen whether there is anything in the case likely to create in the mind of the accused a reasonable apprehension that they may not have a fair and impartial trial. To decide that, regard must be had to the degree of their intelligence and their standard of honesty and impartiality, both probably fairly low. Though the facts alleged may be insufficient to raise in the mind of the Court even the shadow of an apprehension that the accused would not get a fair and impartial trial in the Court of the particular Magistrate, yet if they have raised a very real fear of injustice in the minds of the accused, which is not unreasonable having regard to their standard of honesty and if the case ought to be transferred, 10 B. L. R. 15—15 Cr. L. J. 196; 6 Lab. 396.

ing keen interest in the case.—Where the District Magistrate's letter showed that ad interest in the matter which had led up to proceedings being taken under s. 107

ed s. 107, held that the proceedings ought to be transferred to another district 12, 20 C. 857. Though the Court granted where there is reason to suppose a fair trial yet in 2 B. R. 58, the Court refused the application although Magistrate had shown a fair and impartial discretion in dealing with the
it, and failed to do so. Where a District Magistrate admitted in his reply to an application for transfer of a case that he has taken a keen personal interest in the case and was satisfied of the applicant's guilt, held sufficient ground for transfer, 32 A. 642

(ii) Complainant or his Mukhtyar being servant or relation of Magistrate—Where the trying Magistrate is the master of the complainant, it is expedient that the complaint should be referred to another Magistrate, though the fact of such relationship may not deprive the Magistrate of jurisdiction, 9 B. 172; (1911) 2 M. W. N. Jour. 110; 21 M. L. J. 753 = 12 Cr. L. J. 407. See, however, the remarks of JESU, J. in Sergeant v Dale, L. R. 2 Q. B. D. 588 and 20 C. 857. In 23 C. 297, the fact that the Magistrate is a relative of the Sub-Inspector of the Police or that he is in private life guardian of a person who has a claim to the estate whose manager or the Magistrate is a friend was held to be a sufficient ground for transfer, 29 C. W. N. 845.

(iii) Magistrate being in another capacity interested in result of case—In 8 C. W. N. 77, an application was made by the complainant on the ground that the accused were interested in the Bellia Ray, an estate under the management of the District Magistrate, as Collector and Agent to the Court of Wards. The application was granted in order to prevent persons from having an apprehension that there might be some bias in the mind of the Magistrate inclining him to look with favour upon the interests of any party. See also the remarks of PHEAR, J. in 7 B. L. R. 340 at p. 259 = 15 W. R. 69. Where the only officers in the district, competent to hear an appeal were or had been members of the Road Cess Committee, whose money formed the subject of the charge preferred, the appeal which lay to the District Magistrate was transferred to the Sessions Judge, 6 C. L. R. 279. See also 7 C. 322 = 9 C. L. R. 193. But, the mere fact that the District Magistrate, in his capacity as Collector, is concerned in the management of an estate under the Court of Wards is no ground for asking for a transfer from the district of a case instituted by a servant of the estate against the tenants of the estate and pending before a Subordinate Magistrate in the district, especially where there was not even a suggestion that the Collector as such Manager, knew of the institution of the proceedings, 28 C. 297.

(iv) That the Magistrate has acted as arbitrator previously is ground for transfer.—Where a Magistrate has dealt with the dispute in an informal manner as private arbitrator, it is desirable that the case should be transferred as his previous informal knowledge would necessarily hamper him at every turn, 18 C. L. J. 150 = 16 Cr. L. J. 602

(v) But interest must be substantial enough to make it likely that he has a bias—A Magistrate having surrendered some goods which had been seized in a case pending before him, was served with a notice of action, and the party apprehending that his conduct had created a bias in the mind of the Magistrate applied for a transfer of his case. Held, that before such application could be granted, it must be established that the Magistrate had such substantial interest in the result of the hearing as to make it likely that he has a real bias in the matter, Ratanlal 685.

23. That Magistrate is to be summoned as a witness may be ground for transfer.—The mere fact that a Magistrate trying a criminal case may be summoned as a witness for the defence is not of itself a reason for the transfer of the case from the Court of such Magistrate, but it may be a reason for such Magistrate committing the case to the Court of Session instead of (in the case of a conviction) passing final order himself, 1897 A. W. N. 17. The fact that the evidence of the Magistrate is necessary and material to the defence, must be supported by affidavit to that effect 1896 A. W. N. 257. See also 3 C. W. N. 278. In an application for transfer of a criminal case, the petitioner alleged that the evidence of the trying Magistrate would be required by the accused, touching certain matters connected with the case. Held, that inasmuch as the Magistrate was bound under s. 257 to issue a summons, unless he considered that the application for summons was made for the purpose of vexation or delaying or defeating the ends of justice, it was not proper to leave the decision of the case to the Magistrate whose evidence was required and the case was accordingly transferred, 25 A. 538. In 5 C. W. N. 854, it appeared that the Magistrate was present on the occasion when the Police made a search, and in that connection probably became aware of some of the facts connected with the case, and it also appeared that the Police brought up before him one of the accused for the purpose of his examination being recorded, it was held that it was expedient to transfer the case. See also 15 Cr. L. J. 543 (O). But it is not expedient to order a transfer, unless it is clearly shown that the evidence of the Magistrate is really essential for the accused defence, and that there is likelihood that he can give evidence which would aid the accused in his defence. An application for transfer of a case pending before the Magistrate on the

that the Magistrate is a necessary witness for the defence must be strictly scrutinized, as otherwise it would be open to any accused person to obtain a transfer of a case from a Magistrate whom he did not want to try the case, merely on this particular ground, 8 S. L. R. 170 = 15 Cr. L. J. 222. In 13 Cr. L. J. 368 (A) LLOYD, J., refused an application for transfer based on the allegation that the Magistrate may be called as a witness as the objection was not put forward at the earliest date of the case.

24 Onus of proving necessity for transfer—(i) Onus of showing improper motive of Magistrate—In order to support an application for transfer of a case, the applicant must show that he has reason to believe that the Magistrate is likely to be prejudiced or influenced by any improper motive in the decision of the case. If this is not done, the High Court will support the Magistrate. It is highly improper to throw gratuitously a slight on the Magistrate by the transfer of a case from his Court, Ratanlal 323. See also 6 B. H. C. R. Cr. Ca. 66; 1887 A. W. N. 139. Ordinarily, where there are grounds for suspecting bias, though there may not be actual bias, the accused is entitled to a transfer, but when he attempts to procure that transfer by making false charges of corruption, etc., against the Magistrate, he loses the right, 2 L. B. R. 220.

(ii) *When application is opposed by accused, the prosecution must bring forward the very best evidence to prove that a fair trial cannot be had in the district—*Before the transfer of a case from one Criminal Court to another can be made in cases in which the accused objects to the transfer, the prosecution must bring forward the very best evidence to prove that a fair trial cannot be had in the district in which the case is ordinarily triable, 6 C. 491. Having regard to sub-sec. (5), a complainant very often makes an application without any notice to the Public Prosecutor. In such cases, the High Court should direct notice to the accused, even where the clearest case for a transfer is made out.

25. Incidents held to create reasonable apprehension that fair trial cannot be had—

(i) *Cumulative effect of incidents to be taken into account—*Though none of the circumstances alleged by the accused is grounds of a transfer, taken by itself shows that there is any bias on the part of a Magistrate, yet, if having regard to all the various matters alleged taken together, the accused may, not unreasonably apprehend that he may not have a fair trial, the case should be transferred 9 C. W. N. 619 = 3 Cr. L. J. 239. That the accused was arrested without a warrant, that his medical certificates were not accepted, that he was not informed of the charge for many days, that his request to reserve cross-examination was disallowed, that his prayer as to production of certain documents was rejected and that the names of some of his witnesses were struck out, held though these facts by themselves did not show bias or prejudice in the mind of the Magistrate yet these taken with the fact of several criminal proceedings prior to the present proceedings would be likely to give rise to an apprehension in the accused's mind that he is not likely to have a fair and impartial and the case was transferred 12 A. L. J. 736 = 16 Cr. L. J. 56; 20 A. L. J. 911.

(ii) *Local inspection with partisan of complainant—*Where during the pendency of a case against the accused for the alleged cutting of a dhund, the Magistrate went to the scene of occurrence, accompanied by the partisan of the complainant and held a local inquiry into a matter which, though not the subject of complaint against the accused could nevertheless be imagined by the accused to be such, 12 C. W. N. 768 = 7 Cr. L. J. 510.

(iii) *Magistrate conducting inquiry not making entries daily as required by the rules—*It appeared that the accused was committed to the High Court and the order of the High Court was not made either in the order with reference to the order of the proceedings then before him. It further appeared that the Magistrate, after the receipt of the order of the High Court staying all further proceeding in the case, placed on the record a letter received from a medical officer. Held that the Magistrate had acted with impropriety and showed some bias against the accused, that further proceedings should not, therefore, be taken before the said Magistrate and the case should be transferred to another Magistrate, 3 C. W. N. 639.

(iv) *Persistence in going on with case after communication of the issue of a rule—*A refusal to adjourn to enable the accused to apply to the High Court and persistence in going on with the case in spite of the communication of the issue of a rule nisi for transfer by telegram are sufficient to justify a transfer, 11 C. W. N. 507 = 5 Cr. L. J. 291; 1 S. L. R. 37 = 9 Cr. L. J. 275, 16 C. W. N. 1031 = 13 Cr. L. J. 788. Where the zeal of the executive officer had outstripped the judicial impartiality of the trying Magistrate, and where he hurried on the inquiry; remittitur to commitment in spite of his knowledge that a rule has been granted by the High Court to stay proceedings, held that this haste to press the inquiry on coupled with his action in the earlier investigation of the case suggested that the mind of the trying Magistrate was not free from some bias in the matter and that he did not approach the case with judicial impartiality so essential to the administration of justice. Consequently, the ends of justice required that the case should be transferred to some other Magistrate. 2 C. W. N 498. See also 1 E. L. R. 89 = 8 Cr. L. J. 251; 11 C. W. N 507 = 5 Cr. L. J. 291; 5 C. W. N 110; 1 ut see 19 M 375. See Notes 54-55.

(v) Making a witness a co-accused—In 7 Bom. L. R. 472, a person whose name appeared as an accused in the complaint was examined as a witness against the other accused and after he had given evidence to a certain extent he was made a co-accused and tried along with the others. Held that the procedure adopted was highly calculated to intimidate the other witnesses and the action of the Magistrate was improper.

(vi) Issuing non-bailable warrants in a petty case and exacting heavy bail—Where a Subordinate Magistrate in a case of petty theft of four bamboos worth one rupee issued non-bailable warrants in the first instance and afterwards exacted very heavy bail from the accused these were held to be sufficient grounds for transfer as the accused had been given occasion reasonably to apprehend that they would not have a fair trial before the Magistrate. The accused were however directed to pay the costs of the complainant before the trying Magistrate. 8 C. W. N 888; but where a Magistrate acted bona fide from a mistaken view of the law it was held to be no sufficient ground for transfer. 8 C. W. N 838.

(vii) Issuing a warrant in a summons case unnecessarily—In 18 C. 247, it was held that if there are circumstances shown which may reasonably lead the petitioner to believe that the Magistrate has to some extent prejudged the case against him and will in consequence be prejudiced against him there ought to be a transfer and a transfer was granted where in a summons case the Magistrate had issued a warrant without any apparent reason and there was reason to believe that in other proceedings connected with the case the Magistrate had formed an opinion unfavourable to the accused. See also 14 C. W. N 246.

(viii) Not allowing the accused to re-call and cross-examine prosecution witnesses—In 7 C. L. J. 240 = 7 Cr. L. J. 313, the fact the Magistrate did not allow the accused to re-call and further cross-examine under s. 256 the witnesses for the prosecution was held to be sufficient ground not only for annulling the conviction but also for ordering the re-trial by another Magistrate. See also s. 256 and Notes thereunder.

(ix) Taking proceedings under s. 107 against one party alone—In 11 C. W. N 121 = 4 Cr. L. J. 456, two parties had both applied to the Land Registration Court for the registration of their names as proprietors of an estate and pending these proceedings a Magistrate instituted proceedings against one of the parties alone under s. 107 and it being represented that the proceedings under s. 107 against one party would prejudice that party in the Land Registration proceedings and when further some of this party were appointed Special Constables also held that in consequence of the order the parties might have a reasonable apprehension that they would not have a fair and impartial trial and the High Court therefore transferred the case. 10 C. W. N 82.

(x) Dismissing a complaint even without hearing the prosecution witnesses—Where a Magistrate followed the unusual and illegal procedure of acquitting the accused on a consideration of the complainant's statement alone and without examining his witnesses although they had been summoned the High Court set aside the order of acquittal and having regard to the fact that the Magistrate had formed a decided opinion before hearing the evidence for the prosecution directed the District Magistrate to transfer the case for trial to another Magistrate. 20 M 338.

(xi) Insisting on the appearance of parda-nashin accused—The case was transferred from the Magistrate who had refused to dispense with the personal appearance of parda-nashin ladies belonging to a respectable family. The High Court gave them the permission and transferred the case. 15 Cr. L. J. 281 = 17 C. W. N 1246.

(xii) Magistrate putting questions to witnesses prejudicial to accused—See 12 A. L. J. 80 = 18 Cr. L. J. 234, in Note 31.

(xiii) Reasonable apprehension in the mind of the petitioner that his movements were unduly restricted—The High Court transferred the case having regard to the fact that on account of the order of the Superintendent of the Police that the petitioner was to be allowed facilities for insuring his movements only on application to him there might be a reasonable apprehension in the mind of the petitioner that his movements were unduly restricted. 23 C. W. N 481.

(xiv) Fixing a single day for trial and then another day after an adjournment—Ordinarily a Sessions trial once begun should be continued de die in diem.

Consequently where a Sessions Judge fixed one day for a Sessions case which could not be finished in a single day but the Judge was willing to grant an adjournment to another date, held, that this constituted a ground for the transfer of the case, 27 A. L. J. 48.

(xv) Where it appeared that the Civil Surgeon had been discussing the case at the Local Club with the officer of the station including the Sessions Judge, held, that that fact by itself was sufficient to justify an order for transfer of the case, 19 A. L. J. 948.

(xvi) Magistrate trying to persuade the parties to compromise—Where a Magistrate has interested himself in a case pending before him in the way of obtaining the settlement by the parties, it is to the interest of both the parties and only fair to the Magistrate himself that he should not hear the case 47 A. 511 = 23 A. L. J. 191.

26. Incidents held not sufficient to prove any bias.—(i) That a Magistrate has in matters left to his discretion decided in a particular way—Magistrate refusing to issue summons to 200 witnesses, 36 A. 239; or disallowing a question Ibid.; or increasing the bail when after proceeding in the inquiry the case becomes more serious, 4 P. W. R. 1912 = 12 Cr. L. J. 476; or refusing bail, 4 Bur. L. T. 113 = 12 Cr. L. J. 277; or refusing to grant adjournment for moving the High Court for transfer when the application has been delayed for two months 48 A. R. 42 = 11 Cr. L. J. 800.

(ii) Bona fide mistake of law is no ground for transfer—A Magistrate heard the evidence for the prosecution and, without disbelieving it, decided that it did not amount to the offence charged held that assuming that an error of law had been committed, the High Court has no power to issue a mandamus to the Magistrate to commit the defendants. It is not a case where the Magistrate has declined jurisdiction, 2 C. 278. Where in certain proceedings the Magistrate has ground that intimidating and therefore there was not sufficient ground for transfer, 27 A. 172.

(iii) Complainant is a man of importance at the place of trial—The mere fact that the complainant is a man of importance at the place where trial is taking place is not a sufficient reason to justify the transfer of a case to another Court, Ratanlal 475.

(iv) Police activity—See 18 W. R. 69 = 7 B. L. R. 240.

(v) Allegation that justice more likely to be done if case heard by another officer who did not know the parties, no ground—Section 528 (c) of the Code is no authority for the transfer of a case from one Court to another when the ground alleged is that the transfer would be in the interest of justice if the trial were held by a Court which knew nothing about either party, 16 A. L. J. 490.

27. That Magistrate expressed strong view in preliminary inquiry in a Sessions case is no ground for transfer of the case—transfer of the case on strong views

28. When is formation of a previous opinion in another case a ground for transfer?—See 487 and Notes under Heading XXVIII. Where a Sessions Judge in his explanation to the High Court indicated that he had taken a very strong view of the case against the accused, and that he had in a great measure formed a very strong opinion of his guilt and also in view of the fact that it might be desirable to examine the Sessions Judge as a witness at the trial of the accused the High Court transferred the case to another Court, 3 C. W. N. 278.

(i) That sanction is given by the Judge as no ground for transfer of an appeal from conviction—See 27 C. 432 and 15 Bom. L. R. 104 = 16 Cr. L. J. 190 and Notes 237 and 258.

(ii) That in a counter case between the same parties the Judge has formed a definite opinion on the same evidence which is to be adduced in the pending case is a good ground for transfer—In 4 C. W. N. 824, where the complainant applied for transfer of his case, on the ground that the complaint was regarding facts forming the substance of the defence in another case which had already been tried by the same Magistrate, held, that the case should be transferred as the Magistrate had necessarily been compelled to express his opinion on the evidence which formed the evidence for the defence in that case, and that was the evidence on which the complainant in the present case would rely. In two cases in which charges and counter-charges had been made, a Magistrate heard the prosecution evidence in one case and then without hearing the defence evidence in that case interposed the other case, heard the prosecution evidence in that case and on that evidence discharged the accused in that case. In his order of discharge, he expressed himself in decided terms as to the guilt of the prosecuting party in the latter case, who were the accused in the former case. Held, that the course adopted by the Magistrate was likely to prejudice the accused in the former case. Although the evidence which the accused in the former case addressed as prosecutors in the latter case may be substantially the same as that which would have been adduced in their behalf if the former case had proceeded in the ordinary way and the evidence for the defence in that case had been heard, it does not follow that evidence which when adduced on behalf of the prosecution is insufficient to sustain a charge, will, if adduced on behalf of the defence with reference to the same charge, be also insufficient. Such prejudging of the accused's guilt is sufficient ground for transfer, 30 M. 333. This Ruling was followed in (1910) M. W. N. 743 = 11 Cr. L. J. 702, where a case and a counter-case were filed before a Magistrate who in giving judgment in one, prejudged the other, and the latter case was therefore taken away from his hands. Where, in a case of rioting, the question of possession was of all importance and the Magistrate had in two previous cases expressed rather a decisive opinion upon the question of possession, held, that it was expedient for the ends of justice that the case should be transferred, 8 C. W. N. 641. STERNIEV, J., doubted the correctness of this principle but felt bound to follow the practice of the High Court.

(iii) But opinion expressed in a judgment in another case based on evidence judicially recorded is not ipso facto a sufficient ground for transfer—The mere fact that in another case, on other evidence, the Judge may have come to a particular conclusion is not in itself a sufficient ground for transfer, 35 C. 904 following 1 C. W. N. 426, where it was held that the fact that a strong opinion was expressed by the Sessions Judge in a counter case of rioting is not a sufficient ground for transferring a case. So also in 33 A. 553 it was held following Cr. Mfs. Case No 141 of 1909 that the fact the Judge had already in a cross-case against the other party in an alleged riot come to the decision that the present applicants were the aggressors and the other party were acting in self-defence, was not a sufficient ground for transfer. But where certain remarks in a judgment in a counter-case were relied on as showing bias, held, that when a judgment has been formed on evidence judicially recorded, it is impossible to take that judgment as an indication of extra judicial bias and prejudice forming grounds for transfer, 18 C. W. N. 910. The impressions recorded in the judgment are impressions derived from evidence and however erroneous, are not to be classed as instances of personal bias which is regarded as disqualifying 6 Bom. L. R. 1092. Interest or bias is not to be inferred from the opinions formed on evidence judicially recorded 18 L. R. 37 = 9 Cr. L. J. 275, nor is the fact that the Magistrate has discharged a cross-case between the same parties per se a sufficient ground, but if the order of discharge is based on the evidence which he had heard in both the cases there will be a sufficient ground for transfer, 5 B. L. R. 264 = 13 Cr. L. J. 532.

(iv) That the Judge sitting on the civil side has in a case of perjury or forgery formed an opinion on the evidence is not by itself a sufficient ground for transfer—As a general rule, the High Court does not exercise its power of transfer in a case of forgery or perjury only on the ground, that the Judge who is to try the case has actually formed an opinion that the document is forged or the perjury was committed when sitting on the civil side of his Court. But when the transfer can be made without risk of any improper interference with the course of justice, and without much inconvenience to the parties and witnesses, it is not only a fair concession to the person charged, but is a means of relieving the Judge from a position which he would desire to avoid 5 M. H. C. R. 212; 6 B. 479, 14 A. 354; 16 C. 766 (F B) overruling 16 C. 121; 18 B. 380. See also s. 480.

(v) Trial and conviction of one batch, no bar to same Magistrate trying another batch of accused under similar circumstances—The fact that the Magistrate had tried and convicted one set of persons does not disqualify such Magistrate from conducting a supplementary trial, where another batch of persons is put on their trial for identically the same set of circumstances, 31 C. 715. See also 11 C. W. N. 262; 12 A. L. J. 33 = 18 Cr. L. J. 666, and four others were put up for trial, the former under s. 411, I P C., and the latter under s. 411, I P C. The case was transferred to another Magistrate, but the latter was not qualified to try the case, and the case could not be transferred, 15 Cr. L. J. 253 (A).

(vi) That the Judge himself directs the committal when dealing with an appeal.—Where an Appellate Judge after hearing arguments came to the conclusion that the offence, if one was committed at all, was of a graver nature than the accused was convicted of, and setting aside the convictions, committed them for trial on charges of graver character, and the accused applied for transfer on the grounds of justice. Held, that the Judge was simply performing his duties as Sessions Judge and that there was nothing to show that the accused would not have a fair and impartial trial, 18 Cr. L. J. 637 (A.)

29. That Magistrate is influenced by extra-judicial information may be sufficient ground.—During the trial of the accused for an offence under the Gambling Act, incidentally in the course of the discussion as to the conduct of a witness, the Magistrate remarked that the name of the accused was notorious as that of a man who advertised for persons to join him in gambling, held on an application for transfer, per BATTY, J.,—"that the case must be transferred. That the impression given expression to by the Magistrate was based on materials which did not constitute part of the evidence in the case and the Magistrate's statement of the impression was calculated to give rise to reasonable apprehension on the part of the accused, and possible on the part of the witnesses that the conduct and result might in some measure be influenced by the prepossession, unfavourable to the accused, instead of depending solely on the evidence adduced. The position of an accused person must always be one of great anxiety and suspense and it is not wise that he should be in such a position should be enhanced by any suggestion in the mind of the Magistrate who is necessary of removing any impression from the Court, which is not based on any evidence in the trial." Per ASTON, J.—"It is important that parties should have confidence in the Court before which they appear. It is also important that nothing should be done to encourage any want of confidence when there is no sufficient foundation for that want of confidence. There was nothing in the incident referred to, to suggest ground for such want of confidence, so as to give the accused cause to apprehend that he will not have a fair and impartial trial." But the learned Judge concurred in the order of transfer, because he held that by the use of the expression 'that it is undesirable that the Magistrate should proceed with the trial' in the judgment of BATTY, J., an incident giving cause for apprehension had been created. 6 Bom. L. R. 856. See also 11 C. W. N. 262 and 10 C. W. N. 16. Where a Magistrate was found to be acting on information got out of Court and that he permitted rumours relating to the accused in a pending case before him to reach him out of Court and allowed his mind to be influenced by such rumours, held the case should be transferred, 19 A. 64. Where a Magistrate on the bare authority of a Police clerk asked a witness whether the accused had been challenged in any bad-mashi case held, that the question was improper and it gave a sufficient cause to the accused to apprehend that a fair and impartial trial will not be had and was a good ground for transfer, 12 A. L. J. 30 = 15 Cr. L. J. 234. When the Magistrate has acted as a private arbitrator in the case he should not subsequently try the case 18 C. L. J. 150 = 14 Cr. L. J. 602. See also 33 A. 8.

30. That case is causing considerable excitement in the district is not necessarily a ground for transfer.—In 8 C. 491 an application was made based on the affidavit of the District Magistrate, the Court held it was not a sufficient reason for transfer that the case was causing considerable excitement in the district and most of the inhabitants of the districts had their sympathies enlisted on the one side or the other. Clause (e) refers to the expediency of justice and not to any expediency from a political point of view. Therefore the fact, that certain classes of the inhabitants of a town or district are excitable people and have not much patience and that it is necessary to allay their irritation to prevent possible consequences is not a ground for transfer. It is no doubt the duty of the Court to have all due regard for the importance of securing the confidence of the public generally, and of every section of the community interested in the result, in particular in the fairness and impartiality of the trial that is going to be held, but it is equally its duty to see that no undue regard is shown to the abnormal susceptibilities of any section of the public, from an apprehension of ulterior consequences. If that were done it would result in the obvious injustice of showing greater consideration to the less peaceful than to the more peaceful. 25 C. 727. See also 15 W. R. 69 = 7 B. L. R. 240. In 6 M. 37, the High Court transferred an appeal to itself as the accused was an old public servant holding an important post and the case was one containing allegations against him of the letter under s. 182, I P C. that one of the witnesses for the

31. That a fair and impartial jury cannot be secured is a ground for transfer.—The jury in a case triable by jury constitute a part and an important part of the tribunal. It would not, therefore, be quite reasonable to say where doubt is entertained as to the fairness and impartiality of the jury, that the trial should nevertheless go on before such a jury, because an erroneous verdict may, in the end be set right by the High Court. The importance of having a fair and impartial jury ranks very much higher than the convenience of parties and witnesses and the convenience of the Court in having a local inspection. Where, therefore, to such officers, as the District Magistrate and the Sessions Judge emphatically express their belief that it will be next to impossible to expect a fair and impartial trial, if the case be heard before a jury chosen from a particular district, the bare expression of such belief, quite apart from the foundations thereof must shake the confidence of the parties. An order for transfer in such cases, is expedient for the ends of justice under cl. (c) of sub-sec (1). The importance of securing the confidence of parties in the fairness and impartiality of the tribunal is next only to the importance of securing a fair and impartial tribunal, 25 C. 727. But before an order is made for transfer against the wish of the accused, the Court ought to require the very best evidence that a fair trial cannot be had, in other words, that the jury cannot be trusted to do their duty impartially, 6 C. 491. But see 7 B. L. R. 240.

32. Other grounds for transfer.—(i) Question of law of unusual difficulty—Sub-sec (1)(b).—As the Code allows appeals and revision applications from convictions and there are several exceptions even to the finality of a verdict of a jury, the rulings relating to the circumstances under which the writ of certiorari would be granted in England are not applicable to the circumstances of this country. See the remarks of PITKIN, J., in 7 B. L. R. 240 at p. 269 = 15 W. E. 69. See also 7 Bom. L. R. 837 at p. 639 on this point.

(ii) When a view of the place is required—See sub-sec. (1)(c).—A personal inspection by a Magistrate of the locality, to test the correctness of evidence, does not disqualify him from deciding the case, by making him a witness. See s. 558, 13 P. R. 1901. Though a local inspection may be highly desirable, the Magistrate should be careful, not to allow anyone on either side to say anything to him which might prejudice his mind one way or the other, 19 A. 302. See 13 P. R. 1901; 21 C. 920; 19 M. 263; 37 C. 340; as to the duties of a Magistrate in making a local investigation, see also 12 C. W. N. 748 = 7 Cr. L. J. 510; and see Note 19-20 to s. 556.

(iii) Convenience of parties, transfer for—Sub-sec (1)(d).—On committal of the accused to the Court of Sessions at Ratanagiri, the Sessions Judge, holding that he had no jurisdiction to try the case without an order of the High Court as all the acts constituting the alleged offences with which the accused was charged, were committed, if at all, in Bombay, reported the case under this section. Held, that as the complainant chose to lay his complaint in the district, and as the accused wished to be tried there, the High Court might order that the trial should proceed before the Sessions Judge, 2 Bom. L. R. 304. And so where the convenience of numerous witnesses for the defence outweighed that of the prosecution witnesses who were few in number, the High Court made an order for the transfer of the case to itself, and directed under s. 287 that the trial before it be by jury under the circumstances of the case, Ratanlal 977.

(iv) Expedient for ends of justice—Sub-sec (1)(e).—See Note 17 et seq.—It is desirable that a case relating to a mosque between Hindus and Muhammadans should be tried by the District Magistrate or some other European Magistrate, 1 P. W. R. 1915 = 127 P. L. R. 1915 = 16 Cr. L. J. 213.

(v) But a Magistrate's ignorance of the vernacular in which the exhibits are written is no ground for transfer—That a Magistrate does not possess the amount of scholarship in Telugu and Sanskrit which is necessary to understand correctly without the aid of translation the book in respect of which the charge is lodged and others to which it may be necessary to refer for comparison, is not a ground for transfer as it is a difficulty which is necessarily of common occurrence, (1911) 2 M. W. N. 80 = 10 M. L. M. T. 518 = 12 Cr. L. J. 431. In 16 Cr. L. J. 73 (A), a case was transferred as the Magistrate before whom the case was pending did not know English and there was good deal of evidence, oral and documentary, in English to be adduced in the case.

(vi) Unnecessary delay on the part of the Magistrate, good ground for transfer—Unnecessary delay in the disposal of a simple case is a good ground for transferring it, Weir II, 679. In 8 M. L. T. 222 = 11 Cr. L. J. 833, the High Court characterized the delay as scandalous and upheld the transfer even though made without notice. In 12 A. L. J. 363 = 15 Cr. L. J. 363, a case under s. 110 was transferred as it was much to be feared that if it remained in the hands of that Magistrate it would be some months before the case would be brought to a close.

(vii) That all the pleaders have been engaged.—The opposite party engaging all lawyers available at the place is a good ground for transfer, 7 A. L. J. (8h. M.) 86. See also 1 C. W. N. 426 and 25 C. 727 where the difficulty in procuring legal aid was referred to.

(viii) That the Magistrate is lenient to the accused.—A transfer is not justified on the ground the Magistrate's action in releasing an accused person on bail shows a tendency to treat the undue leniency, 22 B. 449.

33. When transfer is required by some provision of law.—See, e.g., s. 191, 449 (2), 487 and 556.

34. Grounds for transfer of appeals under Letters Patent.—As to the reasons which will sometimes induce the High Court to transfer a case under Letters Patent, see 6 M. 32. See also 1 B. L. R. O. Cr. 15 and 9 C. 397.

35. Defamatory statements in application for transfer whether absolutely privileged.—It was held that a defamatory statement made in bad faith in an application for the transfer of a case is not privileged. The English Common Law doctrine of absolute privilege has no application to the Indian moftussil, 40 C. 433, where 35 M. 216 was dissented from. But see 17 C. W. N. 449 = 14 Cr. L. J. 61 as also 38 C. 880 at p. 883 and 37 M. 110.

V.—SUB-SECTIONS (2) TO (7)—PRACTICE.

36. Delay in applying for transfer strongly condemned.—“The impression appears to have got abroad that the processes and orders of moftussil Courts can be ignored if the parties chance to telegraph to their legal advisers either that an order has been passed by this Court or that they are ill. We must protest against this practice which has become common in this Court, to file these petitions of transfer on the last day when the parties are given a fortnight or three weeks to move. It is the absolute duty of parties to come to us as soon as possible and we shall be in future unable to stay proceedings ordinarily unless sufficient time is given to issue a rule and obtain in explanation.” 17 C. W. N. 536 = 14 Cr. L. J. 332. An application for transfer ought to be put forward at the earliest possible opportunity after the occurrence of whatever facts or circumstances are alleged as affording reasonable basis for such application, 15 Cr. L. J. 556 (A.), 15 Cr. L. J. 368.

37. Commitment under sub-sec. (1) (iv) not liable to be quashed.—When a case has been committed under the orders of the High Court under this section, to a Court of Session, the Sessions Judge should dispose of the case according to law. Such an order is not subject to revision and Sessions Judge cannot refer the case under s. 215, to the High Court. Section 215 does not apply to a commitment under this section or s. 439, and an order under sub-sec. (1) (iv) made by the High Court itself it is not subject to revision, 27 M. 84.

38. To whom the case may be transferred.—(i) Case must be transferred to a competent Court.—The High Court transferred a case under s. 110 to a District Magistrate with instructions to make it over to some other Magistrate and the District Magistrate made over the case to a second-class Magistrate who was not competent to conduct proceedings under ss. 110 to 119. The second-class Magistrate made an order directing security. Held, the order was bad. The High Court under s. 526 had power to transfer the case to another Criminal Court of equal or superior jurisdiction and could not have transferred the case to the second-class Magistrate and what the High Court cannot do the District Magistrate to whom the selection of the Magistrate was left could not do. In 24 A. 151, the transfer was made to a first-class Magistrate who was competent to complete the proceedings, 37 A. 20.

(ii) To a special Magistrate.—The High Court may ask the Local Government to appoint a special Magistrate, see 4 B. L. R. Ap. 1, 20 W. R. 23 = 11 B. L. R. Ap. VIII.

(iii) Interpretation of order of transfer of criminal case by High Court to District Magistrate.—When a criminal case is transferred by an order of the High Court from a Court subordinate to a District Magistrate, to the Court of a District Magistrate, if it is intended that the District Magistrate shall have power to transfer the case to a Subordinate Court, that intention will be expressed in the order of the High Court. If no such intention is expressed, it will be understood that, in the case of a transfer from a Court subordinate to a District Magistrate to a District Magistrate's Court, that District Magistrate's Court, is expected to try the case itself, but when the transfer is from the Court of one District Magistrate to the Court of another District Magistrate, it will be understood that, unless the contrary is directly expressed, the Magistrate of the Court to which the transfer is made has power and jurisdiction to apply s. 182 and to transfer the case to the Court of any Magistrate subordinate to him who may be competent to try it 19 A. 249.

39. Scope of sub-sec. (3).—Sub-section (3) will enable a High Court to pass an order for the transfer of a case on a reference made by an inferior Court with the consent of the parties concerned without a formal motion or affidavit, and will generally in such cases extend the powers of a High Court.—Statement of Objects and Reasons

40. Notice to accused and complainant of proposed transfer.—When a Court reports a case to the High Court for transfer under sub-sec. (3) it shall give notice to the accused and the complainant (if any) of the application and forward along with its report any objections that may be made to the proposed transfer—Para 78, Bom. H C Cr Cir, p 50

41. Procedure—Application for transfer by Government.—Application by the Government or by a Sessions Judge or District Magistrate for the exercise by the High Court of its power of transferring criminal cases under s. 526 (3) must be made to the Court, through the Government Pleader or some other qualified person specially empowered in that behalf. Before granting such application, the High Court will require to be satisfied that the person against whom the criminal case is pending has received such notice of the intention to apply as would enable him to appear and be heard on the application.—Bom H C Cr Cir, p. 50. See also 1894 A. W. N. 154.

42. Any party interested.—A person alleging himself to be a complainant, but who in fact is not the complainant and from whose hands the prosecution has been taken away by order of the Magistrate, is not a party interested within the meaning of sub-sec. (3), s Bom. L. R. 859.

43. Sub-section (4)—Manner of moving the High Court.—The provision of sub-sec. (4) as to the manner in which an application shall be made by a private party, follows the Ruling in 1 G. 219 (F.B.) = 23 W. R. 27. See also 8 C. 63.

44. Practice—Affidavit by District Magistrate as regards impartiality of Subordinate Magistrate when improper.—In 25 B. 179 the petitioner moved the High Court to transfer the case under s. 145 to some other Magistrate. Among the grounds on which the impartiality of the trying Magistrate was impugned were (1) that he had already inquired into and reported subject of the dispute in question, and also that he dispute. The Magistrate of the District made a Magistrate whose impartiality is impugned will not be influenced by the relations in which he admittedly stands to one of the parties interested. On this the Court remarked "It is somewhat difficult to understand the basis of the charge. The Magistrate is not a party to the dispute. His duty is to inquire into the facts and to report thereon. His report is not a statement of fact, but a statement of opinion. It is not one as to facts, but as to his personal opinion, which in the circumstances can only rest upon conjecture as to the mental attitude of another officer."

45. Affidavit not to be made by accused.—An application for transfer by the accused in a criminal case is a criminal proceeding within the meaning of s. 5 of the Indian Oaths Act X of 1873, Weir II, 686; I, 176. Where an affirmation was wrongly administered to the accused and an affidavit was sworn to by him in support of such application for transfer, held, that the affidavit was a nullity and that the accused could not be punished under s. 193 or s. 199, 1 P. C., for making any false statement in that affidavit. See sub-sec. (4) of s. 342 and Notes thereto and also 28 A. 331.

46. Costs of the complainant.—In 8 C. W. N. 589, where the case was transferred at the instance of the accused, he was ordered to pay all the costs incurred by the complainant, before the Magistrate from whom the case was transferred. In 8 P. W. R. 1911 = 12 Cr. L. J. 274 an order directing the accused to pay costs was held to be improper and unjustifiable and was set aside on revision. But when an order for transfer was made at the instance of the accused, and the complainant alleged that he was poor and the transfer would subject him to expenses which he could not afford, an order was made that the Crown should pay the expenses of the witnesses, 8 C. W. N. 75.

47. Power of High Court to re-entertain application for transfer.—A judgment of a Division Bench

VI.—ADJOURNMENT OF HEARING ON NOTIFICATION OF INTENTION TO TRANSFER. THE HIGH COURT—SUB-SEC. (8).

48. Application can be made at any time of the hearing.—Under s. 526 (8) the application for adjournment had to be made before the commencement of the hearing.

present amendment in the case of an inquiry or trial an application for adjournment can be made at any time it is only in the case of an appeal that an application for adjournment must be made before the commencement of the hearing even under the section as amended 43-A. A complainant can apply for transfer even in a cognizable case.—A complainant even in a cognizable case is entitled to apply for transfer under section 526, but his rights are subordinate to those of the Crown, and in the case of conflict between the two, the right of the latter must prevail, 6 Lah. 541.

49. Accused is entitled to have a reasonable time to apply to the High Court for transfer.—Under the old section it was doubtful whether the Court was bound to adjourn after an application for transfer was made under s. 526, but now it is made clear that the Court shall adjourn the case or postpone the appeal on an application for adjournment under sub-sec. (8). (See preliminary note to this section and the Report of the Select Committee, supra) It is only under sub-sec. (8), that the Sessions Court may under circumstances refuse an adjournment. The words "The Court shall exercise the power of postponement, etc." are no doubt obligatory, 15 C. 435; but the obligation is not necessarily and under all circumstances to grant a postponement, but only to give the party a reasonable time for obtaining the orders of the High Court. The postponement is no part of the essence of the obligation. By itself a postponement might be either useless, if it were far too short a time, or superfluous, if there was sufficient time without any postponement. The essence of the obligation is that the party should have a reasonable time to move the High Court and obtain its orders. If he has such reasonable time when the application is made, there is no obligation to grant any further time. Also the Sessions Judge is not wrong in refusing to adjourn a case on the strength of a telegram said to have been received by accused's vakil, to the effect the High Court had transferred the case, 19 M. 375; contra, see Note 54 below. In Weir II, 685 an adjournment for six days was held to be not a reasonable time to allow for making an application to the High Court and obtaining an order thereon. The effect of the Rulings in 15 C. 435, 19 M. 375 and 29 C. 211 appears to be that the party, after he has notified to the Lower Court his intention to apply for a transfer, is entitled to have a reasonable time before the accused is called on for his defence, to enable him to make the application to the High Court for transfer and this is irrespective of the fact, that he might have notified to the Lower Court at an earlier date and made his application to the High Court before. But the Lower Court is not bound to make a special order of adjournment for the sole purpose of enabling the accused to make the application for transfer, if he has a sufficient opportunity of so doing between the time when he notifies his intention and the time he is called on to enter on his defence, 6 C. W. N. 715. Where an appellant applied at the earliest possible moment for an adjournment to enable him to move the High Court for a transfer of his appeal but the Magistrate disregarded the same and dismissed his appeal held the refusal of an adjournment was most unreasonable and following 19 M. 375, the appellate order was set aside, 16 Cr. L. J. 244 (M). Where an application under sub-sec. (8) was made and refused, but the Judge after examining some prosecution witnesses adjourned the case to a subsequent date, held that the proceedings subsequent to the refusal were not bad, inasmuch as the accused had ample opportunity to move the High Court between the date of their application and the date of their being called on to enter on their defence. The Magistrate can therefore, well examine the complainant's witnesses even after a notification has been made under sub-sec. (8) 6 C. W. N. 715.

50. Magistrate ought to act on telegram informing him of issue of rule for transfer.—Bian.—After framing charges against the accused the accused applied to the Magistrate to postpone the proceedings in order to enable them to move the High Court to transfer the case. The Magistrate not only refused the application but cancelled their bail and ordered them to be kept in confinement. Against this order a rule was granted by the High Court and the Magistrate was shown the telegram to that effect by the mukhtyar of the accused who asked for postponement. The Magistrate refused the application, examined another witness and committed the accused though he was not present. Held, that it was most injudicious of the Magistrate to proceed with the case after he had been credibly informed that a rule was issued by the High Court, and his precipitate action indicated his bias against the accused, therefore the case should be transferred to some other Magistrate, 5 C. W. N. 110, and that the commitment made should be quashed. If the Court entertained any reasonable doubt as to the genuineness of the telegram, it could easily satisfy itself by telegraphing to the Registrar of the High Court or the Court may ask the pleader making the application to verify the telegram and satisfy the Court as to whether the vakil in the High Court was acting under instructions in the case. See also 2 C. W. N. 436; 11 C. W. N. 507; 18 C. W. N. 1031 = 13 Cr. L. J. 768. But in Ratanlal 46, the High Court ordered the transfer of a case on the 26th January, 1871, and on the 27th a telegram was shown to the Magistrate, and he adjourned the further proceedings till the 30th, to allow the order of the High Court to reach him. The order was despatched on the 27th, but reached the Magistrate only on the 31st January. On the 30th the Magistrate disposed of the case by convicting the accused. Held, that though the Magistrate did not act discreetly in not waiting sufficiently for the order of the High Court there was no illegality in his proceedings. See also 19 M. 375; 15 C. 435. Where, upon the High Court having issued a rule staying further proceedings, the petitioner sent a telegram which was laid before the trying Magistrate, but the petitioner having failed to appear on the date previously fixed, the Magistrate issued a warrant upon the petitioner. Held, that the sending of the telegram did not in any way absolve the obligation of the petitioner to appear before the Court on the date fixed, and the issue of the warrant upon the petitioner was no ground for transfer of the case, 17 C. W. N. 536 = 14 Cr. L. J. 382.

51. Proceedings after application for adjournment whether void—As it is the duty of a Magistrate to grant an adjournment when an application is made to him under this section, and as he has no power to proceed with the hearing of the case until a reasonable postponement has been granted, all the subsequent proceedings after his refusal are unwarranted by law and ought to be set aside, 8 C. W. N. 77; 1 S. L. R. 35 = 9 Cr. L. J. 274; 3 S. L. R. 155 = 10 Cr. L. J. 570; 24 P. L. R. 1908 = 1 Cr. L. J. 109; 42 P. W. R. 1912 = 25 P. L. R. 1912 = 13 Cr. L. J. 746. Where a Magistrate in spite of an application under sub-sec. (8) proceeded with the case and committed the accused to the Court of Session, the commitment was quashed, as the Magistrate disregarded the express direction contained in sub-sec. (8) of this section, Weir II, 685; 21 M. L. J. 755 = 12 Cr. L. J. 407. The Oudh Chief Court in 15 Cr. L. J. 507 set aside a conviction and directed a re-trial before another Magistrate where the trial Judge disregarded the application of the accused under sub-sec. (8) and tried and convicted the accused. In 16 Cr. L. J. 24 (M) when an appeal was heard and dismissed without giving the applicant an opportunity to move for a transfer the dismissal was set aside. / But see 31 C. 715 where it was held, disapproving of 15 C. 435, 29 C. 311 and 6 C. W. N. 717 on this point, that a mere refusal to grant an adjournment, does not render subsequent proceedings necessarily illegal. Otherwise, it would be in the power of every accused person to delay and thereby possibly to defeat justice, by making an application, no matter how frivolous, groundless or illusory it might be. See also 35 M. 701 where the Judges said that they should find much difficulty in agreeing with 29 C. 311 if it were necessary to decide the question. It is at least competent to the Magistrate to proceed with the trial up to the point at which the accused would be called upon for their defence, 6 C. W. N. 717, where a conviction was sought to be set aside on the ground of non-compliance with sub-sec. (8), it was held that subsequent proceedings were not void, if the application was not bona fide, the accused having had sufficient time to move the High Court, if he cared to, without the adjournment applied for. But see now sub-sec. (8) as amended, and it is now compulsory to adjourn on an application under that section. See Note 49, supra.

52. Impropriety of application for stay of proceedings on pretence of moving High Court for transfer.—In 3 C. W. N. 756, an application was made on the 23rd May to the trying Magistrate to stay proceedings on the ground that the petitioner was about to apply to the High Court to transfer his case to another Magistrate. The proceedings were accordingly stayed, and an application was made to the High Court on the 12th June, but it contained no reference to the application of transfer, nor was the Court asked to transfer the case to another Magistrate. Where legal advisers of the accused obtained an order from the Magistrate staying proceedings which otherwise they could never have obtained, except on misrepresentation, the High Court strongly condemned such proceedings. An application for transfer should be made with due diligence or at the earliest possible moment 8 C. W. N. 77; 19 M. 375; 31 C. 715; 8 C. W. N. 910.

53. Magistrate not bound to adjourn, pending application for transfer to superior Magistrate.—There is no duty cast on a Magistrate to adjourn a case because an application is being made to a superior Magistrate for transfer. That duty is confined to cases where the application is to be to the High Court, (1913) M. W. N. 1121 = 13 Cr. L. J. 823.

- * 526-A. (1) Where any person subject to the Naval Discipline Act or to the Army Act or to the Air Force Act is accused of any offence such as is referred to in proviso (a) to section 41 of the Army Act, the Advocate-General shall, if so instructed by the competent authority, apply to the High Court for the committal or transfer of the case to that High Court and thereupon the High Court shall order that the case be committed for trial to or be transferred to itself and shall thereafter proceed to try the case by jury

527. (1) The Governor General in Council may by Notification in the Gazette of India direct the transfer of any particular criminal case or appeal from one High Court to another High Court or from any Criminal Court subordinate to one High Court to any other Criminal Court of equal or superior jurisdiction subordinate to another High Court whenever it appears to him that such transfer will promote the ends of justice or tend to the general convenience of parties or witnesses

(2) The Court to which such case or appeal is transferred shall deal with the same as if it had been originally instituted in or presented to such Court

Notes—1 For the power of the Government to specify any Court for the trial of a public servant irrespective of jurisdiction see s. 197 (2) and Notes 25 and 26 at p 560 and see s 178 for power of Local Government to order cases to be tried in different Sessions divisions

2 Refusal of the Governor General under this section, no violation of the principles of natural justice—In a criminal case pending before the High Court at Bombay certain comments were made in the Bombay local press against the prisoners at the bar and consequently an application was made to the Governor General for the transfer of the case to some other High Court but which application was refused and the accused were tried with a special jury before the High Court at Bombay Held by the Privy Council that such refusal of the Governor General who had the advantage of being in the country and judging of the real state of public feeling did not constitute any violation of the principles of natural justice to enable the Privy Council to entertain a petition for special leave to appeal. 28 Bom L R = 49 M L J 834

Notes.—1. See s. 192 for powers of a District Magistrate, etc., to transfer cases which he has taken cognizance of, s. 346 (2) for power to transfer cases referred to him, s. 476 (2) for power of a Magistrate of the first class to transfer cases sent to him by civil, etc., Courts, under sub-sec. (1), and s. 407, for transfer of appeals.

2. Concurrent jurisdiction of the District and Sub-Divisional Magistrates.—Where a District Magistrate cancelling the order of a Sub-Divisional Magistrate which directed the transfer of a case, from the file of one Sub-Magistrate, to that of another Sub-Magistrate, directed its re-transfer, held, that the action of the District Magistrate in entertaining virtually an appeal against an order of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate passed under this section, was clearly illegal. In the matter of a transfer under this section, the District and Sub-Divisional Magistrates have co-ordinate authority over Magistrates subordinate to the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, and the order passed by the District Magistrate thought proper he can act under ss. 435 and 436 in a case from the file of the Magistrate to another Magistrate, 26 M. 130; 13 C. 1. The reasons which induced the Sub-Magistrate to transfer the case, are in his opinion insufficient. Contra, see 14 M. 399. A Magistrate who is subordinate to a Sub-Divisional Magistrate is also subordinate within the meaning of this section, to the District Magistrate, 14 M. 399. But see 40 M. 791 where 14 M. 399 is followed and 26 M. 130 is dissented from.

2-A. Additional Chief Presidency Magistrate subordinate to the Chief Presidency Magistrate.—In 28 C. W. N. 903 it is held that the Additional Chief Presidency Magistrate is subordinate to the Chief Presidency Magistrate and that the latter had power under s. 528 to make the order which he did withdrawing the case to his file.

3. To what proceedings, section applies.—The provisions of this section are applicable to cases under ss. 107, 110, 117, 133, 144, 145, 147 and 483 — 8 C. 831; 22 C. 893; 23 C. 709; 5 C. W. N. 685; 23 P. R. 1902; 26 M. 188, 31 C. 350; 35 C. 243, 24 A. 151; 1 B. L. R. 2 = 9 Cr. L. J. 246 and 37 C. 91 at p. 100. Under the very general terms of sub-sec. (1) a District Magistrate has jurisdiction to transfer to his own Court proceedings under s. 483 pending before a Magistrate subordinate to him, 5 P. R. 1905. Also a proceeding under s. 145 is a criminal case and a District Magistrate has power to transfer it both under this section and s. 192 (1). Even if he had no power, s. 529 (f) will cure the defect, 2 C. L. J. 614 = 3 Cr. L. J. 83; where 25 B. 179 is disapproved of and see Notes 163 to 165 at p. 306 and Note 3 at p. 485.

Complaint may be transferred.—The term 'case' includes a proceeding upon a complaint as soon as the complaint has been received by the Magistrate who takes the cognizance of the offence complained of. A person who apprehends that a complaint made against him will not be impartially tested by the Magistrate is entitled to have the case transferred even before the Magistrate decides to issue process, 7 N. L. R. 97 = 12 Cr. L. J. 437.

4. Transfer must be to Magistrate competent to inquire into or try the case.—A District Magistrate is not competent to transfer a case under s. 107 to a Magistrate of the second class who has no jurisdiction to hear the case, 37 A. 20, see Note 127 at p. 212. A District Magistrate cannot transfer a case to a Magistrate who is gazetted to the Office of the Chairman of a Municipal Board and takes charge of that office as he is thereby divested of his territorial jurisdiction as Magistrate and he is no longer subordinate to the District Magistrate, 36 A. 513.

5. Power to call for proceedings at any stage—Limitations on power of transfer.—A District Magistrate has authority to call up to his own Court any criminal case without limitation as to the stage of proceeding at which it may be called. If the District Magistrate having, in the exercise of his authority, withdrawn any case, finds that it did not come within the jurisdiction of his magistracy, he would not merely be competent, but bound to refuse to proceed further with the case, 24 W. R. 4.

(i) When Sessions Court directs further inquiry by particular Magistrate, District Magistrate has no power to transfer.—Where a Sessions Judge remands a case dismissed under s. 203 by a Deputy Magistrate and directs him to hold further inquiry, the case cannot after remand be transferred by the District Magistrate from the file of the Deputy Magistrate, 11 C. W. N. 316 = 3 Cr. L. J. 112. See also 8 C. L. J. 241 = 3 Cr. L. J. 306.

(ii) Can case sent up under s. 349 be transferred?—A Taluk Magistrate in convicting the accused submitted the records and forwarded the accused to the Head Assistant Magistrate for enhancement of sentence, but the District Magistrate at that stage transferred the case to the Joint Magistrate. Held that the transfer by the District Magistrate was not irregular, Weir II, 690. In 38 B. 719 it was held that a Sub-Divisional Magistrate to whom a case is sent under s. 349 has no power to transfer it. See Note 9 (a) at p. 899.

(iii) Section has no application to case disposed of—When a case has been disposed of by a competent authority it could not be withdrawn by the District Magistrate, to his own file under s. 528, 47 C. W. N. 451 = 17 C. L. J. 608 = 14 Cr. L. J. 123.

(iv) Magistrate to whom case is transferred cannot re-transfer it—Where a District Magistrate has referred a case for trial to a Sub-Divisional Magistrate, the latter has no power to transfer it, 36 A. 166; 12 A. L. J. 277 = 15 Cr. L. J. 357.

6. Highly inexpedient to transfer a case at a late stage—Where a number of witnesses had been examined in a case, and the case was at a stage, when apparently all that remained to be done was for the Magistrate either to commit or discharge the accused, held, that a transfer at that stage could not be made, Weir II, 691. It is highly inexpedient to transfer a case after the prosecution has closed and the defence has begun without giving notice to the complainant, or recording any reason for such transfer.

7. Order of transfer had when opinion unfavourable to prosecution is expressed—Where a District Magistrate transferred a case to another Magistrate, after the Magistrate, before whom it was, had taken the evidence for the prosecution and had expressed an opinion that the evidence for the prosecution was not sufficient to support the charge the High Court set aside the order of transfer, remarking that the District Magistrate did not exercise proper discretion in this matter and replaced the case on the file of the original Magistrate, 5 B. L. R. Appx. XLY = 14 W. E. 12. The Police sent up some only of several persons charged with rioting and these were tried and convicted. On the complainant applying for process against the others the trying Magistrate refused process, but the District Magistrate transferred the case to his own file and issued warrants against these. It was contended that after the trying Magistrate refused process, there was no case pending in respect of which any order of transfer could be made. Held following 6 C. W. N. 239, that the order of the Deputy Magistrate refusing to issue warrants against persons not sent up by the Police, did not finally dispose of the case, so as to remove it from his file altogether, but it was still a pending case and even if it be not considered still pending, the District Magistrate could take cognizance of it afresh under s. 190 6 C. W. N. 438. See Note 7 at p. 471 and Notes 4—6 at pp. 580-581.

8. Good reasons to be recorded for transfer—The powers conferred by this section as regards a District Magistrate's authority to withdraw cases from Subordinate Magistrates are very wide and undefined the section merely requiring the Magistrate making in order of transfer to record his reasons, but it is not intended that the power should be exercised without due discretion and really good reasons when the interests of justice demand a transfer, 13 P. R. 1699, 28 A. 421, 34 C. 918; Ratanlal 590. In a case against some policemen before a Deputy Magistrate the Deputy Magistrate was about to frame charges, when the District Magistrate withdrew the case to his file and dismissed it, because he thought the Police were protected by their warrants. Held as no grounds existed for taking the case away from the Deputy Magistrate, it ought to have been left with him to be disposed of and it was for the Deputy Magistrate to determine whether the Police were protected by the warrants or not 30 C. 693. Where a District Magistrate made an order of transfer without any reason and without giving notice to the opposite party held, that he did not exercise his discretion in a reasonable and proper manner, and the High Court, in revision, set aside his order, Weir II, 686; 18 Cr. L. J. 526 (M).

(i) Transfer—Magistrate collecting evidence in local investigation—In a case arising out of disputed boundaries of land, the accused were charged with rioting, mischief, trespass and theft. In the course of his investigation the trying Magistrate held a local inquiry extending over five days, during which he made a number of notes and appeared to have made a very careful and conscientious local investigation of the locality such as would properly be made by a person whose duty it was to get at the facts with a view to lay the same before some tribunal, and during such investigation it appeared that he acquired a large amount of information with reference to the occurrence on which he had to arrive at a judicial determination, but which by reason of the way in which it was acquired, he could not properly or legally consider, in arriving at an ultimate decision of the case. It was also suggested that the notes so made should be put on the record and the Magistrate tender himself, while trying the case as witness to be cross-examined by either the prosecution or the defence. Held that such a course could not be allowed, and that the Magistrate ought not to try the case, but that it must be transferred to some other first-class Magistrate for disposal, 21 C. 920. See 20 W. R. 76. See also Notes 19-26 to S 556.

(ii) Personal allegations against Magistrates must be strictly proved.—When personal allegations are made against a trying Magistrate in support of an application to transfer a case to another Court, a District Magistrate should not interfere unless such allegations are clearly established, Ratanlal 590, and the Magistrate afforded an opportunity to explain, 5 Bom. L. R. 23.

9. Effect of omission to record reasons.—A complaint originally filed before a Deputy Magistrate was transferred to the Court of the District Magistrate. No notice was served on the complainant of the transfer and no reasons were stated for such transfer. The District Magistrate called for a private report from the accused, who was a Sub-Inspector of Police. Held, (i) that by virtue of a Government Order, the District Magistrate having been directed to withdraw all cases in which complaints have been made against a Police officer, the omission to record reasons therefore, was a mere irregularity and did not vitiate the subsequent proceedings, (ii) that no notice to the complainant was necessary, (iii) the Magistrate having placed the private report on the record and acted thereupon, his action was not illegal 28 A. 421. In 34 C. 918 it was held that although under sub-sec. (3) of this section, an officer transferring cases from one Court to another ought to record his reasons for it, his omission to do so, being only an irregularity, was not a material ground for setting aside the order of transfer, followed in 9 Cr. L. J. 310 (M); 3 P. R. 1910 = 35 P. W. R. 1909 = 11 Cr. L. J. 430. The mere omission to record reasons does not invalidate the subsequent proceedings, 7 N. L. R. 97 = 12 Cr. L. J. 437. In 16 Cr. L. J. 626 (M.) the order of transfer was set aside as it did not comply with sub-sec. (3).

10. Power of transfer should be exercised with discretion - Notice to opposite party.—A Magistrate of a district should exercise the powers conferred on him by this section only when it is absolutely necessary for the interests of justice that he should do so, and when one of the parties to a case applies to have it withdrawn from the Magistrate inquiring into or trying it and referred to another Magistrate, the Magistrate should give the other party notice of such application and an opportunity of showing cause why such application should not be granted, 3 A. 749, 8 C. 393 = 10 C. L. R. 239. He is not justified in transferring a case on the ground that the complainant is a man of importance at the place where the case was, before transfer, Ratanlal 474.

11. Notice of transfer must be given to parties.—When a case is transferred to another Magistrate notice of transfer should be given to the complainant as well as the accused, 3 C. W. N. 285; 3 A. 749; 22 B. 549, 8 C. 393 = 10 C. L. R. 239, 1897 U. B. R. 392; 7 C. W. N. 114; 23 P. R. 1902; 14 C. P. L. R. 190. Where a case was transferred without notice to the opposite party for the reason that the grounds of the application were directed against the Magistrate, and he had been served with a notice, held, that although this section under which the order was made does not provide for the giving of notice to the opposite party, on the general principle that when an application for transfer is made by one party, notice should be given to the party affected before an order of transfer is made and for this reason, the order was set aside, 7 C. W. N. 114; 5 S. L. R. 190 = 13 Cr. L. J. 32. But if the opposite party has acquiesced in the order he cannot be heard to complain 7 N. L. R. 97 = 12 Cr. L. J. 437; 21 Bom. L. R. 276; 29 M. L. J. 714.

Although it is desirable that notice should be given to the accused person before a case is transferred under s. 528, yet omission to give such notice is a mere irregularity and is not a sufficient ground for setting aside the order of transfer 2 Pat. 333. See also 6 Lah. 841.

12. Order of transfer without notice to accused, illegal.—Order of transfer ought not to be made ex-parte, i.e., on representations of complainant only, but notice should be given to accused before making a final order, as it might operate to the prejudice of the accused, Ratanlal 653, 474, 460 and 877. When all the prosecution witnesses have been examined it is only right that notice should be given to the accused before a transfer is ordered and an order made without transfer will be set aside, 6 M. L. T. 14 = 9 Cr. L. J. 407; Weir II, 636. See also 23 P. R. 1902. In a case of theft a Magistrate released the accused on bail. Thereupon the District Magistrate transferred the case to another Magistrate on the ground that the reasons given in the Magistrate's order did not justify the release, and that the Magistrate's action showed a tendency to treat the accused with undue leniency. Held that the order of transfer was illegal as it was passed apparently ex proprio moto and certainly without any notice being given to the accused 22 B. 549; also 1 Bom. L. R. 367. See the matter discussed in 6 Bom. L. R. 336. Where no order of transfer was passed as required by this section and a letter from the District Magistrate to the Superintendent of Police was the only intimation of transfer and no notice was given to the accused of the proposed transfer held, that the transfer was illegal, Weir II, 631.

13. Cases where notice held unnecessary.—Where the delay in the disposal of a case which was a very simple one, was extraordinary, an order of transfer made under this section was held not bad, even though no notice was given to the accused to show cause against the making of the order, Weir II, 692; 8 M. L. T. 222 = 11 Cr. L. J. 533. Again, notice to the other side was held not necessary, when the order for transfer was in effect made at the request of the Magistrate and not on the application of a party, such a case being treated as an exception to the general rule, than an order should not be made under this section, without notice to the other side, 24 M. 317. Also, where a District Magistrate had withdrawn a case without notice, and no further proceedings had been taken by him, the High Court refused to interfere in revision, as it was still open to the District Magistrate to consider any objection made to him, a course calculated to ensure an early decision of the matters in dispute to the convenience of the parties and in the interests of justice, 20 C. 313. No notice is necessary where a District Magistrate suo motu transfers or withdraws a case on administrative grounds, 3 P. R. 1910 = 33 P. W. R. 1909 = 11 Cr. L. J. 150.

14. Power to transfer cases from the file of village headmen in Madras.—Sub-sec. (6) supersedes the decision in 13 M. 94, where it was held that a Village Munsiff not being Magistrate under this Code, a Joint Magistrate has no powers under this section to withdraw a case from his file and transfer it for disposal to a second-class Magistrate. But the expression "head of a village, under Madras Regulation IV of 1821," means the Village Magistrate acting under that regulation, and therefore the power of transfer conferred by sub-sec. (4) applies only to cases of petty theft, etc., covered by that regulation and the district authorities have no jurisdiction to transfer a complaint of insult or using abusive language preferred to a village headman under Regulation XI of 1816 26 M. 394. The High Court alone has the power under s. 29 of its Letters Patent to transfer a case under this regulation from the file of a Village Magistrate to that of any other Magistrate Cf 10 Bom. L. R. 630 = 8 Cr. L. J. 141 (Bombay Village Police Patel).

15. Power of a District Magistrate to transfer to an Additional District Magistrate.—S. 12 does not make an Additional District Magistrate appointed under s. 10 (2) subordinate to the District Magistrate, who therefore, has no power under this section to transfer cases to the former, 34 C. 318.

16. District Magistrate specially authorized.—In Bengal (Calcutta Gazette, 1873, p. 63) and Assam (Man, p. 184) District Magistrates have been specially authorized to act under sub-sec. (2) of this section. So also in the United Provinces (N IV P Gazette, 1873 p. 3), in the Punjab (Gazette, 1873, p. 75, Gazette, 1883, p. 53) and in British Burma (Gazette, 1873, Pt. II, p. 5).

17. Proceedings of Magistrate not empowered to transfer.—Where a Magistrate transfers erroneously and in good faith when he is not so empowered his proceedings are not void—s. 529, cl. (f), 33 C. 243. If any Magistrate who is not empowered by law to withdraw a case and try it, does so erroneously in good faith, his proceedings shall not be set aside merely on the ground of his not being so empowered—s. 529, cl. (f).

18. On transfer of case, proceedings need not be re-commenced.—S. 350 applies to all cases transferred from the file of one Magistrate to another. A Magistrate may therefore act upon the evidence already recorded and proceedings need not be re-commenced. See Note 3 at p. 901. An order of commitment for trial by the Magistrate to whose Court the case has been transferred on the evidence recorded by the Magistrate from whose Court the case was transferred should not be interfered with, 36 A. 215.

19. Magistrate to whom case is transferred must proceed from the stage at which the proceedings were.—(1) Not entitled to dismiss under s. 203.—After he has withdrawn a case the Magistrate is bound to proceed from the stage at which the proceedings were. He cannot summarily dismiss the complaint under s. 203, when process has been issued for the attendance of the accused after examination of the complainant, 10 B. L. R. Appx. XXIX = 19 W. R. 28. See Note 12 at p. 903 (11) cannot cancel charge already framed—See Note 13-A at p. 903.

20. After transferring case, District Magistrate cannot take part in it.—When a case has been once made over by a District Magistrate to a Subordinate Magistrate for trial, he has no jurisdiction to do anything more in the matter so long as transfer to the Sub-Magistrate is in existence. He may withdraw the case from the file of the Sub-Magistrate if he thinks fit, 3 B. L. R. Appx. CLII = 12 W. R. 53; also 16 W. R. 40 = 7 B. L. R. 513. On a case being transferred to a Subordinate Magistrate, the District Magistrate has no power to dismiss it, nor to grant sanction for prosecution of complainant 3 C. W. N. 490, nor to issue proceedings for the apprehension of the absconding accused 27 C. 979. When once a District Magistrate makes over a case for disposal to a Subordinate Magistrate, it is out of his hands and he is not competent to pass any order relating to it other than an order such as may be made by him under (Revision) Chapter XXII. Therefore it is not competent to him in such a case to direct the trial of certain persons complained against 30 G. 449 Nor can he take proceedings under s. 476 see Note 23 at p. 1146 but he may re transfer the case to his own file 9 Cr. L. J. 310 (M) See Note 6 at p. 486 Note 7 at p. 471 Notes 63-64 at pp. 508-509

21 Limitations to District Magistrate's power of interference with cases pending before Subordinate Magistracy—Where upon a Police report cognizance was taken of an offence and the case made over to a Subordinate Magistrate who discharged the only person who was apprehended and brought to trial out of several accused and the District Magistrate upon the representation of the District Superintendent of Police issued warrants against the other persons so that they might be tried it was held that the warrants were issued without jurisdiction for as long as the case connected with that offence remained with the Subordinate Magistrate, no other Magistrate was competent to deal with it. The District Magistrate if he thought fit to issue the warrants himself ought to have withdrawn the case from the Magistrate 27 G. 879 In another case the Police sent up a charge-sheet against certain persons and they were convicted by a Deputy Magistrate. An application for process against others in a referred charge-sheet was refused by the trying Magistrate as unnecessary Held that a subsequent order by the Joint Magistrate for the issue of process against these persons was without jurisdiction. When no reservation is made in the order transferring a case to another Magistrate it should be concluded that the whole case had been made over 32 G. 783 A Police Sub-Inspector filed a complaint before a Sub-Divisional Magistrate of an offence under s. 397 I P C. The facts also disclosed an offence under s. 4 (b) of the Explosives Act VI of 1908 but for want of Government sanction under s. 7 of that Act the Magistrate could not take cognizance of the offence. Subsequently after obtaining sanction the Police Superintendent filed a complaint before the Additional District Magistrate held the latter had jurisdiction to take cognizance of the offence and issue process in spite of the fact that he did not withdraw the original case to his own file and the proceedings of the District Magistrate cannot be set aside unless they had occasioned a failure of justice having regard to ss 529 (e) 530 (b) and 531 39 G. 119 See Note 7 at p. 471 Note 6 at p. 486 Notes 4 and 5 at pp. 580-581

22 Magistrates not to act on so-called affidavits of accused persons.—When an accused person applies for the transfer of the case pending against him to some other Court supporting the application by his own affidavit he cannot or at least ought not to be prosecuted under s. 193 I P C. in respect of statements made therein 23 A. 331, 19 A. 200 followed See s. 342 (4) and Note 47 to s. 526

23 Revision.—The High Court cannot revise an order made by the District Magistrate dismissing an application under s. 528 1 Rang 632

* CHAPTER XLIV-A

SUPPLEMENTARY PROVISIONS RELATING TO EUROPEAN AND INDIAN BRITISH SUBJECTS AND OTHERS

528-A. (1) Where in any case to which the provisions of Chapter XXXIII do not apply any person claims to be dealt with as an European or Indian British subject or where any person claims to be dealt with as an European (other than an European British subject) or an American he shall state the grounds of such claim to the Magistrate before whom he is brought for the purpose of the inquiry or trial and such Magistrate shall inquire into the truth of such statement and allow the person making it a reasonable time within

Procedure of claim of a person to be dealt with as European or Indian British subject or as European or American which to prove that it is true and shall then decide whether he is or is not an European British subject or an Indian British subject or an European or an American as the case may be, and shall deal with him accordingly

(2) When any such claim is rejected by the Magistrate and the person by whom it was made is committed by the Magistrate for trial before the Court of Session and such person repeats the claim before such Court such Court shall after such further inquiry, if any, as it thinks fit decide the claim and shall deal with such person accordingly

(3) When any Court before which any person is tried rejects any such claim as aforesaid the decision shall form a ground of appeal from the sentence or order passed in such trial

Note.—This section corresponds to the old s 458 with certain modifications

Preliminary Note—The scope of ss 528-A and 528-B is lucidly interpreted in a judgment of MUKERJI J, in 51 C. 980 Sub-sec. (1) of s 528 A applies to all cases before all Magistrates either in Presidency towns or in the mofussil to which the special provisions of Chapter XXVIII do not apply Sub-sec. (2) contemplates such cases only in which the Magistrate commits the claimant to trial to the Court of Session after rejection of the claim.

A Court of Session is distinct from the High Court in the exercise of its ordinary original criminal jurisdiction and s 528 B relates to any case to which s. 528-A (1) is applicable, i.e., to all cases before all Magistrates either in Presidency towns or in the mofussil to which the special provisions of Chapter XXVIII do not apply.

A claim before the Magistrate to be dealt with under the procedure of Chapter XXVIII or as an Indian under s 528-A is quite distinct from the claim before the High Court or the Court of Session for trial by majority of Indian jurors under s 275 of the Code.

Where a Presidency Magistrate rejects the claim and proceeds to trial the decision in the matter is a ground of appeal to the High Court. If, however, after such rejection he commits the case the claim cannot be repleaded in the High Court exercising original criminal jurisdiction nor can a claim be made in such cases under s. 275 but the Magistrate's decision could be subject to the revisional powers of the High Court.

When no claim is put forward before a Mofussil or Presidency Magistrate s 528-B bars its assertion thereafter.

Note.—Omission to make a claim under s. 528-A does not affect the question of appeal under s. 449 (1) (c).—The omission to make a claim under s. 528-A does not affect the question of appeal under s. 449 (1) (c) if the conditions under ss 443 (1) (A) and 443 (1) (B) exist, and it is not necessary to show that a claim was made before and found by the Presidency Magistrate. Ss. 528 A and 528-B have no application to s. 449. There is no provision in the Code for an enquiry by a Presidency Magistrate or on a trial in the High Court to consider the question whether a case should be tried under Chapter XXVIII. The proper time to raise such a question is on an application for leave to appeal under s. 449 (1) (c). 52 C. 347.

Note.—1. Opportunity should be given to accused to plead status.—An accused person ought to have an opportunity of pleading that he is an European British subject. The mere statement of a prisoner that he is an European British subject made before the Court after trial has been completed cannot be acted upon as the Court is functus officio 5 W. R. 53. If the accused gives proof or produces documents which although not amounting to full legal proof of his status satisfy the Court that he is really an European British subject the Magistrate without putting the prisoner fully to complete his proof by strict legal evidence adopt the procedure. In re Jey, Taylor and Bell, 219 The plea must be substantiated by ample evidence, if the Court is not otherwise satisfied re Thomas Turnbull 6 W. H. C. R. 7, Grant 12 E. 381.

2. Magistrate must decide status of accused before proceeding with trial.—B, who was charged before a competent Magistrate claimed to be dealt with as an European British subject. He did not state the grounds of such claim. The Magistrate, without deciding whether B was or was not an European British subject, proceeded with the case and dealt with him as if he was not an European British subject and sentenced him to rigorous imprisonment and fine. On remand from the High Court, the Magistrate decided that B was an European British subject. Held, that the trial of B was void for want of jurisdiction, and the High Court could not proceed with B's appeal on the merits with a view in the event of its deciding that the offence of which B was charged had been established to the reduction of the sentence passed upon him by the Magistrate to one which he was competent to pass under s. 446 Berrill 4 A. 141.

3. Appeal.—An appeal does not lie separately against a decision that an accused person is not an European British subject but it can be made a ground of appeal if he is convicted.

4. Is re-trial necessary where claim as to status wrongly disallowed?—In Berrill 4 A. 141, where the Magistrate's finding that the accused was not an European British subject was held to be erroneous the conviction was quashed and proceedings de novo were ordered. In George Powell 21 A. 397 the case in 4 A. 141 was distinguished on the ground that in that case the sentence exceeded the powers of a District Magistrate in the case of European British subjects and it was held that a re-trial would not be necessary when the sentence was not beyond the competency of the trial Magistrate in the case of European British subjects.

5. Accused not entitled to trial by jury, unless he specifically claims it.—An accused person pleaded before a District Magistrate that he was an European British subject but did not claim to be tried by jury under s. 451. The Magistrate found against the plea and tried and convicted him under his ordinary powers.

On appeal the Sessions Judge found that he was an European British subject and directed a new trial by jury. Held that the order of the Sessions Judge was wrong as the accused had not claimed to be tried by jury and as the sentence passed was one which the District Magistrate was competent to pass on an European British subject the Sessions Judge was directed to hear the appeal on the merits. George Powell 27 A. 397, 5 P. R. 1885. See Note 3 to s. 454.

528-B. If in any such case an European or Indian British subject or an European (other than an European British subject) or an American does not claim to be dealt with as such by the Magistrate before whom he is tried or by whom he is committed or if when such claim has been made before and rejected by the committing Magistrate it is not repeated before the Court to which such person is committed he shall be held to have relinquished his right to be dealt with as an European British subject or an Indian British subject or an European or an American as the case may be and shall not assert it in any subsequent stage of the case.

Note.—This is the old s. 454 with certain modifications.

1. Accused is bound to make a claim under this section.—Failure to make a claim amounts to a relinquishment. Alexander Ruffe 6 P. R. 1912 = 26 P. W. R. 1912 = 13 Cr. L. J. 197. An European British subject can under s. 454 relinquish his rights to be dealt with as such. Where the Magistrate explained to the accused his rights under ss. 447 and 450 and then asked him if he claimed to be dealt with as such and the accused stated he did not claim the rights held that he had relinquished the rights. Barindra 37 C. 467 at pp. 483—486 and p. 518. See Note 2.

(i) Accused loses right of appeal to High Court.—The accused an European British subject was tried before the City Magistrate of Karachi and convicted of criminal breach of trust under s. 409 I. P. C. and sentenced to six months simple imprisonment. At the trial he waived his right to be tried as an European British subject held that the accused was not subject to the revisional jurisdiction of the Bombay High Court, not having been tried under the special procedure laid down for the trial of European British subjects and that the Sadar Court in Sindh which under Bombay Act XII of 1886 was the Highest Court of Appeal in all civil and criminal matters in Sindh had the revisional powers of a High Court in the present case by virtue of the latter part of s. 4 cl. (f) of the Code. Grant 12 B. 561. The jurisdiction of a non Presidency High Court is not ousted unless and until the accused has definitely claimed to be tried as an European British subject. 7 N. L. R. 93 = 12 Cr. L. J. 438. Until such claim has been made and allowed they remain liable to the jurisdiction of the High Court of the Province for the purposes of revision of order made against them. (E v Daris Nagpuri Cr. Rev. 260 of 1907). See also 17 P. R. 1878.

Even a second-class Magistrate has jurisdiction.—When an accused person has relinquished his privilege to be dealt with as an European British subject he loses all the benefit of the special procedure laid down in this Chapter. Bartlett 16 M. 308.

2. Waiver of privilege must be absolute—effect of such waiver.—The waiver of privilege must be an absolute giving up of all the right with reference to this Chapter which an European British subject has and the word dealt with as such before the Magistrate means everything contained in the Chapter—that is to say the tribunal having the cognizance of the case the procedure and also the punishment to which the accused would be liable. There can be no waiver by an accused person of an objection to the jurisdiction which is not personal to himself. No person can by waiver or consent enable a Magistrate or a Judge to try a case which he is disqualified to try by some circumstance not personal to the accused. Queros 6 C. 83 at p. 87 = 6 C. L. R. 463. Where an European British subject waives his right to be dealt with as such by the Magistrate before whom he is tried he thereby loses all the benefits of the special procedure provided for him under this Chapter including the right to have the proceeding in his case reviewed by a Presidency High Court if another Court exercises the highest revisional jurisdiction under the Code in cases other than those against European British subjects in the place where he is tried. Grant 12 B. 561, Aulty 7 N. L. R. 93 = 12 Cr. L. J. 438.

3. Waiver may be revoked.—In Sterling's case 1 P. R. 1908 = 4 P. W. R. 1908 = 136 P. L. R. 1908 = 7 Cr. L. J. 274 the Punjab Chief Court, held that the waiver was not irrevocable and if the withdrawal of the waiver was made promptly shortly after the waiver had been made and if substantially nothing had been done in the interval on the abandonment of the privilege the withdrawal of the waiver should be allowed. 17 P. R. 1578 and 31 A. 511 referred to. See Note 3 to s. 451.

or sentence as the case may be shall not be reason of such dealing be invalid

Note.—This is the old section 455 with certain modifications.

Application of Acts concerning jurisdiction on Magistrates or Courts of Session.

528-D. (1) Unless there is something repugnant in the context all enactments made by the Governor General in Council or the Indian Legislature which confer on Magistrates or on the Court of Session jurisdiction over offences shall be deemed to apply to European British subjects although such persons are not expressly referred to therein

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize any Court to exceed the limits prescribed by this Code as to the amount of punishment which it may inflict on an European British subject or to confer jurisdiction on any Magistrate of the second or third class for the trial of such subjects.

CHAPTER XLV

OF IRREGULAR PROCEEDINGS

Notes.—1 Consent or waiver cannot cure material irregularities.—It is the duty of all Criminal Courts to follow the procedure prescribed by law — Criminal proceedings are bad unless they are conducted in the manner prescribed by law and if they are substantially bad in themselves, the defect will not be cured by any waiver or consent of the prisoner. When the irregularities are all unfavourable to the prisoner it is impossible for any Court to consider a waiver or consent as binding on him. It is the duty of Magistrates and all Criminal Courts to follow the procedure prescribed by law, and there is no law which sanctions their intentional departure from that procedure and then attempting to protect themselves against the consequences of such departure by getting the accused to say he consents to it. In the mofussil, most prisoners not properly defended, would probably assent to any irregularity which the Judge or Magistrate trying him chose to suggest. There would be an end of all procedure if such an assent were held to warrant material and important irregularities. 2 C. 23 approved in 6 C. 96. See also 12 C. W. N. 140 = 6 Cr. L. J. 434; 33 C. 674, per BEACHCROFT, J. in 19 C. W. N. 973 = 16 Cr. L. J. 811 and note 13 at p. 1000. 4 Lab. 376, 46 M. 117

2. Privy Council view of the remedying of illegalities.—See L. R. 23 I. A. 257 = 23 M. 61, Note 3 to s. 537. See Note 10 to s. 439 and Note 20 to s. 233.

Irregularities which do not vitiate proceedings.

529. If any Magistrate not empowered by law to do any of the following things, viz —

- (a) to issue a search warrant under section 98
- (b) to order, under section 150, the Police to investigate an offence,
- (c) to hold an inquest under section 176

(d) to issue process under section 186 for the apprehension of a person within the local limits of his jurisdiction who has committed an offence outside such limits

(e) to take cognizance of an offence under section 190 sub-section (1) clause (a) or clause (b)

- (f) to transfer a case under section 192
- (g) to tender a pardon under section 337 or section 338
- (h) to sell property under section 524 or section 525 or
- (i) to withdraw a case and try it himself under section 528 erroneously in good faith does that thing his proceedings shall not be set aside merely on the ground of his not being so empowered.

Notes.—1. Good faith.—"A thing shall be deemed to be done in 'good faith' where it is in fact done honestly, whether it is done negligently or not," s 3 (20) of the General Clauses Act, 1897. "Nothing is said to be done or believed in good faith which is done or believed without due care and attention," s. 52, I P C., and see also s. 76, I P C

Clause (a)

2. Illegal issue of warrant under s. 96 cannot be validated.—A warrant illegally issued under s. 96 cannot be treated as valid under s. 98 by reason of s. 537, 33 C. 1075; 11 C. W. N. 838 = 6 C. L. J. 127 = 6 Cr. L. J. 38. But see Note 16 at p. 140 and Note 6 at p. 143

Clause (b)

3. Irregular order to investigate.—Where a Magistrate after duly taking cognizance of a case under s. 200 makes an order to investigate, which is not authorized by law, such irregularity is cured under this section and does not vitiate subsequent proceedings, 32 M. 3 at p. 11. See also Note 4 at p. 340

Clause (c)

Absence of complaint—Irregularity vitiating trial.—Where an accused is sent up on a Police report for trial for an offence of having been found under suspicious circumstances between sunset and sunrise punishable under s. 122 of the Bombay City Police Act, 1902, it is permissible to the trying Magistrate to alter the charge and convict him of an offence punishable under s. 352, I P C. 28 Bom. L. R. 291.

Clause (f)

4. 'Transfer' of case—Scope of the terms.—Transfer of security cases, Chap VIII—See Notes at p. 485, Note 2, at p. 212 and Note 4 to s. 528. Where a Magistrate, having no power to transfer a case under s. 110, transfers the case erroneously and in good faith to another Magistrate, the proceeding before the latter Magistrate would not be void, as such transfer would only amount to an irregularity which could be cured under cl. (f) of this section, 33 C. 243. Transfer of proceedings under Chap XII—See Note 2 at p. 485 and Notes 163—167 at pp. 306-307. A Magistrate empowered only to transfer an inquiry or trial relating to accusation or charge of an offence, erroneously and in good faith transferred a case under s. 145 to another Magistrate by name. Held that the proceedings (of the latter Magistrate) under the transfer were not invalid merely on the ground of the Magistrate not being so empowered, 4 C. W. N. 821. A Subordinate Magistrate cannot be empowered under s. 192 (2) to transfer a case under s. 145, but if he transfers, the defect is cured by this section, 86 C. 370. There is no illegality in a Magistrate transferring a case under s. 145 to a Subordinate Magistrate and even if there is any, it would certainly be cured by clause (f) of this section, 2 C. L. J. 814 = 3 Cr. L. J. 83, where 5 C. W. N. 885 is followed. The proceedings cannot be void, Weir II, 152 and 699. See also 1910 U. B. R. I. 70 = 12 Cr. L. J. 353, Note 10 at p. 29

5. Transfer by Magistrate not empowered under s. 192 (2).—The irregularity of transferring a case when the Magistrate is not empowered under s. 192 to do so, is cured by s. 529, 36 C. 869; 36 C. 370. A Deputy Magistrate in charge of the District Magistrate's office has no power as such, after taking cognizance of a complaint to send the case under s. 202 for local investigation by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate to whom he is by law subordinate, nor after receiving the report to direct the prosecution of the complainant under s. 476 after dismissing the complaint. S. 529 (f) could only give the Sub-Divisional Magistrate jurisdiction over the case but cannot empower the Magistrate to dismiss the complaint and direct the prosecution of the complainant, 16 C. W. N. 885 = 13 Cr. L. J. 434.

6. Magistrate to whom case is transferred cannot again transfer.—See Note 3 (c) at p. 485

Clause

7. Effect of tender of pardon by District Magistrate not having local jurisdiction to inquire into the case.—This section deals with acts done by a Magistrate in no way empowered by law to do those acts, it has no reference to a Magistrate empowered otherwise under the Code to tender pardon, but not possessing jurisdiction over the particular offence. Therefore the District Magistrate of E, although he has authority to tender pardon in respect of offences inquired into in that district, has no authority to tender pardon in respect of offences inquired into in another district, 20 A. 40

vitate proceedings.

530. If any Magistrate, not being empowered by law in this behalf, does any of the following things, viz —

(a) attaches and sells property under section 88,

- (b) issues a search warrant for a letter, parcel or other thing in the Post Office, or a telegram in the Telegraph Department,
 - (c) demands security to keep the peace,
 - (d) demands security for good behaviour,
 - (e) discharges a person lawfully bound to be of good behaviour,
 - (f) cancels a bond to keep the peace,
 - (g) makes an order under section 133, as to a local nuisance,
 - (h) prohibits, under section 142, the repetition or continuance of a public nuisance,
 - (i) issues an order under section 144,
 - (j) makes an order under Chapter XII,
 - (k) takes cognizance, under section 190, sub-section (1), clause (c), of an offence,
 - (l) passes a sentence, under section 349, on proceedings recorded by another Magistrate,
 - (m) calls, under section 435, for proceedings,
 - (n) makes an order for maintenance,
 - (o) revises, under section 515, an order passed under section 514,
 - (p) tries an offender,
 - (q) tries an offender summarily,
 - (r) decides an appeal; or
- his proceedings shall be void

Clauses (c) and (d)

Notes.—1. Does transfer of case give jurisdiction to a Magistrate not empowered to demand security?—See Note 127 at p 212.

2. Magistrate is incompetent to demand security from persons outside his local jurisdiction—See Notes 23—29 at pp 160-161 and Notes 6—8 at pp 166-167

Clause (j)

3. On transfer, Magistrate not having local jurisdiction may deal with proceedings under s. 145.—See Note 185 at p 306

Clause (k)

4. When Magistrate may be said to take cognizance of offence "suo motu."—See Notes 5—7 to s. 190 at pp 468—470 and Notes 26—38 at pp 478—80

Clause (p)

5. Proceedings by a Court without jurisdiction void "ab initio."—A third-class Magistrate trying an offender under s 2 of Bombay Act VI of 1863 (Public Conveyances) when not specially empowered by the Local Government acts without jurisdiction and his proceedings are consequently void, Ratanlal 921. Where an offence is tried by a Court without jurisdiction, the proceedings are void ab initio under this section and no order of a superior Court is necessary to set them aside, and a re trial of the accused by a competent Court is not barred by s. 403, 8 B. 807; 7 P. R. 1910. See Note 22 at p 968. See 29 C. 412, where it was held that the terms re trial cannot properly be applied to the new trial. "No trial having taken place, there could not possibly be a re trial. See also 12 C. W. N. 246 = 7 C. L. J. 70 = 7 Cr. L. J. 103. Note 47 at p 1014 and 21 W. R. 37.

Clause (q)

Tries an offender summarily, where the offence cannot be so tried 46 A. 446.

(i) Trial of accused by incompetent Magistrate is a defect not cured by s 537.—The trial of the accused by a second class Magistrate of an offence under s 409 under a mistaken notion that it fell within s 406, 1 P. C., being an act by a Magistrate not empowered by law in that behalf, is void under cl. (i) of this section, and there is no provision in the Code which cures such a defect for even s 537 is to be construed subject to the provisions therein before contained, and s 529 deals with pure acts only, and the trial of an offender is not included therein, 4 Bom. L. R. 37.

6. Proceedings not void under cl. (1), because some facts disclose a more serious offence not within Magistrate's jurisdiction where trial confined to an offence within Magistrate's jurisdiction.—See Note 7 at p. 600 and Notes 2 and 3 at p. 892 If a Magistrate convicts an accused person of an offence falling within his jurisdiction, though the facts found would also constitute a more serious offence not within his jurisdiction, his proceedings are not void ab initio, and the High Court will not ordinarily interfere unless the sentence appears inadequate or unless the accused has been deprived of the right of appeal.—PER CANDY, J., 13 B. 502. Where a first-class Magistrate tried persons for an offence under s. 193, I P C., though the facts disclosed an offence under s. 194 as well, his proceedings are not void, 24 M. 678. In 4 Bom. L. R. 257, a first-class Magistrate tried and convicted the accused alternately under s. 363 or s. 493, I P C. The District Magistrate referred the case to the High Court on the grounds, that the offence was one under s. 366 which was triable exclusively by the Court of Session and that the trial by the Magistrate being beyond his jurisdiction, was void. Held, that having regard to 13 B. 502, the trial could not be regarded as illegal and the sentence of one year's rigorous imprisonment was not so entirely inadequate as to call for a fresh trial.

The evidence on which the accused was convicted amounted to an offence under s. 330, I P C., which was exclusively triable by the Court of Session, but the Magistrate convicted the accused under ss 323, 342 and 348 all of which he was empowered to try. Held, that the proceedings of the Magistrate were not void under s. 530 of the Code there being no rule of law which had been disregarded by the Magistrate. 2 Rang. 455 (13 B. 501 followed).

7. Effect of summary trial for minor offence when graver offence disclosed by the evidence.—See Notes 10—17 at pp 734—736 When a Magistrate deliberately disregards the offence actually complained of, and tries the case summarily, there is no question of irregularity, but his proceedings are entirely void under the provisions of this section, 3 C. W. N. 252. A Magistrate is bound to proceed and regulate his proceedings at the trial, as for the offence made up of the acts complained of, if on the examination of the complainant there is no room to believe that the complaint is exaggerated or false, and process is issued for the attendance of the accused. See also 36 C. 67; 29 C. 509; 27 C. 983; 4 C. 18 = 3 C. L. R. 44; 25 W. R. 19; 1 C. L. R. 434. The reason for making a distinction between the classes of cases dealt with in clauses (p) and (q) seems obvious. In a regular trial, a Court of Revision would be able to judge whether on the evidence on record, the sentence passed for the minor offences was sufficient in the ends of justice, but the evidence as recorded in a summary trial being brief, may not show the entire case. On the other hand, the accused if convicted in a summary trial, might lose the right of appeal. Also, encouragement would be given to a careless Magistrate to adopt the easier and less formal mode of trial, and thus avoid the proper supervision of a Court of Appeal or of Revision. See, however, 24 M. 678 and Note 6. Though the conviction on a summary trial, of an offence not triable summarily is void ab initio, yet the Magistrate cannot suo motu re-try the case regularly treating the previous trial as a nullity, until the previous conviction is quashed by a competent authority, the Magistrate has no power to re-try the case, 4 Bur. L. T. 271 = 13 Cr. L. J. 58. A summary trial of an European British subject by the District Magistrate of Bangalore as a Justice of the Peace must be set aside as such a power is not conferred on him, 29 M. L. J. 758 = 16 Cr. L. J. 773.

8. High Court not bound to interfere merely because Judge admits an appeal where law allows none and reverses a conviction.—When a Sessions Judge deals with a petition for revision, as if it were an appeal, and reverses without jurisdiction a conviction of the petitioner, by a first class Magistrate, the order of reversal, though void for want of jurisdiction, is not to be treated as a nullity. A comparison of the language of this section with that of s. 529 leads us to infer that the Legislature did not intend that a proceeding of a duly constituted Criminal Court, which is void for want of jurisdiction, should be treated as a nullity and disregarded, unless and until it is set aside by a Court of competent jurisdiction. When an accused person is acquitted or discharged in appeal or revision by a Court which had no jurisdiction to make such an order, it is not imperative on the High Court to interfere in every case, 4 L. B. R. 49 = 6 Cr. L. J. 287, where 11 C. L. R. 55 is dissented from and 21 W. R. 37 referred to. See also 4 Bur. L. T. 271 = 13 Cr. L. J. 58.

531. No finding, sentence or order of any Criminal Court shall be set aside merely on the ground that the inquiry, trial or other proceedings in the course of which it was arrived at or passed, took place in a wrong sessions division, district, sub-division or other local area, unless it appears that such has in fact occasioned a failure of justice,

- (b) issues a search warrant for a letter, parcel or other thing in the Post Office, or a telegram in the Telegraph Department,
- (c) demands security to keep the peace,
- (d) demands security for good behaviour,
- (e) discharges a person lawfully bound to be of good behaviour,
- (f) cancels a bond to keep the peace,
- (g) makes an order under section 133, as to a local nuisance,
- (h) prohibits, under section 142, the repetition or continuance of a public nuisance,
- (i) issues an order under section 144,
- (j) makes an order under Chapter XII,
- (k) takes cognizance, under section 190, sub-section (1), clause (c), of an offence,
- (l) passes a sentence, under section 349, on proceedings recorded by another Magistrate,
- (m) calls, under section 435, for proceedings,
- (n) makes an order for maintenance,
- (o) revises, under section 515, an order passed under section 514,
- (p) tries an offender,
- (q) tries an offender summarily,
- (r) decides an appeal, or
- his proceedings shall be void.

Clauses (c) and (d)

Clause (p)

5. Proceedings by a Court without jurisdiction void "ab initio."—A third-class Magistrate trying an offender under s 2 of Bombay Act VI of 1863 (Public Conveyances) when not specially empowered by the Local Government acts without jurisdiction and his proceedings are consequently void, Ratanlal 921. Where an offence is tried by a Court without jurisdiction, the proceedings are void ab initio under this section and no order of a superior Court is necessary to set them aside, and a re trial of the accused by a competent Court is not barred by s. 403, S B. 807; 7 P. R. 1910. See Note 22 at p 968. See 29 C. 412, where it was held that the terms re trial cannot properly be applied to the new trial 'No trial having taken place, there could not possibly be a re trial.' See also 12 C. W. N. 246 = 7 C. L. J. 70 = 7 Cr. L. J. 103. Note 47 at p 1014 and 21 W. R. 37.

Tries an offender summarily, where the offence cannot be so tried 46 A. 446.

(i) Trial of accused by incompetent Magistrate is a defect not cured by s 537—The trial of the accused by a second-class Magistrate of an offence under s 409 under a mistaken notion that it fell within s 406 I P C., being an act by a Magistrate not empowered by law in that behalf, is void under cl. (i) of this section, and there is no provision in the Code which cures such a defect for even s 537 is to be construed subject to the provisions therein before contained, and s. 529 deals with nine acts only, and the trial of an offender is not included therein, 1 Bom. L. R. 27,

6. Proceedings not void under cl. (1), because some facts disclose a more serious offence not within Magistrate's jurisdiction where trial confined to an offence within Magistrate's jurisdiction.—See Note 7 at p. 600 and Notes 2 and 3 at p. 892. If a Magistrate convicts an accused person of an offence falling within his jurisdiction, though the facts found would also constitute a more serious offence not within his jurisdiction, his proceedings are not void ab initio, and the High Court will not ordinarily interfere unless the sentence appears inadequate or unless the accused has been deprived of the right of appeal.—PER CANDY, J., 13 B. 502. Where a first-class Magistrate tried persons for an offence under s. 193, 1 P. C., though the facts disclosed an offence under s. 194 as well, his proceedings are not void, 24 M. 676. In 4 Bom. L. R. 267, a first-class Magistrate tried and convicted the accused alternately under s. 363 or s. 498, 1 P. C. The District Magistrate referred the case to the High Court on the grounds, that the offence was one under s. 366 which was triable exclusively by the Court of Session and that the trial by the Magistrate being beyond his jurisdiction, was void. Held, that having regard to 13 B. 502, the trial could not be regarded as illegal and the sentence of one year's rigorous imprisonment was not so entirely inadequate as to call for a fresh trial.

The evidence on which the accused was convicted amounted to an offence under s. 330, 1 P. C., which was exclusively triable by the Court of Session, but the Magistrate convicted the accused under ss. 323, 342 and 348 all of which he was empowered to try. Held, that the proceedings of the Magistrate were not void under s. 530 of the Code there being no rule of law which had been disregarded by the Magistrate. 2 Rang. 455 (13 B. 501 followed).

7. Effect of summary trial for minor offence when graver offence disclosed by the evidence.—See Notes 10—17 at pp. 734—736. When a Magistrate deliberately disregards the offence actually complained of, and tries the case summarily, there is no question of irregularity, but his proceedings are entirely void under the provisions of this section, 8 C. W. N. 252. A Magistrate is bound to proceed and regulate his proceedings at the trial, as for the offence made up of the acts complained of, if on the examination of the complainant there is no room to believe that the complaint is exaggerated or false, and process is issued for the attendance of the accused. See also 36 C. 67; 29 C. 409; 37 C. 983; 4 C. 18—3 C. L. R. 44; 15 W. R. 19; 1 C. L. R. 434. The reason for making a distinction between the classes of cases dealt with in clauses (p) and (q) seems obvious. In a regular trial, a Court of Revision would be able to judge whether on the evidence on record, the sentence passed for the minor offences was sufficient in the ends of justice, but the evidence as recorded in a summary trial being brief, may not show the entire case. On the other hand, the accused if convicted in a summary trial, might lose the right of appeal. Also, encouragement would be given to a careless Magistrate to adopt the easier and less formal mode of trial, and thus avoid the proper supervision of a Court of Appeal or of Revision. See, however, 24 M. 676 and Note 6. Though the conviction on a summary trial, of an offence not triable summarily is void ab initio, yet the Magistrate cannot suo motu re-try the case regularly treating the previous trial as a nullity, until the previous conviction is quashed by a competent authority, the Magistrate has no power to re-try the case, 4 Bur. L. T. 271—13 Cr. L. J. 38. A summary trial of an European British subject by the District Magistrate of Bangalore as a Justice of the Peace must be set aside as such a power is not conferred on him, 29 M. L. J. 758—16 Cr. L. J. 773.

8. High Court not bound to interfere merely because Judge admits an appeal where law allows none and reverses a conviction.—When a Sessions Judge deals with a petition for revision, as if it were an appeal, and reverses without jurisdiction a conviction of the petitioner, by a first class Magistrate, the order of reversal, though void for want of jurisdiction, is not to be treated as a nullity. 531. No finding, sentence or order of any Criminal Court shall be set aside merely on

has in fact occasioned a failure of justice,

Notes —1. Section refers only to local areas governed by this Code.—This section only refers to districts, divisions, sub-divisions and local areas governed by the Code of Criminal Procedure 16 C 667 and not to Tributary Mahals like Khconjur or Mohurbunji to which the Code does not apply, 8 C 985; 24 B. 287. See Note 6 at p 445. This section has relation only to a trial of an offence committed in British India in which the only defect is that some Court in British India other than the Court which actually tried the charge had local jurisdiction over the offence, 5 M. 23. See Notes 3-4 at pp 442-443.

2. Error is not confined to the same province or High Court.—The introduction of the words "other local area" provides for a case in which the local jurisdiction is not confined to the same province or High Court, a defect in s 70 of the 1872 Code which was pointed out in 13 B. L. R. Appx. IV = 21 W. R. 66.

3. Section not limited to cases where offence within jurisdiction and trial outside.—This section shows that venue is not a matter of jurisdiction, when the question is whether a trial or inquiry ought to have been held in some other local area in British India than that in which it was held, 44 P. R. 1885 followed in 2 P. R. 1902. See also 18 P. W. R. 1908 = 8 Cr. L. J. 75. The section is not confined to cases where the Court had local jurisdiction over the offence, but the trial was held outside its local limits, 30 M. 94; 2 P. R. 1902. See 24 P. R. 1901; 32 A. 397.

(1) Trial of appeal outside jurisdiction of Sessions Court not bad—A criminal appeal was presented within the sessions division of B, but was tried outside such division at A, where the Judge had only civil jurisdiction. Held, that the trial at A was an irregularity, but no failure of justice having been shown, the case was covered by this section and did not render the trial of the appeal a nullity, 17 A. 36 (F.B.).

4. Section applies to offences committed outside local jurisdiction of trying Magistrate.—No order of a Criminal Court should be set aside merely on the ground that the proceeding on which it was passed took place in a wrong sub-division unless such error has occasioned a failure of justice, 34 A. 203, Note 4 at p. 2. There is nothing in the language of this section to confine its operation to cases where offences committed within the jurisdiction of a Court are tried by such Court outside the limits of the local area of its jurisdiction. Where an offence was committed within the limits of the Negapitum Magistrate in the Tanjore District, but a Trichinopoly Magistrate tried the case. Held that ss. 177, 179, 180, 181 and 183 must be read together with this section and that a finding sentence or order regularly passed by a Court in the case of an offence committed outside its local area, cannot be set aside when no failure of justice has taken place, 30 M. 94, where 13 B. L. R. Appx. IV; 17 M. 402, 16 B. 200, 5 M. 23 at p. 25 and 26 M. 640 are followed. See 24 P. R. 1901; 12 Cr. L. J. 28; Bur. 33 C 786. See 3 Pat. 417.

5. Irregular commitments.—Distinction between ss 531 and 532.—Section 531 applies solely to cases in which there is no jurisdiction by which reason of the inquiry, trial or other proceeding being held in the wrong local area but s 532 seems to refer to cases in the Magistrate is competent to deal with the offence as having taken place within the local limits of his jurisdiction but has no power to commit for some reason other than that of local jurisdiction, 16 B. 200.

6. Can commitment to wrong Sessions Court be validated?—The order of a Magistrate committing a case to the Court of Session is an order of a Criminal Court within the meaning of this section. If such order, contrary to the requirements of s 177, directs the commitment to be made to a Court of Session which has no territorial jurisdiction it is not to be set aside, unless it appears that there has been a failure of justice 8 B. 312 followed in 16 B. 200, 17 M. 402, 18 A. 350; 10 B. 274, 2 Bom. L. R. 391. The Madras High Court has, however, held following Ledgard v. Rull, 9 A. 191 = 13 L. A. 134, that the commitment to a wrong Sessions Court which has no jurisdiction is an illegality which cannot be rendered legal by directing the transfer of the case to the Sessions Court which has jurisdiction, 36 M. 387. See Note 6 at p 594 and Note 8 to s 177.

7. Section applies to commitments by competent Magistrate not having local jurisdiction.—An order of commitment is an order within the meaning of this section 17 M. 402; 18 A. 350; 8 B. 312; 16 B. 200, 38 M. 337; 7 Bur. L. T. 26 = 15 Cr. L. J. 270. A first class Magistrate made an order under s 476, sending the case to the nearest first class Magistrate who committed the accused to the Sessions. The Magistrate to whom the case was sent had not territorial jurisdiction over the place in which the offence was said to have been committed. It was argued that the commitment by a Magistrate who could not take cognizance of the offence was invalid. Held that the commitment was valid, as no failure of justice had in fact been occasioned. This section applies to a case where the Magistrate has authority to commit, but has not territorial jurisdiction in the place where the offence is committed, 26 M. 640. In 11 C. L. R. 53 a Magistrate who had no jurisdiction to commit made a commitment which was held to be void, see also 21 W. R. 37; 8 C. 985 (F.B.), 8 B. 312, 17 A. 36; 10 B. 274 and Note 5 at p 594.

8. Where only particular Court is specially empowered to deal with a particular matter, section does not validate proceedings of other Courts.—S 531 only relates to proceedings in a wrong place and cures defects as to local jurisdiction. It does not touch a case of the kind, where under the specific provisions of s 514 only a particular Court is empowered to make the order, but some other Court not so empowered makes the order. Such an order is not included in s 529, nor is it mentioned in s 530. In the absence of any provision which would cure such a defect of jurisdiction the order cannot stand. S 537 does not apply as the order is not made by a Court of competent jurisdiction. Where, therefore, a Magistrate not competent to order forfeiture of a bond does so, his order is bad, 16 Bom L. R. 84 = 2 Bom. Cr. Ca. 183 = 15 Cr. L. J. 295. See also 38 B. 719. Note 9 to s. 349.

9. Must have occasioned failure of justice.—If it appears that the constitution and procedure of the Court in which the trial ought to have taken place, are different from the constitution and procedure of the wrong Court in which the trial was had, the accused would necessarily be prejudiced, 13 B. L. R. Appx IV. Where objection as to the jurisdiction of a Court was not seriously taken and the petitioner failed to show that he had been in any way prejudiced, the High Court declined to interfere, 21 W. R. 68.

532. (1) If any Magistrate or other authority purporting to exercise powers duly conferred, which were not so conferred, commits an accused person for trial before a Court of Session or High Court, the Court to which the commitment is made may, after perusal of the proceedings, accept the commitment if it considers that the accused has not been injured thereby, unless, during the inquiry and before the order of commitment, objection was made on behalf either of the accused or of the prosecution to the jurisdiction of such Magistrate or other authority.

(2) If such Court considers that the accused was injured, or if such objection was so made, it shall quash the commitment and direct a fresh inquiry by a competent Magistrate.

Notes.—1. See s 206 as to power to commit. S 215 as to quashing of commitments and s. 436 for powers of Sessions Judge or District Magistrate.

2. Section applies to proceedings of such Magistrates only as are not empowered to commit.—See s 206 as to who may commit. This section applies only to cases where the Magistrate or other authority who has assumed to commit has not been duly invested with the powers under which he assumed to make the commitment, i.e., when the defect is one personal to the committing officer and not a defect in his proceeding, and that the section is not applicable to a commitment by a Magistrate duly empowered to commit, 16 P. R. 1890. The Magistrate may, under this section, be competent to deal with the offence, but is not competent to commit for some reason other than that of want of local jurisdiction; 16 B. 200. In 2 L. B. R. 209, the question arose whether a commitment, which was bad owing to a disqualification of the Magistrate (who was also the District Superintendent of Police, and who as such, conducted the Police investigation), under s 508, could be quashed by the Sessions Judge himself and a fresh inquiry ordered under sub-sec. (2) of this section, or whether the same should be reported to the High Court to be dealt with under s. 215. Held, that such a case did not fall within the scope of this section, which refers to a commitment by a Magistrate "purporting to exercise powers duly conferred, which were not so conferred" and that if this section does not apply, the case must apparently be dealt with under the revisional power of the High Court. Similarly, commitment made to the Sessions Court by a Magistrate acting under the powers conferred by s. 346, is not illegal, simply because he has not examined de novo the witnesses who were examined by the Magistrate who submitted the case under the provisions of that section. To the case of an accused thus committed, this section has no sort of application, 12 C. W. M. N. 136 = 6 Cr. L. J. 429; 43 B. 147.

3. Commitment under s. 436.—See Notes 9—11 at pp 1053-1054 as to limitations on power of Sessions Judge or District Magistrate to commit. Where a commitment was made under s. 436, by a Sessions Judge in a case in which he had no power to make such a commitment, the High Court set it aside as made without jurisdiction, 21 W. R. 37; see also 11 C. L. R. 55 and 10 B. 274.

4. Section does not remedy the want of certificate of Political Agent.—See 13 M. 423 and Note 9 at p 466.

5. Effect on commitment where previous sanction is necessary for initiation of proceedings.—Does this section apply to such defects as want of sanction or of a complaint by a specified party? See 1-0-2 above. (i) Sanction under s. 195, see Notes 22-23 at p. 496. (ii) Absence of complaint under s. 196, see Notes 4-5

Cr. L. J. 190. But see 4 L. B. R. 247 = 8 Cr. L. J. 65 and Note 6 to s. 535

6. Trial not necessarily bad, even if objection is taken in time.—The facts that the committing Magistrate who was empowered to commit had no territorial jurisdiction over the place in which the offence was alleged to have been committed, and that the Sessions Judge did not quash under this section the commitment the objection to which was duly taken on that ground before the committing Magistrate, were held to be no ground for setting aside the conviction of the Sessions Court, 17 M. 402 and Note 22 at p. 496 also 13 A. 330; 13 B. 312 and 18 B. 200. But see 33 B. 310; 37 A. 107; 37 A. 110; 37 A. 293; 40 B. 97; 7 Bar. L. T. 28 = 15 Cr. L. J. 270. In 7 C. 662 = 10 C. L. R. 8, the High Court on appeal refused to set aside a conviction of an improper commitment on the ground that there had been no actual failure of justice, though there had been grave irregularities which if brought to the notice of the High Court before the trial, would have justified the commitment being quashed. See also 12 C. L. R. 120.

7. Scope of sub-sec. (2)—commitments transferred cannot be quashed.—The High Court transferred a Sessions case from one Sessions division to another. The Sessions Judge of the latter division purporting to act under sub-sec. (2) quashed the commitment and directed a further inquiry to be made by the District Magistrate of the former division or by any Magistrate subordinate to him, held, the Sessions Judge had no power to quash the commitment or direct an inquiry by the District Magistrate of another Sessions division. Cr. R. Case 42 of 1904 (Madras).

533. (1) If any Court before which a confession or other statement of an accused person recorded or purporting to be recorded under section 164 or section 364 is tendered or has been received in evidence, finds, that any of the provisions of either of such sections have not been complied with by the Magistrate recording the statement, it shall take evidence that such person duly made the statement recorded, and, notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 91 such statement shall be admitted, if the error has not injured the accused as to his defence on the merits.

(2) The provisions of this section apply to Courts of Appeal, Reference and Revision.

Notes.—1. Alteration.—The word 'fully' after the words 'have not been' appearing in the 1882 Code has been omitted.

2. Does section apply to all and every infraction of the provisions of s. 164 and s. 364?—The Bombay and Allahabad High Courts apply the sections to all infractions. The Madras and Calcutta High Courts seem to limit the scope of the section to inadvertent omissions and not to infractions. Note 7 below. The scope of this section is not limited to any particular kind of non-compliance with s. 361.—PER STRACHAN, J., 21 B. 495. This section is intended to apply to all cases in which the directions of law have not been fully complied with, 23 B. 221. The object of the section is to prevent justice being frustrated by reason of a Magistrate having neglected to comply strictly with the terms of s. 164 or s. 364 in regard to the examination of an accused person, 1892 A. W. N. 60. See 3 C. W. N. 337 as to the scope of this section.

3. Scope of section.—This section will not render a confession admissible where no attempt has been made to conform to the provisions of s. 164 or s. 364, 9 M. 224; 15 C. 593; 17 C. 662. "This section, as I understand it, means only this—that where a confession or other statement of an accused person is duly made, i.e., made in accordance with the provisions of the law, but in recording it, those provisions have not been complied with, oral evidence is admissible to prove that the confession or other statement was duly made, or, in other words, when the defect in recording the confession or other statement of an accused person is one not of substance, but of form only, as for instance when the Magistrate had through inadvertence omitted to state in the certificate that the statement was taken in his hearing though it was so taken or when he has omitted to sign the certificate through mere inadvertence, oral evidence may be taken to remedy the defect by proving that the statement recorded was duly made."—PER BANERJEE, J., 2 C. W. N. 702 at p. 714. "The policy of the law is clear. Certain rules are laid down the observance of which enables the Court dealing with a confession to be prima facie assured that it was voluntarily made, but well knowing that in the hurry of work the formal recording of what has been said and done is not always perfect, the Legislature, to prevent miscarriages of justice and to ensure that evidence of value shall not be lost, has enacted under s. 533 that the important thing is not the formal writing down of this or that, but that it should be made clear to a Court using a confession as evidence that the recording Magistrate applied his mind to the question whether it was being voluntarily made and decided that question in the affirmative, 17 P. R. 1915 = 11 P. W. R. 1915 = 16 Cr. L. J. 354.

4. What irregularity may be cured?—(a) Not informing accused that recording officer was a Magistrate—A confession recorded under s. 164 by a Magistrate who does not inform the accused that he is a Magistrate, is not inadmissible in evidence when the circumstances show that the accused was fully aware and understood that the officer who took his statement was a Magistrate, 9 Cr. L. J. 85 = 10 Cr. L. J. 323.

(b) Recording in narrative form.—See Note 48 at p. 372 and Notes 9 and 10 at p. 918.

(c) Recording confession in a different language.—See Note 39 at p. 371 and Notes 11–15 at pp. 918–919. The statement or confession of the accused must be recorded in the language in which he is examined, and only when that is not practicable it may be recorded in the language of the Court or in English (s. 364). So where a Magistrate who took down a confession, stated in evidence that he could not record the confession in the language of the accused as he had no clerk who could do so, the confession was held admissible, 9 Cr. L. J. 85 = 10 Cr. L. J. 323. Unless it is shown, that it was impracticable to take down the statement of the accused in the language in which it was made, there would be a grave doubt whether such a defect could be cured by this section, 15 Cr. 595, dissented from in 8 Cr. P. Cr. 21. The Ruling in 15 Cr. 595 is an obiter dictum not necessary for the decision of the case and not going beyond the expression of "very grave doubts."—Per STRACHEY, J., in 21 B. 495.

Recording confession in a language different from that of the accused.—When a Magistrate proceeded to record a confession in English and translated it to the accused who admitted it to be correct, held, that the confession was admissible, any defects in the mode of recording it being cured by s. 533, 45 A. 166.

(d) Omission to take signature of the accused.—Where the record of a confession does not bear the signature of the accused it is not admissible in evidence, 32 Cr. 550 and see Notes 16–24 to s. 364 at pp. 919–920. But the signature is taken as a voucher of the authenticity of the statement, not as an admission of its correctness, therefore where the omission of the signature is supplied by the accused without objection the next day after the confession was made and the Magistrate himself has sworn to the authenticity of the statement, the confession is admissible, 9 Cr. L. J. 85 = 10 Cr. L. J. 323 and see Notes 43 and 44 at p. 371.

(e) Magistrate must satisfy himself that confession was made voluntarily.—S. 164 (3).—See Notes 18–20

sible, 9 Cr. L. J. 85 = 10 Cr. L. J. 323.

(f) Omission to examine the accused at the trial.—ss. 342 and 289.—The purpose of the examination under s. 342 is to enable the accused to explain the circumstances appearing in the evidence against him. Where, therefore, the accused has pleaded guilty and has been examined in the preliminary inquiry, the omission by the Sessions Judge to examine the accused at the trial does not constitute an illegality which would vitiate the trial, 9 Cr. L. J. 85 = 10 Cr. L. J. 323 and see Note 3 at p. 779 and Notes 5 and 12 at pp. 872–873.

(g) Recording of confession by Magistrate's clerk.—See Note 4 at p. 371 and Note 8 at p. 917.

(h) Want of certificate under s. 164.—See Notes 46–49 at pp. 371–372. Ten persons were committed to the Sessions on charges under ss. 395 and 396, and some of them were also charged under s. 412, 1 P. C. One of the accused had made a confessional statement before the Magistrate who recorded it, but did not make on it a memorandum to the effect stated in s. 164 of the Code, and did not admit it in evidence for the reason that the accused was produced from the custody of the Police in which he had been detained for five days and there was a proposal on the part of the Police to treat him as an approver. The confessional statement was not admitted in evidence in the Sessions trial. Held, on reference under s. 307 that the Judge should have inquired under this section whether the confessional statement had been duly made, 22 M. 13.

(i) Failure of the Magistrate to warn and to ask the accused if he had made the statements voluntarily.—The record of a confession taken down by a Magistrate did not show that the accused had been warned by the Magistrate that he was not bound to make a confession and did not in clear terms show that the accused had been asked whether the statement was made voluntarily. The Magistrate was examined and deposed that he had cautioned the accused and explained to him that he was not bound to make a statement, but that if he did so it might be used in evidence against him. Held, that the confession was admissible. 3 Pat. 872 (2 Lah. 323 dissented from). In 6 Lah. 415 all the authorities on the point were exhaustively considered and the decision in 2 Lah. 323 was referred to with approval. It was laid down that under s. 533 a defect in form is curable, but a defect in substance is not so curable. So if, as a matter of fact, the statement was duly recorded that is to say, after the required explanation has been given but the Magistrate has failed to embody that fact in the certificate, such a defect would be curable. If the explanation has not in fact been made, the statement could not be held to have been "duly made" and s. 533 could not be appealed to.

5. When Magistrate recording statement should be examined?—See Note 27 at p. 921 (i) To ascertain that the accused duly made the statement recorded—The point upon which evidence is to be taken under this section is, that the accused duly made the statement recorded under s. 164 or s. 364 as the case may be. This seems to mean evidence that the accused did actually make the statement recorded as his statement, and it seems sufficient proof of this to show that the statement recorded though not recorded in exact conformity with the provisions of s. 364 as to the mode of recording the statement, which provision applies equally to confession under s. 164 and examination under s. 342, does accurately represent in substance the statement of the accused person. If no error injurious to the accused in his defence on the merits is disclosed, the document becomes admissible notwithstanding the irregularity in its preparation subject to all just exceptions as to its admissibility under the Evidence Act except under s. 91, 52 P. R. 1837. This section does not authorize the Court to proceed as if there had been no recorded confession, or to treat such a confession, non-existent, it clearly means that the evidence which is to be taken shall be evidence that the accused person duly made the particular confession which was recorded and tendered, 17 C. 862 at p. 868, doubled in 18 C. 549. When the accused denies having made the statement, it is the duty of the Sessions Judge to take the evidence of the Magistrate who examined the accused, 23 B. 221.

(ii) For explanation of defects by the examining Magistrate—In a statement made by the accused to the trying Deputy Magistrate on the 12th of January and 6th February, respectively, the certificate required by s. 364, appeared on the first page of the record only. The record of the examination of the 12th January alone extended over two pages, and that of the 6th February was written entirely on the second page. Held that this defect is cured by the evidence of the Deputy Magistrate, 8 C. W. N. 22.

6. No "prima facie" presumption that confession was duly recorded—The Sessions Judge who tried a case of dacoity admitted in evidence statements in the nature of confessions recorded in English by a Joint Magistrate under the provisions of s. 164. There was no evidence that it was not practicable to record them in the language in which they were made, and the Joint Magistrate was not examined as a witness, nor was evidence taken that the accused duly made the statements so recorded. Held, that as it could not be presumed without some evidence, that the statements had to be recorded in English because they could not be recorded in the language in which they were made there was no justification for their being recorded in English and no presumption under s. 80 of the Indian Evidence Act could be made, in respect of the record made in English and as no evidence was taken to prove that the accused had actually made those statements the Sessions Judge was wrong in admitting such record of the statements against the accused, 10 C. C. 112 = 6 Cr. L. J. 94, where 18 C. 549 and 21 B. 495 are referred to.

7. Injury to the accused a question of fact in each particular case—The proposition that the accused is not injured in his defence, involves a question which has to be determined on the merits of each particular case and it is impossible to lay down any rule on the subject, 23 B. 221.

8. Section not intended to override the law of evidence.—See Notes 6—10 at pp. 321—323. It is not easy to interpret this section in relation to s. 164, but they are sections which relate primarily to criminal procedure while this section relates also to proceeding under s. 364. This section occurs in a chapter relating to irregular proceedings and their effect, and is presumably not intended to override the law of evidence, but to leave the law of evidence, in full operation, when not expressly mentioned. Thus when it is enacted that "such statement (i.e., the recorded statement) shall be admitted" the meaning is that the document shall not be excluded merely by reason of the error of the recording Magistrate, but shall be admitted, as a matter of a criminal procedure, subject to any just exceptions under the Evidence Act, other than an objection under s. 91 of that Act, 52 P. R. 1837. The expression "notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, s. 91" may be intended to apply only to examination under s. 364 to which it seems applicable, 52 P. R. 1837.

8-A. Statement by an accused to a Magistrate, repetition of previous incriminating statement made to Police—Where the statement of an accused person to a Magistrate amounted to a repetition practically without comment, of a previous incriminating conversation between himself and the Police-officer, held that it was inadmissible in evidence by reason of s 25 of the Evidence Act, 49 B. 642.

9. If record of confession be inadmissible in evidence, can it be proved by parol evidence?—The accused retracted his confession before the Sessions Court. The Karkan who wrote it in Marathi deposed that he had read it over to the accused and that on the latter admitting its correctness, he made it over to one K to get on it, the mark of the accused but he omitted to do so. The Sessions Judge held that the omission to get the signature of the accused was a defect which affected the defence on the merits, as it might have deprived the accused of the opportunity given him by law of denying the accuracy of his statement. For this reason, he held that the confession was inadmissible and could not be treated as evidence against the accused, and as there was no other evidence, he acquitted the accused. Held, reversing the order of acquittal that although the record of confession was not admissible in evidence for want of signature, yet the terms of the confession were capable of being proved by parol evidence under this section and if proved, might be admitted and used as evidence in the case. This section expressly allows oral evidence to be given in any case that the accused duly made the statement recorded, 23 B 221; 3 G. W. N. 103. From the terms of this section it would seem that even oral evidence of the terms of the confession would be admissible, but this would not be necessary, if it was shown that the record, though formally imperfect, was a true and full account of the confession, 2 L. B. R. 317. See, however, Note 7 at p 363.

10. Oral evidence inadmissible, if confession not reduced to writing at all.—See Note 31 at p 921

Omission to give information under section 447 * "534. An omission to inform under section 447 any person of his rights under Chapter XXXIII shall not affect the validity of any proceedings"

Note.—"Shall not affect the validity."—If, however, a Magistrate having reasons to believe that an accused is an European British subject, omits to ask him whether he is such, and proceeds to try him as if he were not one, he may lay himself open to an action for trespass, 2 M. L. A. 293. See Notes to s. 454

535. (1) No finding or sentence pronounced or passed shall be deemed invalid merely on the ground that no charge was framed unless, in the opinion of the Court of Appeal or Revision, a failure of justice has in fact been occasioned thereby.

Effect of omission to prepare charge.

(2) If the Court of Appeal or Revision thinks that a failure of justice has been occasioned by an omission to frame a charge, it shall order that a charge be framed, and that the trial be recommenced from the point immediately after the framing of the charge

Notes.—1. As to the meaning of the word 'charge,' see s 4 (c) at p 6 and Note 2 at p 624. See also s. 226 for procedure on commitment without charge, s 225 for effect of errors in charge and s 232 for effect of material error in charge

2. Does section apply where charge has been framed for one offence and conviction had for another?—Where the charge was for rioting under s. 147, I P C, with the common object of causing hurt to A and the accused were convicted under s. 323, I P C, of causing hurt to B and it was contended that the omission to frame a charge was immaterial because there was no prejudice, inasmuch as evidence was produced on both sides as to the responsibility caused for the injuries done to B and even if a charge had been framed under s. 323 the matter could not have been more fully investigated, held that the conviction was not merely irregular but illegal. S 233 is mandatory, for every distinct offence of which any person is accused, there shall be a separate charge except in the cases mentioned in ss. 234, 235, 236 and 239. The words "merely on the ground that no charge was framed" in s. 535 must mean a case where the offence being a petty one and the evidence, being fairly taken, the Court framed no charge at all. But where a charge has been framed then it cannot be said that the conviction is invalid merely on the ground that no charge was framed. It is clear that the accused could raise no objection as he could have had no idea that he was going to be tried upon this particular charge, there being a specific charge against him for a different offence, 40 C. 165. See Note 1 at p 642, Note 2 at p. 635 and Note 7 at p 676.

3. Does omission to frame separate charge for each offence invalidate trial?—See Note 7 at p. 644

4. Omission to frame charge does not invalidate order of acquittal.—A Magistrate tried and acquitted a person accused of an offence without preparing in writing a charge against him. Such omission did not occasion a failure of justice. Held, that such omission did not invalidate the order of acquittal of such person and render such order equivalent to an order of discharge, and such order was a bar to the revival of the prosecution of such person for the same offence, 3 A. 129; 10 W. R. 7.

5. Effect of omission to set out previous conviction in charge.—See Notes 11—13 at pp 625-626.

6. Does the section remedy the defect of obtaining sanction after charge framed.—Where a Magistrate framed a charge under s. 19 (f) of the Arms Act, XI of 1878, but finding that no sanction of the District Magistrate had been obtained, applied to the District Magistrate and got sanction and then proceeded with the case without framing the charge afresh after sanction, held, that the omission was cured under this section, 4 L. B. R. 247 = 8 Cr. J. 65; but see contra 5 M. L. T. 162 = 11 Cr. L. J. 190, Note 5 to s. 532.

Trial by jury of offence triable with assessors.

536. (1) If an offence triable with the aid of assessors is tried by a jury, the trial shall not on that ground only be invalid

Trial with assessors of offence triable by jury

(2) If an offence triable by a jury is tried with the aid of assessors, the trial shall not on that ground only be invalid, unless the objection is taken before the Court records its finding

Notes—1. See Chap. XXIII for procedure in cases triable by jury or with assessors.

2. Difference in the modes of trials by jury, and with the aid of assessors.—See Note 2 to s. 268. The law makes no distinction as to the procedure at the trial between a trial by a jury and one with the aid of assessors except as to the summing up in the case of the former and the manner in which the verdict in the former and the opinions of the assessors in the latter are respectively taken. It is at this latter point, that there is a departure of ways, and if the accused who is tried does not intervene at the crucial point, and get the procedure applicable to trials with the aid of assessors enforced, he cannot be heard to complain, 33 B. 423.

3. Procedure when some of the charges are triable by jury and some with assessors.—See Notes 4 and 5 to s. 269 at p. 747

4. Trial by jury of case triable with assessors is legal.—See Note 7 at p. 748. Where the accused was on trial on charges of murder (jury case) and rioting, grievous hurt (assessors case), and the Judge erroneously treated the trial as though it was a trial by jury on all counts and erroneously treated their verdict on all the counts as the verdict of a jury contrary to s. 269 and the Judge accepting the verdict sentenced the accused for the offences triable with assessors held, as no objection was taken at the trial, it was too late to contend an appeal that the Judge's action was wrong, 33 B. 423. See also the critical Notes on 33 B. 423 at p. 465; Cf 19 M. L. Journal; 27 Bom. L. R. 1416.

5. Jury case tried with assessors is legal if no objection is taken before recording finding.—An objection to the trial of a case with the aid of assessors, when it is triable by a Judge and jury, should be taken at the trial before the Court of Session, and an omission so to take it is fatal to such a contention when raised in appeal, though the accused had been materially prejudiced thereby, as, e.g., where the assessors found him not guilty, while the Judge, dissenting from their opinion convicted him, 23 M. 632

6. Reference when case triable with assessors is tried by jury.—See s. 307 and Notes 6—8 thereto at pp 829-830. See also 22 M. 15 and 9 M. 42.

7. Where case triable with assessors is tried by jury, does an appeal lie on matter of fact?—See s. 418 and Note 1 at p. 993. Where an offence triable by assessors is tried by jury, the trial is not on that ground invalid, but the Judge's charge to the jury is to be treated as his judgment in the case, and the prisoner's appeal to be heard on the facts, 24 W. R. 30; 3 C. 765, Ratanlal 981; 26 M. 243—Pir Benson, J. Contra, see 25 B. 680 and 33 B. 423, where it was held that no appeal lay on the facts where the trial which ought to have been with assessors was a matter of fact held by jury. In 26 M. 243, Bashyam Aiyangar, J., also held that an appeal lay only on a point of law under s. 418. See also 18 W. R. 59; 18 P. R. 1838. In an earlier Madras case, Weir 1, 432; 11, 709 = 26 M. 243 (footnote), Collins, C. J. and Parker, J., had held that when a case triable with the aid of assessors, has been wrongly tried by a Judge and jury, the proper course for the Appellate Court is, to hear the appeal by treating the charge as the judgment in the case and the verdict of the jury as the opinion of the assessors or to order a re-trial if there is a possibility of the jury having gone wrong on the facts.

Finding or sentence when reversible by reason of error or omission in charge or other proceedings.

537. Subject to the provisions hereinbefore contained, no finding, sentence or order passed by a Court of competent jurisdiction shall be reversed or altered under Chapter XXVII or on appeal or revision on account—

(a) of any error omission or irregularity in the complaint summons, warrant, charge, proclamation order, judgment or other proceedings before or during trial or in any inquiry or other proceedings under this Code or

* (b) * * * *

(c) of the omission to revise any list of jurors or assessors in accordance with section 324 or

(d) of any misdirection in any charge to a jury

Unless such error omission, irregularity,† or misdirection has in fact occasioned a failure of justice

Explanation—In determining whether any error, omission or irregularity in any proceeding under this Code has occasioned a failure of justice, the Court shall have regard to the fact whether the objection could and should have been raised at an earlier stage in the proceedings

‡ * * * *

Note.—Amendment.—Clause (b) of the old section referring to the want of sanction under s. 195 and to any irregularity in proceedings under s. 476 has been now deleted by the Amendment. It is therefore submitted that the effect of the omission is to make the special procedure required by ss 195 and 476 imperative and not merely a matter of form.

The illustration ‡ to the section is also omitted as it was found to be out of place

1.—GENERAL SCOPE OF THE SECTION.

Notes—1 Analogous law—Compare s. 285 N Y Cr P C., where it is enacted that “no indictment is insufficient nor can the trial judgment or other proceedings thereon be affected by reason of an imperfection in matter of form which does not tend to the prejudice of the substantial rights of the defendant upon the merits.” This section is general in its application, and is intended to cure defects in form under the general rule of pleading—People v Williams, 18 State Rep. 405. See also 7 Edw VII, c. 23, s. 4, where under the Court of Appeal even in the case of an error in law or fact, is free to dismiss the appeal if satisfied that on the whole of the case there was no substantial miscarriage of justice R v Sykes 4 Cr App. R. 42. Cf the Summary Jurisdiction Act 1847-48 11 and 12 Vict., Chap. 43, s. 9

In Upper Burma in British Baluchistan and in the Sonthal Pergunnas orders are not reversible on appeal or revision on technical grounds alone. See, respectively, the Upper Burma Criminal Justice Regulation, VIII of 1882 Schedule s. 15, the British Baluchistan Criminal Justice Regulation, VIII of 1898 Schedule, s. 19, and the Sonthal Pergunnas Regulations, V of 1893, s. 4 (vii).

2 Privy Council view as to the scope of the section—In L. R. 23 L. A. 257 = 23 M. 61, where a person was tried for 41 separate offences in direct contravention of the provisions of s. 234 their Lordships observed that the mischief sought to be avoided by the section having been committed “the effect of the multitude of charges before the jury has not been averted by dissecting the verdict afterwards and appropriating the finding of guilty only to such parts of the written accusation as ought to have been submitted to the jury. It would in the first place leave to the Court the functions of the jury and the accused would never have really been tried at all upon the charge arranged afterwards by the Court. Their Lordships cannot regard this as cured by s. 537. Their Lordships are unable to regard the disobedience to an express provision as to a mode of trial, as a mere irregularity. Such a phrase as an irregularity is not appropriate to the illegality of trying an accused person for many different offences at the same time and those offences being spread over a longer period than by law could have been joined together in one indictment. The illustration of the section itself,

* Clause (b) was omitted by Act XLIII of 1923

† The word “want” was omitted by ibid

sufficiently shows what was meant. The remedying of irregularities is familiar in most systems of jurisprudence but it would be an extraordinary extension of such a branch of administering the criminal law to say that when the Code positively enacts that such a trial as that which has taken place here shall not be permitted that this contravention of the Code comes within the description of error, omission or irregularity. Some pertinent observations are made on the subject by LORD HERSCHFEL and LORD RUSSELL OF KILLOWEN in Smyth v. Hanny, L. R. (1894) A. C. 494. Where in a civil case several causes of action were joined LORD HERSCHFEL says that if untrammelled by any enactment or rule it is much more than an irregularity, and LORD RUSSELL OF KILLOWEN in the same case says such a joinder of plaintiffs is more than an irregularity it is the constitution of a suit in a way not authorized by law and the rules applicable to procedure. With all respect to SIR FRANCIS MACLEAY and the other Judges who agree with him in 27 C. 839, he appears to have fallen into a very manifest logical error in arguing that because all irregularities are illegal as he says in a sense and this trial was illegal that therefore all things that may in his view be called illegal, are therefore by one adjective applied to them become equal in importance and are susceptible of being treated alike. But this trial was prohibited in the mode in which it was conducted.

3. Limitations to the applicability of the Privy Council ruling.—See Note 22 at p. 570. This ruling simply deals with the effect of disobedience to an express provision of law as to the mode of trial and in no way touches on the effect of an error of procedure antecedent to the trial or the jurisdiction of the Court. 35 M. 275. If the jurisdiction of a Magistrate to take action under the Code is destroyed by failure to comply with any provision of the Code as to his preliminary procedure then it would have to be held e.g. that failure to sign the complainant's statement on oath as required by s. 200 rendered any subsequent trial and conviction null and void and without jurisdiction. 35 M. 275 (distinguishing 6 M. I. A. 134). Though in the light of 25 M. 61, it must be held that a trial which is not warranted by the provisions of this Code is altogether illegal and void and not merely irregular, yet it will be entirely inconsistent with the letter and scope of s. 439 to hold that in every case of illegal trial the High Court is necessarily obliged to interfere without due regard to the circumstances of the particular case. The illegality of a trial is no doubt prima facie good and strong ground for the exercise of revisional jurisdiction but it is not imperative on the Court to take such action in every case however small or scant may be the necessity or reason for adopting such course, so as to interfere with the conviction in every such case, especially when no prejudice is shown to have been caused by such illegality. 5 P. R. 1908 = 4 Cr. L. J. 75. There is a distinction between a case, as the above one dealt with by the Privy Council in which the trial is held in a manner prohibited by law and consequently it is no trial under the Code and a case in which the trial is one within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate and irregularities occur in the method of conducting it. In the latter case the provisions of this section are applicable and the finding can only be reversed if the irregularity has, in fact, occasioned a failure of justice. Thus in 25 B. 533, allowing a Police-officer, contrary to the provisions of s. 435 (4) to conduct the prosecution while he had taken part in the investigation was held to be a mere irregularity which in no way invalidated the trial. But at the same time several illegalities which were taken to be cured by this section would no longer be so treated having regard to the ruling in 25 M. 61.

The general observation that 'their Lordships are unable to disregard the disobedience to an express observation as to mode of trial as a mere irregularity must be read with the sentence immediately following it which limits its application to the case where the charges are tried together which the law expressly says shall not be tried in the same trial. The words 'mode of trial' in the general observation cannot have reference to the formal defect of drawing up one charge instead of two. The drawing up of the charge is part of the trial but the words 'mode of trial' have reference to the constitution of the trial per BEACHCROFT J. in 19 C. W. N. 978 = 16 Cr. L. J. 641. SHARFUDIN J. was also of the same opinion that the illegality referred to by their Lordships of the Privy Council was in utter disobedience of the law as contained in s. 234 and not that the provisions of s. 233 were contravened and therefore a disobedience to the first portion of s. 233 was not an illegality which vitiated the trial. LETCHER J. was however of opinion that a neglect of the provisions of s. 233 was not cured by s. 537.

I do not, however think that the decision of the Privy Council compels us to hold that in no case can a misjoinder of charges or a failure to try charges separately i.e. an irregularity within the meaning of s. 537, per NAIR J. in 29 M. L. J. 101 = 18 M. L. T. 95 = 16 Cr. L. J. 593 (F.B.) 19 A. L. J. 915, 915.

Section 537 of the Code does not in terms apply to a reference under s. 307 but the limitation contained therein applies to such a reference. In the case therefore of a reference under that section it is not competent to the High Court to take any action in the form of an order quashing the whole of the proceedings.

on the ground of want of sanction, if such want of sanction has in fact not occasioned a failure of justice, 47 B. 31.

4. "Subject to the provisions hereinbefore contained"—meaning of.—The question has been raised, though not expressly decided whether the provision referred to, i.e. the provisions of the entire Code preceding this section or only the provisions of Chapter XLV, wherein this section finds a place. The former view was adopted in 22 C. 176; 23 C. 933 at p. 990, and FLETCHER, J., in 19 C. W. N. 972 = 16 Cr. L. J. 641, and the latter view was put forward by the referring Judges in 27 C. 839, but the Full Bench did not decide the question. See the subject discussed at length in 6 C. W. N. 46. SHARFUDIN and BRACHCROFT, JJ., in 19 C. W. N. 972 = 16 Cr. L. J. 641 were of opinion that the qualifying words do not refer to the entire Code that precedes this section, because if those qualifying words referred to all the sections of the Code preceding s. 537, cl. (b) of the section would become meaningless or inoperative but they only referred to ss. 529–536 of Chap. XLV, where the section occurs. FLETCHER, J., was however of opinion that the qualifying words refer to the whole of the previous part of the Code. Anyhow the subsection of this section cannot be construed in such a way as to nullify the express language of cl. (b) which enacts that no sentence passed by a Court of competent jurisdiction shall be reversed on appeal for want of any sanction required by s. 19. Hence though s. 195 in imperative terms prohibits Court such a sanction is not in itself a language employed by the Privy

196, 197 and 339 (2) which require sanction to be obtained in criminal cases, are not however affected by cl. (b) of this section, 31 M. 80, where 29 M. 149 is followed and 23 C. 176 discussed and see Note 3

5. Section refers to errors of procedure and not to substantive errors of law.—See 8 B. 200; the intention of the section is to remedy defects of a mere formal character arising from inadvertence and not in any way prejudicing the accused, 11 B. H. C. R. 237; 13 M. L. A. 77 = 12 W. R. P. C. 32. A Magistrate passed a conditional order under s. 133 of the Code. When the party appeared to show cause the Magistrate with the consent of the parties sent the case to another Magistrate for inquiry and report, and on receipt of the report so submitted made the final order. Held that the procedure followed was irregular and was in complete disregard of the imperative provisions of s. 137 and therefore it was not possible to uphold the order by invoking s. 537 of the Code, 47 B. 89, 3 Pat. L. J. 61.

6. Section not intended to apply to a case which has not been finally disposed of.—The test prescribed (viz., whether such error, etc., has occasioned a failure of justice), for determining whether such an order is thus one which can be properly objection is taken on the ground of there and while there is time to correct the same, it would be unreasonable to hold that s. 537 intends the error etc. to be allowed to remain uncorrected. To hold that would be to give to s. 537 the effect not only of curing mere formal defects of procedure when discovered too late but of practically subverting all procedure. Per BANERJEE, J., 23 C. 933. In this case a defect in granting the sanction was held to be cured when the Magistrate after holding the inquiry had committed the case to the Sessions. Section 537 cannot be applied at an intermediate stage of the case so as to allow, the error to remain uncorrected, 6 S. L. R. 260 = 14 Cr. L. J. 298. Section 537 was clearly never intended to allow a Magistrate to override the clear provisions of the Code. The section was intended to prevent a mere technicality from interfering with the course of justice the error, omission, etc., being one which had escaped all parties at the beginning of the proceeding. When however as e.g., the want of sanction is at once brought to the attention of the Court, it is clearly the duty of the Magistrate to refuse to take cognizance of the complaint on the ground that he could not do so by reason of the terms of s. 195, 37 A. 233.

If, however, the inquiry has proceeded far enough to enable the test required by the section to be applied this section may be invoked to cure the error, omission or irregularity, 12 Cr. L. J. 320 (Sladh)

7. Principles laid down by s. 537 must guide Court in dealing with applications under s. 215.—No doubt s. 537 applies in terms to orders made on appeal or revision, but the principles therein laid down must guide the Court in dealing with an application under s. 215, otherwise a committal order would be liable to be quashed because the Magistrate had initiated the deposition of the witnesses instead of signing them, 12 Cr. L. J. 320 (Sladh). Cf. 1 Bar. L. T. 28. Where a Magistrate has committed the accused to the Sessions after making a local investigation without recording the result. Held there was no irregularity inasmuch as the Magistrate might be called as a witness at the Sessions and that the accused was not prejudiced thereby, 16 C. L. J. 45 = 13 Cr. L. J. 633.

7-A. Whether s. 537 applies to a reference under s. 307.—See last para Note 3 above. 47 B. 31.

7-B. Illegality of procedure in putting the defence counsel into the witness box.—(Where the prosecution put the defence counsel in the witness box on the day he appeared to conduct the defence of the accused thereby suddenly depriving the accused of the services of their counsel, held that the method adopted by the prosecution vitiated the trial and that it was unnecessary to consider whether the accused had been prejudiced or not)

It is against the etiquette of the Bar that counsel should give evidence in the case in which he is engaged as counsel and a counsel will not conduct a case for the defence after having been called as a witness by the prosecution 49 M. L. J. 93.

7-C. Witness for prosecution acting as interpreter.—In a trial on a charge of murder one of the witnesses for the prosecution acted as interpreter and interpreted the evidence of the witnesses including his own evidence to the accused Held, that it was a procedure which was absurd from the very outset and opposed to elementary ideas of justice, 30 G. W. N. 698.

8. Consent or waiver of accused will not cure defects, in proceedings substantially bad.—See Note 21 at p 570 and Note 1 at the beginning of this Chapter

II.—SECTION APPLIES ONLY TO IRREGULAR PROCEEDINGS OF COMPETENT COURTS.

9. Plea as to want of jurisdiction may be taken at any time, even in revision.—Neither ignorance of the parties nor silence on their part, can vest a Magistrate with powers which the law does not give, 26 B. 50, 23 W. R. 59. A plea as to want of jurisdiction (which, however, is not an irregularity and this section deals only with orders of competent Courts) may be taken at any time even in the High Court on revision though not taken in the Courts below, 15 W. R. [79] 69.

10. "Court of competent jurisdiction."—These words must be taken to mean "a Court of competent jurisdiction in respect of the particular offence charged," 10 B. 319. The saving provisions of this section extend only to the orders and so forth of Courts of competent jurisdiction, and a Magistrate who in consequence of personal disqualification is forbidden by law to try a particular case though he may be authorized generally to try cases of the same class, cannot be said with respect to that case to be a "Court of competent jurisdiction" 23 C. 328 and 442. So is a Magistrate, who in spite of the objection of the accused, takes cognizance of a case under s 190 (1)(c) and tries it, disregarding the provisions of s 191, 13 A. 345; 143 P. L. R. 1905. A prosecution is not legally instituted under s. 190 (1) when the Police report under s. 173 does not set forth the nature of the information, and the first information report is equally defective, 37 C. 49. When a Magistrate who was not competent to order the forfeiture of a bond under s 514, directed the bond to be forfeited, held that the order was illegal and s 637 did not apply as the order was not made by a Court of competent jurisdiction, 16 Bom. L. R. 84 = 15 Cr. L. J. 295.

11. Magistrate omitting to inform accused of his rights under s. 191 is incompetent to try the case—See Note 3 at p 483

12. Jury not properly selected is not a competent tribunal.—See Note 2 at p 756 and Note 2 at p 759 Under the old Code it was held that irregularities in the selection of the jurors, and in the admission of the deposition of a medical witness, it not being shown that the prisoner had been thereby prejudiced are not sufficient to set aside the verdict of the jury, regard being had to the provisions of this section and s 167 of the Evidence Act—Per FIELD, J., 8 G. 739 = 12 C. L. R. 233, but this ruling must be distinguished on the ground that no objection was taken at the time to the selection of the jurors. See the explanation which is new.

13. Trial by Court with assessors not properly chosen bad.—See Note 7 at p 669

14. Interestedness of Judge may render Court incompetent.—See 2 G. 23, Note 7 at p 29, interestedness of assessor, (1912) M. W. N. 378, Note 5 at p 671 See, however, 9 B. 172; 7 C. 322 and Notes 19—27 to s. 556

15. Trial by Court not constituted as by law required must be set aside.—(1) A Court of Session commencing a trial with only one assessor is not a properly constituted Court, and a conviction by such a Court, not being legal, must be set aside, 25 B. 694 following 15 B. 314; 21 A. 106. The defect is not one curable under this section. See Note 5 at p 699 (2) Similarly, where a trial was held by a jury consisting of more persons than ordained by the Local Government under s 274, the defect was considered to be too grave to be cured by this section, 28 A. 211. Note 1 to s 274 at p 662. (iii) Allowing assessor who has been absent to resume his functions may render the Court incompetent. See Notes 8 and 4 at p 669. (iv) So also judgment by Bench not duly constituted is illegal. See Notes 2-7 at pp. 28 29, 19 A. L. J. 1.

16. Sessions Judge is incompetent to continue trial begun by his predecessor.—See s. 350 and Note 10. Note even the consent of the accused can cure such an illegality, 6 C. 96 = 6 C. L. R. 521; 12 W. R. 3.

III.—CL. (a).—ERROR, OMISSION OR IRREGULARITY IN THE COMPLAINT.

17. Entire absence of complaint vitiates trial and conviction.—Cl. (a) does not deal with the entire absence of a complaint. A conviction under s 41 of the Excise Act without any complaint as required by s. 47 of that Act was held to be bad, the absence of the complaint not being a mere irregularity, 28 P. R. 1883. See also 1904 A. W. N. 268, when a conviction was set aside for want of a complaint and Note 4 at p 482, Note 2 to s. 198 and Note 3 to s. 199.

18. Omission to examine the complainant is a mere irregularity.—See s 200 and Note 11 (iv) at p 501 and see Cr. R. C. 393 of 1903 (Madras) and (1911) 2 M. W. N. 336 = 10 M. L. T. 573 = 12 Cr. L. J. 530 and also 11 A. L. J. 921; 4 L. 339; 1 Rang 517.

19. Effect of omission to record reasons for distrusting truth of complaint.—See s 203. An omission on the part of the Magistrate to record his reasons for distrusting a complaint and postponing issue of process after having examined the complainant is an irregularity not sufficient to set aside his order after an investigation dismissing the complaint, unless it can be shown to have occasioned a failure of justice, 25 M. 646; but see Notes 14 15 at p 512.

20. Effect of defective complaint.—Even if a complaint of an offence under s. 124 A, I P C., is defective in that, it does not set out the dates of speeches and the nature of the alleged seditious matter, it is at the most an irregularity within s. 537 (a) and a conviction cannot be reversed unless the irregularity has occasioned a failure of justice, 32 M. 3 at p 11. See Notes 5 and 6 at p 483, Note 2 (i) to s. 198, Note 4 to s. 186-A.

21. Effect of omission to take the signature of the complainant.—See s 200 and Note 9 (ii) at p 500. The mere omission to reduce a complaint into writing would not justify an Appellate Court in reversing the judgment or sentence, 7 M. H. C. R. Appx. XXV.

IV.—CL. (a).—ERROR, OMISSION OR IRREGULARITY IN SUMMONS OR WARRANT.

22. Form and contents of summons or warrant.—See s 68 and Note 7 at p 103 for formalities and contents of summons and s 75 and Notes 3-10 at pp. 107-109. An omission to affix the seal to a warrant is a mere irregularity cured by this section, 23 P. R. 1910 = 11 Cr. L. J. 570.

23. Irregular issue of warrant does not vitiate proceedings.—The error of a Magistrate in proceeding by warrant instead of by summons furnishes no ground for quashing the proceedings, 1 W. R. 16. Similarly, the issue of a search warrant to a Sub-Inspector of Police instead of to the Inspector, under the Public Gambling Act is an irregularity covered by the section 1884 A. W. N. 267 and 291; 6 N. L. R. 168, 12 Cr. L. J. 28.

23-A. Issuing a warrant under s. 90 without recording reasons is illegal.—Recording of reasons is a necessary preliminary to the issue of a warrant under s. 90 and the failure to do so vitiates the warrant and s. 537 cannot be applied to cure such illegality, 33 M. 1033.

24. Illegality of search without warrant does not vitiate the conviction.—The illegality of a search without warrant is no bar to the conviction of the accused under the Excise Act 35 A. 338 and 575. The absence of a search warrant does not affect the legality of the trial 11 A. L. J. 933 = 15 Cr. L. J. 19. See also 47 A. 575; 46 A. 86.

25. Irregularities in warrants under ss. 96, 98 and 100.—See Note 25 at p 133. Note 6 at p 135 and Notes 5 and 6 at p 137. If a Magistrate issuing a warrant under s. 96 (1) gives no reasons whatever for believing that the accused would not produce the articles in question if a summons was issued to him for their production, the requirements of sub-sec. (1) of s. 96 are not complied with and consequently the order of the Magistrate issuing the warrant would be illegal, 12 P. W. R. 1916.

26. Effect of material defects in warrants.—(1) Where a distress warrant issued under the Public Demands Recovery Act (Bengal I of 1895) has been extended beyond the original date of return, but does not bear on its face, the extended date as required by Order XXI, Rule 24, Civ. P. C., 1908, it is an illegal warrant resistance to which is no offence 37 C. 122 See also 10 C. 18; 31 C. 424 (2) A warrant issued under s. 45 of the Chowkidars Act Bengal (VI of 1870) must contain the name of the person who is to execute it and it is only the person named in the warrant who can lawfully execute the warrant. The person named in the warrant cannot delegate the execution of the process to his subordinates 37 C. 122 Cases In 22 C. 596 and 759 were decided with reference to the Civil Procedure Code.

27 Effect of the issue of fresh summons without fresh information.—Where on an information a summons is issued to the accused and owing to its disclosure no offence a fresh summons is issued without the facts stated in the first summons is not sufficient to constitute an offence. The facts stated in the first summons is not sufficient to constitute an offence. The facts stated in the first summons is not sufficient to constitute an offence.

29 Illegal warrant cannot be validated.—See 11 P. R. 1895. A warrant signed by the Magistrate outside the limits of his jurisdiction is illegal 33 P. R. 1910 = 11 Cr. L. J. 570; 1 B. 340 referred to. See Note 1 at p. 415.

31 Omission of charge—does section validate conviction for offence other than one charged?—See Note 2 to s. 335. Notes 2 and 5 to s. 232 and Note 1 at p. 556. Where a person was charged with having caused hurt to one person but was convicted of having hurt another person held that the conviction was illegal 14 C. W. N. 299. Where a Magistrate omitted to draw up a charge but gave accused clearly to understand the nature of the charge made against him held that the irregularity did not occasion a failure of justice 10 W. R. 7; 3 C. L. R. 131; 3 A. 129. Where the charge was house-breaking with intention to commit theft the Magistrate convicted him finding that the intention was to commit adultery held the conviction was bad. Where the charges framed broke down it was the bounden duty of the Magistrate to have drawn up a fresh charge 41 C. 743. A charge was framed for an offence under ss. 143 and 326 but the jurors acquitted the accused of rioting but found them guilty under s. 326 without the aid of s. 149 for which there was no charge and the accused were accordingly convicted held the conviction in the absence of a charge was illegal 18 C. W. N. 668 = 16 Cr. L. J. 195; 34 C. 698 and 16 C. W. N. 1077 relied on. The accused were charged under s. 147 with the common object of taking forcible possession of complainant's land and assaulting him and were convicted under s. 449 I. I. C. held the conviction was bad. If the common object constituting the unlawful assembly had been to commit criminal trespass a conviction under s. 449 may be legal under s. 239 (2) 33 W. R. 59 followed. On the trial of the accused for dacoity he was convicted by jury of receiving stolen property though no charge had been framed against him to that effect. The principal evidence against him was equally relevant to prove both the offences held that in the circumstances the accused was not materially prejudiced by the manner in which the trial was conducted.—M. H. C. Pro. 10th January 1885.

In a recent Madras decision the above noted Calcutta cases were considered and as a result the Full Bench of the Madras High Court disagrees with the general statement that it is now settled law that when a person is charged by implication under s. 149 he cannot be convicted of the substantive offence and it was held by the Full Bench that when a charge has been framed under ss. 326 and 149 I. I. C. conviction under s. 326 above is not necessarily bad s. 149 I. P. C. creates no offence. Person cannot be tried and sentenced under s. 149 I. I. C. alone. The omission of s. 149 from a charge does not create an illegality by reason of s. 233 of the Code. It is only an irregularity coming under s. 537 of the Code. 47 M. 748 = 47 M. L. J. 221.

32 Errors and omission in charges.—(i) Omission of the word dishonestly in charge under s. 411 I. P. C.—The omission of the word dishonestly in the charge and record of conviction is not a ground for reversing the conviction and sentence where the accused person has fully understood the nature of the offence with which he is charged and has not been prejudiced by the omission 10 B. H. C. R. 373. (ii) Omission to mention place of offence in charge under Madras Forest Act Vol. 1882.—Omission to state in a charge under s. 26 of the Madras Forest Act that the place from where the accused cuts a tree in a reserved forest is a material defect and vitiates the trial 13 Cr. L. J. 804 (M.). (iii) Omission to specify passages or speeches in charge under ss. 124 A and 153-A, I P C.—See Notes 4 and 5 at pp 553-551 (iv) Particulars in charge of perjury.—See Note 2 at p 553 (v) Omission in charge of rioting, etc.—See Note 1 at p 552 and Notes 1—3 at pp 556-557 The Punjab Chief Court in 16 P. R. 1915 = 16 Cr. L. J. 689, dissented from 39 C. 781 and declined to hold that the specific common object of a riot must be set out in a charge under s 149 and declined to interfere as the omission in the charge had not in fact occasioned a failure of justice and s 537 covered the omission (vi) Where necessary the intention must be set out in the charge.—See Note 3 at p 550 (vii) Omission to set out previous conviction for passing an order under s 565.—See 9 N. 33. Errors and irregularities in adding or altering charges at trial.—See ss 226—232 and Notes thereto at pp 557—562. Upon a single charge of wrongful confinement, the accused raised a defence justifying the confinement, on the ground that the persons confined had been caught under circumstances which led to the belief that they had committed house-breaking by night with intent to commit theft, and the Magistrate, disbelieving the defence, committed the accused to the Sessions, not only for the wrongful confinement, but for fabricating false evidence and bringing a false charge, it was held that by the adding of the new charges the Magistrate had really prejudged the defence on the first charge and a conviction had at the Sessions trial was quashed by the High Court, 4 G. L. R. 335. The accused was charged with having committed an offence on the 3rd January, 1909. On the evidence adduced at the hearing, the Magistrate being satisfied that the offence could not have been committed on that date altered the date of occurrence to 27th December, 1908. The very same prosecution witnesses who had supported the previous charge were examined again in support of the altered charge and the accused was convicted and sentenced and the conviction was confirmed on appeal. But in revision the conviction was set aside as it was considered unsafe to uphold the conviction based on such accommodating evidence. It was not as though there had been a mistake of date due to clerical error or mistake of date disclosed by the evidence in the course of the hearing it was an alteration of date made to support a new theory, and this new theory was established by the evidence of witnesses who had been equally ready to establish the commission of an offence on a different date, 13 C. W. N. 273. The accused was charged with and convicted of committing criminal breach of trust in respect of a large sum of money between August, 1909 and August, 1910, there was evidence to prove that in February and May, 1911 he misappropriated a part of the sum but the evidence did not disclose the commission of any offence before August, 1910, held that it was not enough to show that there was embezzlement at some time before, during or after that period, that the charge being framed under s. 222 (2), it is at any rate necessary to show an act or acts of the embezzlement within the space of one year and the discrepancy in the dates could not be held to be cured under this section, (25 M. 61 followed), 17 C. W. N. 479 = 14 Cr. L. J. 219

34. Commitment of acquitted prisoner on fresh charge without further inquiry.—A prisoner, originally charged with an offence under one section (s. 302 I P C.) and acquitted of that charge, was committed, the day following that on which she was acquitted for trial under another section (s. 307) without any witness being examined on the new charge under s. 307 and without having any opportunity of cross-examining the witnesses on the first charge with respect to the second charge. held, that the irregularity was one which was not covered by this section, and that the prisoner had been prejudiced thereby in her defence, 22 W. R. 14 = 15 B. L. R. 84.

35. Omission to read out and explain fresh charge is mere irregularity.—See s 227 and Note 5 at p 561 and 5 C. 826.

36. Misleading charge vitiates conviction.—Where two distinct actions were alleged against the accused, but he was charged with only one offence and it was impossible to understand from the charge of which of the two actions alleged the accused was charged, the conviction was set aside, 13 C. W. N. 257. If the charge for dacoity does not set out or indicate which particular dacoity an accused is tried for, the conviction must be set aside, (1912) M. W. N. 49 = 13 Cr. L. J. 125. See also Note 4 at p 563

VI.—CL. (a).—ERROR, OMISSION OR IRREGULARITY DURING TRIAL.

37. Cross-cases between contending parties ought not to be tried simultaneously.—There had been a riot and fight between two factories and some members of one party A were charged with the murder of the leader of the other party B and some members of the B party were charged with causing grievous hurt to the leader of the A party, held, that the members of each party should have been committed for trial separately and the Magistrate was wrong in committing the members of both the parties for trial all together upon joint charges as if they had one common object, the trial and conviction were however not set aside by the High Court, 11 W. R. 47; 12 W. R. 73. In 6 C. 96 the last case was distinguished as it was tried with the aid of assessors.

In this case the members of two opposing parties in a riot, were under two distinct committals sent up for trial before the Sessions Judge and a jury. After the close of the case for the prosecution in one of these cases the Sessions Judge with the consent of the pleaders representing the accused, postponed the taking of the evidence for the defence and proceeded to examine the witnesses for the prosecution in the counter-case before the same jury and then took the evidence of the witnesses for the defence in the first and in the counter-case in the order named, and after hearing the address of the various pleaders for the defence and the reply of the Government proceeded to sum up the facts in both cases to the jury, who returned a verdict in respect of all the accused. Both the sets of accused appealed alleging that they had been prejudiced by the manner in which the two cases had been virtually tried together. Held, that the procedure resorted to by the Judge was a practical violation of the salutary rule which necessitated the keeping of trials in such cases distinctly separate and that this proceeding in parallel lines in both the cases having materially prejudiced the interest of the accused, the convictions should be set aside. When a similar procedure was adopted and the Magistrate discharged one set of accused in one case, and called upon the accused in the other to go into his defence it was held that the trial held on what are termed "parallel lines" was open to strong objections, and that it should therefore never be adopted. Each case should be separately tried, and the guilt or innocence of the accused determined on evidence recorded in it. In this case the case was transferred to the file of another Magistrate, 13 C. L. R. 278. In 14 C. 358 such a procedure was strongly condemned by SIR W. COCKER PETHERAM, C. J., "I think this is a course which is to be deprecated to the last degree. I think it a very great pity that Magistrates should ever adopt it. There is no doubt, to my mind, that it constitutes a very great irregularity, and the reason why it is so very objectionable is, that you call a man as a witness whose conduct has been inquired into but the decision in whose case has not been pronounced, and you hear his statement of the case given before the very person who is to decide upon his guilt or innocence, and by doing that you introduce an element into the question whether or not he will tell the truth, which ought not to be there, because he has a personal interest in the inquiry, his liberty or life may be at stake on what will be the verdict in his own case and it is not in human nature to suppose that he would under such circumstances, give his evidence in the very impartial way that it ought to be given in a Court of Justice. Therefore it seems to me that it is not only an irregularity but an irregularity of a grave kind." But the conviction was not set aside as it had not been shown that the accused had been prejudiced and the irregularity was held to be cured under s. 537. In 20 C. 537, a Bench consisting of three Judges re-affirmed that such a trial of the two parties to a riot was opposed to the law but it was not necessary to set aside the conviction in all cases following the distinction pointed out in 6 C. 96 as the trial was not by a jury. The observations noted above in 14 C. 358 were however disapproved. In a trial of two cross-cases of rioting, one case was taken up first and some witnesses for the prosecution were examined the other case was taken up next day and certain witnesses for the prosecution in that case were examined. The order sheets showed that on certain days, certain witnesses were examined in both the cases, while on other days witnesses in the one or the other case were alone examined and in some instances some of the accused in the one case were examined as witnesses for the prosecution in the other. The charges in the two cases were framed at an interval of four days, but the evidence was completed and arguments were heard on one and the same day, and two days after both the cases were disposed of by separate judgments. Held, that the trial was not vitiated by reason of the procedure adopted by the Magistrate nor were the accused in any way prejudiced thereby. It was an advantage to the accused rather than a disadvantage that the Magistrate had before him the evidence in both the cases, before he made up his mind as to which case was true and which untrue, 8 C. W. N. 344 where 13 C. L. R. 275 is distinguished. In 5 P. R. 1908 = 4 Cr. L. J. 75 it was held following 15 P. R. 1882 and 20 C. 537 that the joint trial of the opposite factions in a riot was not merely irregular, but illegal. In 9 A. 452 at p. 462 the inconvenience and impropriety of trying several persons jointly for rioting were pointed out and (1883) A. W. N. 28, 6 C. 96 were followed and applied to inquiries under s. 107. Where a Magistrate rightly enough framed separate charges and numbered the cases as two calendar cases, but when the witnesses came to be cross-examined, he lost sight of the necessity for keeping the two trials separate and allowed the witnesses to be cross-examined promiscuously in respect of both the charges, held that the trial offended against the provisions of s. 233 and was illegal and was not covered by this section, 29 M. L. J. 101 = 18 M. L. T. 95 = 16 Cr. L. J. 593. See also 4 Lab. 376.

Cross-complaints were filed. The Magistrate heard the evidence for the prosecution in each of the cases. Then without framing a charge formally as required by s. 254 and without following the provision of ss. 255-256-257 in the first case he dealt with it as if a charge had been framed and treated the evidence in the other case as defence evidence in the first. On that understanding both cases were argued before him without any further evidence being taken, and both were decided. In doing this the Magistrate followed a practice which had grown up in his Court. Held, that it was impossible to hold that a trial conducted in a mode so materially different from that prescribed by law was a proper trial. Magistrates are not at liberty to substitute for the procedure of the Code a procedure which has arisen by usage however convenient that may be, 17 Bom. L. R. 498 = 18 Cr. L. J. 830.

33. Can rival factions be called upon to furnish security to keep the peace or for good behaviour in one proceeding?—See Notes 38–43 at pp. 176–177. In 14 A. L. J. 268 = 17 Cr. L. J. 165 the joint trial of two contending factions was held not to be justified by s. 117 (4).

39. Effect of misjoinder of charges.—See Note 3 and Notes 20–23 at pp. 564, 570, 571.

40. Effect of multiplicity in the charge.—See s. 234 and Notes thereto. A series of alterations in accounts made to cover a defalcation might all be charged in one charge under s. 477 A, I P. C., as there are not three distinct offences committed by an accused person merely by reason of the fact that he makes more than one false entry to cover one defalcation. But it is impossible to take a series of false entries referring to three different defalcations in the same trial, although it might be possible to try three different defalcations in one trial, or to try a whole series of falsified accounts in one charge, 41 C. 722. See 30 M. 328; 28 C. 580 and Note 7 at p. 573. In 33 C. 161, the charging of an accused person with two offences under s. 17b, I P. C., and two offences under s. 179, I P. C., was held to be not subject to s. 234 and consequently there was no misjoinder of charges. All facts being admitted and the sentence being only for one of the offences, the accused was not prejudiced, and the irregularity, if any, was covered by this section. If an accused is charged at one trial with three separate offences under the same section, and the complainant is a different person in each case, it is an irregularity, as for the purpose of s. 234 offences are not of the same kind when the complainants are different, and it is also an irregularity to pass one sentence for three separate offences. Usually such irregularity would be treated as falling under this section and it would be for the superior Court to find whether taking into consideration the facts that no objection to the charge had been taken in the Lower Courts, the accused had been prejudiced in his defence, 1904 K. L. R. 21. Where, at the same trial, the accused was charged with having cheated A on two occasions and B on another occasion and was convicted on all these charges, the conviction was upheld, 4 A. 167. But in 15 B. 491 a retrial was ordered on the ground of prejudice to the accused. Where two separate offences which should have been tried separately were tried together, held following 14 A. 502, this did not amount to more than a mere irregularity which, as it did not appear that the accused were in any way prejudiced, was covered by this section. 1907 A. W. N. 208 = 8 Cr. L. J. 215.

41. Effect of misjoinder of parties.—See s. 239 and Notes 10–13 at pp. 597–98, 18 O. C. 92 = 18 Cr. L. J. 270; 28 M. L. J. 397 = 16 Cr. L. J. 323.

(i) Joint trial of thief and receiver of stolen property—See Notes 17, 18 and 35 to s. 239. In 14 A. L. J. 344 = 17 Cr. L. J. 169, KNOX, J. pointed out that the practice in Allahabad has been the same as prevails in Bombay, viz. that where practical, the thief and the person who receives stolen property are tried together and such trial has not been held to be in contravention of the provisions of s. 239. If the evidence showed that the act of guilty receipt was separated by a clean cut, so to speak, from the act of theft, such an exception might be taken with success.

(ii) Joint trial of receivers of stolen property—See Note 35 at p. 602. When the only evidence is that part of stolen property was with one and part with the other the two cannot be tried together, but if it is shown that the two were acting in concert and had joint possession of the property stolen their joint trial is not illegal, 1 Pat. L. J. 54.

42. Where the defect is one of duplicity and not misjoinder this section may be applied.—See Note 7 at p. 564.

43. Delay in postponing final order in case of contempt.—See Note 8 to s. 480. Where a Magistrate in whose presence the contempt was committed, took cognizance of the offence immediately, but in order to give the accused an opportunity of showing cause, postponed his final order, held, that such action though it might be irregular, was not illegal, and as the accused had not been in any way prejudiced, was covered by this section, 41 A. 361.

44. Omission to record reasons for orders is irregular—(i) Reasons for rejecting sureties under s. 122—See Notes 91 and 96 at pp. 188–189. (ii) Reasons for granting compensation under s. 230—See Note 28 at p. 621. (iii) Reasons for tendering pardon under s. 337—See Note 14 to sec. 337. Where two separate offences which should have been tried separately were tried together, held following 14 A. 502, this did not amount to more than a mere irregularity which, as it did not appear that the accused were in any way prejudiced, was covered by this section, 1907 A. W. N. 208 = 6 Cr. L. J. 215.

41. Effect of misjoinder of parties.—See s. 239 and Notes 10–13 at pp. 597–98. 18 O. C. 92 = 16 Cr. L. J. 270; 28 M. L. J. 397 = 16 Cr. L. J. 323.

(i) Joint trial of thief and receiver of stolen property—See Notes 17, 18 and 35 to s. 239. In 14 A. L. J. 346 = 17 Cr. L. J. 159, KNOX, J., pointed out that the practice in Allahabad has been the same as prevails in Bombay, viz that where practical, the thief and the person who receives stolen property are tried together and such trial has not been held to be in contravention of the provisions of s. 239. If the evidence showed that the act of guilty receipt was separated by a clean cut, so to speak, from the act of theft, such an exception might be taken with success.

(ii) Joint trial of receivers of stolen property—See Note 35 at p. 602. When the only evidence is that part of stolen property was with one and part with the other the two cannot be tried together, but if it is shown that the two were acting in concert and had joint possession of the property stolen, their joint trial is not illegal, 1 Pat. L. J. 64.

42. Where the defect is one of duplicity and not misjoinder this section may be applied.—See Note 7 at p. 564.

43. Delay in postponing final order in case of contempt.—See Note 8 to s. 480. Where a Magistrate in whose presence the contempt was committed, took cognizance of the offence immediately, but in order to give the accused an opportunity of showing cause, postponed his final order, held, that such action, though it might be irregular, was not illegal, and as the accused had not been in any way prejudiced, was covered by this section, 11 A. 361.

44. Omission to record reasons for orders is irregular.—(i) Reasons for rejecting sureties under s. 122—See Notes 91 and 93 at pp. 183–189. (ii) Reasons for granting compensation under s. 250—See Note 28 at p. 621. (iii) Reasons for tendering pardon under s. 337—See Note 14 to sec. 337. (iv) Reasons for order of transfer under s. 323 (3)—See Note 9 thereto. (v) Reasons for ordering fresh evidence under s. 428—See

Note 6 at p 1036 (vi) Omitting to record reasons as required by s. 90 renders the warrant invalid—See Note 3 to s 90 and 38 M. 1088. (vii) Failure to record reasons for dismissing complaint—See Note 8 to s 202.

45. Errors, etc., in judgments.—See Chap XXI.—Omission to write a judgment is not an irregularity cured by s 537 (a) 17 Bom. L. R. 1085 = 3 Bom. Cr. Ca. 161 = 16 Cr. L. J. 832

(i) Pronouncing judgment in absence of accused is irregular—See Note 8 at p 924

(ii) Pronouncing sentence before writing judgment is irregular—See Notes 11—13 to s. 367

(iii) Omission to record judgment in proper language is a mere irregularity—See Note 16 to s. 367

(iv) Omission to state grounds of decision—In a trial with the aid of assessors the Judge's omission to state the grounds of his decision is not an illegality which invalidates the conviction, 6 B. H. C. R. Cr. Ca. 55. But reasons for conviction should be so recorded as to satisfy an Appellate or Revisional Court that there were sufficient materials to support the conviction. Where it is not shown that there is evidence on which the conviction was proper, it was set aside. It is impossible in such a case to say what the result of the error on the part of the Magistrate may have been or that it has not occasioned a failure of justice. 6 C. 579; 13 C. 472. Where there was only a single point, as to the credibility or otherwise of the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, a judgment otherwise defective was upheld, 20 C. 353.

The omission to record reasons for conviction as required by cl (h) of s. 263 on the part of a Bench of Magistrates amounts merely to an irregularity under s. 537 where the case is a non appealable and there is clear evidence justifying the conviction. 26 Bom. L. R. 1238.

(v) Informal defective appellate judgments—See Notes 30—33 to s. 367 and Notes 6—9 to s. 424. See also 14 A. L. J. 279 = 17 Cr. L. J. 167 and 14 A. L. J. 445.

(vi) Summing up should not be embodied in his judgment—It is highly inconvenient and not to be approved, if a Judge should in his judgment embody his summing up to his assessors, but it is not illegal and the judgment is not invalid as containing no distinct statement or discussion of the evidence, 9 C. L. J. 83 = 10 Cr. L. J. 325. See Notes 34—37 to s. 367

(vii) Pronouncing judgment without hearing accused's counsel—Where a Magistrate delivered judgment without allowing accused's counsel to address the Court on behalf of the clients, held, that the accused had been prejudiced by such material irregularity, 6 Bom. L. R. 663.

(viii) Basing judgment on extra judicial information or inadmissible evidence—Where the evidence actually on record did not bear out some of the observations of the Magistrate in his judgment and there was reasonable ground for a suspicion that the Magistrate incorporated into his judgment what he heard or was represented to him in a local inspection, the conviction was set aside, 14 C. W. N. 99. A Magistrate in trying a case against several accused persons confined his attention only to those whose names were mentioned before the Chief Constable during the Police inquiry. He used the statements made to the Police Constable, without complying with the provisions of s. 162, acquitted those whose names were not mentioned to the Police Constable but convicted the others. It was contended that though the procedure adopted by the Magistrate was irregular, accused were not prejudiced thereby. Held, that the prejudice to the accused was clear, when, as a result of the perusal of the statements made to the Chief Constable, some of the accused were acquitted, because their names did not appear in them and the rest were convicted. The necessary inference was that as to the latter, the Magistrate was influenced by the fact that the statements of the witnesses examined before him was corroborated by the statements made to the Chief Constable, whereas the law directs that they cannot be used in evidence unless they are admitted in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act and this Code. Having regard to the explanation to this section, the Court was bound to presume under the circumstances of the case, that there was a failure of justice, so far as the trial before the Magistrate was concerned. 9 Bom. L. R. 366 = 5 Cr. L. J. 353.

(ix) Is it legal for Magistrate to pronounce judgment written by his predecessor when accused demands trial de novo?—See s. 350 and 1916 M. W. N. 372 = 17 Cr. L. J. 165.

(x) Holograph judgment not signed—Where a Magistrate has written a judgment entirely with his own hand forgot to sign and date it, it was held that this was an irregularity cured by s. 537. 47 A. 284.

45-A. Omission to record formal order under s. 494 is a mere irregularity.—When under s. 494, the prosecution withdraws charge and the Magistrate takes judicial notice of the withdrawal by examining the accused as a witness against the co-accused the omission to use the words "I discharge you" would be utmost an irregularity curable by s. 537, 7 A. L. J. 86 = 11 Cr. L. J. 21. See Note 26 to s. 403

45-B—Where a Magistrate wrote out a judgment signed dated it but owing to physical incapacity had it read out by another Magistrate held that the procedure was merely irregular and covered by s. 537 21

VIII.—C1 (a)—ERROR, OMISSION OR IRREGULARITY IN OTHER PROCEEDINGS BEFORE OR DURING TRIAL

46 In the absence of commitment, trial is illegal—See s. 193 and Notes 1—3 As to the effect of commitment by a Magistrate having no local jurisdiction—See Note 6 to s. 532

47 Errors in inquiry and commitment—

(i) That the inquiring Magistrate had no territorial jurisdiction is a mere irregularity—See Note 5 at p. 522 and Note 6 to s. 532.

(ii) Certificate of Political Agent received after commencement of preliminary inquiry but before commitment effect of—See Note 9 at p. 419

(iii) Effect of irregularity in the conduct of inquiry—An irregularity in the conduct of an inquiry, even though sufficiently serious to induce the High Court to annul a commitment is not sufficient to justify the annulment of the trial after the commitment has been made and a trial had upon it, unless the irregularity has caused a failure of justice by prejudicing the accused in his defence, Ratanlal 177.

(iv) Effect of absence of notice under s. 436 to show cause why commitment should not be made—Where a trial under a commitment made by an order of a Sessions Judge under s. 436 had been duly held with out giving the accused an opportunity to show cause and no actual failure of justice had been caused by the error of the Sessions Judge held that the conviction could not be annulled regard being had to the provisions of this section 7 C. 662 = 10 C. L. R. 8, 8 C. 435 = 10 C. L. R. 46, Ratanlal 699 So also where proceedings were taken under s. 476 without a preliminary inquiry Ratanlal 701

(v) Omitting to examine accused before commitment is highly irregular—See s. 209 and Note 1 at p. 526

48 Irregularities in compensation proceedings under s. 250—

(i) Effect of omission to record complainant's objection to Magistrate's order awarding compensation—Note 27 at p. 620 The Madras High Court in Weir II, 711, held that failure on the part of a Magistrate to make the record required by proviso (a) to s. 250 when passing an order for compensation thereby giving no opportunity to the complainant to urge his objections to the order was but an irregularity curable under this section.

(ii) Reasons for granting compensation should be given—See Note 26 at p. 620

(iii) Order for compensation must form part of the order of discharge or acquittal—See Note 39 at p. 621

49 Irregularities in trial of warrant-cases—Chap. XXI—

(i) Trial of a warrant-case as a summons case is illegal—See Note 4 to s. 251 at p. 625 A Magistrate proceeded in the first instance as if the case fell under the first part of s. 100 of the Amendment Act of 1890 and adopted the procedure for a summons-case. Eventually the accused was convicted of an offence under the latter part of s. 100 which contemplates a warrant-case. Held that the action of the Magistrate was illegal and the conviction was set aside 5 M. L. T. 204 = 11 Cr. L. J. 191

(ii) Failure to recall prosecution witnesses for cross-examination—See s. 256 and Notes 5—13 at p. 633—635

(iii) Failure to summon defence witnesses—See s. 257 and Note 4 at p. 637

50 Irregularities in Sessions trials—Chap. XXIII—

(i) Reading deposition of witnesses and cross-examining them thereon is very irregular—See Notes to s. 268 and Notes 6 and 7 to s. 353 In 8 Bom. L. R. 535 = 4 Cr. L. J. 89, the accused was tried for abetment of murder and acquitted. He was again put up for trial for an offence under s. 201, I. P. C. with respect to the same offence. At the request of the pleader of the accused and with the consent of the Government pleader the evidence recorded by the Judge at the previous trial was accepted as evidence in the second case. Held that the procedure adopted was irregular but was covered by this section. Per RUSSELL, J.—The procedure which was adopted in this case, must never be followed under any circumstances whatever

The evidence of all the witnesses before the Judge and assessors must be in a voce, except in the case of evidence given by a medical officer which under certain circumstances need not be in a voce. See Notes 9 and 10 at pp 678-679

(ii) Omission to call on the accused to enter upon his defence is a serious irregularity—See s. 299 and Note 8 at p 681

(iii) Effect of illegality in directing jury to retire for further deliberation—See Note 4 to s 303 and Note 4 at p 719 Where a jury returns an ambiguous verdict, the Judge should proceed under s 303 and not send the jury back again to consider further and return a second verdict, and the conviction and sentence on such an irregular second verdict must be set aside, as entirely illegal and in such a case s. 12 of the Lower Burma Courts Act, 1900, nearly corresponding with s. 26 of the Letters Patent of the Chartered High Court does not empower the Bench to go into the facts again and decide the case on the evidence—Per ADAMSON C.J., and Fox, J. But IRWIN, J., held the error was an irregularity curable by this section. Anyhow the conviction and sentence might be set aside and a new trial ordered without the accused being acquitted. 3 L. B. R. 75 = 3 Cr. L. J. 1.

(iv) Pronouncing judgment without taking opinions of assessors is illegal—See Notes 4 and 5 at pp 730 Where a Sessions Court after the close of the case for the prosecution and without consulting the assessors, records a finding of not guilty because it considers the evidence for the prosecution to be unsatisfactory, untrustworthy or inconclusive, it acts without jurisdiction, and its order discharging the accused is illegal. Even if not illegal for want of jurisdiction such action is a serious irregularity, which may or perhaps must have caused a failure of justice within the meaning of this section 10 A. 414; 15 B. 414.

(v) Irregularity in recording verdict of jury and opinions of assessors—Each assessor's opinion must be recorded. See Notes 6—9 at pp 730-731 Taking opinion of assessors in one joint statement instead of separately, is an irregularity and unless it prejudices the accused is covered by this section, 41 P. R. 1837. It is improper to get the individual opinions of jurors, see Note 2 to s 301

(vi) Charge to jury should be made when all evidence has been taken—See s. 297 and Note 1 A at p 692

51. Examination of accused—See ss. 209 and 342 and Notes thereto

(i) Examination of accused is imperative—See Notes 5—7 to section 342, 45 M. 820, 43 M. L. J. 710 = 43 M. L. J. 402.

(ii) Examination must not be inquisitorial nor to fill up gaps in prosecution evidence—See Notes 12—16 to s. 342.

52. Effect of evidence partly recorded by one Magistrate and partly by another—See s. 350 and Notes.

(i) Omission to inquire from accused whether he wishes to exercise his privilege under s. 350 (a)—See Notes 16 and 17 An omission to inquire from the accused whether he wishes to exercise the right reserved by s. 350 (a) when there has been no prejudice to the accused and no miscarriage of justice is an irregularity curable under s. 537, U. B. R. (1912) 4th Qr. 152 = 14 Cr. L. J. 287.

52-A. Effect of irregularities in local investigation—

(i) Directing local investigation after close of defence is irregular—Where a Subordinate Magistrate was sent to hold a local investigation after the defence was closed, held that at the most it amounted to an irregularity and that it was in no sense an illegality and the conviction was not bad as it was not shown that the defence had been prejudiced, 15 C. W. N. 414 = 12 Cr. L. J. 7.

(ii) Not placing a note of inspection on the record—An omission to place on the record the results of a local inspection is not a total error of jurisdiction apart from any prejudice which it may cause to the accused. If at all, it is a mere irregularity, as the Magistrate had embodied the result of the local investigation in his judgment delivered four days later, when what he saw was still fresh in his memory (9 C. 363 = 12 C. L. R. 490 followed, 20 C. 857 and 31 C. 340 distinguished) 16 C. W. N. 426 = 15 C. L. J. 403 = 13 Cr. L. J. 156

But in a Bombay case where a Magistrate making during the course of a trial, a local enquiry is not at liberty to question persons who have collected there at the time, without recording their evidence on oath and allowing the other side an opportunity for cross-examination. Such a defect cannot be cured by subsequently examining one of such persons as a witness. 28 Bom. L. R. 302. In this case 53 C. 148 was cited with approval. But in 53 C. 46, 52 C. 148 was doubted and held that the omission to record a memorandum under s. 539-B in an inquiry under s. 145 is not an illegality vitiating the proceeding but an irregularity which does not affect it in the absence of prejudice to the parties.

53. Examination of witnesses and recording evidence—Chap XXV—

(i) Reception of inadmissible evidence—See s. 167, Indian Evidence Act, and Notes 32—34 at pp 693-694. The misreception of evidence, though an error or irregularity within the meaning of this section is not sufficient to reverse the conviction unless the prisoner has been prejudiced thereby or there has been a failure of justice, 7 W. R. 7.

Where improper questions have been admitted at a trial it is for the Crown to show that their improper effect has been set right by the Court. Either the jury should be told at once to disregard the statements or the charge should contain a similar warning to them. If this cannot be done it is the duty of the Judge to discharge the jury and begin the case de novo. 28 Bom. L. R. 281.

(ii) Effect of omission to administer oath—See s. 19 of the Oaths Act, 1873 and Notes thereto at pp cxx-cxxi of the Appendix.

(iii) Examination of prosecution witness after close of defence is irregular—It is irregular to allow a witness to be examined on behalf of the prosecution after the accused has made his defence, when the witness is not a witness to contradict any new case set up by the prisoner. Where, however, the prisoner had full notice of the evidence which was to be given by such witness, and made his defence in allusion to the evidence of the witness, held that the irregularity was not sufficient to set aside the conviction having regard to the provisions of this section, 13 W. R. 36; 15 C. W. N. 416 = 12 Cr. L. J. 7; 20 A. L. J. 874.

(iv) It is illegal to examine witness behind back of accused—Where the witnesses on the strength of whose evidence the accused were convicted were heard in the absence of the accused, held this was an illegality which could not be cured by this section—Cri Rev 712 of 1905 All High Court. See Notes 1—5 to s 353 and Cf Ratanlal 325.

(v) Recording substance of evidence in English when not authorized is a mere irregularity—See s. 355 and Note 4 to s 355.

(vi) Omission to examine witness afresh, but putting in evidence given in previous trial is very irregular—See Notes 6 and 7 to s. 353 and Note 10 to s 286. See also 9 N. L. R. 65 = 16 Cr. L. J. 290 and W. R. Sup Vol. I, No. 38.

(vii) Recording evidence in language other than English when not authorized to do so is an irregularity—See s. 357 and Note 1 thereto. Failure of a Magistrate to comply with the provisions of s 357 is not such an irregularity as had occasioned a failure of justice or prejudiced the accused—M H C. Pro, 9th March, 1885.

(viii) Recording evidence after discharge of assessors or jury is illegal—To record evidence after the close of the trial and after discharge of assessors is a material irregularity not covered by this section 15 A. 136; 7 Bom. L. R. 978; Note 3 at p 654 19 A. L. J. 1.

54. Effect of passing separate sentences, when only one sentence is allowed by law.—See s. 35 and Notes under Heading II at pp 63—65.

IX.—CL. (a) —ERROR, OMISSION OR IRREGULARITY IN OTHER PROCEEDINGS.

55. Irregularity in publication of proclamation.—See 22 A. 216 and Note 10 to s 83.

56. Irregularities in security proceedings.—(a) A Magistrate has no jurisdiction to act under s. 110 until he has such information before him as will suffice for his making an order in writing under s. 112, see Note 12 at p. 170. (b) Magistrate must make preliminary order, see Note 18 at p 172. (c) Effect of omission or irregularity in preliminary order, see Notes 20 and 21 at p 173. (d) To constitute a proper foundation for an order under s. 107, notice should be given to the party affected. A notice issued under s. 110 is not a sufficient notice. 30 M. 282. But if summons was issued under s. 107 and proceedings taken under s. 110, but the proceedings were recorded at length and the accused had opportunities of cross-examination and there had been no failure of justice, the irregularities are cured by s. 537, 16 Cr. L. J. 83 (M). See Notes under Heading IX at pp. 183-184. (e) Irregularity in procedure and effect of holding a joint inquiry—See Notes at pp 173—175 and Note 37. It was held in 1 P. R. 1916 following 35 C. 243, that persons against whom security proceedings are taken are not entitled to invoke the aid of s. 236 and recall witnesses who have given evidence against them. In 14 A. L. J. 263, the joint trial of two hostile parties was held to be bad. (f) Reasons for refusing sureties must be given, 13 C. W. N. 77; 37 C. 91; etc., they must be accepted. Before rejecting sureties on grounds derived from private information, Magistrate should bring the grounds to the notice of the sureties and hear them, 14 C. W. N. 709. See Note 94 at p. 139. (g) Inquiry into the fitness of the sureties cannot be delegated.

A Magistrate cannot decide the fitness of the sureties merely on the report of the Subordinate Magistrate or of a Police-officer—PER RIVES, J., in 37 C. 91 at p. 101. Contra COX, J., 20 A. L. J. 520.

57. Orders under s. 144.—(a) For the contents of an order under s. 144 and the effect of irregularity therein, see Notes 12—16 to it. (b) It is illegal to extend the period of two months by successive orders, 13 C. W. N. 263, 20 C. W. N. 758 = 17 Cr. L. J. 200; 16 Cr. L. J. 767 (M). (c) A Magistrate has no power under s. 144 to direct a Village Munsiff to be in possession of the property in dispute, 3 L. W. 493 = 17 Cr. L. J. 190 f. Varney; 12 C. W. N. 1043 = 8 Cr. L. J. 230.

58. Orders under Chapter XII.—See Notes at pp. 244—261. (a) Omission to set out in the preliminary order under s. 145 the grounds of the Magistrate's opinion is covered by this section, 36 M. 275, 16 M. L. J. 143 = 3 Cr. L. Omission to record a preliminary order before issue of summons to opposite party or to affix a copy of it to a conspicuous place are not fatal to the jurisdiction of the Court to proceed under s. 145 where an order directing the parties to put in written statements, has been once recorded, 15 P. W. R. 1916 = 15 Cr. L. J. 279. (b) Any error or omission in the preliminary order will not vitiate the proceedings unless the parties are prejudiced 30 M. 543, 33 C. 352; 32 A. 137; 12 O. C. 400 = 11 Cr. L. J. 69. (c) Though the Magistrate must ascertain the subject of dispute before passing an order, 11 C. W. N. 193 = 5 Cr. L. J. 37; 27 A. 296, yet, if the non-specification of the boundaries of the disputed lands has not misled any party, the proceedings are good, 3 C. W. N. 563. And if necessary the order may be amended by adding the boundaries 14 C. W. N. 91. (d) Any omission or irregularity in publishing the copy of the initiatory order will not vitiate the proceedings unless any party has been materially prejudiced 33 C. 63 (F.B.) 30 A. 41; 30 A. M. 543; 9 C. W. N. 1046, 110 C. 400 = 11 Cr. L. J. 69. (e) Non-joinder or mis-joinder of parties will not vitiate proceedings unless there is prejudice, 30 C. 133 (F.B.) 10 C. W. N. 1095, 15 P. W. R. 1914. But see 37 C. 255; 12 A. L. J. 122. (f) A joint hearing with respect to several plots or land with several persons though irregular will not vitiate the inquiry if the parties had not been prejudiced, 6 C. W. N. 206, 5 C. W. N. 544; 15 C. 21, 16 C. 513, 20 C. 153 (F.B.). (g) Where a Magistrate institutes proceedings suo motu in order to prevent breaches of the peace it is necessary that he should have evidence on record of who was in actual possession on the date of his proceeding. It is a defect of jurisdiction when he leaves the case on the record absolutely unproved, 16 C. W. N. 700 = 19 C. L. J. 356 = 15 Cr. L. J. 202. (h) An order made without giving an opportunity of examining a material witness is illegal 18 C. W. N. 94 = 15 Cr. L. J. 796; 17 Cr. L. J. 217 (M). 4 P. R. 1916 = 17 Cr. L. J. 129. (i) Under s. 147 a Magistrate may pass an order with reference to a public street 16 Cr. L. J. 77 (M). Where a Sub-Divisional Magistrate bases his conclusion on the evidence taken at the local inquiry the procedure adopted by him is irregular but in the absence of any prejudice to the parties such defect or irregularity is cured by section 537 of the Code. 33 M. L. J. 78.

X.—Want of and irregularity in sanction which is required by law under the sections of the Code or any other law for the time being in force.

59. Initiation of proceedings without sanction as required by the sections of the Code void ab initio.—There are certain sections in the Code (e.g., s. 339, 196, 196-A, 195, 197 and 476), under which either complaint or sanction is necessary for the cognizance of offences mentioned in those sections. With regard to these sections a sanction or complaint is a condition precedent for the assumption of jurisdiction and the absence of such sanction or complaint is a defect which vitiates the proceedings ab initio and is not a mere irregularity curable under this section.

It should of course, be noted that cl. (b) regarding the want of sanction under the old s. 195 is now omitted under the new amendment of s. 537. Under the new s. 195 no sanction is necessary. The reference to the old s. 195 and to cl. (b) of s. 337 (old) in the case quoted below would be relevant under the old law. But the new law does not even now require sanction by s. 195 alone.

so remedied. To take the contrary view, would render almost nugatory the requirements of the law regarding sanction. The Legislature has enacted with respect to certain offences that no Court shall take cognizance of them or in the case of s. 39 of the Arms Act that no proceedings shall be instituted against any person in respect of them without the previous sanction of a specified authority. Without such sanction a Court is not competent to take cognizance of or to hold any proceedings in respect of such offences and if it does so its proceedings, unless covered by s. 537 (b) are entirely without jurisdiction and invalid. 17 Cr. L. J. 209 (Barua) (F.B.).

(i) Want of sanction under s. 339 cannot be cured.—See Note 13 to s. 339. The sanction under s. 339 is not a sanction under s. 195, and it belongs to the same class as sanctions under s. 196 and s. 197, 42 P. R. 1884. See 1 U. B. R. 2; 1890 P. R. at p. 33; 5 C. W. N. 291; 27 C. 137; 8 P. R. 1908 = 7 Cr. L. J. 353.

(ii) Want of sanction under s. 196 cannot be cured.—See Note 2 at p. 432 and Note 8 at p. 483.

(iii) Want of previous sanction under s. 197.—See Note 19 at p. 491. The saving provisions of this section will not avail to legalize a conviction where the previous sanction required by s. 197 is wanting, Weir II, 710; 31 M. 80, but see as to commitment without sanction, 9 B. 233 noted at p. 491, Note 20 under s. 197.

(iv) Want of sanction under the Arms Act XI of 1878.—S. 537 (b) does not cure the want of sanction in any case except when the sanction is required under s. 195. It does not therefore cure the want of sanction under s. 29 of the Arms Act, 4 L. B. R. 247 = 8 Cr. L. J. 65; 5 M. L. T. 162 = 11 Cr. L. J. 190; 17 Cr. L. J. 209 (Bar.).

50. Are irregularities in sanctions granted under sections other than s. 195 cured?—"The omission to re-enact in s. 197 the permission given in s. 195 to grant a sanction in general terms, as also the exclusion of a sanction (irregularly) granted under s. 197, from the operation of s. 537, point to a deliberate intention on the part of the Legislature to throw upon the authority empowered to grant the sanction, the duty of designating the offence for which leave to prosecute is given and this duty cannot be delegated. 16 M. 458 at pp. 478-74. In 25 C. 151 an omission in a sanction under s. 196 was held cured by this section. See Note 8 at p. 551.

51. Effect of the absence of Political Agent's certificate under s. 198.—See Notes 6-9 to it.

52. Effect of not sending a case under s. 476 (1) to the 'nearest' (old section) Magistrate of the first class.—See Notes 52 and 53 to s. 476. Order merely directing prosecution but omitting to direct the accused to the nearest first-class Magistrate is at the most an irregularity, 37 M. 317, see Note 51 to s. 476.

XI.—CL. (d).—MISDIRECTION IN CHARGE TO JURY.

53. Every defect in summing up would not amount to a misdirection. For cases on misdirection generally, see Notes to ss. 297, 298 and 299 and Notes under Heading XI to s. 423. In the appeal of MR CHANNING ARNOLD, Editor of the Burma Crisis against his conviction, on the ground that serious miscarriage of justice had taken place by reason of the nature of the Judge's charge to the jury the Privy Council while discountenancing the idea that in the region of fact they will interfere, even if they were disposed to differ from the Presiding Judge, unless something gross amounting to a complete misdescription of the whole bearing of the evidence as occurred, observe as follows regarding the charge to the jury: "A charge to a jury must be read as a whole. If there are salient propositions in law in it, these will of course be the subject of separate analysis. But in a protracted narrative of fact, the determination of which is ultimately left to the jury, it must needs be that the view of the Judge may not coincide with the views of others who look upon the whole proceedings in black type. It would, however not be in accordance either with usual or good practice to treat such cases as cases of misdirection, if upon the general view taken, the case has been fairly left within the jury's province," 41 C. 1023 (P.C.). A conviction obtained on a trial by jury would not be bad merely because the charge to the jury was not perfectly expressed or there was misdirection in the charge if otherwise there has been no failure of justice, 42 L. L. J. 33 = 14 Cr. L. J. 638. In considering whether a judge has misdirected the jury, the tenor and general effect of the whole summing up should be looked at and if, upon the whole summing up, the Court is of opinion that substantially the proper direction has been given to the jury, it will not interfere, though the Judge has omitted to direct the jury, expressly on some important point. 10 B. H. C. R. 75. It would be a misplaced rule to apply to the direction of a Judge in a mofussil Court the same criticisms, which would be applicable to the charge of a Judge in an English Court of Assize. 12 W. R. 80. If however, every defect in summing up were to be regarded as a ground for setting aside a verdict of guilty, it is clear that the door of escape would be opened wide to criminals. This danger is however guarded against by s. 426 (now this section), which enacts that no sentence shall be reversed, etc. unless in the judgment of the Appellate Court the accused person shall have been prejudiced by such error or defect. There is doubtless, some difficulty in saying when a prisoner is prejudiced and it would not be safe to lay down any rule, although probably in most cases the ends of justice would be satisfied by considering whether if the case had been tried by a Judge and assessors, the Court would set aside the finding." Per SARGENT, J. 5 B. H. C. R. Cr. Ca. 83 at p. 95; 3 B. L. R. 102 = 11 Cr. L. J. 13. But in exceptional cases where the evidence is such that its real value cannot be properly appreciated except by the Court which had heard it given, a new trial will be ordered, 6 B. H. C. R. Cr. Ca. 47; 10 B. H. C. R. 497. The total absence of direction by the Presiding Judge as to the law as required by s. 297 cannot be cured by s. 537, 5 L. B. R. 349 = 11 Cr. L. J. 340, see Note 35 at p. 799. In 8 L. B. R. 125 = 17 Cr. L. J. 154, the Chief Court set aside a sentence of death as they held the charge was defective in law in not putting before the jury the alternative case that the accused may have caused the injuries which resulted in death without the intention of causing death

64. Duty of Judge to direct the jury as to how far reliance may be placed on accomplice testimony—See Notes under Heading VII at pp 801—805 The omission to point out to the jury the danger of relying upon the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice amounts to misdirection sufficient to set aside the verdict of the jury, 5 W. R. 80, 6 W. R. 17; 7 W. R. 2; 8 W. R. 19; 10 W. R. 17; 6 B. H. C. R. Cr. Ca. 57; 1 B. 475, 14 B 115; 17 C. 642, Ratanlal 466. In a case of murder it was held, that the Judge had not given a proper direction to the jury in telling them that it was for them to consider whether the evidence of the accomplice was strictly corroborated as to the prisoners, that it was not enough that the evidence should disclose a state of acts consistent with the possibility of the truth of the accomplice's story, and that the Judge ought to have gone through the history of the crime as detailed by the accomplice to point out any independent evidence proving facts showing that the prisoners were or must have been present at or cognizant of the murder, 6 W. R. 44. See also 7 B. W. R. 1916,

XII.—THE EXPLANATION.

65. Significance of the words "in fact prejudiced."—The words 'in fact' were introduced apparently in order to emphasize the duties of the Court to go into the merits before interfering in consequence of a misdirection or other error, though the duty existed just the same, before those words were added.—Per BENSON, J., 26 M. 1 at pp 15-16. Now after conviction a breach even of a statutory provision can be remedied by the application of s. 537 unless a failure of justice has in fact been occasioned. The words 'in fact' have at the last amendment been added to the section to emphasize the reality of the requirement 48 C. 173. In this case exception was taken to the proceedings under s 476 after conviction but the conviction was upheld under the proceedings under s 476 were held to be illegal

66. Explanation not applicable where defect affects jurisdiction.—Where a Municipal Secretary not authorized under s 142 (2) of the Romday District Municipal Act III of 1901, prosecuted certain persons and it was contended that the prosecution was illegal, held that the conviction was bad as the irregularity was one of jurisdiction to which the explanation to s 537 did not apply, 3 S. L. R. 13 = 9 Cr. L. J. 449

Distress not illegal nor distrainer a trespasser for defect or want of form in proceedings

538. No attachment made under this Code shall be deemed unlawful, nor shall any person making the same be deemed a trespasser on account of any defect or want of form in the summons, conviction, writ of attachment or other proceedings relating thereto

CHAPTER XLVI

MISCELLANEOUS

539. Affidavits and affirmations to be used before any High Court or any officer of such Court may be sworn and affirmed before such Court or the Clerk of the Crown, or any Commissioner or other person appointed by such Court for that purpose, or any Judge, or any Commissioner for taking affidavits in any Court of Record in British India, or any Commissioner to administer

Courts and persons before whom affidavits may be sworn oaths in England or Ireland or any Magistrate authorized to take affidavits or affirmations in Scotland

Notes —1. Scope of the section.—This section applies only to affidavits to be used in the High Court e.g., under s 526 (4). The only provision in the Code for use of an affidavit in any Court subordinate to a High Court is s 74, which provides for proof of service of summons outside the jurisdiction of the Court issuing it. In all other cases, inferior Courts are expected to act on direct oral testimony

2 Affidavits not to be used to prove proceedings in Court below are wrong—An affidavit cannot be used as affording materials for reviewing a Magistrate's decision. When the charge is such that, if true, it would give the Magistrate jurisdiction, his decision is final, 40 B. H. C. R. 102

3. Deputy Magistrate not competent to administer affidavit to be used in High Court—In 14 C 553 it was held a Deputy Magistrate has no power to administer an oath to a person making an affidavit under this section. In 8 G. W. N. 40, an affidavit sworn to before a Magistrate was filed in support of an application under s. 195 for sanction to prosecute for perjury committed before the High Court in its original civil jurisdiction and the affidavit was objected to on the strength of the above Ruling. Held the objection was untenable as the proceeding for sanction was a civil proceeding and as such the affidavit was duly sworn under s. 197 of the Code of Civil Procedure re 1882 [now s. 139 of Act V of 1908]

A Magistrate is a Judge within the meaning of s. 19 of the Penal Code read with s. 4 (2) of the Code only when he is exercising jurisdiction in a suit or in a proceeding. Therefore an affidavit sworn before a Magistrate cannot be used in the High Court. 5 Pat 110

4. By whom affidavits may be verified?—Any Court or Magistrate or the Clerk of a District Court shall on application take such affidavit or statement on solemn affirmation and authenticate same by signature. Bombay Gazette 1879 pp 471—475

5. Duty of persons who administer affidavits and those who prepare them—I am afraid however that it may be the case that the care and precision with which affidavits are intended to be verified and sworn to by the persons who make them are not always observed by those who administer affidavits and those who prepare them. The intention of the law is and it cannot be too often repeated that an affidavit must contain nothing but bare facts known to the person who makes the affidavit either personally or upon information from a source which he believes to be a correct source and one on which reliance can be placed. Further as it is for human beings to make a mistake in reciting a fact the law requires that the contents of affidavits should be carefully read over to the deponents in words understood by them and vouched by them to be correct. Per K. B. A. J., in 38 A. 13.

 539-A. (1) When any application is made to any Court in the Courts of any inquiry trial or other proceeding under this Code and allegations are made therein respecting any public servant the applicant may give evidence of the facts alleged in the application by affidavit and the Court may if it thinks fit order that evidence relating to such facts be so given

servant.

An affidavit to be used before any Court other than a High Court under this section may be sworn or affirmed in the manner prescribed in section 539 or before any Magistrate

Affidavits under this section shall be confined to and shall state separately such facts as the deponent is able to prove from his own knowledge and such facts as he has reasonable grounds to believe to be true and in the latter case the deponent shall clearly state the grounds of such belief

(2) The Court may order any scandalous and irrelevant matter in an affidavit to be struck out or amended

 539-B. (1) Any Judge or Magistrate may at any stage of any inquiry trial or other proceeding after due notice to the parties visit and inspect any place in which an offence is alleged to have been committed or any other place which it is in his opinion necessary to view for the purpose of properly appreciating the evidence given at such inquiry or trial and shall without unnecessary delay record a memorandum of any relevant facts observed at such inspection

Local inspection.

(2) Such memorandum shall form part of the record of the case. If the Public Prosecutor complainant or accused so desires a copy of the memorandum shall be furnished to him free of cost

Provided that, in the case of a trial by jury or with the aid of assessors, the Judge shall not act under this section unless such jury or assessors are also allowed a view under section 293

Referring to the enactment of these sections, the Sel. Com. say—

"We have omitted the proviso contained in sub-sec. (1) of the proposed new s. 539 providing that an accused person shall not be compelled to make an affidavit, as in the first place it will be extremely difficult to say what the expression "accused person" means and, secondly, the proviso is in conflict with the provisions of sub-sec. (4) of s. 52d. In view, however, of the opposition manifested in certain quarters we think that sub-sec. (3) of the proposed new s. 539-A might be omitted

"We think it desirable to provide that the copy of the memorandum referred to in sub-sec. (2) of the new s. 539-B shall be given free of cost.

Note—Omission to record a memorandum under s. 539-B.—See Note 82-A to s. 537. See also 25 Bom. L. R. 392, 63 C. 46.

540. Any Court may, at any stage of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, summon any person as a witness, or examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness, or re-call and re-examine any person already examined, and the Court shall summon and examine or re-call and re-examine any such person if his evidence appears to it essential to the just decision of the case

Power to summon material witness, or examine person present

Notes—1. How discretion vested in Court ought to be exercised?—The right of the Court to exercise the powers given by this section is unrestricted, 2 G. W. N. 702. This section confers very wide powers upon a Court. But the wider the powers, the greater the exercise of discretion required of the Magistrate, and read along with s. 25A, it will be seen that by this section, it was not intended that the Magistrate should exercise his powers at the bidding of any person, but that the powers are given to prevent any danger or miscarriage of justice, just because some particular witness has not been called. Per Knox, J., in 12 A. L. J. 18 = 14 Cr. L. J. 682. The Judge ought to exercise his own discretion and ought not to allow himself to be guided by his superior, 7 S. L. R. 82 = 15 Cr. L. J. 416. See also Note 14 at p. 715

(i) Section not intended to reverse order prescribed for Sessions trial—It is not intended by this section that a Judge should have power to reverse the order of a Sessions trial and call the witnesses summoned for the defence before the case for the prosecution is closed, 14 A. 242.

(ii) Magistrate must not anticipate defence to prejudice accused person—This section is a supplementary provision enabling, and in certain circumstances, imposing on the Court the duty of summoning a material or essential witness who would not otherwise be brought before the Court. A Magistrate misuses this section in using it to anticipate the defence of an accused person to his prejudice, and in using it, after satisfying himself that he has a good defence, to discharge instead of acquitting him. A Magistrate cannot properly resort to this section in order to avoid the responsibility of making up his mind as to the value of the evidence for the prosecution, nor does the power herein conferred upon a Court to summon a witness extend to witnesses named for the prosecution or the defence, for such witnesses the Court is bound to summon unless there be cause to the contrary, 11 P. R. 1886. It is not the province of the Court to examine any witness, unless the pleaders on either side have omitted to put some material question or questions, and the Court should as a general rule, leave the witnesses to the pleaders to be dealt with as laid down in s. 138 of the Evidence Act. See the remarks in 6 C. 279 = 7 G. L. R. 285

(iii) Section not intended to fish for witnesses—This section does not empower a Sessions Judge to fish for witnesses or warrant an order for further inquiry to be made by a committing Magistrate after the trial has been concluded so far that no witnesses remain to be examined for either side, and the assessors have given their opinions, 4 P. R. 1892.

2. Court bound to summon and examine any witness whose evidence is essential to just and proper decision of case.—Under this section the Court is bound to summon and examine any witness whose evidence seems to be essential to the just and proper decision of the case, 8 G. W. N. 98. In a case in which there is a matter necessitating inquiry, or there is a question to be cleared up and the witness proposed to be called is one upon whose testimony the Court could place confidence, the Court should call him, but certainly not one on whose evidence it could not rely, at any rate in a case in which the prisoner is defended by Counsel, 14 C 243. See 14 A. 521. And although an accused in a Sessions trial may, through his neglect, have lost his right to demand that a witness whom he had not named before, should be summoned and the trial adjourned for that purpose, still if he satisfies the Judge that such evidence is material and his application is not merely to delay the trial, the Judge should take the necessary steps to procure his attendance, 19 A. 502. Although an accused has exhausted the power of summoning witnesses for the defence, he is still enabled to examine witnesses not included in his list by moving the Magistrate to summon any other witnesses, for proper reasons, 36 A. 13. See also 8 A. 663, 46 M. L. J. 323; 1 Rang 308.

3. No Magistrate other than trial Magistrate can summon witnesses.—A Magistrate who is not seized of the case has absolutely no power to issue summons on witnesses at the instance of any party. An order for summoning witnesses cannot be passed during the temporary absence of the trying Magistrate, by a Magistrate, who is not seized of the case, 36 A. 13.

3-A Court hearing appeal on transfer, not bound by opinion of Magistrate from whom the appeal was transferred.—When a Sub-Divisional Magistrate, in hearing an appeal, had issued summonses for the examination of certain witnesses as Court witnesses, it is not incumbent on the District Magistrate, who withdraws the part heard appeal to his own file, to examine those witnesses. The Court to which an appeal is transferred for disposal, and on which the responsibility for its correct disposal rests, is not bound by any opinion as to the necessity for taking further evidence, formed by the Court from which the appeal was transferred, and which is no longer responsible for the decision of the appeal, 31 M. 277, where 23 M. 314 and L. R. 29 I. A. 198 are referred to.

4 Court may examine witnesses at any stage—

(i) At any time before delivery of judgment.—A Magistrate is strictly within his rights under this section in receiving fresh evidence after evidence of both sides had been taken and the case adjourned for judgment, inasmuch as the case was still a pending case when such evidence was taken, 24 C. 147. But if he does so, he must give the accused an opportunity of rebutting the evidence so given. See, however, Note 1 (iii). In 15 C. W. N. 414 = 12 Cr. L. J. 7, the practice of examining witnesses for the prosecution after the defence is closed to bolster up the prosecution was deprecated. See 4 C. W. N. 604. See also 27 C. W. N. 675.

(ii) Prosecution witnesses may be interposed in midst of accused's case.—It is entirely within the discretion of a Magistrate conducting a trial in a warrant case to admit evidence on behalf of either side at any stage of the trial but in exercising the discretion conferred on him by this section, he ought to have good reason for allowing witnesses on the part of the prosecution to be interposed in the midst of the case of the accused, 21 W. R. 61. After the prosecution has closed its case, no further evidence can be admitted against the accused who has entered on his defence except under this section for which valid reasons must be recorded, 10 A. L. J. 333 = 13 Cr. L. J. 772.

5. Who may be called as witnesses.—Any person may be summoned.

(i) Right to summon any person.—Magistrates are empowered by this section and other provisions of the Code to summon persons resident in another district as witnesses, 3 M. H. C. R. Appx. Y.

(ii) Discharged person as witness for prosecution.—There is no law or principle which prevents a person who has been suspected and charged with an offence but discharged by the Magistrate for want of evidence, being afterwards admitted as a witness for the prosecution 7 W. R. 44.

(iii) Apprehended person as a witness.—A person apprehended by the Police and brought before the Magistrate with the accused is a competent witness, though not discharged by the Magistrate, provided he be not charged along with the accused, 3 B. H. C. R. Cr. Ca. 1.

(iv) When Court is bound to call medical witness.—When the defence is based on s. 84, I. P. C., the Sessions Judge may, acting under this section and s. 165 of the Evidence Act, ascertain the behaviour exhibited by the prisoner during the years of his life previous to the homicide, and, if the accused has been kept in a lunatic asylum record medical evidence of the facts observed there, Ratanlal 279. Where there was no evidence regarding the nature of the injuries which formed the subject of the offence under trial, the Sessions Judge was bound under this section to summon the medical officer as a witness, 6 C. W. N. 93.

(v) Accused as a witness—This section does not seem to authorize the examination of the accused as a witness, not even at the stage of an appeal, as the appeal is but the continuation of the original case, 12 M. 451. See Note 17 at p 982, 7 Lah. 158

6. Right of both parties to cross-examine Court witness on all matters.—The ordinary practice in properly constituted Courts is, that where a witness for the prosecution is not called on the part of the Crown he is placed in the witness box in order that the defence may have an opportunity of cross-examining him, and a fortiori where the Judge thinks it necessary to call such a witness and examine him, the prisoner ought to be allowed to cross-examine him, 3 C 614 = 5 C L. R. 365. A complainant is entitled to cross-examine a witness summoned by the Court, 24 C. 288. When a witness is called by the Court under this section, the prosecution and the accused are both equally entitled to a full cross-examination of the witness on all matters relevant to the inquiry. The cross-examination by the parties cannot under the law be restricted to the points on which he has been examined by the Court. The parties have the same right of unrestricted cross-examination, even where an Appellate Court calls a witness acting under this section, 35 C 243; 47 A. 147.

Note.—Under s 265 of the Evidence Act a party to a proceeding is not allowed to cross-examine a witness, upon an answer given by him to a question put by the Court without the permission of that Court 24 C. 288.

7. Accused's right of cross-examination not taken away, when Court calls witness abandoned by defence.—In the course of a trial, the accused obtained a process for the attendance of a Police-officer, but before the witness appeared, the accused asked the Court to countermand the order for the attendance of that witness. The Sessions Judge, however, examined the Police-officer as a Court witness, but refused to allow the accused to cross examine him. Held, the accused was entitled to cross-examine him. The fact that he had attended as a witness for the defence and was not examined by the accused, is no sufficient reason to refuse cross-examination when he was afterwards examined by the Sessions Judge, 29 C. 387. See also 3 B. L. R. Appx. Civ. CXLV.

8. Public Prosecutor not entitled as of right to call witness not called before Magistrate.—The Public Prosecutor cannot demand, as of right, that a witness not examined by the Magistrate should be called and examined. It is entirely in the discretion of the Court, 14 A. 212.

9. Discharging accused on evidence of Court witnesses, not illegal.—Where a Magistrate examined certain persons as Court witnesses and, relying on their evidence, discharged the complainant's witnesses and discharged the accused, held that the procedure was not illegal. Weir II, 716

10. Failure to exercise discretion not error in point of law—The High Court, as a Court of Revision cannot say that a Sessions Judge is wrong in point of law, because he does not, in the exercise of his discretion under this section, postpone a case for the evidence of a witness. 12 W. R. 44.

* 540-A. (1) At any stage of an inquiry or trial under this Code, where two or more accused are before the Court if the Judge or Magistrate is satisfied, for reasons to be recorded, that anyone or more of such accused is or are incapable of remaining before the Court, he may, if such accused is represented by a pleader, dispense with his attendance and proceed with such inquiry or trial in his absence, and may, at any subsequent stage of the proceedings, quiries and trial being held in the absence of

direct the personal attendance of such accused

(2) If the accused in any such case is not represented by a pleader, or if the Judge or Magistrate considers his personal attendance necessary, he may, if he thinks fit, and for reasons to be recorded by him, either adjourn such inquiry or trial, or order, that the case of such accused be taken up or tried separately.

Note.—This section is added by Act XVIII of 1923 and provides for a case where there is a large number of accused persons and when one or more of them is incapable of remaining at the bar

Sub-sec. (1) deals with the case of an accused represented by a pleader and whose presence can be dispensed with. Sub-sec. (2) deals with the case of an accused, not represented by a pleader and whose personal attendance is necessary. In such cases the Court may either adjourn the trial or order the accused to be tried separately.

541. (1) Unless when otherwise provided by any law for the time being in force, the Local Government may direct in what place* any person liable to be imprisoned or committed to custody under this Code shall be confined.

(2) If any person liable to be imprisoned or committed to custody under this Code is in confinement in a civil jail, the Court or Magistrate ordering the imprisonment or committal may direct that the person be removed to a criminal jail.

(3) When a person is removed to a criminal jail under sub-sec (2)† he shall, on being released therefrom, be sent back to the civil jail, unless either—

(a) three years have elapsed since he was removed to the criminal jail, in which case he shall be deemed to have been discharged from the civil jail under s 342 of the Code of Civil Procedure; or

(b) the Court which ordered his imprisonment in the civil jail has certified to the officer in charge of the criminal jail that he is entitled to be discharged under s 341 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Notes.—1. Sections 341 and 342 of the Code of 1882 correspond with s 58 of the present Code of Civil Procedure V of 1908.

2. Jails for European British subjects.—(i) Bengal.—The Presidency jail, Hazaribagh, Penitentiary, the jails at Bhagulpore, Midnapore, Rajshahi, Cachar, Dacca, Dharyeeling, Chittagong, Cuttack, Tejpore, Patna and the lock up at Dinapore.—Calcutta Gazette, 1873

(ii) Bombay.—The jails at Poona, Yerwada, Karachi and Aden.—Bombay Gazette, 1873. The jails at Ahmedabad, Surat and Satara where imprisonment does not exceed one month and Karwar where imprisonment does not exceed three months.—Bombay Gazette 1874 p 297

(iii) Punjab.—The jails at Lahore, Peshawar, Rawalpindi, Multan, Umballa and Delhi.—Punjab Gazette, 1873

(iv) Madras.—The Madras Penitentiary and the jails at Ootacamund, Rajahmundry, Salem, Coimbatore, Trichinopoly, Vellore, Cannanore, Cuddalore, Cochin, Calicut, Berhampore, Bellary, Madurai, Mangalore, Tellicherry, Vizagapatam, Chingleput.—Madras Notifications, 1872 and 1873.

3. Dividing imprisonment between different jails.—There is no law empowering a Criminal Court passing a sentence of imprisonment to divide the imprisonment between different jails. From this section and from s. 60, cl. (f) of Act IX of 1894 and Act No V of 1870 it seems that this power belongs to the Local Government and the Inspector General of Prison, Ratanlal B27.

4. Illegal to sentence prisoner to imprisonment in "Police lock-up" in the absence of notification.—In the absence of any direction under this section by the Local Government, declaring a 'Police lock up' as a place where persons liable to be imprisoned may be confined, it is illegal for a Magistrate to sentence a prisoner to suffer imprisonment in such a place. The terms 'prison' and 'jail' do not include a 'Police lock up,' 7 L. R. 61 = 15 Cr. L. J. 10.

5. Is it illegal to commit person to jail not appointed by Local Government?—In 29 C. 235 (F.B.) the question was raised whether committing an European British subject to a jail which had not been appointed by the Local Government for custody of European British subjects was without jurisdiction or was only an

* A place so appointed is not a 'prison' within the meaning of s 3 (f) of the Prisons Act IX of 1894, stated in Appendix irregularity which was to be rectified not by an application under ss 491 and 456 but by a transfer of the petitioner to a proper jail under s 29 of the Prisoners Act and the question was however not decided as the particular jail in the case was found to have been appointed. Two of the Judges were of opinion that no question of jurisdiction was involved.

Power of Presidency Magistrate to order prisoner in jail to be brought up for examination

542. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Prisoners Testimony Act, 1869, any Presidency Magistrate desirous of examining, as a witness or an accused person, in any case pending before him, any person confined in any jail within the local limits of his jurisdiction, may issue an order to the officer in charge of the said jail requiring him to bring such prisoner in proper custody, at a time to be therein named, to the Magistrate for examination.

(2) The officer so in charge, on receipt of such order, shall act in accordance therewith and shall provide for the safe custody of the prisoner during his absence from the jail for the purpose aforesaid.

Note.—The Prisoners Testimony Act, 1869, is repealed by the Prisoners Act III of 1900, printed in Appendix. S 37, of the Act, provides for taking the evidence of a prisoner by other Courts. See also ss. 39 and 42. S 39 practically repeals the section of the Code.

Interpreter to be bound to interpret truthfully

543. When the services of an interpreter are required by any Criminal Court for the interpretation of any evidence or statement he shall be bound to state the true interpretation of such evidence or statement.

Note.—As to interpretation of evidence to the accused or his pleader, see s 361 and the Indian Oaths Act X of 1873, s 5 printed in Appendix. Notwithstanding the provisions of s. 364, when an interpreter is employed, the language in which the statement of the accused is conveyed to the Court by the interpreter is the language in which it should be recorded, s C. 826, 21 C. 642. Failure to administer oath by the interpreter does not make the deposition inadmissible, 38 C. 808.

544. Subject to any rules made by the Local Government * any Criminal Court may, if it thinks fit, order payment on the part of Government, of the reasonable expenses of any complainant or witness attending for the purposes, of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding before such a Court under this Code.

Notes.—1. Court's discretion to determine the expenses to be paid to witness must be exercised reasonably.—The rules framed by the Government for payment of expenses, etc., invest the Magistrate trying a warrant-case with a discretionary power exercisable by him within the limits specified in the rule itself. Such discretion, however, must be exercised according to sound judicial principles and reasonably, 9 Bom. L. R 333 = 5 Cr. L. J. 329. In this case the Magistrate at the close of the prosecution and before the commencement of the defence removed his Court to a distance on account of other official business, it was held, that the accused should not be made to suffer and the expenses of his witnesses ought to be paid by Government.

2. Accused not to be called upon to pay expenses when witnesses re-summoned under s. 340.—See 8 Bur. L. T. 43 = 15 Cr. L. J. 687.

3. Rules made by various Local Governments for payment of expenses of complainants and witnesses—

(iv) Boarding allowance at Allahabad shall cease as soon as the means of quitting the station become available.

(v) The committing Magistrate may make a reasonable advance to any person desiring it to enable him to reach Allahabad. (vi) The committing Magistrate shall report to the Registrar the date of departure of every such prosecutor and witness and shall instruct each to report himself as directed in class (1).

OUDH RULES

- (4) All persons residing within six miles of the Court may be considered as able to come in and return on the same day, and should therefore be held entitled to one day's subsistence. Those residing from 6 to 12 miles may come in one day and return the next; they should therefore draw two days subsistence, and so on, an extra day for every six miles, or, in other words, every witness may be allowed a day's allowance for every 12 miles, or part of 12 miles, he has to travel.

Witnesses coming in from the country

(5) These instructions have reference only to the time occupied by witnesses in going and coming and they are to receive the expenses due to their class for each additional day that they may be kept in attendance by the Court. In some cases it may be found necessary to order witnesses to appear a second time. It will then be for the Court to determine whether they are justified in remaining at the place where the Court sits, or should return to their homes for the time preceding the second date of hearing, in the former case they may be allowed subsistence for every day they are detained, in the latter may be paid a second time for the journey to and from Court.

Witnesses coming in from the country

Note.—As great difficulty is experienced in the disposal of cases of dacoity in which Nepalese subjects have to attend British Courts, the Lieutenant Governor has with a view of securing the attendance of witnesses in such cases from Nepal, been pleased to sanction the payment of the enhanced rates of subsistence allowance, as noted below, to Nepalese subjects in all such cases —

In such cases, in addition to expenses for subsistence, expenses for travelling shall be given at the following rates —
- When travelling expenses by rail or dak may be charged

Scale of travelling expenses

(a) when the journey is by rapid dak by road, the actual expenses incurred up to a maximum limit of 4 annas a mile,

- (b) where the journey is wholly or partly by rail

CENTRAL PROVINCES RULES.

1 Subject to the following rules, the Criminal Courts are authorized to pay, at the rates specified below, the expenses of complainants or witnesses (1) in cases in which the prosecution is instituted or carried on by, or under the orders, or with the sanction of, the Government or any Judge Magistrate or other public officer, or in which it shall appear to the presiding officer to be directly in furtherance of the interests of public justice, (2) in all cases entered in column 5 of the schedule appended to the Criminal Procedure Code as not bailable and (3) of witnesses in all cases in which they are compelled by the Magistrate of his own motion to attend under the provisions of s 540 of the Code

(d) For witnesses following any profession, such as medicine or law, a special allowance according to circumstances,

(e) Government servants required to attend a Criminal Court in their public capacity, will receive no travelling or subsistence allowance under these rules but shall be entitled to draw travelling allowance under the rules in Chapter IV of the Travelling Allowance Code on an ordinary travelling allowance bill debitable to the department to which they belong. A Government servant attending Court in his private capacity, has no higher claim to allowances under these rules than any other private individual and is only entitled to such railway and road travelling expenses as appear to the Court to be reasonable with reference to his status, provided that the amount paid shall in no case exceed the travelling expenses actually incurred.

(f) When there is no railway and a person is obliged to travel by dāk, by road the actual expenses up to a maximum limit of 4 annas a mile for travelling by road may be paid subject to the proviso that the travelling allowance is only to be given where the journey could not have been performed on foot or in case of persons whose age position and habits of life render it impossible for them to walk.

2 The Court ordering the payment under these rules of the expenses of a complainant or witness shall decide—

(a) the class to which he belongs and the rate at which he is to be paid,

(b) the number of days necessary for his journey to and from the Court.

3 The Court shall exercise its discretion in ordering or refusing to order payment of expenses within the limits laid down in the foregoing rules whether an application for payment be made or not.—C P Gaz Notification No 1917, dated 5th April 1898, Ibid. Cr Cir, Part II No 58

PUNJAB RULES

1 All disbursements on account of the expenses of complainants and witnesses attending criminal trials before the Chief Court will be made by the committing Magistrate and will be adjusted by him. The committing Magistrate will determine the class to which each complainant and witness belongs

2 Except for any special reason in any particular case complainants and witnesses travelling at public expense will only be allowed to travel by road and charge accordingly unless the journey can be accomplished more cheaply and expeditiously by rail

3. The committing Magistrate when despatching complainants and witnesses to the Chief Court, will instruct them to report themselves to the Registrar of the Court on their arrival at Lahore, and will at the same time, report to that officer—

(a) the name of each complainant and witness

(b) the class to which he belongs

(c) the date of his departure to attend the Chief Court

(d) whether any, and if so what advances have been made to such complainant or witness to enable him to reach Lahore.

4 When the trial in which the complainant and witnesses have appeared in the Chief Court is concluded, the Registrar of that Court will intimate to the committing Magistrate the date of the arrival of the complainants and witnesses at Lahore and the date on which it was possible for them to quit the station. The subsistence at Lahore, will cease as soon after the conclusion of this trial as the means of quitting the station becomes available

5 The committing Magistrate may make reasonable advances to complainants and witnesses to enable them to reach Lahore, and, when necessary, the Registrar of the Chief Court will make advances to them at Lahore to enable them to return to their homes. Care should be taken in making these advances that a larger sum is not paid to any complainant or witness than he is entitled to receive under these rules, and before making advances to witnesses for the defence, the committing Magistrate should satisfy himself that such witnesses are material.

6 Advances made by the Registrar of the Chief Court under the preceding rule will be recovered at once from the committing Magistrate who will include the amount of such advance in his bill.

7 When all the expenses to which complainants and witnesses are entitled under these rules have been paid, the committing Magistrate will submit a bill for the same, supported by the necessary vouchers to the Registrar of the Chief Court for counter-signature. The Registrar's counter-signature will be sufficient authority to support such charges in the public accounts.

BURMA RULES

1 The Criminal Courts may at their discretion pay, according to the scale set forth in Rule 3, the expenses of complainants and witnesses either for the prosecution or for the defence (1) in all cases which are cognizable by the Police, (2) in all cases entered in col. 5 of Schedule II appended to the Code of Criminal Procedure as not bailable, (3) in all cases in which witnesses are compelled to attend the Court, under ss. 94, 103, 208, 217, 257 and 540, Code of Criminal Procedure, and (4) in all cases where the prosecution is instituted or carried on by, or under the orders, or with the sanction of Government, or any Judge, Magistrate or public officer or in which the presiding officer thinks the prosecution to be directly in furtherance of the interests of public justice.

2 Expenses of complainants and witnesses shall be payable according to the scale set forth in Rule 3 on account of their journey to and from the Court and for the days during which they have been absent from their homes for the purposes of the trial proceedings, etc. Provided that (1) Government officers, who are entitled to travelling allowance under the Civil Travelling Allowance Code, shall not receive their expenses under these rules, and that (2) in cases in which the Magistrate acquits the accused under s. 245 or s. 247, Code of Criminal Procedure, and is of opinion that the complaint was frivolous or vexatious, the expenses of the complainant shall not be paid.

3 The scale of expenses payable shall be as follows —

(1) Ordinary labouring class of Natives—The actual railway or steam boat fare to and from the Court by the lowest class, or, where the journey could not have been performed by rail or steam boat, actual travelling expenses up to a limit of Rs 2 a day by boat and of four annas a mile by road, and the allowance for each day's absence from home of six annas to those who are residents of places other than the place where the Court is held, and of four annas to those who are residents of the place where the Court is held.

(2) Petty village officers—Double the above rates of daily allowance, same rates as above for railway or steam boat fare, or actual travelling expenses by boat or road up to the limit of Rs 2 a day by boat and of four annas a mile by road.

(3) Persons of higher ranks of life, such as clerks, tradespeople, gwallahs and circle thugs—Second-class railway or steam boat fare to and from the Court, or, where the journey could not have been performed by rail or steam boat, actual travelling expenses up to a limit of Rs 4 a day by boat and of six annas a mile by road, an allowance not to exceed, except in special cases, Rs 3 for each day's absence from home to Europeans or Eurasians and Re 1 to Natives.

(4) Persons of superior ranks—The actual sum spent in travelling to and from the Court with an allowance, according to circumstances, not to exceed, except in very special cases, Rs 5 for each day's absence from home to Europeans and Eurasians and Rs 2 to Native gentlemen.

(5) Witness following any profession, such as medicine or law—A special allowance according to circumstances.

[Note.—When the journey has to be performed partly by rail or steam-boat and partly by road or boat the fare shall be paid in respect of the former and mileage or boat allowance in respect of the latter part of the journey.]

4 Allowances shall be paid under the orders of the Court and in the presence of the presiding officer and ordinarily at the conclusion of the trial, inquiry or other proceeding. The presiding officer of the Court shall check the statement of charges and will be responsible that unauthorized charges are not allowed.

5 In cases committed to the Court of Session or to the High Court, the Magistrate who commits the case shall note in the list of witnesses the class to which in his opinion, each belongs.—Burma Gazette, No 182 April 14th 1894 Part I p 284

Special rule for Lower Burma.—A Criminal Court shall not order payment on the part of Government of the expenses of any complainant or witness whose evidence the presiding officer may consider to be wilfully false.—Gaz, 12th May 1894 Part IV, p 456.

Special rule for Upper Burma.—It is left to the discretion of the Courts to pay the expenses of such witnesses for the defence as they see fit. In exercising this discretion it is for the Courts to satisfy themselves that the expenses are paid of all witnesses for the defence who are properly entitled to them that is of all witnesses, whatever be the nature of their evidence, who attended Court on subpoena in good faith and without collusion with the accused.

The Court should not pay the expenses of witnesses who give evidence that appear to be wilfully false, or who have been brought to Court with their own convenience not because they know anything about the case, but because their presence there is desired by the accused or themselves.—Burma Gazette 12th May, 1894 Part IV, p 456

545.* (1) Whenever under any law in force for the time being a Criminal Court imposes a fine or confirms in appeal revision or otherwise a sentence of fine, or a sentence of which fine forms a part, the Court may, when passing judgment order the whole or any part of the fine recovered to be applied—

(a) in defraying expenses properly incurred in the prosecution

†(b) in the payment to any person of compensation for any loss or injury caused by the offence when substantial compensation is in the opinion of the Court, recoverable by such person in a Civil Court

‡(c) when any person is convicted of any offence which includes theft, criminal misappropriation, criminal breach of trust or cheating or of having dishonestly received or retained, or of having voluntarily assisted in disposing of stolen property knowing or having reason to believe the same to be stolen, in compensating any bona fide purchaser of such property for the loss of the same if such property is restored to the possession of the person entitled thereto

(2) If the fine is imposed in a case which is subject to appeal, no such payment shall be made before the period allowed for presenting the appeal has elapsed or, if an appeal be presented before the decision of the appeal

Note.—Amendment. Before the amendment of this section it was held in 46 B 293 that an order for the payment of compensation to the pledgee was beyond the scope of s 545 of the Code.

But now by the insertion of cl (c) to sub-sec. (1) compensation can be awarded to any bona fide purchaser of property when it is restored to the possession of the person entitled thereto. It is submitted that the term bona fide purchaser in cl (c) includes a mortgagee or pledgee.

Notes.—1 See s. 386 as to how fine may be recovered and s. 140 (2) as to the power of a Magistrate to abate a public nuisance and recover the expenses.

* In Upper Burma the Court imposing a fine or confirming a sentence of an offence under s 9 (1) of the Burma Ruby Regulation XII of 1887 may presume, for the purpose of s 545, that injury has been caused by the offence and that substantial compensation is recoverable by civil suit in respect to the injury. See s. (5) of that Regulation

† This clause was substituted by Act XVII of 1923.

‡ This clause was added by s 3

2. Analogous provisions.—Under Indian Forest Act VIII of 1878, compensation in addition to fine can be awarded when the conviction is under s 25, but when the conviction is under rules 21 and 26 framed under s 41, the compensation can be awarded only out of the fine, 5 Bom. L. R. 126. See also Note 20 Under s 31 of the Courtfees Act VII of 1870, the Court is bound to order the accused to repay to the complainant the Court fees. Such repayment is quite independent of s 545 and is imperative and an order for repayment of such fees in addition to fine is a proper order, 24 M. 305, 5 Bom. L. R. 126. See also Cattle Trespass Act, 1871, s 22

3. Police Patel cannot award compensation.—A Police patel's Court is not a Criminal Court within the enumeration contained in s 5, therefore he has no power to make an order under this section, Ratanlal 317. The same rule would govern village headmen in Madras

WHEN ORDER FOR COMPENSATION MAY BE MADE.

4. Payment of compensation when part only of fine realized—An order imposing a fine of Rs. 4000 directed as follows:—'Out of the fine if recovered from the accused, I direct that Rs 3000 be paid to prosecution witness No 1' A portion only of the Rs 4000 was realized and the Judge thereupon passed an order that the Government had a prior claim to the extent of Rs 1,000 and it was only in the event of there being a balance that the prosecution witness No 1 had any claim to the compensation. Held, that it was open to the Judge when imposing the sentence to provide for the proportionate distribution of the amount realized. In the absence of any such direction the order could not be construed to mean that nothing should be payable to the prosecution witness until the full amount of the fine was realized 2 M. L. W. 22 = 16 Cr. L. J. 88.

5. Compensation cannot be awarded on acquittal or discharge—This section does not give power to a Court to award compensation for alleged offences other than those which form the subject of inquiry in the case in which the order is made, still less for offences of which the accused has been acquitted Ratanlal 507. Nor where the accused is discharged and no fine is imposed, 22 B. 717, 4 Mad. H. C. Rep. App. XXVIII

6. Order for compensation should be part of judgment.—The award of compensation should be a part of the sentence or order made upon a conviction for an offence of the nature specified therein, and should be founded upon a statement of loss, damage, or expenses as the case may be ascertained at the trial 11 W. R. 63. It cannot be made afterwards. An award of compensation after judgment has been pronounced and the fine credited to Government, is illegal.—M H C Pro, 18th March, 1878. See also 24 M 305; 5 Bom. L. R. 976. The Court in ordering a portion of the fines inflicted on prisoners to be paid to the complainant should record under what section or on what grounds it so orders, 2 W. R. 82.

7. Separate order for payment of expenses in addition to fine improper.—Expenses should be paid out of the amount of the fine imposed, and a separate order for such expenses is improper, Ratanlal 341, 4 Bom. L. R. 877. An order directing the payment of compensation in addition to fine is illegal, 5 Bom. L. R. 126; Ratanlal 196. In 24 M 305, the accused was convicted of having caused hurt and fined Rs 15 and was also ordered to pay compensation of Rs 12-4 or Rs 2-4 being Court fees paid by the complainant, and Rs 10 being damages for other expenses incurred. Held, that the levy of Court fees Rs 2-4 was warranted by s 31 of the Courtfees Act VII of 1870 as the duty of the Court to award Court and process fees in addition to the fine is imperative. But under this section, as the Court has a discretion to award the expenses of the prosecution, it must be taken to exclude those expenses in regard to which the Court has no discretion. Expenses other than Court fees incurred in the prosecution, can only be awarded to the complainant out of the fine levied from the accused and cannot be levied from the accused in addition to the fine. In making an order under this section the precise amount of fees directed to be paid to complainant under s 31, Courtfees Act and the amount of compensation to be paid under this section out of the fine, should be distinctly specified, 1 Bar. & R. 618.

OUT OF WHAT FUNDS COMPENSATION MAY BE GIVEN.

8. Compensation may be ordered only out of fine imposed—A Magistrate cannot, without imposing a substantive sentence of fine, order payment of compensation by an accused person to a complainant Wells 11, 715; 22 B. 717; 24 M 305. The proper course is to impose a fine, and out of the fine realized direct payment to the complainant of such amount as the Court thinks fit, having regard to the provisions of the section, 3 C

L. R. 401. It is inexpedient to order the payment of expenses of a suit under the Workmen's Breach of Contract Act, 1859, because no fine can be imposed under that Act, Ratanlal 623. Compensation can be ordered only out of the fine recovered, 8 Bom. L. R. 978.

9. Cannot be paid out of profits of forfeited property.—This section has no application to amounts realized by forfeiture of property. When a person was sentenced to undergo a term of transportation and adjudged to forfeit the rents and profits of his property during that term held, that it was not competent to the Court, before which he was tried and convicted, to award any portion of the said rents and profits as compensation to complainant, Ratanlal 146. The provisions of this section for the payment of expenses or compensation do not apply to sums realized by forfeiture of bonds under s 514, 1 Bur. & R. 612.

10. Cannot be paid out of the proceeds of sale under s. 517.—This section only justifies the order of compensation out of and to the extent of fine imposed and recovered. A person was convicted under s 14 of the Bombay Public Ferries Act, 1868, and the Magistrate ordered the sale of his boat illegally under s 517, and directed compensation to be paid to the complainant out of the sale-proceeds. Held, the order was altogether illegal, Ratanlal 638.

FOR WHAT EXPENSES AND INJURIES COMPENSATION MAY BE ORDERED

11. All legitimate costs can be awarded under this section.—This section is not always applied in cases suitable for its application. All legitimate costs (such as medical officer's fees, 24 M. 303) and not only process-fees may be awarded under this section as well as compensation for the injury caused, 1 Bur. & R. 409.

12. Compensation in excess of the loss suffered should not be awarded.—The accused was convicted of illegally demanding and receiving money under s 21 (c) of the Fisheries Act and was fined three times the amount of the illegal receipts, the Magistrate directed the whole of the fine to be paid to the persons from whom the accused had taken money. Held, that s 545 did not support the order as the prosecution was instituted without complaint on the report of an official, and the aggrieved persons did not appear to have incurred any expenses in the prosecution [cl. (a)] except in attending the Court as witnesses for which they would have been paid by the Magistrate, and that there was nothing to show that they had suffered any injury beyond the loss of the sums paid to the accused, 3 L. B. R. 50 = 10 Cr. L. J. 78. But in this case the order was not set aside as no application to revise the order was made by the executive Government. See also 40 P. W. R. 1913 = 14 Cr. L. J. 859.

13. Refund of Court-fees to Complainant.—Court fees ordered to be repaid to a complainant under s 31 of the Court-fees Act, 1870, shall be regarded as a fine and be subject to the provisions of this section—Bom. H. C. Cr. Cir., p 53 5 M. H. C. R. Appx. XXVIII; 24 M. 303. If the fine be awarded by a Court, whose decision is subject to appeal or revision, the refund must not be made until the period prescribed for the presentation of an appeal has elapsed or if an appeal be presented till after the decision of the appeal—Cl. M. H. Cr. Cir. Dis. No 807, dated 18th September, 1902. See also 1 Bur. & R. 616 and Note 8 above. See proposed new section 546-A, by which it is intended to repeal s 31 of the Court-fees Act.

14. Court-fees may be awarded as compensation when accused convicted of cognizable offence.—When a person, accused of a non-cognizable offence is convicted of a cognizable one, the Court cannot legally direct him to pay the expenses incurred by the complainant under s 31 of the Court-fees Act, as that section applies only to cases where the accused has been convicted of a non-cognizable offence. The expenses so incurred can, however, be awarded to the complainant as compensation under this section. Ratanlal 397.

15. Compensation in petty cases improper.—It is improper to award compensation to complainant in petty cases where no damage of a kind to occasion pecuniary loss has been sustained 1 Bur. & R. 533. But where compensation was awarded to a complainant who was beaten without any provocation, and was thereby prevented from attending the market to dispose of his wares, the award of compensation was set aside on appeal, on the ground apparently that it was undesirable to encourage frivolous complaints by the grant of compensation, the High Court in revision set aside the order of the Appellate Court and upheld the order granting compensation, on the ground that the law intends that compensation should be awarded, where there is substantial cause for it, Weir II, 717.

16. No compensation for loss of time.—Compensation for loss caused by the inability of the complainant to attend to field work on account of his time being taken up with the prosecution of the accused cannot be ordered to be paid under this section, which deals with expenses incurred in the prosecution and with compensation for the injury only, 22 B. 433.

17. Expenses incurred in bringing offender to justice cannot be paid.—This section does not apply to such expenses as are incurred in bringing the person of the offender before the Magistrate, Ratanlal 608.

18. Expenses to Ameen for restoring land-marks cannot be paid.—A Magistrate is not competent to direct that a portion of the fine be paid to an Ameen for the purpose of paying the expense of his deputation to restore the land marks which had been destroyed by the opposite party, 6 W. R. 93; 2 P. R. 1870

19. Compensation not awardable under Act XVI of 1881 where case dealt with under I. P. C.—The accused was ordered by the Superintendent of the Coast Guard Service to remove certain fishing stakes, and on his failing to comply with that order, was convicted under s 283, I P C., and sentenced to pay a fine of Rs 20, of which Rs 15 were ordered by the Magistrate to be paid to the complainant, the Guard, to cover the expenses of removing the stakes held, that the case not having been dealt with under Act XVI of 1881 the order of compensation was illegal, the same not coming within the terms of this section, Ratanlal 241.

20. Reward cannot be awarded where conviction is under I. P. C.—The accused were convicted under s 379 I P C., for cutting teak trees in their field, knowing that the right over the trees was reserved by Government, and out of the sentence of fine ordered Rs 5 to be paid to complainant a forest servant for detecting the offence Held that as the conviction was for an offence under the I P C. and not under the Forest Act, the order of reward was illegal, Ratanlal 573.

21. No power to order compensation for abating public nuisance—When a Subordinate Magistrate issued a notice calling upon the accused to make certain repairs to a well and upon his failure to comply with the order, tried and convicted him under s 188, I P C., for disobedience of the order and fined him Rs. 100 and directed under s 44 of the 1861 Code (corresponding to this section) that the repairs to the well should be made and paid for out of the fine Held, the order was bad, Ratanlal 50. See s 140 (2).

22. Compensation to Municipality in plague prosecutions cannot be made—The accused took his sister who was suffering from plague into a town without informing the authorities about it. He was thereupon convicted of an offence under s 188 I P C., and fined Rs. 20. The Magistrate further ordered, that out of the fine so recovered, Rs 10 should be paid to the Municipality as damages on account of the expense incurred by the Municipality Held, that the order of compensation was illegal, Ratanlal 958.

WHO IS ENTITLED TO COMPENSATION.

23. Compensation to the heirs of the deceased under the old Codes.—S 44 of the Cr P C., XXV of 1861, was as follows — 'order that the fine or any part thereof not exceeding the loss appearing to be caused to the person who has suffered by such offence, and any special damage of a pecuniary nature that may have resulted to such person by such offence be paid to or for the benefit of such person'. The amount awarded to the person injured. The words "the person" not "any person" indicate that that section had in view only the person primarily injured by the offence. It was therefore held that compensation could not be awarded to anyone excepting the person who directly suffered by the offence. It could not be given to the heirs of a person who had been killed, 10 W. R. 39. The same view was held upon the Code of 1881 as amended by Act VII of 1869 notwithstanding the change of language, 7 Bom. H. C. R. Cr. Ca. 73. The same view was held on the Code of 1882 12 M. 352. See also the referring judgment in 21 M. 74 and 7 P. R. 1877

24. Can compensation be paid to relations of the deceased whose death was brought about by the offence?—A Full Bench of the Madras High Court held that out of the fine imposed on a man convicted under s 304-A, I P C., compensation cannot be given to the widow of the person whose death was brought about by the prisoner's rash and negligent act, and that no change of intention on the part of the Legislature could be inferred from the change of language in the Code of 1882 (same as the present section). To render cl. (A) of s. 545 applicable, it must appear that an "injury caused by the offence committed" has been suffered and further, that the injury is one for which substantial compensation might be given in a civil suit. The term "injury" is defined in the I P C., s 44, as follows — The word denotes any harm whatever illegally caused to any person in body, mind, reputation or property. and this definition holds good for the interpretation of this Code, s. 4 (2). The widow of a man whose death has been brought about by the criminal act of another cannot be said to have suffered an injury in that sense of the word, 21 M. 74, following 12 M. 352. See also Ratanlal 763 and 959.

25. But a Bench of the Calcutta High Court in 38 C. 302 preferred to follow the opinion of BENSON, J., in his order of reference to the Full Bench in 21 M. 74, dissenting from the opinion of the Full Bench BENSON, J., was of opinion that there has been a deliberate change in the language of the section which has been expressly framed so as to provide for compensation being given in cases where it is recoverable under Act XIII of 1855, and to the person indicated in that Act, namely, the "wife, husband, parent and child, if any" of the deceased. The word 'where' in cl. (b) means "in cases in which, and by persons by whom" compensation is recoverable. The Calcutta High Court in the case abovementioned convicted the accused of an offence under s. 304 A, I P C., and made an order as follows: 'we direct that the fines, if paid, be handed over to the widow of the deceased or such other person, whom the District Magistrate on inquiry may find entitled to it under the provisions of s. 545.' The Punjab Chief Court also in 17 P. R. 1893 (F.B.) held, that it was competent to a Court to award part of the fine imposed under s. 304, I P C., for the offence of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, to the widow of the person killed, in compensation for the injury caused by the offence committed, the loss of her husband's support affecting a widow prejudicially is a legal right, and being therefore "an injury" as defined by s. 44, I P C., for which substantial compensation can be awarded by a Civil Court.

Compensation cannot be given to the widow and child of a person accidentally killed as they were not complainants or persons injured within the meaning of s. 545 (b), 5 G. P. Cr. 45; nor can compensation be awarded to a widow where the accused though convicted under s. 323, I P C., is acquitted of all responsibility for the subsequent death of her husband, 6 P. R. 1890.

26. Compensation cannot be paid to bribe-giver out of fine levied from bribe-taker.—The accused N was convicted of the offence of accepting a gratification for inducing a public servant by corrupt means to show favour in his official functions and sentenced to imprisonment and fine of Rs 250. Of the fine, if paid, Rs 95, the amount of the bribe paid, and Rs 10 as compensation for the trouble and expenses for prosecution, were directed to be paid to Adiawa, mother of the complainant. Held, that the Magistrate's order directing that Rs 95, the amount of bribe paid by Adiawa should be repaid to her, was opposed to cl. (b) of this section. The Magistrate cannot order the payment of the sum to the complainant which he might have given to the accused for bribing others, Ratanlal 373.

27. Compensation may be given to husband in case of abduction.—Compensation may be given in a case of enticing away a wife for injury done to the honour of the husband, 10 and 14 P. R. 1878.

28. Compensation can now be paid to innocent purchaser (bona fide) of stolen property.—Under the old section where a person has been convicted and sentenced to a fine, a Magistrate was not authorized to award part of the fine as compensation to a person who has innocently purchased the stolen property. The sale to such purchaser is not the offence complained of within the meaning of this section 6 M. 236; 7 M. H. C. R. Appx. XIII; 4 M. H. C. R., Appx. XXVIII; 6 M. L. T. 241 = 10 Cr. L. J. 293. The injury to such purchaser is not the consequences of theft or misappropriation but of the sale without title to pass the property, Weir II, 718; 3 Bom. L. R. 449 and 764. The return of the stolen goods to the owner should be ordered unconditionally. It ought not to be made conditional upon the payment of compensation directed to be paid to the purchaser. But under s. 519 an innocent purchaser may be compensated out of any moneys found on the person of the accused. Accused was convicted of theft and sentenced to rigorous imprisonment and fine, and further imprisonment in default of payment of fine, and the property recovered was ordered to be restored to the complainant and s. 28 out of the fine to be paid to one Lhan an innocent mortgagee, who had advanced money to the accused on the stolen property. Held, that s. 519 and this section were not applicable to the case, as no injury was caused to the mortgagee by the offence committed Ratanlal 631, 45 B. 893. See the preliminary note to this section above and mark the change introduced by the insertion of sub-cl. (c) to sub-sec. (1).

29. Compensation to be awarded only to the person actually found to be injured.—When the accused were charged with causing hurt to B and C and they were convicted and fined for the injuries caused to B, the order awarding compensation to C out of the fines inflicted on the accused for the injuries caused to B, was held illegal, Weir II, 718. A person who by falsely pretending to be the winner of a lottery prize dishonestly induces the lottery officials to pay the prize to him does not cause 'wrongful loss' to the rightful winner of the prize and where therefore on the complaint of the rightful winner the person pretending to be the winner is convicted under s. 420 I P C., of cheating the lottery holder, no compensation can be awarded to the complainant under sub-sec. (b) as he cannot recover any compensation in a Civil Court 13 Cr. L. J. 553 (Bar.)

REFUND OF COMPENSATION.

30 Summary order for refund of compensation cannot be made.—There is no provision in the Code under which an accused person can obtain a summary order for refund of a fine which has been paid as compensation. 2 P. R. 1889 The Appellate or Revisional Court may now under s. 423 (1) (d) pass an order for refund. Sub-sec. (d) did not exist in the old Codes. The order may be executed under s. 547. See Note 3 to s. 547. See also 12 P. R. 1885 and 29 P. R. 1903. S. 47 may not govern the case as this section deals only with money payable and not money received, as for instance under s. 140 (2).

31 Remedy when order of refund cannot be enforced.—When the order for compensation is reversed in revision by the High Court and the order of refund becomes unenforceable by reason of the money having been paid over to the complainant, before the result of the revision application to the High Court was known, and the complainant refused to refund the only remedy open to the person who has paid the money and is entitled to its refund lies in a civil suit—M H C. Pra. 23rd March 1899 Weir II, 717. But in 19 A. 111 it was held that when the High Court in revision quashed the conviction and directed the fine to be refunded to the accused the accused need not sue the complainant for the amount he had received but the same was recoverable by process under s. 547.

32 Practice—Remittance of compensation.—When the order awarding compensation has become final, and the amount has been recovered it may be at once remitted (less the cost of remittance) to the person who is entitled to receive it by money order—Pun. Cir. 44th G. of 1896.

Payments to be taken into account in subsequent suit

546. At the time of awarding compensation in any subsequent civil suit relating to the same matter, the Court shall take into account any sum paid or recovered as compensation under s. 545.

Order of payment of certain fees paid by complainant in non-cognizable cases.

 546-A. (1) Whenever any complaint of a non-cognizable offence is made to a Court, the Court if it convicts the accused may, in addition to the penalty imposed upon him, order him to pay to the complainant—

(a) the fee (if any) paid on the petition of complaint for or the examination of the complainant, and

(b) any fees paid by the complainant for serving processes on his witnesses or on the accused, and may further order that in default of payment, the accused shall suffer simple imprisonment for a period not exceeding thirty days.

(2) An order under this section may also be made by an Appellate Court, or by the High Court, when exercising its powers of revision.

Note.—“Taken into account.”—This expression means that the compensation awarded is to be taken into consideration by the Court in a subsequent civil suit at the time of awarding damages and not that it is to be afterwards deducted from the damages awarded in the suit. 21 W. R. (Cir.) 338

Moneys ordered to be paid recoverable as fines.

547. Any money (other than a fine) payable by virtue of any order made under this Code by the method of recovery of which is not otherwise expressly provided for shall be recoverable as if it were fine.

Notes.—1 Any money payable, e.g. under s. 428 or s. 148 (3) such amount is recoverable by process under this section and not by a suit in a Civil Court. 5 P. L. R. 1904. See Madras G. O. No. 830 J, dated 14th June 1904.

2 Recovery of compensation from the complainant when the amount of fine is reduced on re-trial.—The accused were tried by a first-class Magistrate and fined Rs. 25 each. Of the fine, half was paid to the complainant. Upon a re-trial order by the High Court the second-class Magistrate fined each of the accused

* Section 546-A was inserted by Act XVIII of 1923 s. 253

† The words “—” were inserted by s. 42.

Rs. 10 and said that as they had already paid a fine of Rs. 25 each the result of the sentence will be that Rs. 15 will have to be returned to each of them. The complainant on being called upon stated that he had spent the money and was unable to repay. On reference as to how the compensation could legally be recovered it was held that the decision of the second class Magistrate amounted to an order to the complainant to refund the sum of Rs. 15 and was therefore enforceable under this section Ratanlal 213.

3. High Court has power to order refund of money paid under illegal order—The power of the High Court as a Court of Revision to set aside illegal orders awarding compensation to an accused person must be taken to include the power to direct repayment of the money paid as compensation under such orders 12 P R 1885. See s. 423 (1) (d) and 29 P R 1903. Such power is wide enough to cover a case where a Magistrate directed that a portion of the fine should be paid as compensation and it was so paid but on the Magistrate's order being set aside in revision it was held the sum was recoverable by process under this section and not by a suit in a Civil Court 19 A. 112; 7 M 563, 6 A 95, 14 P R. 1885.

548. If any person affected by a judgment or order passed by a Criminal Court

Copies of proceedings desires to have a copy of the Judge's charge to the jury or of any order or deposition or other part of the record he shall on applying for such copy, be furnished therewith

Provided that he pays for the same unless the Court, for some special reason thinks fit to furnish it free of cost

Notes.—1 See s. 371 for right of accused to get copy of judgment free of cost s. 210 for copy of charge free of cost and s. 219 for copy of the evidence of supplementary witnesses after commitment.

2 Copies of public documents.—See ss 74 and 76 of the Evidence Act and see 20 M 189 (F B) and 20 M 486

3. Complainant is a person affected by an order of discharge—The complainant applied for a copy of the order of discharge (under s. 253) which the Magistrate refused to give. In his opinion the complainant was not affected by the order as the case was sent up by the Police on the information of the complainant who was a witness in the case and was not permitted under s. 495 to conduct the prosecution. Held that everyone complaining of an offence by which he has been injured is affected by the disposal of his complaint whether the case has been sent up by a Police-officer or not. Such a person is therefore entitled to ask for a copy of the Magistrate's order of discharge Ratanlal 305, 8 C. 166 = 10 C. L. R. 190. See Note 4 to s. 371 at p. 939

4 Is accused entitled to copies before final judgment or order?—An accused claimed a right to have copies on the ground that an order for his trial namely a charge had been passed. Held that a charge is not an order and s. 549 did not apply. It is indeed clear otherwise from the words of that section that it has reference to a case which has reached the term indicated by a judgment or a judicial order 1892 A. W. N 160. See also the referring judgment in 20 M 189

5 Prisoner entitled to copies of any part of the record—A prisoner is entitled to have copies of all documents for which he asks and which he thinks necessary for his defence and a Magistrate acts contrary to law in determining whether such copies are necessary or not 16 W. R. 77. When the Judge's notes form the only record of the case the parties should be allowed to have copies of such notes on paying the authorized charge for making the same 1 M H. C. R. 135. See also 1895 A. W. N 154 which deals with a copy of a report called for by a Magistrate from a Tahsildar as to sureties under Chapter VIII and 9 P R. 1909 with a copy of the proceedings in the Summary Register kept under the Cantonment Code.

(i) Copy of occurrence report s. 157—An occurrence report which the officer in-charge of a Police station is bound under s. 157 to send to the Magistrate is not a public document within the meaning of s. 74 Evidence Act as the accused is not entitled to a copy of it before commencement of trial 29 M. 189 (F.B.).
SUBRAMANIAM AJAY J dissenting

(ii) Statements of witnesses examined by Police s. 161—See Note 14 to s. 162 at p. 354.

(iii) Copy of 'firm and report s. 161—It was understood conceded that a copy of the Sub-house Officer's report made under s. 161 could not be demanded inasmuch as it is an extract from the Field diary which is specially indicated by s. 172. PEREIRA J at 20 M. 157 at 273.

(iv) Copy of report of Subordinate Police officer to Station-house Officer, s 168—The report which the Subordinate Police-Officer has to send under s 168 is not a public document within the meaning of s. 74 and the accused is not entitled to copy of same before trial 20 M 169 (F.B.) SUBRAMANIA AIVAR, J., dissenting

(v) Copy of charge sheet s 174—The report which the officer in-charge of a Police station has to forward under s. 174 to a Magistrate after investigation of a case is not a public document which the accused can get copy of under ss 74 and 76 of the Evidence Act Per COLLINS, C.J., and BRANSON, J., contra SHEPHARD and SUBRAMANIA AIVAR JJ., in 20 M. 169 (F.B.). "We should here observe that apart from general principles if in any case an order has been made on a Police occurrence report or charge-sheet affecting the person accused such an order for his arrest or for his remand to custody, he is ipso facto entitled to a copy of that document under the express terms of s 548. The referring judgment of DAVIES and SUBRAMANIA AIVAR JJ. but this question was not before the Full Bench 20 M. 169.

6. Remission and reduction of Court-fees—Under s. 35 of the Court-fees Act VII of 1870 and in supersession of all previous notifications under that section, the Government of India have been pleased to make the reductions and remissions hereinafter set forth namely—

549. (1) The Governor General in Council may make such rules, consistent with this Code and the Army Act or any similar law for the time being in force, as to the cases in which persons subject to military law shall be tried by a Court to which this Code applies, or by Court martial, and when any person is brought before a Magistrate and charged with an offence for which he is liable, under the Army Act, section 41, to be tried by a Court martial, such

Delivery to military authorities of persons liable to be tried by Court-martial

Magistrate shall have regard to such rules, and shall in proper cases deliver him, together with a statement of the offence of which he is accused, to the commanding officer of the regiment, corps or detachment to which he belongs, or to the commanding officer of the nearest military station for the purpose of being tried by Court martial.

(2) Every Magistrate shall, on receiving a written application for that purpose by the commanding officer of any body of troops stationed or employed at any such place, use his utmost endeavours to apprehend and secure any person accused of such offence.

Apprehension of such persons.

Notes.—1. Rules respecting delivery of offenders to Military authorities.—The following rules have been made by the Governor-General in Council under this section respecting the delivery to the military authorities of persons charged with offences under s. 41 of the Army Act (44 and 45 Vict., Chap 59) for which they are liable to be tried by Court martial held under that Act —

I (1) When a prisoner subject to military law is accused of an offence for which he is liable under the Army Act, 1881, s. 41, to be tried by Court martial a Magistrate shall not proceed to try him, or to issue an order for his trial by jury, or to hold an inquiry into the case as a case triable by the Court of Session or High Court, unless he is moved to do so by the military authorities, or, is of opinion, for reasons to be recorded in writing, that he ought so to proceed without being moved thereto by these authorities.

(2) When the Magistrate is of opinion that he ought so to proceed without being moved thereto by the military authorities, he shall give notice of his intention to do so to an officer to whose command the accused person is subject, and shall not, till the expiration of fifteen days from the date of the service of notice on the officer—

(a) in a summons-case, acquit or convict the accused under ss. 243, 245, 247 or 248 of the Criminal Procedure Code, or hear him in his defence under s. 244 of the Code, or

(b) in a warrant-case, frame a charge against the accused under s. 251 of Code, or

(c) issue an order for the trial of the accused by a jury under s. 451 A, sub-sec. (2) of the Code, or

(d) make an order committing the accused for trial by the Court of Session or the High Court under s. 213 or 214 of the Code.

(3) If, within the fifteen days, or at any time thereafter, before the Magistrate has done or made an act or order specified in cl. (2), subcls. (a), (b), (c) or (d), of this rule an officer, to whose command the accused is subject, notifies to the Magistrate that, in the opinion of the military authorities, the accused should be tried by a Court martial, the Magistrate shall stay the proceedings before himself, and if the accused is in his power, deliver him together with the statement mentioned in s. 549 of the Code, to the authority prescribed in that section

II. If after a Magistrate has been moved by the military authorities to proceed against a person subject to military law for an offence for which that person is liable, under the Army Act, 1881, s. 41, to be tried by Court-martial, an officer to whose command the person is subject notifies to the Magistrate that in the opinion of the military authorities, the accused should be tried by a Court-martial, the Magistrate, if he has not

* For not session making rules as to cases in which person subject to military law shall be tried by a Court to which this Code applies, or by a Court-martial, see Govt. of India, 1881 Part I, p. 303 and the rules printed below

before receiving the notice, done or made an act or order specified in cl (2), sub-cl (a), (b), (c) or (d), or Rule I, shall stay the proceedings before himself, and if the accused is in his power, deliver him, together with the statement mentioned in s 549 of the Code, to the authority prescribed in that section.

III If a person, who has been delivered by a Magistrate to a commanding officer, under Rule I clause (3) or under Rule II, for the purpose of being tried by a Court martial, is not brought to trial before Court martial for the offence of which he is accused, or effectual proceedings have not been taken or have not been ordered to be taken against him the Magistrate shall report the circumstance—

(1) in cases occurring within the territories administered by the Governor of Fort St. George in Council or by the Governor of Bombay in Council, for the information and orders of the Governor-in-Council of Fort St. George or of Bombay as the case may be, and

(2) in other cases, through the Local Government, for the information and orders of the Governor General in Council.—Notification of the Government of India, Home Department, No 1222, dated 27th July, 1897 Gazette of India, 1896, Pt I, p 387 Similar rules have been made in reference to the Civil and Military Stations of Bangalore, 1902, Gazette of India, Pt I, p 260

The above rules are applicable only to persons who are subject to the Army Act, and not to persons subject to the Indian Articles of War, Act V of 1886—Punjab Cir, p 333

IV These rules have been supplemented by the following orders —

When, on the other hand, the accused in such a case is in civil custody, the Magistrate should not proceed to investigate the charge until he has communicated with the prescribed military authority and ascertained that officer's decision under Article 174 If dissatisfied with the decision of that officer in favour of a Court martial, the Magistrate should take action under Article 175, but in the meantime the accused should be delivered into military custody Thus, if the civil Police have information of a theft or other offence alleged to have been committed by A, a person subject to the Indian Articles of War, and the case is one in which both a Criminal Court and a Court martial have jurisdiction, and if in consequence, A is arrested by such Police, A must be at once placed in civil custody, wherever the arrest may have been effected, and will remain in such custody unless and until the officer commanding the troops to which he belongs decides that he shall be tried by a Court martial, and directs that he shall be detained in military custody To that officer an intimation of the fact of A's arrest should be communicated by the Magistrate who has concurrent jurisdiction, and if the decision under Article 174 is in favour of a Court martial and is communicated within a reasonable time to the Magistrate, the Magistrate should at once cause A to be handed over to the military authorities under a proper escort, to be provided by the latter, reserving to himself the right of, if necessary, compelling a reference to the Governor General in Council under Article 175

V In case of doubt as to whether an accused person in civil custody is liable to be tried by Court martial, the Magistrate concerned should, before beginning any investigation into the charge, communicate with the officer commanding the troops to which such accused person belongs, and proceed as directed in the latter part of paragraph 111 above. In similar case of doubt, if the accused is in military custody, the Magistrate would do well to communicate first with the officer commanding the troops to which the accused belongs, before taking formal action under Article 175

VI Where a Criminal Court and Court martial have concurrent jurisdiction, it is, as a rule, desirable that the accused should be tried by the latter, but in cases of thefts of arms, ammunition or other property belonging to the Government, if there is reason to suspect that persons, other than the accused, who are not subject to the Indian Articles of War, are directly or indirectly implicated, it may often be expedient for the officer commanding the troops to decide in favour of investigation by the Criminal Court as more likely to assure the discovery and punishment of all the accessories to the offence—Government of India, Home Department, 30th April, 1897

The following instructions have been issued for the guidance of military officers in respect of the trial of accused persons subject to the jurisdiction of both the Criminal Courts and Courts martial —

1 The attention of all concerned is invited to G G O, No 182, dated the 12th February, 1897, in which it is declared that the officer commanding the troops, to which an accused person subject to the Indian Articles of War belongs, shall 'be the prescribed military authority' for the purposes of Articles 174 and 175 of the said Articles

2. The offences against the criminal law which are cognizable by Courts-martial and detailed in the Indian Articles of War, and reference should be made, in particular, to Articles 8, 42, 44, 59, 60, 61, 64, 65, 171 and 173. The jurisdiction of Courts-martial, over offences cognizable also by the ordinary Criminal Court is more limited in the case of the Native than in that of the British Army, and, as a general rule, an offence committed by a person subject to the Indian Articles of War against the person or property of a civilian is not triable by Court-martial.

3. When a person subject to the Indian Articles of War is accused of an offence in respect of which both a Criminal Court and Court-martial have jurisdiction, and is in military custody, the prescribed Military authority, if he decides that the case ought to be tried by a Criminal Court, should move the Magistrate to investigate the charge handing over the accused to him for that purpose. If, however, he decides that the charge is to be tried by Court-martial the accused will be kept in military custody pending such trial, and the Magistrate, should he consider that the charge should be tried by a Criminal Court, must take action under Article 175—Gazette of India, March, 1897.

The following rules have been sanctioned by the Government of India for the defence of soldiers charged with criminal offences and prosecuted by Government in Civil Courts.—All India, p. 248—

(1) When soldiers are to be tried by a Civil Court (i.e., Court which is not a military Court) upon any criminal charge, the local military authorities (General Officers Commanding Districts) should consult the District Magistrate and arrange with him for the selection and remuneration of a pleader, advocate or barrister as the importance and necessities of the case may require.

(2) The fee to be paid to the pleader, advocate or barrister must not exceed Rs. 100 per diem when the trial is before a High Court, and Rs. 50 per diem in all other cases.

(3) It is to be clearly understood that the local authorities are only to appoint a pleader in cases where they think it desirable, and are to fix the fee beforehand (subject to the maximum amount stated above) at whatever sum may be reasonable with reference to the customary rates of the localities concerned.

(4) The expenditure incurred will be a military charge, and will be adjusted under Grant 14 of Budget Estimates, Minor Head—"Contingencies."

These rules are not applicable to native soldiers on leave and reservists not under training but they should be held applicable to reservists of the Native Army when called out for training, as these men are in the same position as soldiers serving with the Colours.

A pleader, advocate or barrister may similarly be provided, subject to the conditions of paragraphs 2 and 3 above, when a soldier has been convicted and has appealed.

2. Procedure where the accused belongs to the Indian Army.—Under the Indian Articles of War (Act V of 1869) [as amended by Act XII of 1894, s. 71], Article 174, which applies only to Her Majesty's Indian Army, when a Criminal Court and a Court-martial have concurrent jurisdiction in respect of an offence, it shall be in the discretion of the prescribed military authority (that is, the commanding officer of the troops to which the offender belongs) to decide before which Court the proceedings shall be instituted, and if that authority decide that they shall be instituted before a Court-martial, to direct that the accused shall be detained in military custody. Article 175 provides that when a Criminal Court having jurisdiction is of opinion that proceedings ought to be instituted before itself in respect of any alleged offence, it may, by written notice require the prescribed military authority at his option either to deliver over the offender to the nearest Magistrate to be proceeded against according to law, or to postpone proceedings pending a reference to the Governor-General in Council, and, in every such case, the said authority shall either deliver over the offender in compliance with the requisition, or shall forthwith refer the question as to the Court before which proceedings are to be instituted for the determination by the Governor-General in Council whose orders upon such reference shall be final. This relates to cases in which the offender is in military custody and to the determination of the question whether he should be tried by the ordinary Criminal Court or by a Court-martial, and it relates only to certain offences specified in Articles 8, 42, 44, 59, 60, 61, 64, 65, 171 and 173, however, the offender is in custody.

3. Conflict of jurisdiction between Civil and Military authorities.—The Law does not provide for the course to be taken when the Civil authorities have custody of a military offender and the military authorities desire to have him delivered to them for trial by Court-martial. The matter has, however, come before the High Court. In one case a soldier, an European British subject, was committed by a Magistrate for trial to the High Court Application was made to have the commitment quashed and the prisoner sent for trial by Court martial but it was held that as the military authorities had made over the prisoner to the Magistrate and the Magistrate had jurisdiction, the commitment was valid. The trial was accordingly held, 22 W. R. 20. In another case, it was held that s 101 of the Military Act was only permissive and that, as the Criminal Court had got possession of the investigation into the offence and the military authorities had not availed themselves of the alternative procedure of trying the offender by Court martial, the commitment was regular, and the trial should proceed, 5 C. 124 = 4 C. L. R. 432. In the United Provinces, it has been ordered that if such a military offender is in civil custody, the Magistrate shall not proceed until he has communicated with the prescribed military authority and that, if he is dissatisfied with the decision of the officer in favour of a Court martial, he should report the case for the orders of the Governor General in Council but in the meantime he should deliver the accused into military custody.

Powers to Police to seize property suspected to be stolen

550. Any Police officer may seize any property which may be alleged or suspected to have been stolen, or which may be found under circumstances which create suspicion of the commission of any offence. Such Police officer, if subordinate to the officer in-charge of a Police station, shall forth with report the seizure to that officer.

Notes —1. Object of section — We have inserted a new clause giving Police-officers express power to seize property which they suspect to have been stolen. This power is assumed in clause 523, which described the procedure to be followed with respect to such property when seized but following the precedent of s 81 of the Calcutta Police Act, 1866, we think it is better to give the power expressly'—See Cum Rep. For similar powers, see s 64 (1) cl (ii) and s 51.

2. Proclamation may be issued before disposal of claim.—The Police seized property on suspicion of its being stolen property under s 550, and the Magistrate issued a proclamation before satisfying himself as to the claim of the person in possession. Held, that it is not incumbent on the Magistrate to decide the claim before issuing the proclamation, as the person in whose possession the property was found has an opportunity of making good his claim to the Magistrate even after issue of the proclamation, 2 B. L. R. 32 = 10 Cr. L. J. 138.

3. Police not competent to seize property other than suspected, merely because it is mixed with suspected property.—Though this section gives the Police very wide powers with regard to seizure of property alleged or suspected to have been stolen, it does not extend to taking away other property (in this case cattle) simply because they are mixed with the stolen ones, 14 P. W. R. 1909 = 11 Cr. L. J. 99. It is doubtless a duty of the Court to uphold the executive and ministerial officers, but it is equally their duty to keep a jealous eye on their acts and to see that nothing is done contrary to law under the cloak of authority.

4. Police-officer is not competent to direct another to detain the suspected property.—A Police Sub-Inspector conducting an investigation have found reason to suspect certain logs lying at M Railway Station to be stolen property, issued an order to the Station Master directing him to detain the same. The Station Master after having temporarily detained the consignment, forwarded them under the express order of his official superiors. He was subsequently charged with and convicted of an offence under s 183, I P C. Held, setting aside the conviction and sentence that the Sub-Inspector ought to have availed himself of the provisions of this section to seize the logs in question, that his order to detain the logs, was not made in the exercise of his lawful powers and was irregular and objectionable, 16 O. G. 371 = 18 Cr. L. J. 177.

Powers of Superior officers of Police

551. Police-officers superior in rank to an officer in charge of a Police station may exercise the same powers, throughout the local area to which they are appointed, as may be exercised by such officer within the limits of his station.

Note —As to powers and duties of an officer in charge of a Police station, see Notes under s 4 (f) and s 127 and also 7 B 62.

552. Upon complaint made to a Presidency Magistrate or District Magistrate on oath of the abduction or unlawful detention of a woman or of a female child under the age of sixteen years for any unlawful purpose he may make an order for the immediate restoration of such woman to her liberty, or of such female child to her husband parent, guardian or other person having the lawful charge of such child and may compel compliance with such order using such force as may be necessary

Notes.—1 Procedure.—There is necessarily no offence alleged in an application under this section and consequently the provisions of ss. 200 and 203 which relate to the procedure to be employed by a Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence do not apply to proceedings under this section 4 Bom. L. R. 609 But when a Magistrate passed an order under this section in general terms that a woman be restored to liberty without finding that she was unlawfully detained by anyone or without ordering any person to restore her to liberty held that the order was not one contemplated by this section. Where a Magistrate has reason to believe that a woman is being unlawfully detained but cannot find who so detains her the proper course for the Magistrate is to issue an order to have the woman brought before him and to examine her Weir II, 724 Where a complaint is made by the husband or the father is wrongfully detaining his wife the Magistrate should hold an inquiry into the matter of the complaint examine witnesses as to the age of the girl or as to the reason why the father does not think it fit to send the girl to her husband. The High Court in revision set aside the order of a Magistrate made without any such inquiry especially as the complaint did not state that the girl was being detained contrary to her own wish 15 Cr. L. J. 712 (C.).

2 'Unlawful detention' means detention against the will of those entitled to minors custody.—Obviously the Magistrate is empowered to act only when the detention and purpose are both unlawful. A Hindu girl under the age of 14 years went of her own accord to a Mission House where she was received and allowed to remain. The mother and husband of the girl thereupon applied to the Magistrate who took proceedings under this section. The Lady Superintendent of the Mission House denied that the girl was legally married and alleged that she was practically being brought up with the connivance of the mother to a life of prostitution. The Magistrate after recording evidence found that the girl was legally married that the other allegation was not established and that although she went to and remained in the Mission House of her own free will there was under the circumstances an unlawful detention for an unlawful purpose. He further found that there were no facts established which would disentitle the husband or the mother to the custody of the girl and passed an order under the section directing the girl to be restored to her mother held upon the facts as found by the Magistrate that as it was immaterial whether the girl did or did not consent to remain at the Mission House there was an unlawful detention within the meaning of these words as used in the section as the girl was kept against the will of those who were lawfully entitled to have charge of her 16 C. 457

3. "Unlawful purpose means 'immoral purpose.'—Under this section the purpose whether entertained towards a woman or a female child must in itself be unlawful, and applying the section only as it does to women and female children it must not be construed so as to make it include purposes which although not unlawful in themselves might only become so when entertained towards a child in opposition to the wishes of its guardian. Consequently where a Hindu girl under 14 years of age, went to a Mission House of her own free will and was allowed to remain there held that there was no detention for an unlawful purpose and a Magistrate has no power to order the restoration of the girl to her legal guardians. The case would be the same if a Christian child, were to leave its parents and being received and detained against their will in a Muhammadan institution in order that it may become a Muhammadan, 16 C. 457 The purpose contemplated by this section must be in itself unlawful and must not be construed, so as to make it include purposes, which although not unlawful in themselves, might become so when entertained towards a child in opposition to the wishes of its guardian, 4 Bom. L. R. 609 Thus, a detention for the purpose of persuading a girl to become a Christian, contrary to the wishes of her guardian, would not be unlawful within the terms of this section. A girl of 16 has a right to choose her own residence. The true principle by which the Court should be guided is that it should judge from the circumstances of each particular case and that the welfare of the infant irrespective of its age should be the main feature to be regarded, 16 B. 307 See also 9 C. W. N. 1230

Court Application was made to have the commitment quashed and the prisoner sent for trial by Court martial, but it was held that as the military authorities had made over the prisoner to the Magistrate and the Magistrate had jurisdiction, the commitment was valid. The trial was accordingly held, 22 W. R. 20. In another case it was held that s 101 of the Mutiny Act was only permissive, and that, as the Criminal Court had got possession of the investigation into the offence and the military authorities had not availed themselves of the alternative procedure of trying the offender by Court martial, the commitment was regular, and the trial should proceed 5 C. 124 = 4 C. will and was allowed to remain there held that there was no detention for an unlawful purpose and a Magistrate has no power to order the restoration of the girl to her legal guardians. 4. District Magistrate alone has jurisdiction to entertain complaint and make order.—He has no power to transfer such a case to a Sub-Magistrate, and that Magistrate would have no jurisdiction therein Ratanlal 983.

5. Has High Court power when setting aside order of restoration to send minor back to custody in which she was?—In 18 C. 487, the Magistrate ordered certain Mission authorities to restore a minor girl to the custody of the husband and mother, but the High Court set aside the order as no unlawful purpose had been made and it was contended on the authority of Rodger v The Comptoir D'Escompte de Paris, L. R. 3 P. C. 453 that in setting aside an illegal order, the High Court has power to restore the status quo ante. Held that because the order was wrong it did not follow that the High Court should as a matter of course restore the state of things which existed before it was made. 'It is very questionable whether we have the power to do this but assuming we have the power we could only with propriety exercise it if the proper guardian is shown to be in some way disqualified'

553. (1) Whenever any person causes a Police-officer to arrest another person in a Presidency town, if it appears to the Magistrate by whom the case is heard that there was no sufficient ground for causing such arrest, the Magistrate may award such compensation, not exceeding fifty rupees to be paid by the person so causing the arrest to the person so arrested, for his loss of time and expenses in the matter, as the Magistrate thinks fit

(2) In such cases, if more persons than one are arrested, the Magistrate may, in like manner, award to each of them such compensation, not exceeding fifty rupees as such Magistrate thinks fit

(3) All compensation awarded under this section may be recovered as if it were a fine and, if it cannot be so recovered, the person by whom it is payable shall be sentenced to simple imprisonment for such term not exceeding thirty days as the Magistrate directs, unless such sum is sooner paid

Note—This section supplements s. 250 which applies to vexatious or frivolous complaints. In Madras vexatious or unnecessary seizure of property or arrest by a Forest-officer or Police-officer, is punishable under Madras Act V of 1882, s. 25, and under the Abkari law, by Madras Act I of 1886, s. 59. In Bombay, by Bombay Act V of 1878 ss. 49 and 50. As to recovery of fine see ss. 336–388

Power of Chartered High Courts to make rules for inspection of records of Subordinate Courts

554. (1) With the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, the High Court at Fort William, and, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, any other High Court established by Royal Charter, may, from time to time, make rules for the inspection of the records of Subordinate Courts

Power of other High Courts to make rules for other purposes

(2) Every High Court not established by Royal Charter, may, from time to time and with the previous sanction of the Local Government,—

(a) make rules for keeping all books, entries and accounts to be kept in all Criminal Courts subordinate to it, and for the preparation and transmission of any returns or statements to be prepared and submitted by such Courts,

(b) frame forms for every proceeding in the said Courts for which it thinks that a form should be provided,

(c) make rules for regulating its own practice and proceedings and the practice and proceedings of all Criminal Courts subordinate to it, and

(d) make rules for regulating the execution of warrants issued under this Code or the levy of fines

Provided that the rules and forms made and framed under this section shall not be inconsistent with this Code or any other law in force for the time being

(3) All rules made under this section shall be published in the Local Official Gazette

Note.—Rules in Upper Burma, in the Sonthal Pergunnas and in British Baluchistan—See respectively, the Upper Burma Criminal Justice Regulation V of 1892, Sch. XVI, the Sonthal Pergunnas Justice Regulation V of 1899, s. 4 (VIII) as amended by Regulation III of 1899 and the British Baluchistan Criminal Justice Regulation VIII of 1896, Sch., s. 20

Rules under s. 554 sub-sec. (2), cl. (c) may regulate (a) the fees for processes and (b) the fees to be paid for copies and inspection of records.

555. Subject to the power conferred by section 554,* and by section † "107 of the Government of India Act, 1915' the forms set forth in the fifth schedule, with such variation as the circumstances of each case require, may be used for the respective purposes therein mentioned and if used shall be sufficient

Notes.—1 If used shall be sufficient—Thus where an order under s. 144 was issued in Form No. XXI of Schedule V, without specifying that it shall be inoperative only for two months held by the Full Bench, the order was good having regard to the provisions of this section, 34 C. 697 (F B). See also 10 C. 637 which deals with Form XXVIII (II) 4 and 26 M. 55, 7 A. 45 & erring 5 A. 17. In 36 C. 662, Form XI was construed. In 22 P. R. 1914 = 15 Cr. L. J. 805 and 8 B. L. R. 173 = 16 Cr. L. J. 100, Form X was construed.

2. Failure to comply with form—Where the summonses issued under s. 107 were not in accordance with Form No. 12 Sch. V, and was not accompanied with the order under s. 112 held proceedings bad, 9 Cr. L. J. 179 (All), and see 14 C. W. N. 78 = 11 Cr. L. J. 26, where an order under s. 145 was not drawn up in accordance with Form No. 22. In 39 C. 403, the validity of issuing a warrant under s. 100 on a printed form for use under s. 98 was considered.

556. No Judge or Magistrate shall, except with the permission of the Court to which an appeal lies from his Court, try or commit for trial any case to or in which he is a party, or personally interested, and no Judge or Magistrate shall hear an appeal from any judgment or order passed or made by himself

Explanation.—A Judge or Magistrate shall not be deemed to be a party or personally interested, within the meaning of this section, to or in any case by reason only that he is a Municipal Commissioner or otherwise concerned therein in a public capacity, or by reason only that he has viewed the place in which an offence is alleged to have been committed or any other place in which any other transaction material to the case is alleged to have occurred, and made an inquiry in connection with the case

3. Further exceptions.—A member of a District Board in the Punjab, see s. 58, Punjab District Boards Act XX of 1883, or a member of a Municipal Committee in the Punjab, see s. 183 of the Punjab Municipal Act XX of 1891, is not a party or personally interested within the scope of this section. In Burma, see the Burma Municipal Act III of 1888, and in the Central Provinces, see the Central Provinces Municipal Act XVIII of 1889 s. 144. A Judge or Magistrate shall not be deemed within the meaning of this section, to be a party to or personally interested in any prosecution for an offence against the Cantonment Act or against any enactment extended, or rule made thereunder, because he is a member of the Cantonment Committee, or, where there is no such Committee, is the Commanding Officer of the Cantonment, or, because he has ordered or approved the prosecutions s. 29 of the Cantonment Act XIII of 1889. See also 40 P. R. 1834, 43 P. R. 1857, and 43 P. R. 1889

4. Principle on which section is based.—The principle is that laid down in the maxim Nemo debet esse iudex vel sui ius dicere debet, 'that is, 'no man can be his own Judge or give judgment concerning his own rights.' 'It is one of the oldest and plainest rules of justice and of commonsense that no man shall sit as Judge in a case in which he has a substantial interest. That is the law of this country as much as it is the Law of England' 2 C. 23. "Whenever there is a likelihood that the Judge would from kindred or any other cause have a bias in favour of one of the parties, it would be wrong in him to act." Q v Rand L.R. 1 Q B. 230. No Judge can act in any matter in which he has any pecuniary interest, nor where he has any interest though not a pecuniary one, sufficient to create a real bias. In 2 C. W. N. 431 before the Calcutta High Court Sessions, RAMPINI, J., retired from the case after hearing evidence, on the ground that he had a personal interest in the case. A person who has a judicial duty to perform disqualifies himself if he has a pecuniary interest in the decision which he is about to give or a bias which renders him otherwise than an impartial Judge. In the latter case the question must be a question of substance and of fact whether he has been an accuser, Reason v Medical Council, (1893) 43 Ch. D. 366 at p. 334. The interest must be substantial R v Meyer (1875) 1 Q B. D. 173—177 so as to make it likely that the Judge has a real bias, the mere possibility of bias not being sufficient to disqualify R v Handley, (1882) 8 Q B. D. 383. See also Allinson v General Council of Medical Education (1896) 1 Q B. 750—753. In the case of Dimes v Grand Junction Canal, 3 H. L. Cas. 793 the Lord Chancellor said "It is of the last importance that the maxim that no man is to be Judge in his own cause, should be held sacred. And that is not to be confined to a cause in which he is a party but is to be applied to a cause in which he has an interest. See also Sergeant v Dale, L. R. 2 Q B. D. 855, where it is laid down 'The law does not measure the amount of interest which a Judge possesses. If he has any interest in the decision of the question one way, he is disqualified, no matter how small the interest may be'.

APPLICATION OF SECTION.

5. Section applies to Bench or tribunal any member of which is interested.—It is one of the oldest and plainest rules of justice and of commonsense that no man shall sit as Judge in a case in which he has a substantial interest. Where, therefore, one of a Bench of Magistrates which convicts the accused has a substantial interest in the case which disqualifies him from acting as Judge, the conviction will be quashed and the defect will not be cured by any consent or waiver on the part of the accused, 2 C. 23. Where a Justice has such an interest as to give him a real bias in the matter, he ought not to sit on the Bench. It is immaterial what part he really takes, although it may be he takes no part until the other Justices have unanimously determined to convict, Q v Meyer, 1 Q B. D. 173. Before a Bench of Magistrates requiring the presence of two members to form a quorum, a trial was commenced before four Magistrates A, B, C and D, on an objection taken by the accused, that A and B were related to the complainant, the District Magistrate ordered that the trial should be concluded by C and D alone. Held, that the trial was legal and that there was no objection to the validity of the conviction, 3 N. L. R. 67 = 6 Gr. L. J. 43. It is no answer to the objection that there was a majority in favour of the decision, without reckoning the vote of the interested party, nor that the interested party withdrew before decision, if he appears to have joined in discussing the matter with the other Magistrates. R v Hertfordshire, JJ, 6 Q. B. 733. The affidavit of the Justice stated that he did not recollect being present at the hearing or determination of the appeal nor conversing with any of the Magistrates who heard the appeal, and that he did not converse with them on any matter relating to the appeal. Held nevertheless that being present, he formed part of the Court and therefore the order was invalid, R v Surrey, JJ, 1 Jur. (N.S.) 1138 =

4 W. R. 86. But a mere presence on the Bench of an interested Magistrate is not sufficient ground, if it is expressly shown that he took no part in the hearing, R v London, Jf., 19 Q. B. 421. By the direction of a Linen Trade Association, and on the complaint of their Inspector, V was prosecuted before Justices for having purloined yarn. When the case came on, V's solicitor objected to any Magistrate taking part in the proceedings who was a member of the Association. M, who was one of the Justices and was presiding as Chairman, stated that he was a member of the Association, but that he had no personal interest and would adjudicate. At the close of the statement of the complainant's case, and before any evidence was given, M left the Chair and took his seat on the Bench some distance from the other Magistrates. After a short time he left the Bench and went into the Magistrate's room and was there when the other Magistrates came in to consider their decision, but at once retired. He took no part in the adjudication. V was convicted of the offence charged. Held that the conviction must be quashed with costs to be paid by M R v Armagh, Jf., (1913) 2 Ir. R. 410—K. B. D. See also R v O'Grady 7 Cox C. C. 247.

Assessor being interested—In (1912) M. W. N. 378 = 13 Cr. L. J. 473 after the trial had begun, it was discovered that one of the assessors was interested and unfit to sit as an assessor and the Sessions Judge was asked to choose another assessor and proceed with trial de novo. In a jury trial, however, the parties have a right to challenge the jurors before commencement of the trial and it cannot be a ground for quashing the conviction that one of the jurors was disqualified.

6. Can the Crown or complainant apply for setting aside acquittal by reason of personal interest in Judge?—See 8 A. L. J. 1129 = 12 Cr. L. J. 575 and Note 24 at p. 841. Two persons were summoned before Justices under s. 74 of the Coal Mines Act 1911, and were acquitted. It was afterwards discovered by the complainant that at least one of the Justices was disqualified by s. 104, sub-sect. (2) of the Act as being employed in a Mine. The Court discharged a rule nisi to quash the acquittals, (a) because the defendants had been in danger of conviction, and (ii) because, to quash the acquittals would prevent the defendants from pleading autrefois acquit on a subsequent occasion, R v Simpson, (1914) 1 K. B. 109 = 78 J. P. 43.

EFFECT OF DISQUALIFICATION.

7. Disqualification of Judge takes away jurisdiction—consent of waiver cannot cure the defect.—When a Magistrate is disqualified under this section, he is not a Court of competent jurisdiction and s. 537 would not apply. A case tried in disregard of the provisions of this section, must be regarded as if tried by a Court which, for want of jurisdiction, was incompetent to deal with it, 23 C. 323. Criminal proceedings are bad unless conducted in the manner prescribed by law, and if they are substantially bad, the defect will not be cured by any waiver or consent of the prisoner, 2 C. 23. If a Magistrate is personally interested within the meaning of s. 256 and is debarred from trying the case, the consent of the accused cannot confer jurisdiction, 32 A. 635; 7 A. L. J. 749 = 11 Cr. L. J. 447; 9 N. L. R. 81 = 14 Cr. L. J. 385; 1 S. L. R. 98 = 8 Cr. L. J. 356.

8. He cannot 'try any case.'—The expression 'try any case' is wide enough to include any stage of the judicial proceeding in which the question of the guilt or innocence of the accused is finally adjudicated on. This construction does not force the words of the section and is in accord with the intention of the Legislature which was to enact the rule that no man can be judge in his own cause, 5 S. L. R. 137 = 13 Cr. L. J. 30, 37 C. 221, 10 C. W. N. 775.

9. He cannot institute any proceedings.—The Magistrate cannot take proceedings under s. 133, 10 C. L. J. 484 = 11 Cr. L. J. 2, nor institute proceedings under s. 145, 9 C. W. N. 226. In 37 C. 221 it was held following 10 C. W. N. 775 that a Magistrate who has received information in another public capacity, e.g., as Manager of an encumbered estate, of an offence of mischief by cutting timber from the estate forest cannot act on it in his capacity of a Magistrate and initiate criminal proceedings under s. 190(1)(c). But CARNDUFF, J., was of opinion that the Ruling in 10 C. W. N. 775 went beyond the terms of the Code in laying down that a Magistrate who is "personally interested" cannot even take cognizance of a crime. See Note 29 at p. 423 and also Note 19 (v) below. In 29 C. 392 it was held that the principle that no man ought to be a Judge in his own case, would apply, if a Magistrate instituting proceedings under Chapter VIII acts on his knowledge of the character of the party proceeded against, see also 4 P. R. 1898; 27 P. R. 1903, but see 27 A. 172.

10. He cannot commit.—This section disqualifies a Magistrate from dealing as a Magistrate with any case in the Police investigation of which he has taken more than a formal part and unless he obtains the permission of his Appellate Court, he is disqualified from committing the case for trial. A commitment by such a Magistrate may be quashed by the High Court under its revisional jurisdiction conferred by s. 439, though not under s. 532, 2 L. B. R. 209 = 1 Cr. L. J. 477.

11. He cannot hear an appeal.—The words 'try any case' are comprehensive enough to include the hearing of an appeal. BANERJEE J., in 23 C. 44 at p. 47; 1899 A. W. N. 74; 9 N. L. R. 81 = 14 Cr. L. J. 331, 1 B. L. R. 98 = 8 Cr. L. J. 356. No permission can be granted to enable a Judge to hear an appeal. See Note 31 below, see also 12 C. W. N. 433 = 7 Cr. L. J. 224; 22 W. R. 75.

12. He cannot direct further inquiry under s. 437 or revise the proceedings.—A Magistrate disqualified under this section cannot set aside an order of discharge and pass an order for further inquiry, 5 B. L. R. 137 = 14 Cr. L. J. 331, 1 B. L. R. 98 = 8 Cr. L. J. 356.

deficient duty and penalty had been levied by a Civil Court. The Sub-Divisional Magistrate who tried the case discharged the accused on the ground that the object of the accused was not evasion of duty, but the District Magistrate in revision under s. 12 of the Upper Burma Criminal Justice Regulation convicted the accused and sentenced him to a fine. Held, that the District Magistrate, having as Collector directed the prosecution of the accused, was not competent to try him, 23 C. 44 referred to. In 27 A. 23, KNOX, J., raised a doubt whether the word 'try' can in any case be applied to proceedings taken under s. 433 or any other section of the Code in which the Judge is not empowered to pass any orders himself, but has only to report the case for the orders of the High Court.

13. Judge though disqualified may as Appellate Court grant permission.—There is nothing in this section to suggest that the interest which might disqualify a Judge or Magistrate from trying or committing for trial would prevent an Appellate Court from granting permission contemplated by this section, 20 A. 181.

"PERSONALLY INTERESTED," WHAT IT MEANS.

14. "Personally interested" should be liberally construed so as to include cases in which Judge or Magistrate may in any way be personally interested in the parties, or in the result of the case.—Whether a given case falls within the provisions of s. 533 is a question of fact to be determined in each particular case. 24 M. 238; 9 N. L. R. 81 = 14 Cr. L. J. 385.—A Magistrate should not entertain a criminal case in which persons indebted to him or concerned either as complainant are accused. However impartially a Magistrate may proceed in such a case, the mere fact that such a relationship exists gives a handle to unfriendly suspicion, which it is essential in the interests of the administration of justice to avoid. Again, when subordinate district officials are prosecuted as such for offences, the accusations sometimes spring from irregularities reflecting discredit on the general administration of the district. In such cases, it is unfitting that the accused officials and persons accused in connection with offending officials should be tried by an officer who is immediately concerned for the credit of the district administration. A Magistrate should not himself try a case arising out of matters in which he has an intimate concern so that he cannot feel confident of escaping the imputation of bias, nor should he try a case in which he has been personally concerned in bringing an offender to justice.—C. P. Cr. Cr., Part II, No 59. In 8 Bom. L. R. 947 it was stated that the word "interest" as used in this section, does not imply mere intellectual interest, but something of the nature of an expectation of advantage to be gained or of a loss or some disadvantage to be avoided by the person who is said to be interested in the case. 'Personally interested' is not confined to 'privately interested' or 'interested as a private individual'. 20 C. 857. That a disqualifying interest may result from a purely official connection with the institution of criminal proceedings seems to be clear, 23 C. 328; 3 P. R. 1895. Personally interested includes pecuniary interest. The least pecuniary interest will disqualify, 20 B. 802.

15. Interest sufficient for transfer, to be distinguished from disqualifying interest under this section.—A personal interest under this section ousts the jurisdiction of the Judge, see Note 7 above, an interest not sufficient to disqualify a Magistrate may be a sufficient ground for transfer. See 17 W. R. 39. The test to be applied for an application for transfer is 'whether there is a reasonable apprehension on the part of the accused,' see Note 24 to s. 526, and the test to be applied under this section is 'whether the Magistrate has a substantial interest in the result of the case.'

16. That Magistrate is concerned in the case in a public capacity is by itself no bar.—"It is difficult to define the meaning of this phrase 'personal interest.' In my opinion they cannot mean that a public officer whose duty it is to see that the law is obeyed is merely by reason of that duty, a person personally interested in the prosecution and trial of an offender against the Statute law. They cannot refer to any very remote interest in the matter, and must refer to some particular and immediate personal interest in the case and its result," 15 A. 192.

(F.B.) It is clear that in the illustration his interest in the success of the prosecution is not pecuniary and very indirectly personal. It is as an official on behalf of Government, if it exists at all. It may only be a neutral interest, that is, a desire for the discovery of the truth, whether the accused prove to be guilty or innocent. In many cases, a Deputy Commissioner or other executive head of a District, or Department, who orders a prosecution does so because the matter before him demands elucidation by judicial enquiry. Where such is clearly shown to be the case, this section would not be applicable. But in other cases, when the officer ordering a prosecution has satisfied his own mind that the accused is guilty, then, clearly he should not try the accused. 9 N. L. R. 81 = 14 Cr. L. J. 333 where 13 P. R. 1905 is doubled. See, however, 2 A. 808; 6 C. L. R. 279; 1836 A. W. R. 37, cases under the Codes of 1872 and 1882. The principle ought not to be applied where the relation is by statute and Judges have a duty imposed upon them to investigate and decide, Wildes v. Russell, L. R. 1 C. P. 723; 17 W. R. 39 (F.B.). (a) Magistrate in charge of Abkari administration—A Magistrate in charge of abkari administration of a district is not "personally interested" in the observance of the provisions of Act I of 1878. He is therefore not precluded from exercising jurisdiction in respect of offences against the abovementioned Act, 15 A. 192. But now 15 A. 192 must be read in the light of the illustration added to this section. (b) Under the Opium Act—A District Magistrate who is also a Collector is not debarred by the circumstances of his dual appointment from trying an offence under s. 9 of the Opium Act, I of 1878, the prosecution of which has not been instituted by himself as Collector, 1 Bar. S. R. 403. (c) Excise Officer as distinguished from Collector—J, a licensee of a liquor shop was ordered by the Excise Officer to change the site of the shop. He disobeyed the order, was tried by the Excise Officer who was also the District Magistrate, and was convicted and fined for the disobedience of the order. The Sessions Judge referred the case to the High Court with the recommendation that the conviction was bad on the ground that s. 558 precluded the Excise Officer from trying the case. KNOX, J., upheld the conviction following 15 A. 102. "The Collector and the Excise Officer in a district are two different persons and it is a sound rule of law that no illustration should be pressed further than the words warrant," 1908 A. W. N. 83 = 6 A. L. J. 357 = 7 Cr. L. J. 393. This decision appears to be erroneous. (d) District Magistrate as head of Police—A District Magistrate is not, on account of his being the head of the Police of the district, debarred from trying a person accused under s. 29 of Act V of 1861 of a breach of the orders of a Reserve Inspector of Police, 22 A. 340. Nor is such Magistrate debarred from hearing the appeal against a conviction under s. 182, I P. C., when sanction to prosecute is granted by him, provided the case does not fall under s. 467, 27 C. 432. But the section does disqualify him from dealing as a Magistrate with any case in the Police investigation of which he has taken more than a formal part, 2 L. B. R. 209. (e) Mere Municipal Commissioner is not disqualified.—See 24 W. R. 25 and Note 17 (iii) below.

(i) The fact that he takes mere formal part in institution of proceedings does not disqualify him—

Where the only connection which a Deputy Commissioner had with the proceedings was, that he ordered the Police to make an inquiry and the only sanction which he gave was, that he ordered the Police to make an inquiry, he was not disqualified from trying the case.

Police certain information and directed him to make an inquiry on the basis of that information, it cannot be said that the Magistrate directed the prosecution and he had no jurisdiction, 11 A. L. J. 832 = 15 Cr. L. J. 17. In 17 W. R. 39, the proceedings of a Magistrate who tried the prisoners charged with having committed offences under ss 93 and 95 of the Registration Act XX of 1836 were held not illegal and without jurisdiction or otherwise bad, merely because the prosecution was (with the sanction of the Registrar to whom he was subordinate) instituted against the accused by the same Magistrate in his official capacity as Sub-Registrar.

(ii) Nor does mere authorizing of prosecution disqualify—A Deputy Tahsildar made a report to the Tahsildar about certain embezzlements by the accused, a village officer. The Tahsildar in his turn reported the section he was disqualified, from trying the case, was overruled. Held that the Deputy Magistrate was qualified on the ground that his act was an authorization and not a direction that the accused should be prosecuted. The word 'directs' in the illustration means institute or gives order for the institution of the prosecution, 24 M. 238 where 20 C. 557, 15 A. 192 and 22 A. 340 are referred to, 1 Rang 517.

(iii) Mere forwarding the papers with his opinion does not disqualify—See 3 Bom. L. R. 842 and Note 17 (iv) below.

(1v) That he issued the warrant the execution of which was obstructed does not disqualify him—A Cantonment Magistrate in his capacity as the Cantonment Small Cause Court Judge issued a warrant, the execution of which was obstructed and on the complaint of the bailiff tried and convicted the persons who executed the obstruction. It was contended that the Magistrate was personally interested inasmuch as he had issued the warrant. Held that issuing the warrant would not make the Magistrate personally interested and he was concerned in the matter in his public capacity only. And as he had not directed the prosecution he was not disqualified under s. 556, 8 S. L. L. 41 = 15 Cr. L. J. 649; 24 A. L. J. R. 568.

17. If, in addition, the Magistrate has substantial interest or takes substantial part in the proceedings he is disqualified.—Scope of explanation.

(1) Where he directs a prosecution, that is, institutes or directs the institution of a prosecution—Under the explanation a Magistrate is not deemed to be a party as personally interested in any case by reason only that he is a Municipal Commissioner or otherwise concerned therein in a public capacity. But the illustration makes it clear that the effect of the explanation is only partially to relax the rule that no man is to be a judge in his own cause. A Collector who qua Collector is interested in the protection of the fisc may as Magistrate try an offence against the Excise Laws. He is not disqualified by reason only that he is a Collector. But if in his capacity as Collector he has directed the prosecution, he is disqualified from trying the case not by reason of the fact that he is the Collector but by reason of the further fact that he has constituted himself the prosecutor. Where, therefore, the Magistrate presided at a meeting of the Municipal Board which directed the prosecution, held, that he was disqualified from making an order for further inquiry against the accused under s. 437. It may be that the Magistrate did not speak or vote at the meeting—but the fact remains that he attended a meeting where the question was debated and the prosecution ordered and he had therefore placed himself personally to some extent in the position of a prosecutor, 5 S. L. R. 137 = 13 Cr. L. J. 30 where 32 A. 635 Q v Mledge, (1879) 4 Q. B. D. 332 = 48 L. J. M. C. 139 = 40 L. T. 749 = 27 W. R. 699, Q v Lee, (1882) 9 Q. B. D. 394 = 47 J. P. 118 = 30 W. R. 780 are referred to. A Magistrate, who himself ordered the prosecution of the accused in his capacity as Tahsildar and further ordered the search of the accused's house, not on the complaint or report of a Collector or Excise Officer, but on that of an opium contractor, is incompetent to try the offence. The illustration to the section almost exactly covers such a case, 5 P. W. R. 1912 = 64 P. L. R. 1912 = 13 Cr. L. J. 231. The illustration simply embodies the principle that a man cannot be both prosecutor and judge in the same cause. What the section shows is that if a Magistrate or Judge is merely connected with a case by reason of his discharging some other public function or is connected with it in some public capacity outside his magisterial or judicial functions, and orders or directs a prosecution, or is concerned with it in some public capacity, he is not on that ground alone, to be deemed personally interested in the case. But if, in addition to a connection of that sort, he, in some capacity outside his magisterial or judicial functions, orders or directs the prosecution of a person for an offence, then he is to be deemed personally interested in the case, and he cannot try it as Magistrate or Judge. The distinction is between having merely some public or official connection with a case, and ordering or directing the prosecution in some extra-judicial or extra-magisterial capacity.—Per STRACHEY, C. J., 1899 A. W. N. 74. The disqualifying interest must be one attaching to a Magistrate interested Judge as an individual and not one which he derives solely from his official position, 1893 A. W. N. 181. See the illustration to this section which shows that a disqualifying interest may result from a purely private individual connection with the institution of proceedings. See 23 C. 44 and 323. In a Municipal prosecution, the institution of proceedings by a Magistrate who was Secretary to the Municipal Committee and had as such signed the order of the Municipal Commissioners authorizing the institution of the prosecution, was very severely criticised as most objectionable, 1893 A. W. N. 181. A Joint Magistrate who has been verbally authorized by the Municipal Committee to institute Municipal cases cannot try a case which he has thus himself instituted, see 7 A. W. N. 81, following 1895 A. W. N. 291. Where a Collector on the report of an Excise Sub-Inspector directed the prosecution of the accused under the Excise Act held that the Collector should not on the District Magistrate hear the appeal, 14 C. W. N. 63, 1896 A. W. N. 103. Where a Magistrate as a Magistrate of the Octroi Sub-Committee orders a prosecution for evading the payment of octroi, he cannot try the case himself, 7 A. L. J. 749 where 1899 A. W. N. 74 is followed, 8 A. L. J. 1129 = 12 Cr. L. J. 575. See where the Forest Officer asked a Deputy Commissioner to administer a warning to the accused for having made a false report to that officer and the Deputy Commissioner directed the prosecution of the accused, held under s. 182, P. C., having satisfied himself that there was a clear case of a false report, held, that he was disqualified from hearing an appeal from the conviction. The mere fact that the accused made no objection to the hearing of the appeal did not give the Magistrate jurisdiction. The appellate order of the Magistrate was consequently set aside, 9 N. L. R. 81 = 14 Cr. L. J. 395. A District Magistrate who sanctions the institution of the proceedings under the Arms Act is disqualified from trying the case, 9 C. P. L. R. 26. See also 8 B. L. R. 41 = 15 Cr. L. J. 649. A Magistrate who issued process on his personal knowledge and suspicion that an offence against Printing Presses and Books Act XXV of 1867 had been committed, between whom and the accused correspondence had passed relating to the offence and who had ordered the Police to investigate was held to have a personal interest, 13 A. 343. A Magistrate who has been authorized by the Collector under the Stamp Act to prosecute offenders against the stamp laws is not competent to try persons whom he prosecuted, 3 C. 622. See, however, 8 B. L. R. 422 (F.B.). After the close of a trial the trying Magistrate ordered the Police to send up a charge-sheet in respect of a witness for the prosecution. The Police did so. The Magistrate tried the accused and convicted him, held that the Magistrate having directed the prosecution of the accused was not competent to hold the trial by reason of s 556 of the Code. The explanation to s 556 does not apply when the Magistrate himself has directed the prosecution. For a Magistrate cannot be both prosecutor and a Judge, 23 Bom. L. R. 842.

(ii) Where he passed the order for disobedience of which accused is tried.—10 C. 1030 the District Magistrate was present as Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners when the order was passed, for the disobedience of which the accused was tried and convicted by the same District Magistrate. The conviction was set aside as illegal. PRINSEP, J., remarked, "It (the explanation) was rather intended to prevent an objection being raised that, from the mere fact that the Magistrate might happen to be a Municipal Commissioner, he was necessarily disqualified from holding a trial in which some Municipal matter was involved. It is a very different matter when, as in the present case, we find that Magistrate is practically one of the prosecutors and the Judge." By the Common Law, a Judge, who has an interest in the result of a suit, is disqualified from acting except in cases of necessity, where no other Judge has jurisdiction. The law does not measure the amount of interest which a Judge possesses. If he has any legal interest in the decision of the question one way, he is disqualified, no matter how small the interest may be. The Law, in laying down this strict rule, has regard, not so much perhaps to the motives which might be supposed to bias the Judge as to susceptibilities of the litigant parties. One important object, at all events, is to clear away everything which might engender suspicion and distrust of the tribunal and so to promote the feeling of confidence in the administration of justice which is so essential to social order and security.

We are anxious not to be misunderstood in using this language. No right minded person does, or can for a moment entertain the thought that the Reverend Prelate, who was called upon to act in this case, was or could be, influenced by any consideration of personal interest in the proceeding. The applicant stands upon his legal right, and calls upon us to give effect to it. Sergeant v Dile L. R. 2 Q. B. D. 558, quoted. Apart from the section, it is highly undesirable that a Magistrate should judicially act in a case which he has himself extrajudicially investigated, and in which, upon facts so investigated, he has come to conclusions of fact adverse to the party against whom he subsequently institutes proceedings under the Criminal Law. Therefore, where a Magistrate as a Chairman of a certain Local Board issued a notice calling upon the petitioner to remove a certain obstruction, and the petitioner submitted a representation, which proved infructuous, and subsequently the Magistrate initiated proceedings against the petitioner under s. 133. Held, that the concern of the Magistrate with the case was not merely in a public capacity so as to take the case out of s 556, 10 C. L. J. 493 = 11 Cr. L. J. 2. See also 3 P. R. 1895 and 3 P. R. 1896. See Note 5 to s. 497 and Note 258 at p 548 and also Note 65 at p 265. In 8 P. R. 1905 = 2 Cr. L. J. 45, a Cantonment Magistrate warned the accused that he must not tie his buffaloes in a certain spot. The accused persisted. Thinking the place to have been rendered insanitary, the Magistrate sent for the accused and fined him without taking any independent evidence. Held, the conviction and sentence were illegal, the Magistrate not having informed the accused that he was entitled to have the case tried by another Magistrate, the case being one taken cognizance of on his own personal knowledge. Held, also though it was not incompetent for the Magistrate to take cognizance of the offence on the ground of his inspection of the locality, he ought to have acted on independent evidence. See also 1908 A. W. N. 95 = 5 A. L. J. 357. See, however, 5 B. L. R. 41 = 15 Cr. L. J. 649 in Note 16 (ii).

(iii) Where as Municipal Councillor he is personally interested.—If a Municipal Commissioner took any part in promoting a prosecution by concurring in sanctioning it at a meeting of the Managing Committee, or otherwise, he is disqualified by reason of the existence of a personal interest over and above what may be supposed to be felt by every Municipal Commissioner in the affairs of the Municipality, 18 B. 442; 3 P. R. 1893; 5 B. L. R. 137 = 13 Cr. L. J. 30, 18 Cr. L. J. 1017. If, as Vice-President he had made a preliminary inquiry and recommended the prosecution of the accused he is disqualified, 5 P. R. 1898. A mere Municipal Commissioner is not disqualified, 24 W. R. 25. In Weir II, 728, a Municipal Councillor reported to the Council an offence against a conservancy provision which came to his notice. The Council of which he was a member directed the prosecution. The Councillor also sat on the Bench of Magistrates who tried the offender and convicted him. Held, that the Municipal Councillor was not interested in the matter, and that the proceedings were not illegal. The words "or otherwise concerned in a public capacity" seem to have been intended to supersede the decision in 15 M. 83, where it was said that the Chairman of a Municipality being an executive officer he would be the proper person to institute prosecutions for offences against the health or comfort of the town. He is a very different person from a mere Municipal Commissioner and is clearly disqualified to try cases against Municipal Act 15 M. 83 at p. 83. See also 23 C. 44. In 27 A. 25, it was held following Q v Handsley, L. R. 8 Q. B. D. 333, the fact that a Magistrate who had been a member of a Sub-Committee of a Municipal Board which recommended the prosecution of the accused for obstructing a public thoroughfare would not in itself render the Magistrate personally interested in the case, so as to debar him under this section from trying the case initiated on the recommendation of such Sub-Committee. In 1899 A. W. N. 44, STICKNEY, C. J., held that it was quite clear from the explanation of s. 556 that whatever may have been the law under the Code of 1862, the District Magistrate is not disqualified from hearing the appeal merely because he happens to be the Chairman of the Municipal Board. See also 26 A. 536.

(14) Where he has taken active part in the departmental inquiry—It is not usually expedient that a Magistrate who has supervised and given advice in a departmental inquiry against a subordinate should finally try and determine the criminal case against the same subordinate, Ratanlal 631. A Deputy Tahsildar who inquired into a matter as a revenue officer was held disqualified from trying it as a Magistrate, and a Deputy Magistrate who sanctioned the prosecution, was held disqualified from hearing and disposing of the appeal from the conviction by the Deputy Tahsildar, Weir II, 729. But if the Magistrate took no part in the departmental inquiry, but simply forwarded the papers to the Collector with his opinion that there was apparently sufficient evidence to justify a criminal prosecution. Held, he was not debarred under this section from trying the case, 5 Bom. L. R. 542.

(15) Where he has collected evidence for prosecution and otherwise taken active part in prosecution—The words "personally interested do not merely mean "privately interested or 'interested as a private individual,' but include such an interest as the Magistrate would have in getting the conviction of the accused. Therefore, where a District Magistrate, as prosecutor, initiated and directed the proceedings against certain accused persons who were charged by him under ss. 143 and 150, I P C., and where he had taken an active part in causing the dispersion of the unlawful assembly and had pursued and directed the pursuit of the members thereof and afterwards took pains to collect evidence showing the connection of the accused with the unlawful assembly, etc., held, that he was disqualified from trying the case himself, 20 C. 857 followed in 23 C. 328. See also 14 Bar. L. R. 335 = 9 Cr. L. J. 66, 1 S. L. R. 98 = 8 Cr. L. J. 356. Where a Magistrate took an active part in the prosecution of the prisoners, and recorded the evidence of the material witnesses preliminary to deciding whether the case should go to trial, it was held that his was not a proper Court to hear the appeal from the conviction come to in the case, 22 W. R. 75 followed, 20 C. 857; 21 C. 923. Although a Magistrate is not disqualified from dealing with a case judicially merely because in his character of Magistrate it may have been his duty to initiate the proceedings, yet a Magistrate ought not to act judicially in a case where there is no necessity for his doing so, and where he himself discovered the offence and initiated the prosecution, and where he is one of the principal witnesses for the prosecution, 2 C. 23 = 25 W. R. 57. Where it appeared that a District Magistrate was not only actually concerned in the institution of proceedings against a person under Chap. VIII, but that those proceedings originated in, and with him in the discharge of his duties as executive head of the district responsible for the maintenance of law and order. held that s. 556 debarred him from entertaining an appeal under s. 406 without the permission of the Sessions Court and that the inherent disability of the Magistrate could not be cured by any act of waiver on the part of the accused. 1 S. L. R. 98 = 8 Cr. L. J. 356. Everything that is legal in procedure is not always desirable, and it is very clear, that as a general rule, it is undesirable that a Magistrate who by local investigation while on tour, having himself discovered the existence of crime and collected or ascertained the evidence in support of it, thereafter directs, recommends, or invites the institution of judicial proceedings against it, should try the supposed criminal. However, if reasonable his proceedings may be from the points of view of Police of executive responsibility, or of public morality it is impossible that he should bring to the trial a mind devoid of preconceived impressions to the extent which is demanded from the President of every forum of justice by our system of jurisprudence. Whenever the circumstances are such as to indicate in a reasonable way that the Magistrate has formed even a prima facie opinion on questions of fact which he would have to try, the subsequent trial of such matters by him becomes a mere form and a pretence or it represents a mere revision of the prejudice of the Magistrate. This is a position which is as undesirable for the Magistrate as for the party against whom his prima facie opinion may have been formed, 20 W. R. 76 referred to. That regard for the susceptibilities of the accused was recognized as a principle in dealing with cases like this, see 15 C. P. L. R. 192. The case was transferred 8 N. R. L. 1 = 13 Cr. L. J. 236 and 22 W. R. 75 and 23 C. 323 were referred to. See Note 19 (iii).

18 How far does Magistrate's taking part in previous judicial proceedings disqualify him?—See Note 30 under s 526. Where the impressions recorded in a judgment by a Magistrate, are derived from evidence, however erroneous they may be, they cannot be classed with instances of personal bias which is regarded as disqualifying the Magistrate from trying the case, 6 Bom. L. R. 1092, where 1 C. W. N. 426 is referred to.

(i) Magistrate holding inquiry under s 202 is not disqualified—In a summons case, a Magistrate before whom the complaint was made held under s. 202 an inquiry for the purpose of ascertaining the truth or falsehood of the complaint before issuing the process against the accused, after holding the preliminary inquiry he summoned the accused, tried and convicted him. Held that there was nothing in the Code which disqualifies a Magistrate who holds a preliminary inquiry under s. 202 from trying the case himself, and the provisions of s. 55b have no application to the circumstances of such a case. The principle of 20 C. 357 and 23 C. 323 does not apply, 24 C. 167. See also 13 C. W. N. 228. The mere fact that the inquiry was made by the Magistrate is not to be regarded as a disqualifying ground under this section, 6 Bom. L. R. 947 where 2 Bom. L. R. 663 is referred to. See also 20 W. R. 76. The District Magistrate referred a complaint to a Subordinate Magistrate for local investigation. The Sub Magistrate after holding an ex parte inquiry, reported to the District Magistrate that in his opinion the complaint was true, and the District Magistrate then made over the case to him. Held, that the Subordinate Magistrate was competent to hold the trial, 4 C. W. N. 604.

(ii) Magistrate merely issuing process without proceeding under s 190 (c) or s 202 competent to hear appeal—A Deputy Magistrate, who received a complaint referred the case to a Sub-Deputy Magistrate for local investigation and report. The Sub-Deputy Magistrate submitted a report recommending the dismissal of the complaint and the report came before the Joint Magistrate W, then in charge of the criminal business of the sudder Sub-Division W, without expressing any clear opinion hostile to the accused, directed summons to issue as the reasons of the Sub-Deputy Magistrate were unsatisfactory. W subsequently transferred the case to another Magistrate who convicted the accused. The appeal of the accused was heard and dismissed by W without any objection. Held, that a Magistrate who did not take cognizance of a complaint or order a local investigation, but acting as the officer in-charge of the sudder Sub-Division directed the issue of summonses holding that the investigating Magistrate had not given satisfactory reasons for recommending the dismissal of the complaint, without, however expressing any clear opinion hostile to the accused, is not incompetent under s. 55b, to hear the appeal on conviction of the accused, 36 C. 369.

(iii) Sessions Judge not disqualified to hear appeal, where prosecution ordered by him as District Judge—In a proceeding before a District Judge a false statement was made. The District Judge sent the case down to the District Magistrate under s. 476, and the latter convicted the accused. From this conviction an appeal was preferred to the Sessions Judge who was the same officer that took steps under s. 476, and the appeal was dismissed. In revision, it was contended that as the District Judge ordered the prosecution, he was disqualified to hear the appeal sitting as a Sessions Judge. Held that the Sessions Judge was competent to hear the appeal as he could not be said to be personally interested in the case and that he did not hear an appeal from a judgment or order made by himself. The illustration to this section does not apply, as in that case the Collector is the prosecutor and has a certain pecuniary interest in the matter, 7 C. W. N. 703 which follows 11 C. 766; 15 Bom. L. R. 104 = 14 Cr. L. J. 190. See Note 3 to s. 487.

(iv) Improper recording of confession no disqualification—A Magistrate heard the statement made by the accused when he was brought before him on arrest, but did not record it as required by s. 364. Held that this does not make the Magistrate a witness and thereby disqualify him from trying the case, 24 C. 499.

(v) Trying counter case, whether disqualification—A Judge is not incompetent for trying a counter noting case simply because he has tried and decided a counter noting case and expressed an opinion thereon, 1 C. W. N. 426. See also 36 C. 604 and Note 33 to s. 526.

(vi) But if he has held the preliminary inquiry he cannot try the accused—See 1 C. W. N. 639, Note 27 (iii) to s. 526.

(zi) Where by gathering information he makes himself a witness, he is disqualified—Where a Magistrate was present at a search by the Police during investigation, and in all probability he came to know of some facts in connection with the case, it is expedient that the case should not be tried by him, 5 C. W. N. 854 and see Note 17 (z) supra

(zii) Is a Judge who has granted sanction disqualified from trying the person or hear the appeal from the conviction?—See Notes 256 to 259 at p 548 and Note 5 under s 478 and Note 3 under s 487. Sanction was given to prosecute petitioners for offences under ss. 463, 471, 219, 511, I P. C., by a Munsiff. On appeal the District Judge confirmed the order holding that the record established a strong prima facie case against the petitioner. The petitioner was thereupon placed on his trial before a Sub-Divisional Magistrate and was convicted. Against the conviction, this petitioner preferred an appeal to the Sessions Judge, who was the same Judge that had as District Judge disposed of petitioner's application for revocation of sanction. The appeal was heard by him and was dismissed. The explanation given by the District Judge for hearing the appeal was that no objection had been taken by the petitioner although he had warned him of his right to raise the plea. Held that the Sessions Judge ought not to have heard the appeal, 17 C. W. N. 111.

19. Instances of personal interest which have been held to disqualify a Magistrate.—It is hard to define exactly what is meant by personal interest and it is difficult to reconcile the various decisions. The question whether a given case falls within the provisions of s 536 must be a question of fact to be determined by the circumstances of the particular case, 24 M. 238; 9 N. L. R. 81 = 14 Cr. L. J. 393.

(i) Magistrate is the prosecutor—See Note 17 (z). A Magistrate, who has been authorized by the Collector of a District under s. 43 of the Stamp Act, to prosecute offenders against the stamp laws is not competent also to try persons whom he prosecutes, 3 C. 622. A Magistrate who is in charge of the Treasury is prohibited from trying stamp cases, 1884 A. W. N. 37. A Magistrate is not competent to try a person for contempt of his authority as a Settlement Officer in disobeying his order to appear before him, 2 A. 405. A Judge who has directed the prosecution should not hear the appeal under any circumstances. He cannot get the permission of a superior Court 39 P. R. 1884, 1896 U. B. R. 2 and see Note 30.

(ii) Magistrate is the servant or subordinate of the prosecutor—A, who was alleged to have carried on business in Calcutta without having taken out license under Bengal Act IV of 1876, was summoned at the instance of the Corporation by B, a servant of the Corporation and also a Justice of the Peace. A was convicted and sentenced to pay a fine, although he denied his liability to take out a license, and tendered evidence in support of his allegation, held that the proceedings and the ultimate conviction of A were illegal inasmuch as B being a servant of the prosecutor, that is, the Corporation had such an interest as might give him a bias in the matter and that consequently he ought not to have sat as a Justice of the Peace either at the granting or upon the hearing of the summons 7 C. 322 = 9 C. L. R. 193, citing 4 B. L. R. Ap. Cr. 15; 8 B. L. R. 422 = 17 W. R. 39, Dimes v. The Grand Junction Canal Co., 3 H. L. Cas. 793. Q v. Gibben, L. R. 6 Q. B. D. 169; Q v. Lee, 9 Q. B. D. 394; Q v. Meyer, L. R. 1 Q. B. D. 173; Q v. Mudge, L. R. 4 Q. B. D. 332, Rand 1 Q. B. D. 230 and Q v. Handley, 8 Q. B. D. 333. Since the decision of the case in 7 C. 322, two cases were decided by the Calcutta High Court, in both of which the conviction, being by Municipal Commissioner Magistrates, for breach of Municipal laws, was set aside. In 10 C. 194 MITTER, J., remarked "The Legislature simply limited the explanation to the disqualification of a Commissioner in a case in which the Municipality or Corporation may be interested they did not include in the explanation the case of a salaried officer of a Municipality or a Corporation." FIELD, J., remarked "A gentleman who, without remuneration, is merely discharging a public and honorary office and who has no personal interest in the proceedings of the Municipality, may well be supposed to be free from that bias which the jealousy of the law presumes in other persons more immediately interested. Such immediate and disqualifying interest does, we think, exist in the case of a gentleman whose time and services are, in consideration of a salary, given to carry on the work of a Municipal Corporation. The jealousy of the law must presume that such a person, however upright and honourable his character, is disqualified from taking part in judicial proceedings in which the Municipality is ipso facto the prosecutor. Where an officer of Government has, in the course of his executive duties, formed an opinion upon a matter and has acted upon that opinion or sought to give effect to it as an agent on behalf of a public body which has become a litigant in a cause the law will presume an interest creating a bias sufficient to disqualify him as a Judge, 10 C. 913, 19 B. 608. A complaint for misappropriation of Government moneys was filed by the order of an Assistant Collector. After the close of the case for the prosecution, the Assistant Collector directed the Magistrate to recall and re-examine two of the prosecution witnesses and at the same time interviewed those witnesses and ordered them to give evidence. The Magistrate complied with the Assistant Collector's direction and acting on the evidence convicted the accused. Held reversing the conviction that when the Magistrate complied with the direction of the Assistant Collector he virtually abdicated his Magisterial function and became a mere delegate of the Assistant Collector who had initiated the prosecution and the trial was without jurisdiction, for a Magistrate cannot be both Judge and a delegate of the prosecution, 78 L. R. 82 = 15 Cr. L. J. 375.

(iii) Magistrate is interested as a witness—A Magistrate cannot himself be a witness in a case in which he is the sole Judge of the law and fact. Where in such a case he has given his evidence and convicted the accused, his having so acted makes the conviction bad, 2 G. 403; 20 G. 857. Where a Judge is the sole Judge both of law and fact in a case tried before himself, he cannot give evidence before himself, nor can he state anything against an accused person in his judgment which was not stated on oath in his presence, 19 M. 263. See also Note 25 under s. 526 and Note below. But in 13 W. R. 60 = 4 B. L. R. 14, a Judge who was also a witness, was held not disqualified, when such evidence was to be submitted to the independent judgment of others sitting with him. Where certain complainants made an oral complaint to a Magistrate during the Christmas vacation, and after the vacation was over, filed a written complaint before the same Magistrate, who, during the trial of the case, without any objection being raised on behalf of the accused, made a statement on oath which he himself recorded and permitted himself to be cross-examined and re-examined, and after the lapse of one month (during which interval no exception was taken to the procedure adopted) convicted the accused, held, that no personal interest could be imputed to the Magistrate, so as to oust his jurisdiction and render the trial invalid. 'That which disqualifies a Magistrate in trying a case is substantial interest giving rise to a real bias and not merely the possibility of a bias, there having existed at the time of the trial, no suspicion in the mind of the accused that they would not have a fair and impartial trial at his hands and seeing that they did not raise any protest till the close of the case, and the objection having been put forward for the first time in appeal to escape from the conviction it cannot be held there was any real bias, 37 A. 33, where 15 A. 192 and L. R. 8 Q. B. D. 333 are followed and 21 G. 920, 20 G. 857 and L. R. 2 Q. B. D. 538 are referred to. See also 37 G. 172.

(iv) Magistrate being shareholder of complainant company is "personally interested"—These words are not intended to include pecuniary as distinguished from a personal interest. Where a Magistrate has pecuniary interest, however small, in the result of an accusation, as, for instance, his being a shareholder in a company which is a complainant in a case, in which the accused, a compounder employed by it, was charged with having stolen, or criminally misappropriated Rs. 20 belonging to the company, he is disqualified from adjudicating on it. In such a case it is unnecessary to enquire whether there was any real or substantial ground for suspecting bias on his part. The least pecuniary interest will disqualify, 20 B. 502, 8 B. L. R. 422 (F.B.) = 17 W. R. 39. In R v Hammond, 9 L. T. 423, Justices who were shareholders in a railway company were held to be disqualified to try the accused for the offence of travelling on the railway with an improper ticket. Cf. R v Burton, (1897) 2 Q. B. 468, where a Justice being a member of the Incorporated Law Society was held not to preclude him from trying an unqualified person for acting as solicitor.

(v) Interest as Manager of Estate under Court of Wards—Where the Manager of an Estate under the Court of Wards, who was appointed also as Sub-Divisional Officer, drew up proceedings under s. 14a as Magistrate against one who disputed the possession of a piece of land, in which the estate claimed an interest and about which he had reported to the then Sub-Divisional Officer and also refused an application for the transfer of the case, the Court observed that the Magistrate showed a striking lack of appreciation of the ordinary principles which should guide judicial officers in matters of this kind, 9 G. W. N. 228. Where a Deputy Commissioner as the Manager of an encumbered estate ordered certain enquiries as to the cutting of certain trees in a forest to be made, and on the receipt of a report instituted criminal proceedings as Magistrate under s. 190 (1) (c), held following 10 G. W. N. 775, that he had no authority to do so, 37 G. 221. But where the District Magistrate in his capacity of Collector, is concerned in the management of an estate held by the Court of Wards, it is no ground for asking for a transfer from the district of a case brought by a servant of the estate and pending before a Subordinate Magistrate in the District, 28 G. 297.

(vi) Interest by being insider of complainant—The mere circumstances that a trying Magistrate is the master of the complainant, does not deprive the Magistrate of his jurisdiction, but it is expedient that such a complaint should be referred to another Magistrate, 9 B. 172. See 14 B. 572 and see Note 24 to s. 526.

(vii) Accused committing offence and annoying Magistrate, a fellow-passenger—A Magistrate, while travelling in a railway carriage, requested the accused, who were fellow-passengers, to desist from smoking and, on their contemptuously refusing to do so, arrested them, and subsequently tried and convicted them under s 33 of Railway Act, 1879 Held, that in the circumstances of the case, the Magistrate was legally and morally disqualified from exercising his judicial functions in relation to the offence imputed and that although s 64 gives to a Magistrate authority to arrest a person committing an offence in his presence, yet that section was clearly not intended to trench upon the great principle embodied in this section, that no Judge or Magistrate shall deal judicially with a case in which he is personally interested, Ratanlal 339.

(viii) Accused obstructing trying Magistrate by driving on wrong side—Accused was convicted under ss 28 and 29 of Bombay Act VII of 1867 for obstructing passengers (trying Magistrate including) by driving on the wrong side of the road Held reversing conviction and sentence, that the Magistrate having been interested as one of those obstructed, ought not to have tried the case Ratanlal 321.

(ix) Accused rashly driving and passing Magistrate's wife's carriage—A Magistrate convicted the accused under s. 31 of Bombay Act VII of 1867, of rash and negligent driving for passing the Magistrate's wife's dog cart held, that the Magistrate had no jurisdiction to try the case as he was personally interested in it, 14 B. 572.

(x) Magistrate obtaining sanction to prosecute the accused for another matter—In 2 L. B. R. 220, the accused applied to the District Magistrate, under s 528 to transfer a case from the Magistrate of the second class before whom he was being tried on the ground that the latter was corrupt and had demanded money from him. The District Magistrate after inquiry found that the allegation was false and rejected the application. The Magistrate then applied for leave to prosecute the accused, and at the same time, proceeded with the trial which had been stayed, and convicted the accused Held that the Magistrate, after he had sent in his application for leave to prosecute the accused should have taken the further orders of the District Magistrate as to whether he was to go on with the case

(xi) Magistrate belonging to a community whose feelings have been outraged—A Muhammadan Magistrate whose order for the closing of a shop was disobeyed by the accused ought not to try the complaint for disobedience of such order, especially when the dispute has been magnified into one of a religious nature and the religious feelings of Muhammadans are supposed to be outraged 26 P. W. R. 1912 = 13 Cr. L. J. 601.

(xii) Magistrate interested as a litigant in similar case—At a special sessions for appeals against a poor rate, the Chairman of the Magistrates who was himself the appellant in one of the cases for hearing took part in the decision of all the cases except his own When his own case was called on, he left the Bench and went to the body of the Court and conducted the case himself On objection, held, that the Chairman being a litigant similar to the other matters in Court, was disqualified from acting as a Justice, and that the orders were bad, R v Great Yarmouth, JJ, 8 Q. B. D. 825.

20 Instances of personal interest which have been held not sufficient to disqualify a Magistrate—

(i) Interest by being a guest—The following despatch from the Secretary of State for India to the Government of Madras, will be a guidance to all Judges and Magistrates on the subject — "The memorialist was prosecuted by the Collector and he alleges that when the Sessions Judge came to try the case, he resided at the Collector's house and was greatly prejudiced by the Collector against the memorialist I have no doubt that the latter assertion is quite unfounded, but I think it would be well, if your Grace in Council would suggest to the Judges through the High Court, to avoid as far as possible becoming the guests of those who are interested in cases, civil or criminal which will eventually be submitted to the Judge's decision. All possible imputation of prejudice against the weaker party must be avoided — M H C C O No. 7, dated 7th April, 1879

(ii) Interest as having held briefs while at the Bar—The Court cannot recognize the principle that a Judge, because he has once held briefs for a certain company, while at the Bar as a practising Barrister, will not decide the case of the company with fairness A man is quite capable of dissociating himself from such influence while acting in a judicial position Q v Garrod see 4 G. W. N. 233.

(iii) Magistrate being member of a society pledged to a certain course of conduct—The mere fact of belonging to a Temperance Society pledged to the principle of "no license in any form under any circumstances for the sale of liquors to be used as a beverage" does not operate as a disqualification for sitting as a member of a licensing Court M'Geen v Knox, (1913) 8 C. 638—Court of Sessions See, however, ex parte Robinson 76 J. P. 233 (CA)

LOCAL INSPECTION.

21. Local inspection, power to make.—Ss 148, 202 are the only sections expressly enabling anyone except a jury or assessors to view the place where the facts alleged to have taken place occurred. S 293 provides for a local inspection by the jury or assessors. S 526 (1) (c) enables the High Court to transfer a case when a view of the place in or near which any offence has been committed may be required for the satisfactory inquiry into or trial of the same. The explanation does not directly authorize a Magistrate to make a local inspection but it saves his jurisdiction to try a case notwithstanding that he may have made a local inspection or investigation, 37 C. 340. There is therefore no provision of law which empowers trying Magistrates or Judges to view a place connected with a case before them. The defect is proposed to be remedied by the addition of a new section 539-B, see Addenda. But the case law and the practice of the Courts have established that a Magistrate may take a view of the scene of the alleged offence for certain purposes and with certain precautions. STEPHEN, J., in 37 C. 340 is of opinion that the Code is not exhaustive in dealing with the powers of a Magistrate and it cannot be omitted to justify a certain course of action on his part, deprive him of powers which he otherwise possesses. There are in effect three kinds of local inspections. (1) Those that are authorized or directed by this Code and which are governed by the rules and limitations imposed by the Code itself; (2) those which are in the nature of a view by the jury laid down in s. 293 of the Code. Magistrates having the functions of both Judge and jury in cases decided by them may, in our opinion, view the place in any case, in order, as the rulings on the points say, to follow or understand the evidence, see 19 A. 302; (3) local inspections referred to in 9 C. 363 = 12 C. L. R. 490. There is express provision for these local investigations in the Civil Procedure Code, but there is nothing that can be deemed to prevent them in this Code. The personal observations of the Court cannot be excluded from consideration. 18 C. W. N. 426 = 15 C. L. J. 403 = 13 Cr. L. J. 156.

22. Use and object of local inspection.—'From cases which have come under notice it would seem that many Magistrates misunderstand the use and object of an inspection of the spot in criminal cases. There are no doubt cases in which a Magistrate will be able to examine witnesses more effectually if he has seen the places where the events to which they depose are alleged to have occurred. There may be cases in which the Magistrate can examine witnesses more effectually if he examines them on the scene of the alleged events, at the house where a house-breaking is alleged to have taken place or the like. But then he must record those witnesses' statements at the time they are made, and in the presence of the accused, who must have an opportunity of cross-examining them. Under no circumstances can it be right for a Magistrate who is trying a case to hold a kind of Police investigation, questioning all kinds of people and hearing all kinds of statements, which must more or less influence his mind, which are made by irresponsible persons and are neither recorded nor made in the presence of the accused.—C. P. Cr. Cr., Part V, No 14. In all important cases under inquiry or trial before a Magistrate where a just appreciation of the evidence requires some knowledge of the scene of the alleged offence, the Magistrate should, if possible, personally visit the scene either before or during the inquiry or trial so that he may the more readily understand the statement of witnesses.—Para 80 (b), Lom H C Cr Cr, p. 90

Case law.—Personal inspection should only be made for the purpose of enabling the Magistrate to understand the better the evidence which is laid before him, and it must be strictly confined to that, 19 M. 265. The Magistrate can inspect the locus in quo to understand the features of the locality, 3 C. W. N. 607. It is highly advisable in many cases, that the trying Magistrate should himself inspect the scene of the offence in order to understand fully the hearing of the evidence given in Court, especially if the evidence is conflicting or if the guilt or innocence of the party depends upon local peculiarities of the situation which cannot be understood except by personal visit, 19 A. 321 followed in 13 P. R. 1901, 37 C. 342; and see also 1 P. W. R. 1910 = 11 Cr. L. J. 171. In 37 C. 340, CHATTERJEE, J., after a review of all the cases, has stated as his opinion that the Magistrate may inspect the locus in quo in cases where he cannot follow or understand the evidence without himself seeing the features of the land, and the Magistrate must necessarily use the testimony of his own senses for testing the veracity of the witnesses deposing before him as regards the feature of the locality. WOODROFFE, J., held, that a Court cannot take a view of the locality for any purpose other than that of understanding the evidence adduced in Court. But STEPHEN, J., was of opinion that the trying Magistrate may visit the scene of an alleged offence to test the evidence he has heard in Court and act on the opinions he has formed from what he has seen in adjudicating between the parties. In 18 C. W. N. 426 = 15 C. L. J. 403 = 13 Cr. L. J. 156, the procedure of a Magistrate who made a local investigation to clear up a doubt which had been thrown upon the prosecution by the defence allegations and who decided the case upon his personal observations was upheld following 9 C. 363. The rule that in criminal cases, Courts are justified in holding a local inspection only in order to explain the facts appearing in evidence, does not apply to cases under s. 17 nor is there anything in the law to prevent the presiding Magistrate from making an investigation himself provided he records what he saw and does not act upon hearsay evidence, 13 C. L. J. 267 = 12 Cr. L. J. 319

23. Precautions to be taken in making local inspection.—(i) The Magistrate should invariably be accompanied by both parties or their representatives 19 M. 263. (ii) The Magistrate should take care that no information reaches him with reference to the occurrence under investigation beyond what he acquires from the view of the place, 21 C. 920. (iii) He should take care not to allow anyone on either side to say anything which may prejudice his mind one way or the other, 19 A. 302. (iv) It is very desirable that judicial officers conducting local investigations should place upon record the result of local investigations as soon as they are completed, so that the parties may have an opportunity of seeing what the facts are which the judicial officers consider to be established by the local investigations, 19 C. 963 followed, 16 C. W. N. 426 = 15 C. L. J. 403 = 13 Cr. L. J. 136. See Note 24 below

24. After local inspection Magistrate must immediately place on record report of what is seen by him.—It is one of the most cherished and salutary principles of English criminal jurisprudence, that no man shall be convicted except upon evidence which he has had an opportunity of testing by cross-examination and contradicting by rebutting evidence. If the Magistrate therefore imports into the case any facts which he has himself observed he would be introducing into the case evidence which has not been subjected to these tests, and in regard to which he may have been misled by his senses or biased in favour of either party. It is on this account that many Judges refuse to make a local inspection. When the law, however, allows a view of the locality and it is in some cases not only convenient but necessary for the ends of justice, every possible precaution should be taken that such a view should be nothing but a view of the local features and an immediate report of what is seen should be placed on the record, and laid open to the scrutiny of the parties. Per CHATTERJEE, J., in 37 C. 340. Where, however, a Magistrate made no record at the time of his local inspection as he should have done but embodied the result of his inspection in his judgment delivered four days later when what he saw was still fresh in his memory held there was no defect of jurisdiction and the accused not having been prejudiced the conviction was upheld, 16 C. W. N. 426 = 15 C. L. J. 403 = 13 Cr. L. J. 136. In the grounds of appeal the facts noted by the Judge had not been controverted. See 9 C. 383, Note 21 above and also 15 C. L. J. 267 = 12 Cr. L. J. 319

25. Time when local inspection may be made by trying Magistrate.—It follows from the object of a local investigation as stated above, that the trying Magistrate should not visit the scene of occurrence before he has heard any evidence. See 20 C. 357; 21 C. 920 and 19 M. 263, when there is a dispute as to the exact spot where the occurrence is said to have taken place the Magistrate will be wise to defer his visit until he has heard the whole of the evidence, 21 C. 920. The Magistrate should not after making a local investigation deliver his judgment relying upon the investigation, without giving an opportunity to the parties to rebut his opinion, 37 C. 340.

26. Magistrate may rely on facts observed by him in making local inspection.—If the Magistrate has seen a certain state of things, and if witnesses examined before him testify to the contrary, it is natural that he should believe the testimony of his own senses and disbelieve the sworn testimony. It seems to be a psychological impossibility that he should do otherwise. As soon, therefore, as it is admitted that a local inspection is permissible, it must also be admitted that the Magistrate can use the testimony of his own senses for testing the veracity of the witnesses deposing before him as regards the features of the locality, 37 C. 340 where 19 A. 302 and 10 C. W. N. 181 are referred to. Though the facts observed by the Judge may not be evidence in the strict sense of the term yet the Evidence Act does not prohibit the use of such material, 9 C. 383. When the Magistrate made a local inspection, in the presence of both parties and their pleaders, and stated in his judgment some facts which he then observed, held that the conviction of the petitioner was not rendered illegal on that ground, Weir II, 727. In another case, in Weir II, 728, the Magistrate inspected the locality of the offence and stated in his judgment what he then saw. Held, that having regard to the amendment of the section the judgment was not vitiated by this circumstance.

27. Magistrate must not base judgment upon matters of opinion and inference formed at local inspection and not on record, without giving opportunity to parties to controvert them.—Where a Magistrate imports into his judgment matters of opinion and inference formed at a local investigation without placing them on the record and giving an opportunity to the accused to rebut them, such a judgment is bad and will be set aside.—Per CHATTERJEE, J. Such a judgment cannot be upheld on the ground that apart from the Magistrate's own observations there is sufficient evidence on the record to support the conviction, as it is a matter of entire speculation how far the Magistrate was influenced by what he saw, is distinguished from what was deposed to. There must be a re-trial. See also 3 C. W. N. 607 and 14 C. W. N. 119. Per WOODROFFE, J., STEPHEN, J., however held that it was open to a trying Magistrate to visit the scene of an offence to test the evidence on record and act on the opinions he has formed from what he has seen in adjudication between the parties, 37 C. 340. But if the facts observed support or rebut the evidence adduced by either side and cause the Court to understand that that evidence is true or false, inaccurate or exaggerated, then the statement that the facts observed negative or support any of the evidence in the case, is not a matter of opinion or inference but a matter of observation and it is the duty of the Judge as laid down in 9 C. 383 to consider the results of his observation and state them in his judgment, 16 C. W. N. 426 = 13 Cr. L. J. 156. See also 1 P. W. R. 1910 = 11 Cr. L. J. 171; Weir II, 727 and 728. A Magistrate commits serious irregularities if he bases any of his findings on his own local knowledge and if he treats his own memorandum made after the examination of the spot as evidence in the case, instead of having any facts brought to light by that examination duly brought on to the record by the testimony of witnesses subject to a cross examination, rebuttal and explanation 18 P. W. R. 1909 = 11 Cr. L. J. 110.

29. Magistrate must not import into judgment information not obtained from inspection.—If a Magistrate visits the spot of the alleged offence and notes various features thereon or importance to the proper decision of the case, in the presence of both the parties, he exercises a wise discretion, but when he imports into his judgment what he could not have possibly noted from the locality, or from anything connected therewith, for instance, the position of the accused and other men at the time of the alleged occurrence, he exceeds the proper limits of his discretion in holding this investigation and thus disqualifies himself from trying the case, 3 C. W. N. 607; 14 C. W. N. 99. A Judge cannot without giving his evidence as a witness import into a case his own knowledge of particular facts, L. R. 3 I. A. 259.

29. Disqualification by reason of inspection of scene of offence by Magistrates.—It is to be noted that the law on this point is altered in the last part of explanation to this section. Under the 1882 Code, the Madras High Court held that a Magistrate making a personal inspection of the locus in quo where the offence is alleged to have been committed makes himself a witness in the case and thereby renders himself incompetent to try the same, 19 M. 283. Where the Magistrate saw the locality and also a part of the occurrence and referred in his judgment to matters which came under his personal observation, he was held to be disqualified to try the case, 20 C. 857; and in 21 C. 920 it was laid down that the Magistrate can see the locality for the purpose of understanding the evidence, but if he gets any information by personal observation he is disqualified from trying the case. All the 20 C. 857 decided was that a man who is a priori a witness to an occurrence cannot assume jurisdiction which he might otherwise have to decide on the facts of the occurrence as a Judge. When therefore after the evidence of both the parties the Magistrate made a local inspection to clear up a doubt as to the features of a locality, which had been thrown upon the prosecution evidence by the allegation of the defence and four days later, without making any record of the inspection delivered his judgment convicting the accused embodying therein his personal observations, and in the grounds of the appeal the facts noted by the Judge were not controverted, held there was no impropriety in the course of the inspection. The conviction was upheld, 16 C. W. N. 426 = 15 C. L. J. 403 = 13 Cr. L. J. 156. See, however, 18 P. W. R. 1909 = 11 Cr. L. J. 110. The addition to the explanation to the section as now enacted is that by merely viewing the locus in quo the Magistrate does not make himself a witness in the case and to make it clear that he is not disqualified to try it. It does not directly authorize a local investigation but it saves the jurisdiction of the Magistrate to try a case notwithstanding that he may have made a local inspection or investigation, Weir II, 727 and 728. It does not however go the length of doing away with the restrictions under which local investigation should be made. Therefore, if a Magistrate inspects the locus in quo to understand the features of the locality, but imports into the case anything else he becomes a witness and cannot try the case, 3 C. W. N. 607; where a Magistrate discards the evidence on record and decides a case under Chapter XII upon information received at a local inquiry he acts without jurisdiction, 10 C. W. N. 181. The report of a person deputed to make a local inquiry is evidence, 14 Cr. L. J. 302 (C.). Where a Magistrate does more than view the place for the purpose of following or understanding the evidence and testing it, the conviction is bad, 37 C. 340. See also 9 C. W. N. 222.

PRACTICE.

30. Objection as to the qualification of a Judge should be specified.—In every case where it is urged that there is disqualification in the Judge, the circumstances creating the disqualification would have to be clearly determined before effect could be given to the objection, and they ought therefore to be specified in the objection, 43 P. R. 1887. See also R v Antrim (1895) 2 Ir. 603

31. No permission can be granted to Judge directing prosecution to hear appeal from conviction—A Judge who has directed the prosecution, should not hear the appeal of the accused when convicted even although it is not against the conviction, but only against the severity of the sentence, 39 P. R. 1834; 1896 U. B. R. 2; L. B. (Cr. Rev.) 721 of 1904, 14 C. W. N. 83, 17 C. W. N. 12. The provision as to permission of superior Court does not extend to a Judge hearing an appeal. The prohibition in the case of an Appellate Court is absolute

Practising Pleader

in certain Courts

557. No pleader who practises in the Court of any Magistrate in a Presidency town or district shall sit as a Magistrate in such Court or in any Court within the jurisdiction of such Court

Note—Appointment of pleader to act as Magistrate is not forbidden.—This section does not deal with appointments, but merely lays down that no pleader who practises in the Court of any Magistrate in a Presidency town or district, shall sit as a Magistrate in such Court or in any Court within the jurisdiction of such Court, and that the appointment of a pleader to act as Magistrate is not forbidden by any provision of the Code, 23 B. 490

558. The Local Government may determine what, for the purposes of this Code shall be deemed to be the language of each Court within the territories administered by such Government, other than the High Courts established by Royal Charter.

(2) When there is any doubt as to who is the successor in office of any Magistrate, the Chief Presidency Magistrate in a Presidency town, and the District Magistrate outside such towns shall determine by order in writing the Magistrate, who shall, for the purposes of this Code or of any proceedings or order thereunder, be deemed to be the successor in office of such Magistrate

(3) When there is any doubt as to who is the successor in office of any Additional or Assistant Sessions Judge, the Sessions Judge shall determine by order in writing the Judge who shall, for the purposes of this Code or of any proceedings or order thereunder, be deemed to be the successor in office of such Additional or Assistant Sessions Judge

with respect to offence of rape by a husband.

561. (1) Notwithstanding anything in this Code, no Magistrate except a Chief Presidency Magistrate or District Magistrate shall—

(a) take cognizance of the offence of rape where the sexual intercourse was by a man with his wife or

(b) commit the man for trial for the offence

(2) And, notwithstanding anything in this Code, if a Chief Presidency Magistrate or District Magistrate deems it necessary to direct an investigation by a Police-officer with respect to such an offence as is referred to in sub-sec. (1), no Police-officer of a rank below that of Police Inspector shall be employed either to make, or to take part in the investigation

Notes.—X This section was introduced by Act X of 1891, commonly called the Age of Consent Act

2. Investigation by Police-officer below the rank of a Police Inspector, does not vitiate trial—

When an offence to which cl (a) of this section is applicable had been taken cognizance of by a District Magistrate, the fact that the investigation into the offence was made by an officer below the rank of a Police Inspector was not a material irregularity which would vitiate subsequent proceedings 1895 A. W. N. 9

561-A. "Nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent power of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice."

Saving of inherent power of High Court.

Note.—Referring to the enactment of this section, the Select Committee say—

"We have slightly elaborated the provisions of this clause. We understand that a High Court—(44A/401) has recently held that it had no power to direct the expunging of objectionable matter from a record. We think it desirable that it should be made clear that this clause is intended to meet such a case.' See Note 83 on page 901. See Note 67 D to section 439.

Notes.—1. Scope of the section.—The Court will not pass any orders under s. 561 A of the Code which would conflict with any of the provisions of the Code and so an application made under s. 89 of the Code will not be entertained if it is made beyond the period prescribed under the section 26 Bom. L. R. 719. See also for the scope and extent of this section, 49 M. L. J. 593.

2. Whether costs can be awarded in proceedings under Chapter XII by the High Court under s. 561-A.—The High Court when exercising its powers of revision in a proceeding under Chapter XII has no inherent power to award the successful party the costs incurred in the revision proceedings (43 M. 913 (F.R.) applied), nor can the award of costs be regarded as incidental or consequential to the disposal of the revision petition within the meaning of s. 423 (1) (d). 43 M. 262.

FIRST OFFENDERS

562. (1) When any person not under twenty-one years of age is convicted of an offence punishable with imprisonment for not more than seven years or when any person under twenty-one years of age or any woman is convicted of an offence not punishable with death or transportation for life, and no previous conviction is proved against the offender, if it appears to the Court before which he is convicted regard being had to the age, character or antecedents of the offender, and to the circumstances in which the offence was committed, that it is expedient that the offender should be released on probation of good conduct the Court may, instead of sentencing him at once to any punishment, direct that he be released on his entering into a bond with or without sureties to appear and receive sentence when called upon during such period (not exceeding three years) as the Court may direct and in the meantime to keep the peace and be of good behaviour.

Provided that where any first offender is convicted by a Magistrate of the third class or a Magistrate of the second class not specially empowered by the Local Government in this behalf and the Magistrate is of opinion that the powers conferred by this section should be exercised, he shall record his opinion to that effect and submit the proceedings to a Magistrate of the first class or Sub-Divisional Magistrate forwarding the accused to or taking bail for his appearance before such Magistrate, who shall dispose of the case in manner provided by section 380.

† (1 A) In any case in which a person is convicted of theft, theft in a building dishonest misappropriation, cheating or any offence under the Indian Penal Code punishable with not more than two years' imprisonment and no previous conviction is proved against him the Court before whom he is so convicted may, if it thinks fit, having regard to the age, character antecedents or physical or mental condition of the offender and to the trivial nature of the offence or any extenuating circumstances under which the offence was committed instead of sentencing him to any punishment release him after due admonition.

(2) Any order under this section may be made by any Appellate Court, or by the High Court when exercising its power of revision.

(3) When an order has been made under this section in respect of any offender, the High Court may, on appeal when there is a right of appeal to such Court or when exercising its powers of revision, set aside such order, and in lieu thereof pass sentence on such offender according to law.

Provided that the High Court shall not, under this sub-section, inflict a greater punishment than might have been inflicted by the Court by which the offender was convicted.

(4) The provisions of sections 122, 126-A and 406-A shall, so far as may be, apply in the case of sureties offered in pursuance of the provisions of this section.

Note.—Referring to the enactment of this section, the Select Committee say—

We are of opinion that the salutary provisions of s. 562 of the Code are capable of extension—more especially in view of the provisions of sub-sec. (3) of the new section proposed by the Bill. We have accordingly provided that any offender who is over the age of 21 years may be bound over on conviction of any offence not punishable with imprisonment exceeding seven years, and that all women and all persons under the age of 21 may be so bound over when convicted of offences not punishable with death or transportation for life we have altered the proviso to sub-sec. (3). We think that the High Court should in no case inflict a more severe sentence than could have been inflicted by the Court which tried the case. Sub-sec. (1 A) is newly added to give effect to the recommendation of the Indian Jails Committee.

Notes.—1. Amendments.—Sub-sec (1) has been materially changed by the amending Act (XVIII of 1923). The list of offences for which a man may be let off on probation has been enlarged. Under the present amendment in the case of an offender over 21 years, a Court can release him on probation in the cases of all offences punishable with imprisonment for not more than seven years, and in the case of persons below 21 years or any woman the Court can exercise this power in the case of all offences not punishable with death or transportation for life.

(1) So it is now made clear that the present section does not apply merely to the case of youthful offenders.

(2) The period of probation under the present section is extended from one to three years.

(3) An order under this section may now be made by a Court of Appeal or Revision.

(4) Under the amendment the High Court has got power as a Court of Appeal or of Revision to set aside any order made under this section and pass sentence on such offender according to law in lieu thereof subject to the proviso that a greater punishment might not be inflicted than that which might have been inflicted by the Court which convicted the offender.

WHO MAY BE DIRECTED TO EXECUTE BOND

2 Scope of the section.—“This section is a tardy recognition of a principle well established in England. It is one of the wisest features of the new Code, but being a provision hitherto entirely unknown to Indian Law may not be properly understood at first by lower ranks of Magistracy.” 8 M. L. J., Pt. VI at p. 197. In order to give a Court jurisdiction to release an offender under this section there must co-exist two conditions precedent: there must be previous conviction proved, and the offence must be one of those specified in the section. If those conditions are fulfilled the Court has jurisdiction, in the exercise of its discretion to act under this section. But in exercising its discretion, the Court must have regard to the points specified in the section, namely, to the youth, character and antecedents of the offender, to the nature of the offence, and to any extenuating circumstances under which the offence was committed. The intention of the Legislature is not to make it essential that the offender must be young, that the offence must be trivial, and that there must be extenuating circumstances, but merely to indicate the lines on which the discretion of the Court should be exercised. 2 L. B. R. 65 (F.B.) = 1 Cr. L. J. 558, 1904 U. B. R. 7. Where the offender is a person in good position in life, he should rather be dealt with under this section than be whipped, 9 P. W. R. 1907 = 5 Cr. L. J. 217. Petty squabbles of young persons should be dealt with under this section, 12 Cr. L. J. 242 (Barma).

3. Section not limited to juvenile offenders.—This section is not intended for the benefit of juvenile offenders only. To enable a Magistrate to apply this section, the first essential is that the accused is a first offender, and if he is one, the extenuating considerations which entitle him to the indulgence are his youth, character and antecedents, 2 Bom. L. R. 817. The benefit of the section is by no means confined to juveniles, but it should not be applied indiscriminately to the cases of all first offenders, 2 L. B. R. 314. The mention of youth, character, antecedents, etc., merely indicates generally considerations with regard to which the discretion of the Court should be exercised in dealing with first offenders. See 6 G. W. N. 254, 24 A. 306; 1904 U. B. R. 7. See 11 P. R. 1916 = 17 Cr. L. J. 254. In 19 P. R. 1916 = 17 Cr. L. J. 317 it was held that s. 562 ought not to be applied to offences which require a good deal of preparation such as illicit manufacture of liquor.

4. Section does not apply to insane persons.—A Magistrate convicting under s. 304 A, I P. C., an accused person who is unable to understand the proceedings cannot pass an order under this section but must report the case of orders of the High Court under s. 341, 11 M. L. T. 404 = 13 Cr. L. J. 243.

4-A. Benefit of section extended even to cases where passing of sentence of imprisonment is obligatory.—A first offender is entitled to the benefit of s. 562 of the Code, provided the other provisions of the section apply, even when without such provisions the Magistrate would be obliged to pass a sentence of imprisonment upon the offender 27 Bom. L. R. 111.

TO WHAT OFFENCES SECTION APPLIES.

5. The 'term of imprisonment' and not 'the nature of the offence' is the test.—A boy aged 18 years was convicted of an attempt to cause hurt with a dangerous weapon. The Magistrate ordered him to execute a bond with a surety under this section. Held, the object of this section was to provide a lesser and an alternative remedy for a certain class of cases. Though the maximum sentence under s. 324, I P. C., is three years, an attempt to commit that offence is only punishable with imprisonment for 18 months. The "term of imprisonment" and not "the nature of the offence," being the test as to the applicability of this section, in cases as the present, the order of the Magistrate was legal, 3 L. B. R. 30.

6. Benefit of section restricted to persons convicted of specified offences.—Under the old section offenders could not be let off on probation if the offence committed was punishable with more than two years' imprisonment. But under the new amendment this restriction is taken off and seven years are put instead of two (See Note 1 above).

7. Under the old Code the benefit of section not extended to aggravated forms of theft or cheating.—A servant found guilty and convicted under s. 381, I P. C., of theft of his master's property was held not to be entitled to be released under this section, upon probation of good conduct, as theft by a servant is not one of the offences mentioned herein (1 N. L. R. 139 referred to). When an Act gives special power, that power must be limited to the purpose for which it is conferred (19 M. 297), and jurisdiction must be exercised strictly in accordance with the provisions of the statute which creates it (7 C. 157). It is an evasion of the law to treat an aggravated as an ordinary offence, and thus introduce a different jurisdiction or a lower scale of punishment (5 C. 717; 12 M. 54, 13 B. 502 and 5 G. W. N. 372 referred to), 4 N. L. R. 18 = 7 Cr. L. J. 319, 13 P. L. R. 1913 = 27 P. W. R. 1913 = 14 Cr. L. J. 113. The question whether this section applied to the aggravated form of cheating under s. 420, I P. C., was dealt with by a Full Bench of the Burma Chief Court in 3 L. B. R. 95 = 3 Cr. L. J. 21. On the reasoning that the word "theft" as used in this section, can only mean simple theft, for otherwise it would not have been followed by the words "theft in a building" as well, it was held that the word "cheating" in the same section, can mean only simple cheating under s. 417, I P. C., and cannot include the aggravated form of it under s. 420, I P. C. The words "theft," "dishonest misappropriation" and "cheating" in this section, refer to theft, etc., in their simple form punishable respectively, under ss. 379, 403 and 417, I P. C. See 23 P. W. R. 1908 = 5 Cr. L. J. 455; 16 P. R. 1911 = 135 P. L. R. 1911 = 12 Cr. L. J. 213, 17 Bom. L. R. 821 = 3 Bom. Cr. C. 133 = 16 Cr. L. J. 781; 41 M. 533. But under the new amendment by sub-sec. (1) all these ~~aggravated~~ forms, e.g., of theft, cheating, etc., will now fall under the present sub-sec. (1). See Note 1 above.

Contra—PIGGOTT, J., in 12 L. L. J. 463 = 15 Cr. L. J. 373, however held, that the words "misappropriation" in s. 562 apply to the offence of criminal misappropriation in all its forms ~~and is intended to include offences punishable under s. 404 as well as under s. 403, I P. C., similarly the word "cheating" in the offences of cheating in all its forms and is intended to include offences punishable under s. 417, I P. C.~~

420 as well as under s 417, I P C, otherwise the words in question are mere surplusage, the case of offences under ss 403 and 417, I P C, being sufficiently covered by the provision which follow with regard to all offences punishable 'with not more than two years imprisonment'. The argument to the contrary based on the distinct specification of the offences, of theft and theft in a building is not of much weight, the maximum period of imprisonment under ss 379 and 380, I P C, being in each case more than two years. No doubt, the word 'theft' means simple theft and covers s 379, I P C, only, but it does not follow that the words 'cheating' and 'dishonest misappropriation' have a similarly restricted meaning.

8. The old section was not applicable for convictions under the Indian Railways Act.—So when the accused was found drunk in a Railway Station an offence punishable under s 120-A, of the Indian Railways Act. He pleaded guilty and the Magistrate let him off with a warning. Held that s 95 I P C, was inapplicable to this case, inasmuch as the act charged against the accused person, amounted to an offence under the Railways Act. This section applies only where a person is convicted of one of certain offences punishable under the Indian Penal Code, and not of an offence under the Railways Act, 1 N. L. R. 139. But under the new amendment it is not necessary for the application of this section that the conviction should be under the Penal Code. The present section as amended does not speak of this restriction and so it appears that the section will apply even in cases of convictions under any law other than the Penal Code.

The words "Indian Penal Code" occur only in sub-sec. (1)(a) but they do not occur in sub-sec. (1) and so it is held by the Bombay High Court in 28 Bom. L. R. 297 that the provisions of s 562 (1) (a) apply only to certain specified offences punishable under the Indian Penal Code. They have no application to offences punishable under other Acts, e.g., the Motor Vehicles Act, 1914.

In 7 Lah. 32 it is held that s 562 of the Code as amended by Act XVIII of 1923 applies also to persons found guilty under a Special or Local Act, but its provisions should not be ordinarily applied to a person convicted under s. 61 (1) of the Excise Act which implies previous preparation and often escapes detention.

WHAT COURTS MAY PASS ORDERS.

9. Power must be specially conferred so far as second and third-class Magistrates are concerned.—A Magistrate of the second class, who has not been specially empowered to exercise jurisdiction under the first part of this section, cannot take proceedings under that part, though by a notification issued under the 1882 Code, he was invested with all the powers specified in the fourth schedule of that Code, Weir II, 731.

9-A. Power of second and third-class Magistrates under s 562 (1) (A).—Under the amended section 562 (1) (a) even a second-class Magistrate can exercise the power of releasing an offender, after giving due admonition, without such powers being specifically conferred upon him. The proviso to sub-sec. (1) cannot be read as a part of sub-sec. (1) (a), 47 A. 333.

But in 27 Bom. L. R. 1019 different view was expressed by the High Court and it was held that the proviso to s 562 of the Code which stands in the middle of the section applies also to sub-sec. (1) (a) which has been newly added to the section. But it is submitted that the interpretation put on s 562 in 47 A. 333 is the correct one. The proper remedy lies in putting the proviso not in the middle but after both the sub-secs. (1) and (1) (a) and this can only be done by an appeal to the Legislature.

10. Power of Magistrate to whom proceedings are submitted under proviso a. 380.—Under s 380 the superior Magistrate to whom proceedings are submitted under this section may pass such sentence or order as he might have passed or made if the case had been originally heard by him. He cannot send the case back to the Subordinate Magistrate to pass a sentence, 4 L. B. R. 130 = 7 Cr. L. J. 449. It is doubtful if such superior Magistrate can pass any order (e.g., an order demanding security), other than a sentence or an order for release on probation, 4 L. B. R. 277 = 8 Cr. L. J. 476. It is open to the Magistrate to acquit the accused if on a perusal of the evidence he comes to the conclusion that conviction should not have taken place, (1915) U. B. R. I 55 = 16 Cr. L. J. 535.

11. Appellate or Revision Court may act under this section.—The powers conferred by the section upon a Court by which a first offender is convicted, are by virtue of s 423 (1) (d) exercisable by an Appellate Court while hearing an appeal and also by the High Court as a Court of Revision under s 439 24 A. 306. By the use of the words 'Court before which he is convicted' in this section, it was not the intention of the Legislature to limit the power of making orders under the section to the Court of First Instance. The proviso to this section is inconsistent with the view that this was the intention of the Legislature, 29 M. 667 where 24 A. 306 is approved. This power is specifically provided for by sub-secs. (2) and (3) as now amended.

12. Co-accused—Where Magistrate not empowered acts under proviso, only case of person to be dealt with, to be sent up.—Where two accuseds are jointly charged with theft before a second-class Magistrate and one of them is of tender age, both of them cannot be sent to a first-class Magistrate under this section in order that the one of tender age might be dealt with under it. The case of the grown up accused should be dealt with by such Magistrate himself, while the other accused only should be sent to the first-class Magistrate, 2 Bom. L. R. 112.

PRACTICE.

13. Distinct conviction to be recorded before acting under this section.—The accused was charged before a first-class Magistrate in the alternative, with the offence of theft or retaining stolen property under ss 380 and 411, I P C., respectively. The Magistrate was of opinion that the accused had committed the offence with which he was charged, but taking into consideration certain facts, which in his opinion constituted extenuating circumstances he ordered the accused under this section to be released on bail with surety for Rs. 200, with a warning that he should appear, and receive sentence, when called upon during the period of one year during which he should keep the peace and be of good behaviour. On a reference by the District Magistrate held, that there was no distinct conviction recorded by the Magistrate of the first class of any offence as required by s 367 of the Code. The charge was in the alternative but the Magistrate did not say of which offence he convicted the accused, and in the absence of a conviction for theft, the order under s. 562 would be illegal. The order was reversed and the Magistrate was directed to pass a legal order of conviction and of sentence consequent thereon, 1 Bom. L. R. 857.

14. Contents of the order under this section.—All that a Magistrate can do under this section is to require the accused to appear before him, and receive sentence when called upon to do so. He cannot order the accused to appear before him on a certain fixed date, 3 Bom. L. R. 702. The bond to be taken should not be only for good behaviour, but to appear and receive sentence when called upon, and in the meantime to keep the peace, 2 Bom. L. R. 112.

15. Difference between orders under this section and s. 8 of the Reformatory Schools Act.—The procedure to be adopted under this section, should not be confounded with the procedure to be adopted under s. 8 of the Reformatory Schools Act VIII of 1897. In the latter case, a substantive sentence of transportation or imprisonment, has to be first passed and the Court may then direct that instead of undergoing that sentence, the accused shall be sent to a Reformatory School. Under this section, the Court may, instead of sentencing him at once to any punishment, direct that he be released on his entering into a bond to appear and receive sentence when called upon and in the meantime to keep the peace and be of good behaviour, L. B. Cr. L. Rev. 204 of 1904. Though the powers given by this section should be freely exercised, still when the circumstances permit, action should be taken rather under s. 31 of the Reformatory Schools Act, in the case of boys and girls under fifteen years of age. (All Man, p 376)

16. Minor may execute bond under this section.—The third proviso to s. 118 "that when the person in respect of whom the inquiry is made is a minor, the bond shall be executed only by his sureties" applies in terms only to bonds given under that section which is seldom used against minors, and when similar provision is not found in this section which was enacted chiefly for the benefit of youthful offenders, it must be presumed that the omission was intentional. Therefore the third proviso to s. 118, does not apply to bonds of first offenders released under this section. The words of this section "on his entering into a bond with or without sureties" are clear, 4 L. B. R. 12 = 6 Cr. L. J. 123, where 2 L. B. R. 137 is overruled and 2 L. B. R. 168 is referred to.

17. Sentence to be nominal, if accused unable to find surety.—The view that, if an accused person is ordered to give security under this section and fails to do so, he should be detained in person till the expiration of the period for which security is to be given, is not in accordance with any provision of law. The proper course is for the Magistrate to ascertain before passing an order under this section whether the accused is likely to be able to give security immediately or within a reasonable time. If he fails to give security within a reasonable time the Magistrate should pass a sentence which should be nominal, 3 L. B. R. 2 = 2 Cr. L. J. 374, 2 Rang. 360.

APPEAL AND REVISION.

18. Appeal from orders.—Any person convicted may appeal though the conviction has not been followed by any sentence. See s. 407, Quare, if the appeal is unsuccessful and a sentence under s. 563 follows will another appeal lie against the sentence alone? In 1904 U. B. R. 7 = 10 Fur. L. R. 321 = 1 Cr. L. J. 543. IRWIN, J, held that there is a right of appeal from a conviction without a sentence, and when the conviction is by a first-class Magistrate, the appeal lies under s. 408 to the Court of Session, and not to the District

Magistrate under s. 406. So also where on submission of proceedings by a second class Magistrate the first class Magistrate instead of proceeding under this section, proceeds under s. 380 and imposes a sentence, 17 Bom. L. R. 893. See also 24 P. R. 1904 = 1 Cr. L. J. 1098; 5 L. B. R. 129 = 11 Cr. L. J. 152, 17 Bom. L. R. 895 = 3 Bom. Cr. Ca. 107 = 16 Cr. L. J. 738

19 Under the old law, where Magistrate improperly passes order, Appellate or Revisional Court must remand case and not itself pass sentence.—And under the old section it was held that where a Magistrate convicted the accused for an offence under s. 420 I P C, but dealt with him under this section, the proper course for the Appellate or Revisional Court is not to direct a re-trial but to remand the case for passing legal sentence as the Appellate or Revisional Court cannot itself pass the proper sentence. This they are empowered to do by the very wide powers conferred by ss. 423, cl. (d) and 439 (4 N. L. R. 18, 29 M. 567) 24 A. 306 (followed), 16 P. R. 1911 = 155 P. L. R. 1911 = 12 Cr. L. J. 213. The High Court cannot in Revision set aside an order under s. 562 ordering an accused person to execute a bond and substitute in its place a sentence of whipping or imprisonment as no sentence has been passed and the provisions of s. 439 to enhance a sentence do not apply. The High Court can only order the case to be re-tried 37 A. 31. The High Court may in revision set aside an order under s. 562 even if the accused have not moved the High Court, 7 P. W. R. 1912 = 67 P. L. R. 1912 = 13 Cr. L. J. 476. Where a Magistrate erroneously passed an order under s. 562 in respect of an offence under s. 457, I P C the Chief Court refused having regard to the circumstances of the case to revise the order, 19 P. W. R. 1910 = 11 Cr. L. J. 389. But see 21 P. L. R. 1914, where an order under this section was set aside in revision. But under the new amendment sub-secs (2) and (3) specifically provide for the setting aside of orders passed under this section either in appeal or in revision. (See Note 1, supra) 52 C. 463, 24 A. L. J. 228

Provision in case of offender failing to observe conditions of his recognizance.

563. (1) If the Court which convicted the offender, or a Court which could have dealt with the offender in respect of his original offence is satisfied that the offender has failed to observe any of the conditions of his recognizance, it may issue a warrant for his apprehension

(2) An offender, when apprehended on any such warrant, shall be brought forthwith before the Court issuing the warrant, and such Court may either remand him in custody until the case is heard or admit him to bail with a sufficient surety conditioned on his appearing for sentence. Such Court may, after hearing the case pass sentence

Note.—"We have re-drafted this clause as we propose to confine the exercise of the power of arrest to a Court having power to pass sentence, and not as in England, to give power to any Magistrate to order the arrest of a first offender for breach of the conditions"—Sel. Com. Rep.

564. (1) The Court, before directing the release of an offender under section 562 sub-section (1)* shall be satisfied that the offender or his surety (if any) has a fixed place of abode or regular occupation in the place for which the Court acts or in which the offender is likely to live during the period named for the observance of the conditions

Condition as to abode of offender

(2) Nothing in this section or in sections 562 and 563 shall affect the provisions of section 31 of Reformatory Schools Act, 1897

PREVIOUSLY CONVICTED OFFENDERS

† 565. (a) When any person having been convicted by a Court in British India of an offence punishable under sections 215, 489 A, 489-B, 489-C or section 489-D of the Indian Penal Code or of any offence punishable under Chapter XII or Chapter XVII of that Code, with imprisonment of either description for a term of three years or upwards or

Order for notifying address of previously convicted offender

(b) by a Court or Tribunal in the territories of any Prince or State in India acting under the general or special authority of the Governor General in Council, or of any Local Government of any offence which would, if committed in British India, have been punishable under any of the aforesaid sections or Chapters of the Indian Penal Code with like imprisonment for a like term, is again convicted of any offence punishable under any of those sections or Chapters with imprisonment for a term of three years or upwards by a High Court, Court of Session, Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-Divisional Magistrate, or Magistrate of the first class, such Court or Magistrate may, if it or he thinks fit at the time of passing sentence of transportation or imprisonment on such person, also order that his residence and any change of or absence from such residence after release be notified as hereinafter provided for a term not exceeding five years from the date of the expiration of such sentence.

(2) If such conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise such order shall become void.

(3) The Local Government may make rules to carry out the provisions of this section relating to the notification of residence or change of or absence from residence by released convicts.

(4) An order under this section may also be made by an Appellate Court or by the High Court when exercising its powers of revision.

(5) Any person against whom an order has been made under this section and who refuses or neglects to comply with any rule so made shall be deemed within the meaning of section 176 of the Indian Penal Code to have omitted to give a notice required for the purpose of preventing the commission of an offence.

(6) Any person charged with a breach of any such rule may be tried by a Magistrate of competent jurisdiction in the district in which the place last notified by him as his place of residence is situated.

Notes.—Amendments.—The present amendment has enlarged the list of offences under which the address of previously-convicted offenders must be notified.

Now the section also extends to cases where the previous conviction has been in a Native State.

Under the present section all first-class Magistrates without any special power are authorized to pass orders under this section.

The punishment for the breach of rules made under this section is increased under the present amendment.

Finally by sub-sec. (4) an order under this section may also be made by an Appellate Court or by the High Court in revision.

1. Section applies only when the accused has been previously convicted.—The passing of an order under this section on an accused convicted for the first time is illegal 8 M. L. T. 352, Madras Cr R C 85 of 1906, Madras Cr A 675 of 1904. But the previous conviction may have been had on the same day in a separate trial. M H C Proceedings f No 3101 of 1907. It is absurd to use this section where a person is found technically guilty of a trifling offence, 3 P. W. R. 1914 = 4 P. L. R. 1914 = 15 Cr L J 183. In 5 Rang. 156 it is held that no order under this section can be made if the previous conviction was ultimately set aside although on technical grounds.

2. Section not applicable when conviction is for attempt to commit offence specified in Chapter XII or XVII, I. P. C.—Where either the previous or subsequent conviction of an accused person is under s. 511, I P. C., for an attempt to commit an offence punishable for a term of three years or upwards, under any of the sections specified in Chapter XII or XVII I P. C. the Court trying the case has no power to proceed and pass an order against him under this section 17 P. R. 1907 = 35 P. W. R. 1907 = 6 Cr. L. J. 378.

3. Under the old law the section was not applicable where the previous conviction was in Foreign State.—The Indian Penal Code could not as such be in force in a Feudatory State which is not part of British India. When the accused was previously convicted in a Feudatory State under a law identical in terms with the Indian Penal Code, this section cannot be applied upon the strength of such previous conviction, 1 N. L. R. 137, where 7 C. P. L. R. 24 is referred to. Section 70 of the Berar Penal Code, cannot be applied to a previous conviction for offences under Chapter XII or XVII, I P C., or s 565, but only to a conviction under the Chapters of the Berar Penal Code or Berar Criminal Procedure Code itself. A Sessions Court of Berar convicted an accused person under s 379 of the Berar Penal Code, and sentenced him to rigorous imprisonment for seven years, supplemented by a direction under the Berar Criminal Procedure Code, to notify his residence for five years after the expiry of the said sentence, for the reason that there were six previous convictions against him in British Indian Courts of the Bombay Presidency, under various sections of Chapter XVII, I P C. Held, that so much of the sentence and order as depended for its legality on s 75 of the Berar Penal Code, or upon s 565, Berar Criminal Procedure Code was ultra vires, and must be set aside, 4 N. L. R. 177 = 9 Cr. L. J. 97. But see now sub-clause (b) of sub-sec. (1). See also Preliminary Note (supra).

4. Section not applicable where the sentence is whipping.—The order contemplated by this section can only be passed when the convict is sentenced either to transportation or imprisonment; the section does not extend to cases where the Court, instead of passing that sentence, passes a sentence of whipping, 35 B. 137.

5. Previous conviction need not be set out in charge for proceeding under this section.—An order under s 565 is not such a punishment as is meant by the words of s 221.—Therefore the provisions of s 221 (7) do not apply to an order under s 565 and such an order can legally be passed without the previous convictions on which it is based having been mentioned in the charge. Even if there was an omission to give the details of the convictions in the charge, it is a mere irregularity cured by s 537, 9 N. L. R. 88 = 14 Cr. L. J. 390.

6. Sub-section (4)—Omission to give notice is offence under s. 176 (1), I. P. C.—The notice of residence required from convicts under s 565 (4) is not to prevent the commission of any particular offence, and the failure to give such notice comes under the first part of s 176, I P C., 34 M. 543; 15 C. 388 approved. Where all that was proved was that the accused who had been ordered to notify his residence and change of residence under s 565, of the Code, was absent from his house for a single night without notifying his absence—

Held, that such temporary absence did not amount to a change of residence and that the accused was not guilty of an offence under s 176, I P C., 40 M. 789.

7. Police may arrest without warrant any convict committing a breach of the rules.—Under s 54 (1) any Police-officer may, without a warrant, arrest any released convict committing a breach of any rule made under sub-sec. (3) of this section and punishable under s 176, I P C., as provided for in sub-sec. (4). See 1 N. L. R. 133.

8. Order by Magistrate not empowered void.—An order under s 565 by a Magistrate not empowered to make such an order is void, 8 B. L. R. 340 = 16 Cr. L. J. 469.

9. Appellate or Revisional Court incompetent to pass order when trial Court not competent.—An Appellate Court as a Court of Revision cannot make an order under this section where the Original Court was not so empowered, 8 B. L. R. 340 = 16 Cr. L. J. 469.

2 A convict against whom such an order has been passed shall fourteen days before the date fixed for his release give to the Superintendent of the Jail in which he is confined a true statement of the place in which he will take up his residence after his release. Such statement shall be in writing and shall be signed by the convict in the presence of the Superintendent of the Jail who will countersign it. The following rules shall be also clearly explained to the convict before he leaves the Jail. He shall be told for what period he is required to observe them and a copy of them shall be given to him.

his residence in the place mentioned in jurisdiction of which he has taken up

4 If after taking up his residence in any place the convict desires to change his residence he shall attend in person at the Police station within the jurisdiction of which his then place of residence is situated and there notify to the officer-in-charge the place to which he intends to change his residence and the date on which the change will take place. Such attendance shall be not less than fourteen days before his departure when he is moving to the jurisdiction of another Police station and not less than seven days when he is moving to a place within the jurisdiction of the same Police station. If for any reason he does not, within seven days of the date on which he has notified that his change of residence will begin, take up his residence at that place, he shall at once notify, in the manner above set out, any other change of residence he intends to make.—Burma Gazette, 1902, Pt. I, p. 63 In addition to these rules, the following rules are also in force in Bengal and Assam, viz:—

5 If the convict intends to travel to another district, he shall, not less than seven days before his departure, similarly, notify the place to which he intends to proceed, and the probable dates of his arrival at and departure from such places—See Calcutta Gazette, 1902, Pt. I, p. 97, Assam Gazette, 1900, Pt. II, p. 540

6 In applying the foregoing rules to the case of a wandering man having no "residence" in the sense of a fixed place of abode, the place of residence shall be deemed to be the place where he sleeps, even if he remains there only one night. On his release, he shall be asked under Rule 2, where he intended to stay and be told, that if he moves, about the country, he must always notify the place of his temporary abode to the Police—Notification, Bengal Government, No. 313, dated 14th January, 1902, G. 5 Every person duly presenting himself before the officer-in-charge of a Police station, as required by the foregoing rules, shall on each occasion be entitled to receive from such officer free of cost a copy of the entry in register relating to such fact, with a certificate that he has duly attended in person at the time and day specified.

6 One month prior to the date of release of a person in respect of whom an order has been passed under s. 565, Cr P. C., the Superintendent of the Prison in which he is confined shall forward to the District Magistrate of the district in which the prison is situated, and of the district in which he was convicted or of which he is known to have been a resident, a copy of the order passed under s. 565, Cr P. 7 Prior to the release of any such person as aforesaid, the Superintendent of the Prison in which he is confined, or any officer appointed by him in this behalf, shall give him a copy of the rules under sub-sec. V—MADRAS *

In exercise of the powers conferred by sub-sec. (3) of s 563 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council the Governor in Council is pleased to make the following rules to carry out the provisions of the said section relating to the notification of residence by released convicts—

1 When an order has been passed under s 565 Code of Criminal Procedure that a convict shall notify his residence and any change of residence after release for a specified term the Court, or Magistrate passing such order shall attach a copy thereof to the warrant of commitment issued under s 583 of the Code in respect of such convict.

2 A convict in respect of whom such an order has been passed shall when called upon by the officer in-charge of the jail in which he is confined state before his release the place at which he intends to reside after his release naming the village or town and the street therein.

3 After release and on arrival at his residence he shall within twenty four hours notify at the nearest Police station that he has taken up his residence accordingly.

4 Whenever he intends to change his residence he shall not less than two days before making such change notify his intention at the nearest Police station giving the date on which he intends to change his residence and the name of the village or the town and street in which he intends to reside and on arrival at such residence he shall within twenty four hours notify at the nearest Police station that he has taken up his residence accordingly.

5 The officer recording a notification under either Rule 2 or Rule 4 shall appoint such period as may be reasonably necessary to enable the convict to take up his residence in the place notified. If the convict does not take up his residence in such place within the period so appointed he shall, not later than the day following the expiry of such period notify his actual place of residence to the officer in-charge of the Police station within the limits of which he is residing.

6 Every notice required to be given by the foregoing rules shall be given by the released convict in person unless prevented from doing so by illness or other sufficient cause, in which case the notice required shall be sent either by letter duly signed by him or by an authorized messenger on his behalf.

7 Whenever the released convict gives any notice required by the foregoing rules he will be furnished with a certificate to the effect that he has given such notice by the officer to whom he gives it.

8 A copy of the order specified in rule (1) shall be served on the convict before his release from jail. A copy of these rules in English and the vernacular shall at the same time be given him, and the substance thereof fully explained to him in a language he understands. He shall also be informed for what period he is bound to observe these rules and that any neglect or failure to comply with them will render him liable to punishment as if he had committed an offence under s 176 of the Indian Penal Code.

9 If a convict in respect to whom an order has been passed under s 565 of the Code of Criminal Procedure shall be found at any place other than the place where he is bound to reside, he shall be liable to be taken to the place where he is bound to reside and on his reporting himself the copy of the order shall be served on him and the other formalities prescribed in Rules 2 to 4 shall be complied with.—Madras G O No 940 dated 15th June 1904

* In applying the above rules to the case of a wandering man who has no residence in the sense of a fixed place of abode they may be reasonably interpreted as meaning that he resides at the place where he sleeps even if he remains there only one night. On his release he may therefore be asked under Rule (2) where he is going to stay and he may be told that if he moves about the country he must always notify the place of his temporary abode to the Police. See B K. Chatterjee's Criminal Rules of Practice p 33-40.

† S 176 I.P.C. makes punishable the intentional omission to give notice or information to a public servant by a person legally bound to do so.

EXTRACTS FROM THE CHARTER ACT

An Act for establishing High Courts of Judicature in India 6th August 1861

24 AND 25 VICTORIÆ REGINÆ CAP CIV

8 Abolition of Supreme Courts and Sudder Courts

9. Each of the High Courts to be established under this Act shall have and exercise all such civil and criminal admiralty and vice-admiralty testamentary intestate and matrimonial jurisdiction original and appellate and all such powers and authority for and in relation to the administration of justice in the Presidency for which it is established as Her Majesty may by such Letters Patent as aforesaid grant and direct subject, however to such directions and limitations as to the exercise of original civil and criminal jurisdiction beyond the limits of the Presidency towns as may be prescribed thereby and save as by such Letters Patent may be otherwise directed and subject and without prejudice to the legislative powers in relation to the matters aforesaid of the Governor General of India in Council, the High Court to be established in each Presidency shall have and exercise all jurisdiction and every power and authority whatsoever in any manner vested in any of the Courts in the same Presidency abolished under this Act at the time of the abolition of such last mentioned Courts.

11 Existing provisions applicable to Supreme Courts to apply to High Court

13 Power to High Courts to provide for exercise of jurisdiction by single Judges or Division Courts

14 Chief Justice to determine what Judges shall sit alone or in the Division Courts

15 Each of the High Courts established under this Act shall have superintendence over all Courts, which may be subject to its appellate jurisdiction and shall have power to call for returns and to direct the transfer of any suit or appeal from any such Court to any other Court of equal or superior jurisdiction and shall have power to make and issue general rules for regulating the practice and proceedings of such Courts and also to prescribe forms for every proceeding in the said Courts for which it shall think necessary that a form be provided and also for keeping all books entries and accounts to be kept by the officers, and also to settle tables of fees to be allowed to the Sheriff Attorneys and all clerks and officers of Courts and from time to time to alter any such rule or form or table and the rules so made and the forms so framed and the tables so settled shall be used and observed in the said Courts, provided that such general rules and forms and tables be not inconsistent with the provisions of any law in force and shall, before they are issued, have received the sanction, in the Presidency of Fort William of the Governor-General in Council and in Madras or Bombay of the Governor in Council of the respective Presidencies.

Notes.—1. Powers of High Court to be exercised subject to the legislative powers of the Governor General in Council.—The exercise of jurisdiction by the High Court under the Charter Act, in any part of His Majesty's Indian territories, is meritorious to be subject to and is not exclusive of, the general legislative power of the Governor General in Council. 4 C. 172 (P.C.) = 5 L.A. 178. See also 26 A. 144; 3 C. 63; 26 C. 188.

2. Nature and Scope of Jurisdiction.—This section which gives to the High Court a general power of superintendence over Subordinate Courts, vests in it a power somewhat analogous to that of the King's Bench Division in the Supreme Court in England to interfere by mandamus (Cf s 45 of the Specific Relief Act) and the power is discretionary and ought to be exercised with every caution. If the Subordinate Court has acted without jurisdiction, the High Court will interfere. If the Court has proceeded with irregularity the High Court will not interfere unless it be shown that someone interested has been materially prejudiced by such irregularity. 33 C. 68 (F.B.). See also 26 C. 188; 15 C. 80; 26 C. 628, 32 C. 1093, 36 C. 994. No hard and fast rule can be laid down as regards the class of cases in which the High Court will interfere. 23 M. L. J. 505 referring to 22 C. 131; 25 C. 233; 26 C. 786, 20 B. 543. Section 15 has always been interpreted in a very extended meaning so as to give ample powers of superintendence, sc., powers of revision over proceedings of Subordinate Magistrate, 27 C. 126; 1 C. W. N. 49; 12 C. W. N. 678; even if no question of jurisdiction is involved. 26 M. L. J. 208 = 15 Cr. L. J. 509; 25 M. L. J. 370. In 15 M. L. T. 200 = 14 Cr. L. J. 529, SUNDARA ARIAR J. referring to 27 C. 126; 27 M. 223; 31 M. 510, 28 M. 28; 21 M. L. J. 484; 33 C. 63; 28 C. 709 was of opinion that the High Court has under this section plenary powers of interference where it is needed to correct injustice (see Note 10 under s 439) though a narrower view was adopted in 27 C. 892 and 6 C. L. J. 705. In 1 A. 101, 21 A. 181; 24 A. 815, 2 C. 293, 9 C. W. N. 909; 26 C. 74; 36 C. 994; 26 A. 144, 31 A. 150; 3 M. 884 and 36 M. 275 the High Court refused to interfere as there was no question of jurisdiction. See Notes under ss 144 145 435, 439 of the Code.

3. Power will not be exercised when other remedy open.—When there is a right of appeal provided by law, the High Court will not exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction. All other remedies provided by law must be first exhausted. 3 C. 573, 30 A. 331; 7 C. 447.

4. Is the jurisdiction conferred by this section controlled by ss 435 and 439 of the Code?—See Note 6 under s 439 of the Code.

4-A. Powers of superintendence limited to proceedings of Courts.—As to what is a Court, see Notes under Heading IV to s 435 and Notes under Heading II to s 476. See also 27 M. L. J. 227 = 15 Cr. L. J. 593.

5. Over what Courts the High Court has superintendence.—In the case of orders passed by a Civil or a Revenue Court under s 476, the High Court can exercise the powers vested in it by s 115 of the Civil Procedure Code or s 15 of the Charter Act, as they are Courts subordinate to the High Court, even though they are not superior Criminal Courts within the meaning of s 435 of the Code. 40 C. 877 (F.B.) followed in 16 Cr. L. J. 288 (C) with reference to an order made under s. 195. As to jurisdiction of High Court over Magistrate acting under the Extradition Act, see Notes to s 3 of Appendix II, infra.

(Calcutta).—The High Court at Calcutta has no jurisdiction over the Court of the Sessions Judge at Allahabad 1 Ind. EXTRACTS FROM THE LETTERS PATENT OF THE HIGH COURT OF JUDICATURE, MADRAS

28th December, 1865

* 2. And We do by these presents, grant, direct and ordain that, notwithstanding the revocation of the

said Letters Patent of the twenty-sixth of June one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two the High Court of Judicature at Madras shall be and continue as from the time of the original erection and establishment thereof, the High Court of Judicature at Madras for the Presidency of Madras aforesaid and that the said Court shall be and continue a Court of Record and that all proceedings commenced in the said High Court prior to the date of the publication of these Letters Patent shall be continued and depend in the said High Court as if they had commenced in the said High Court after the date of such publication, and that all rules and orders in force in the said High Court immediately before the date of the publication of these Letters Patent shall continue in force except so as the same are altered hereby until the same are altered by competent authority

Notes.—1. Jurisdiction of High Court to commit for contempt.—The High Court is a Court of Record in all its jurisdictions and it has the power to commit for any contempt in relation to any of these jurisdictions 8 W. R. 32. It is an offence which by the Common Law of England is punishable by the High Court in a summary manner with fine or imprisonment or both. That part of the Common Law of England was introduced in the Presidency towns when the late Supreme Courts were respectively established by the charters of justice. 10 C. 109 (P.C.) But whether the High Court has powers that would enable it to punish as an offence in a summary proceeding conduct in relation to a proceeding in a Mofussil Criminal Court and not in the face of that Court such conduct not being an offence under the Penal Code is a matter of considerable doubt. On the motion of the Advocate-General for a rule calling upon a pleader to show cause why he should not be dealt with for contempt of Court for having issued a notice to a District Munsiff the Madras High Court held that the pleader was guilty of a serious contempt of Court and following R v. Davies (1906), 1 K. B. 32, held further that it had jurisdiction to punish for contempt of the interior Court and that no distinction could be drawn between a Civil or a Criminal Court in such a matter 21 M. L. J. 532 = 10 M. L. T. 209 = 12 Cr. L. J. 525. The Calcutta High Court however held that whatever may be the powers of the High Court to punish for contempt of interior Courts within the limits of its original jurisdiction, it had no jurisdiction to punish a person for contempt of a Mofussil Criminal Court (in this case the contempt being publishing comments on a pending criminal trial. The point whether the High Court could not exercise the power in a case where the contempt was in respect of proceedings which would ultimately come to it on appeal was left open 41 C. 173. In view of the new Bill introduced to make such contempts punishable in law, these decisions may become no longer important.

2. What are contempts.—Contempts against the Superior Courts or their Judges and scandalous reflections upon their proceedings have always been considered criminal. R v Gray (1900), 2 Q B 36. Generally, any contemptuous or contumacious words spoken to the Judges of any Court in the execution of their offices are indictable and when disparaging words are spoken of the Judges of the Superior Courts, the speaker is indictable at Common Law. Reg v Heltje, 2 Camp. 142. It is a contempt to publish either verbally, or by writing, whether defamatory or not, or even to give theatrical representations relating to pending cases, which are calculated to prejudice the fair trial of those cases, and so interfere with the course of justice. R v Purke (1903) 1 K. B. 432. The offence is committed if the publication is calculated to interfere with fair trial. R v Davies (1908), 2 K. B. 132. A newspaper ought not before a case comes on for trial to publish in full the private proceedings, such as the statement of a claim or an affidavit charging fraud or a writ containing similar charges. Rex v Aster, 30 T. L. R. 10. The power may be exercised against a corporate body. Reg v Freeman's Journal (1902) 2 Ir Rep. 82; Rex v Hammond & Co (1914), 2 K. B. 868. See on this subject Russell on Crimes, pp 537–547, Archbold, pp 510, 1209–1213.

3. What circumstances justify recourse to summary process of contempt.—It is not enough that there should be a technical contempt of Court. It must be shown that it was probable that the publication would substantially interfere with the due administration of justice. O'Shea v O'Shea L. R. 13 P. D. 84. The publication should be shown to be likely to substantially interfere with administration of justice. 41 C. 173. A Court ought not to lose sight of the intention by which a person giving publicity to a matter which is the subject of the charge of contempt is actuated. 14 Cr. L. J. 267 (C). The cases are full of warnings that this arbitrary, unlimited uncontrolled power should be exercised with great caution. That this power merits this description will be realized when it is understood that there is that the subject is protected by no right of general appeal. McLeod motions ought, to be discouraged as far as possible added “They lead to great waste of time and to a considerable amount of costs.” See also R v Gray (1900) 2 Q B. 36 and R v Dolan (1907), 2 Ir. Rep 260, and cases cited in 41 C. 173.

*15. And We do further ordain that an appeal shall lie to the said High Court of Judicature at Madras from the judgment [†]not being an order made in the exercise of revisional jurisdiction and not being a sentence or order passed or made in the exercise of power of superintendence under the provisions of section 107 of the Government of India Act 1915 or in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction of one Judge of the said High Court or of one Judge of any Division Court, pursuant to s. 13 of the said recited Act, and that an appeal shall also lie to the said High Court from the judgment, not being a sentence or order as aforesaid, of two or more Judges of the said High Court, or of such Division Court, whenever such Judges are equally divided in opinion, and do not amount in number to a majority of the whole of the Judges of the said High Court at the time being, but that the right of appeal from other judgments of Judges of the said High Court, or of such Division Court, shall be to Us, Our heirs or successors, in Our or Their Privy Council as hereinafter provided.

Notes.—1. Whether a 15 deals with criminal judgments.—In 17 M. 103 and 29 M. L. J. 307 = 1915 M. W. N. 224 = 16 Cr. L. J. 303, it was held that this section had nothing to do with the criminal jurisdiction of the High Court. But in 29 C. 286, it will be held after referring to corresponding powers of the High Court in England that the term ‘judgment’ includes all judgments except sentences or orders passed or made in any criminal trial, as opposed to one in a criminal matter. Therefore, though a Judge dealing with an application for a prisoner under ss. 456 and 491, Cr. P. C. (Habeas Corpus) may be exercising criminal jurisdiction the order passed is not one passed in a criminal trial and therefore an appeal lies from such order. It is also held in 23 Bom. L. R. 471 that an appeal lies from an order passed by a single Judge on the original side of the High Court, directing a writ of Habeas Corpus to issue. The High Court of Bombay has jurisdiction to issue a writ of Habeas Corpus for the production of a person outside British India provided it is satisfied that he is in the custody or control of a person within its jurisdiction.

* Clause 15 of the Letters Patent for Madras, Bombay and Calcutta High Courts corresponds to clause 10 of the Allahabad Letters Patent.
† The words in italics were substituted for the words “not being a sentence or order passed or made in any criminal trial.”

2. Orders not in 'criminal trial'.—See 27 M. 510; 28 M. L. J. 307 for interpretation of the words 'criminal trial.'

(i) Order in revision under s. 145, Cr. P. C., is not made in a criminal trial and consequently an appeal lies under this section. 17 M. L. J. 133 = 5 Cr. L. J. 343 (F.B.). (ii) Order under s. 195, Cr. P. C., in a sanction matter passed by a single Judge of the High Court is not made in a criminal trial. Weir II, 199 = 12 M. L. J. 408; 30 M. 311, 32 C. 379 but see 17 M. 103. (iii) An order of a single Judge in the exercise of the ordinary original criminal jurisdiction of the High Court, refusing an application under ss. 456 and 491, Cr. P. C., is a judgment, not being a sentence or order in any criminal trial, within the meaning of this section, and an appeal lies. 29 C. 236 (F.B.), see Note 1, supra.

3. Orders in 'criminal trials'.—Orders staying proceedings, 31 M. 510, see, however, 35 C. 909; orders transferring proceedings from one Presidency Magistrate to another, 28 C. 709; 13 M. L. J. 69; (1914) 2 M. W. R. 50 = 10 M. L. T. 518 = 12 Cr. L. J. 431; transfer of cases pending before Village Courts, 26 M. 394; 10 Bom. L. R. 630; order refusing to grant bail to an accused person, 19 M. L. J. 478; appellate judgment passed by a single Judge on an appeal by the Government against an acquittal, 22 M. L. J. 44; and orders passed in appeal or revision by a single Judge in proceedings under s. 107, Cr. P. C., 27 M. 510; 28 C. 709; 28 M. L. J. 307 = 1913 M. W. N. 224 = 16 Cr. L. J. 303 are orders made in 'criminal trials'.

CRIMINAL JURISDICTION

* 22. And We do further ordain that the said High Court of Judicature at Madras shall have ordinary original criminal jurisdiction within the local limits of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, and also in respect of all such persons beyond such limits, over whom the said High Court of Judicature at Madras shall have criminal jurisdiction at the date of the publication of these presents.

Notes.—1. In the Calcutta Letters Patent, for the portion beginning with 'and also in respect, etc.' the following shall be substituted and read "and also in respect of all such persons both within the limits of the Bengal Division of the Presidency of Fort William, and beyond such limits, and not within the limits of the criminal jurisdiction of any other High Court or Court established by competent legislative authority for India, as the said High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal shall have criminal jurisdiction over at the date of the publication of these presents".

2. Jurisdiction of the High Court over European British subjects.—The Bombay High Court has jurisdiction over the Court of the Judicial Superintendent of Railways in the Nizam's Dominions in criminal matters relating to European British subjects. 9 B. 255, 22 B. 112. So also, over the Cantonment Magistrate of Secunderabad. 9 B. 333; and over European British subjects in the Province of Sind. 12 B. 561. The Madras High Court has jurisdiction over European British subjects in the Civil and Military Station at Bangalore. 2 M. H. C. R. 444 = Weir I, 4.

† 23. And We do further ordain that the said High Court of Judicature at Madras in the exercise of its ordinary original criminal jurisdiction shall be empowered to try all persons brought before it in due course of law.

‡ 24. And We do further ordain that the said High Court of Judicature at Madras shall have extraordinary original criminal jurisdiction over all persons residing in places within the jurisdiction of any Court now subject to the superintendence of the said High Court, and shall have authority to try at its discretion any such person brought before it on charges preferred by the Advocate-General or by any Magistrate or other officer specially empowered by the Government in that behalf.

Note.—Right of audience under the Criminal Law Amendment Act.—In Calcutta, the right of audience is confined exclusively to Barristers. 13 C. W. N. 805, while in Madras, Vakils also have a right of audience. See E. V. Nilakanti, Special Bench Case No. 1 of 1911 (Mad.).

Note.—1. Hearing of reference under s. 307, Cr. P. C., is not in exercise of its original jurisdiction.—The hearing under s. 307, Cr. P. C., is not in any sense an original trial. The jurisdiction which the High Court exercises in hearing a case submitted under this section is not its original criminal jurisdiction. 29 C. 285. See Notes under s. 307, Cr. P. C. Note.—2. Clause 28 of the Letters Patent does not give the High Court jurisdiction to revise the order of a Secretary to the Government of Bengal issuing a warrant under the Gundas Act I of 1923 (Beng.) as such secretary was not an officer of Court possessing criminal jurisdiction in 1865, nor was the case subject to reference to, or revision by, the High Court at the time, and that such secretary is not an "inferior Court" within s. 435, Criminal Procedure Code, and the High Court cannot interfere under section 439 of the Code. 51 Cal. 460.

 29. And We do further ordain that the said High Court shall have power to direct the transfer of any criminal case or appeal from any Court to any other Court of equal or superior jurisdiction and also to direct the preliminary investigation or trial of any criminal case by any officer or Court otherwise competent to investigate or try it, though such case belongs in ordinary course to the jurisdiction of some other officer or Court.

High Court may direct the transfer of a case from one Court to another

Notes.—1. Case may be transferred from any Court to any other Court of equal or superior jurisdiction.—The High Court has power under this clause to transfer any criminal case from one Court to another. Weir II, 850; I, 788 (d). The High Court may transfer a case from the file of any Presidency Magistrate to that of any other (1912) 2 M. W. N. 50; so also from the file of Madras Village Magistrates. 21 M. L. J. 755 = 12 Cr. L. J. 407.

2. High Court may transfer to its own file.—A single Judge in the Original Side has power to entertain an application for the removal of a case from the Mofussil to the High Court. 7 B. L. R. 240 at 255 = 15 W. R. 89. See also 7 Bom. L. R. 104, where the case was transferred from the file of the Resident's Court at Aden.

3. Transfer of Criminal Appeal.—The High Court can transfer for hearing to itself a criminal appeal filed in the Court of Session. Ratanlal 110; 6 M. 32.

4. Proceedings liable to be transferred.—See Notes under s. 426 of the Code.

5. "By Officer or Court competent to investigate."—These words do not include competency as regards local jurisdiction but only competency with regard to the offender, the nature of the offence and the punishment. Therefore the High Court has power to transfer the investigation etc. of any offence committed in Calcutta to Mofussil Court. 15 W. R. 71 (n) = 1 B. L. R. 15.

Single Judge and Division Courts

† 36 And We do hereby declare, that any function which is hereby directed to be performed by the said High Court of Judicature at Madras, in the exercise of its original or appellate jurisdiction may be performed by any Judge, or by any Division Court thereof, appointed or constituted for such purpose, under the provisions of the thirtieth section of the aforesaid Act of the twenty fourth and twenty fifth years of our reign, and if such Division Court is composed of two or more Judges, and the Judges are divided in opinion as to the decision to be given on any point such point shall be decided according to the opinion of the majority of the Judges if there shall be a majority, but if the Judges should be equally divided then the opinion of the Senior Judge shall prevail.

Note.—Effects of s. 429 of the Cr. P. C.—In 6 W. R. 85 and 2 B. L. R. (F.B.) 23 = 10 W. R. 45, it was held that where a difference of opinion arises between two Judges of the High Court in a criminal appeal the opinion of the Senior Judge prevails under this clause notwithstanding s. 420 Cr. P. C. (1871). But now, under s. 429, Cr. P. C., when Judges differ in opinion the case should be referred to a third Judge whose opinion should be followed. In 22 M. L. J. 419 (F.B.) = 11 M. L. T. 367 = (1912) M. W. N. 499 = 13 Cr. L. J. 209, it was held that the power conferred upon the High Court by s. 195 cl. (6) of the Code was not a part of the appellate and revisional

† 25. And We do further ordain that there shall be no appeal to the said High Court of Judicature at Madras from any sentence or order passed or made in any criminal trial before the Courts of original criminal jurisdiction which may be constituted by one or more Judges of the said High Court. But it shall be at the discretion of any such Court to reserve any point or points of law for the opinion of the said High Court.

No appeal from High Court exercising original jurisdiction
Court may reserve points of law

Note.—Decision of Judge not open to review.—The exercise of the discretion of the Judge as to whether he should reserve or not a point of law, is not open to review under s 26 infra. 10 Bom H C R. 75 (F.B.)

† 26. And We do further ordain that on such point or points of law being so reserved as aforesaid, or on its being certified by the said Advocate-General that in his judgment, there is an error in the decision of a point or points of law decided by the Court of original criminal jurisdiction or that a point or points of law which has or have been decided by the said Court shall be further considered the said High Court shall have full power and authority to review the case or such part of it as may be necessary and finally determine such point or points of law and thereupon to alter the sentence passed by the Court of original jurisdiction and to pass such judgment and sentence as to the said High Court shall seem right.

High Court to review on certificate of the Advocate General power and authority to review the case or such part of it as may be necessary and finally determine such point or points of law and thereupon to alter the sentence passed by the Court of original jurisdiction and to pass such judgment and sentence as to the said High Court shall seem right.

Notes.—1 Scope of Section.—Clauses 25 and 26 apply to all criminal trials before the High Court, whether in the exercise of its ordinary or extraordinary original criminal jurisdiction under clauses 22 and 24 of the Letters Patent or of any future statutory criminal jurisdiction that may be conferred upon it by the Legislature as for example the Criminal Law Amendment Act XIV of 1909. 35 M 397 at 418.

2 Extent of High Court's power to review case on certificate.—In 32 B 111, DAVAR, J. held that in the absence of any reservation by the trying Judge or a certificate by the Advocate-General the Full Bench cannot sit in appeal on a judgment of the trial Judge and re-open a question decided by the trial Judge and not certified. So also in 35 M 397, BENSON and SUNDARA IYER JJ. held that the certificate has not the effect of opening the whole case as if on appeal but it only gives the Court the power or authority to review the case or so much of it as is necessary in order to determine the point or points of law raised. Where however, the point reserved is one of improper admission of evidence or the admission of rejected evidence the Full Bench has power to review the whole case and determine if the judgment should or should not be reversed. 2 B 61, 32 B. 111, 9 B H C R. 358, 1 C. 207, 17 C. 642, 25 M 61, 44 C. 477. See 1 Ind Jur N S. 424, 11 M L T 213, 3 L B R. 75 = 3 Cr L J 1, for other cases where certificates were granted. See also 28 C. W N 170, A. I R. (1924) Cal 257.

3. Statement of Judge as to what passed at trial conclusive.—The statement of a Judge who presides at a criminal trial is upon a case reserved or upon a case certified conclusive as to what has passed at the trial. Neither the affidavits of bystanders or of jurors nor the notes of Counsel or of shorthand writers are admissible to controvert the statement of a Judge. 10 Bom H C R. 75. See also 10 C. 1079.

† 27. And We do further ordain that the said High Court of Judicature at Madras shall be a Court of Appeal from the Criminal Courts of the Presidency of Madras and from all other Courts subject to its superintendence and shall exercise appellate jurisdiction in such cases as are subject to appeal to the said High Court by virtue of any law now in force.

Appeal from Criminal Courts in the Presidency

Note.—See 10 Bom L R. 630 = 8 Cr L J. 141 and 26 M 594, noted under s 15 of the Letters Patent.

† 28. And We do further ordain that the said High Court of Judicature at Madras shall be a Court of reference and revision from the Criminal Courts of the Presidency of Madras and from all other Courts subject to its superintendence and shall have power to hear and determine all such cases referred to it by the Session Judges or by any other officers now authorized to refer cases to the said High Court, and to revise all such cases tried by any officer or Court possessing original criminal jurisdiction as may be subject to reference or to revision by the said High Court.

POWERS OF SINGLE JUDGES AND DIVISION COURTS

* 36. And We do hereby declare that any function which is hereby directed to be performed by the said High Court of Judicature at Madras, in the exercise of its original or appellate jurisdiction may be performed by any Judge, or by any Division Court thereof, appointed or constituted for such purpose under the provisions of the thirteenth section of the aforesaid Act of the twenty fourth and twenty fifth years of our reign; and if such Division Court is composed of two or more Judges and the Judges are divided in opinion as to the decision to be given on any point such point shall be decided according to the opinion of the majority of the Judges, if there shall be a majority, but if the Judges should be equally divided then the opinion of the Senior Judge shall prevail.

Note.—Effects of s. 429 of the Cr. P. C.—In 6 W. R. 83 and 2 B. L. R. (F B.) 25 = 10 W. R. 43, it was held that where a difference of opinion arises between two Judges of the High Court in a criminal appeal the opinion of the Senior Judge prevails under this clause notwithstanding s. 420 Cr. P. C. (1861). But now, under s. 429, Cr. P. C. when Judges differ in opinion the case should be referred to a third Judge. See 1911 M. W. N. 499 = 13 Cr. L. J. 419 (F B.) = 11 M. L. J. 367 = (1912) M. W. N. 499 = 13 Cr. L. J. 419. The power conferred upon the High Court by s. 195 cl. (6) of the Code was not a part of jurisdiction of this Court conferred by Chaps. XXXI and XXXII of the Code, but was a special power conferred by s. 195 cl. (6), and that, therefore, when the Judges were equally divided in opinion, the case was governed by this section and not by s. 429 of the Code.

CRIMINAL PROCEDURE.

 38. And We do further ordain that the proceedings in all criminal cases which shall be brought before the said High Court of Judicature at Madras in the exercise of its ordinary original criminal jurisdiction, and also in all other criminal cases over which the said High Court had jurisdiction immediately before the publication of these presents, shall be regulated by the procedure and practice which was in use in the said High Court immediately before such publication subject to any law which has been or may be made in relation thereto by competent legislative authorities for India, and that the proceedings in all other criminal cases shall be regulated by the Code of Criminal Procedure prescribed by an Act passed by the Governor General in Council and being Act No. XXX of 1861, or by such further or other laws in relation to criminal procedure as may have been or may be made by such authorities as aforesaid.

* * * * *

APPEALS TO PRIVY COUNCIL.

39. And We do further ordain that any person or persons may appeal to Us, Our heirs and successors, in Our or Their Privy Council, in any matter not being of criminal jurisdiction from any final judgment, decree or order of the said High Court of Judicature at Madras made on appeal and from any final judgment, decree or order made in the exercise of original jurisdiction by Judges of the said High Court, or of any Division Court, from which an appeal shall not lie to the said High Court under the provision contained in the 10th clause of these presents. Provided in either case, that the sum or matter in issue is of the amount or value of not less than 10,000 rupees, or that such judgment, decree or order shall involve, directly or indirectly some claim, demand, or question to or respecting property amounting to or order made either on appeal or otherwise as aforesaid, when the said High Court shall declare that the case is a fit one for appeal to Us, Our heirs or successors, in Our or Their Privy Council. Subject always to such rules and orders as are now in force, or may from time to time be made, respecting appeals to Ourselves or Council from the Courts of the said Presidency except so far as the said existing rules and orders respectively are hereby varied, and subject also to such further rules and orders as We may, with the advice of our Privy Council, hereafter make in that behalf.

Notes.—1. No appeal against orders made in criminal jurisdiction.—No appeal lies under this clause to the Privy Council against an order of the High Court refusing to quash by a writ of certiorari, the order made by a Deputy Collector as an Income Tax officer directing that the petitioner be prosecuted for an offence under s. 149, I. P. C. 25 M. L. J. 565 = 16 Cr. L. J. 656.

2. No appeal against orders passed under s. 10 in proceedings in the exercise of disciplinary jurisdiction.—This section empowers the High Court to declare the fitness or an appeal in any matter not being of criminal jurisdiction, if it is the final judgment or order of the Courts made on appeal or in the exercise of original jurisdiction. A proceeding under s. 10 of the Letters Patent does not fall under any of the jurisdictions specified in this section and no leave to appeal can therefore be granted. 41 C. 134, 29 M. L. J. 15 (F.B.)

40. And We do further ordain that it shall be lawful for the said High Court of Judicature at Madras at its discretion in any motion, or if the said High Court be not sitting, then by any Judge of the said High Court, upon the petition of any party who may desist from appearing to any preliminary or interlocutory judgment, decree or order or sentence of the said High Court, in any such proceeding as aforesaid, not being of criminal jurisdiction to grant permission to such party to appeal against the same to Us, Our heirs and successors, in Our or Their Privy Council subject to the same rules regulating appeals as are herein expressed respecting appeals from final judgments, decrees, orders and sentences.

3. Privy Council practice—Special leave to appeal.—The principle on which special leave to appeal is given by the Privy Council is set out in the leading case of Abraham Malloy Dillet (1897) 12 App. Cas. 439 as follows:—"Her Majesty will not review criminal proceedings unless it be shown that by a disregard of the forms of legal process or by some violation of the principles of natural justice, or otherwise, substantial and grave injustice has been done." This principle has been repeatedly affirmed and acted upon by the Privy Council, Dinanzulu v. Attorney General of Zululand, 61 L. T. 750; ex parte Curlew (1897) A. C. 719; in re McCrea (1893) A. C. 346; ex parte Deeming (1892) A. C. 422 (P.C.). The applicant ought to fully inform the Board of the facts and show that the case comes within the rule laid down in Dillet's case, E. v. Birch 15 C. W. N. LXI = (1911) 2 M. W. N. 159. In the latest case on the point, E. v. Channing Arnold, where the accused was convicted by the Burma Chief Court of the offence of defaming a Magistrate, and special leave to appeal was applied for, on the ground that a grave miscarriage of justice had occurred owing to serious misdirections in the charge to the jury on the law of defamation, the Lord Chancellor in giving special leave observed as follows:—"In these cases, it is not their Lordships' practice to invite any detailed argument for the respondent, for the very obvious reason that their Lordships may go into arguments which may prejudice the hearing. Our present object is two-fold—that the case that is raised is a case which comes within what was laid down by this Board in Dillet's case that the allegations, quite apart from their truth or otherwise, do amount to a disregard of the forms of legal process or some violation of the principles of natural justice which may cause substantial injustice. We think that if the case is made out, it would come within that rule, so that there is a case in which we consider we have jurisdiction. We express no opinion of any sort or kind about it, except that, it being a case of a type in which we may give leave to appeal, we think there has been enough said to make it right that there should be further inquiry." 17 C. W. N. CXXIII. But no leave will be granted for mere violation of a technical rule of procedure, R. v. Murphy, L. R. 2 P. C. 35; nor in every case of misdirection, in re McCrea (1893) A. C. 346, nor where more than three years have elapsed since the expiration of the sentence on the petitioner and there was no prima facie case of miscarriage of justice, Badger v. Attorney General of New Zealand, 97 L. T. 521, nor in the region of fact, unless something gross, amounting to a misdescription of the whole bearing of the evidence has occurred, Arnold v. R. (1914) A. C. 844 = 41 C. 1023; nor against a conviction for murder where it was alleged that the jury had been in communication during the trial with persons who were not their custodians, Armstrong v. R., 30 T. L. R. 215 (P.C.), nor on the ground of admission of evidence of a statement by the prisoner, when in custody, in reply to a question by his superior officer, if such admission has not caused any miscarriage of justice, Abraham v. R. (1914) A. C. 399; nor where there is sufficient evidence for the jury and no fact is established sufficient to countervail the findings and verdict, ex parte Aldred 1892 A. C. 81; Clifford v. L., 40 L. A. 231 (P.C.) = 41 C. 563. See also Tshingumuzi v. Attorney General for Natal, 1908 A. C. 243; Reg. v. Marus, 1902 A. C. 51. As to conditions and circumstances under which appeals have been and might be allowed to the Privy Council, see 10 B. H. C. R. 75; 1 W. R. 13 (P.C.); 15 C. 608 footnote, 15 A. 310; L. R. 1897 A. C. 719; L. R. 12 A. C. 459; 8 C. W. N. LXIII; 23 M. 61 (P.C.); 32 C. 1. Recently the Privy Council granted special leave in a case where the appellant was convicted of abetment of the murder of his daughter in law and sentenced to death by a Court who heard the case on appeal differed in opinion with a third Judge who confirmed the sentence, in re 23 Bom. L. R. 159 it was held that neither the refusal of the Governor General to transfer the case under section 527, nor the adequacy or the inadequacy of the Judge's charge to the jury, does amount to a disregard of the forms of legal process or violation of the principles of natural justice, to warrant the granting of a special leave to appeal. See also 27 Bom. L. R. 704; 27 Bom. L. R. 143.

4. Principles which guide the Privy Council in dealing with criminal appeals.—"Lord Watson in Dillet's case observed that the rule had been repeatedly laid down, and has been invariably followed, that Her Majesty will not review or interfere with the course of criminal proceedings unless it is shown that, by a disregard of the forms of legal process or by some violation of the principles of natural justice, or otherwise, substantial and grave injustice, has been done. The present case brings prominently before the Board the question of what is the sense in which those words are to be interpreted. If they are to be interpreted in the sense that wherever there has been misdirection in any criminal case, leaving it uncertain whether that misdirection did or did not affect the jury's mind, then in such cases a miscarriage of justice could be affirmed or assumed then the result would be to convert the Judicial Committee into a Court of Criminal Review for the Indian and Colonial Empire. Their Lordships are clearly of opinion that no such proposition is sound. This Committee is not a Court of Criminal Appeal. It may in general be stated that its practice is to the following effect. It is not guided by its own doubts of the appellant's innocence or suspicion of his guilt. It will not interfere with the course of criminal law unless there has been such an interference with the elementary rights of an accused as had placed him outside of the pale of regular law or, within that pale there has been a violation of the natural principles of justice so demonstratively manifest as to convince their Lordships first, that the result arrived at was opposite to the result which their Lordships would themselves have reached and secondly that the same opposite result would have been reached by the local tribunal also if the alleged defect or misdirection had been avoided. The limited nature of the appeal in Dillet's case has been referred to and their Lordships do not think that its authority goes beyond those propositions which have now been enunciated. (1914) A. C. 644—41 C. 1023 (P.C.). The Judicial Committee acquitted the accused who had been sentenced to death in the case reported in 36 M. 501 (P.C.) immediately after hearing the arguments, stating that full judgment would be delivered later on as they were of opinion that in that case owing in the main to the reception of wholly inadmissible evidence the use made of that evidence when admitted to the grave prejudice of the accused coupled with the absence of all reliable evidence of the appellant's guilt substantial and grave injustice had been done in convicting the appellant of the crime of which he had been convicted and therefore the conviction could not stand and that the case came well within the principles laid down in Dillet's case. It was a case of a subject being sentenced to death upon no evidence at all. See also Louis Edouard Lanier 18 C. W. N. 98 (P.C.), Clifford 41 C. 568 (P.C.) and Ibrahim v. L. 18 C. W. N. 705 (P.C.), for principles guiding the Privy Council in granting leave to appeal.

5 Costs between subject and the Crown.—In 36 M. 501 (P.C.) when it was asked that the Crown should be directed to pay the costs of the successful accused their Lordships said that they would adhere to the rule laid down in Johnson v. R. 1904 A. C. 817, at 824, viz. 'in future the Board will adhere to the practice of the House of Lords and the rule as to costs in cases between the Crown and the subject will be that the Crown neither pay nor receives costs unless the case is governed by some local statute or there are exceptional circumstances justifying a departure from the ordinary rule. Though the above was not a criminal case, the rule was laid down broadly there and their Lordships did not know on what principle costs should be awarded as against the Crown. See also Archbold pp. 149-150 (1910 edn.). In the case of Louis Edouard Lanier, 18 C. W. N. 98 (P.C.) their Lordships having regard to the special circumstances of the case, awarded costs to the successful appellant as against the Crown.

* 42. And We do further ordain that in all cases of appeal made from any judgment order sentence or decree of the said High Court of Judicature at Madras to Us Our heirs or successors in Our or Their Privy Council such High Court shall certify and transmit to Us Our heirs and successors in Our or Their Privy Council a true and correct copy of all evidence proceedings judgments decrees and orders had or made in such cases appealed so far as the same have relation to the matters of appeal such copies to be certified under the seal of the said High Court. And that the said High Court shall also certify and transmit to Us Our heirs and successors in Our or Their Privy Council a copy of the reasons given by the Judges of such Court, or by any of such Judges for or against the judgment or determination appealed against. And We do further ordain that the said High Court shall in all cases of appeal to Us Our heirs or successors conform to and execute, or cause to be executed such judgments and orders as We Our heirs or successors in Our or Their Privy Council shall think fit to make in the premises in such manner as any original judgment decree or decretal order or other order or rule of the said High Court, should or might have been executed.

* 44. And We do further ordain and declare that all the provisions of these Our Letters Patent are subject to the legislative powers of the Governor-General in Council exercised at meeting for the purpose of making laws and regulations and also of the Governor-General in cases of emergency under the provisions of an Act of the Twenty fourth and Twenty fifth Years of our Reign chapter sixty-seven and may be in all respects amended and altered thereby.

Letters Patent are subject to the enactments of the Governor-General in Council

AN ACT TO CONSOLIDATE AND AMEND THE LAW RELATING TO THE EXTRADITION AND RENDITION OF CRIMINALS

Whereas it is expedient to provide for the more convenient administration of British India of the Extradition Acts 1870 and 1873 and of the Fugitive Offenders Act 1881

And whereas it is also expedient to amend the Law relating to the extradition of criminals in cases to which the Extradition Acts, 1870 and 1873 do not apply.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I

PRELIMINARY

When the Act is in force

1. 1 This Act may be cited the Indian Extradition Act, 1903

(2) I extend to the whole of British India (including British Baluchistan, the Sindh Pargana and the Pargana of Dacca) and

3. I shall come into force on and from the 1st day of January 1904, by notification in the Gazette of India and direct

Notes.—1. British India.—For definition see s. 4 (f) and Notes thereunder

2. Scope of the Act.—The Indian Extradition Act, 1870 (33 and 34 Vict. c. 33) as amended by subsequent Acts of 1873, 1894 and 1896 and the Indian Extradition Act, XV of 1903 as amended by Act I of 1913 relate only to the surrender to Foreign and Native States of criminals of such States taking refuge in British Territory and the corresponding way about the demands made versus British Governments on Foreign or Native States for the surrender of criminals as the procedure therefor is regulated by the Treaty Conventions and arrangements entered into with Foreign and Native States and also by usage. It is now held in A. I. R. 1934 Nag 313 that Extradition to British H.E.H. the Nizam, Dairatons and Berar is governed by the Extradition Treaty of 1857 and not by the Extradition Act, and that there is no necessity of a warrant from the Political Agent, Hyderabad, and that there is no time laid down for such Extradition. If matters of fact, the Magistrate has no power to try to try an accused person even under the Extradition Act except under section 4 (1) and (2).

Definitions. 2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context—

(a) "European British subject" means a European British subject as defined by the Code of Criminal Procedure for the time being in force

(b) "Extradition offence" means any offence as is described in the first schedule

33 and 34 Vict. c. 33
36 and 37 Vict. c. 36

(c) "Foreign State" means a State to which, for the time being the Extradition Act, 1870 and 1873 apply

(d) "High Court" means the High Court as denoted by the Code of Criminal Procedure for the time being in force

(e) "Offence" includes any act whatsoever committed which would be committed in British India constitute an offence and

(f) "Rule" includes prescribed forms

Notes.—1. European British Subject.—For definition see s. 4 (f) and Notes thereunder

2. Offence.—In 25 M. 607 it was held by WHITE C.J., that the word "offence" as used in s. 4 (c) of the Extradition Act of 1870 is not restricted to offences as denoted by s. 49 IPC, nor is it restricted to the definition of "offence" in s. 410 of the Criminal Procedure Code, which is the same as that contained in the Criminal Code Act, 1897. In this case it was held that a Justice of the Peace appointed under the Extradition Act of 1870 in and for the territories of Mysore had jurisdiction to try or to commit for trial to the Madras High Court, a European British subject charged with an offence under the Mysore Mysore Regulation, but which was not an offence under the Indian Penal Code. See also Notes to s. 4 Cr P C.

3. Foreign State.—Chandragore is a foreign state as denoted by s. 2 (c) of the Indian Extradition Act and the provisions of Chapter II thereof must be followed before a native offender can be surrendered to the French authorities. 43 Cal. 321.

CHAPTER II¹

SURRENDER OF FUGITIVE CRIMINALS IN CASE OF FOREIGN STATES

3. (1) Where a requisition is made to the Government of India or to any Local Government by the Government of any Foreign State for the surrender of a fugitive criminal of that State who is in or who is suspected of being in British India the Government of India or the Local Government as the case may be may if it thinks fit issue an order to any Magistrate who would have had jurisdiction to inquire into the crime if it had been an offence committed within the local limits of his jurisdiction directing him to inquire into the case

Request on for surrender

(2) The Magistrate so directed shall issue a summons or warrant for the arrest of the fugitive criminal according as the case appears to be one in which a summons or warrant would ordinarily issue

arrest

(3) When such criminal appears or is brought before the Magistrate the Magistrate shall inquire into the case in the same manner and have the same jurisdiction and powers as nearly as may be, as if the case were one triable by the Court of Session or High Court, and shall take such evidence as may be produced in support of the requisition and on behalf of the fugitive criminal including any evidence to show that the crime of which such criminal is accused or alleged to have been convicted is an offence of a political character or is not an extradition crime

Inquiry by Magistrate

(4) If the Magistrate is of opinion that a prima facie case is made out in support of the requisition he may commit the fugitive criminal to prison to await the orders of the Government of India or the Local Government as the case may be.

Committal

(5) If the Magistrate is of opinion that a prima facie case is not made out in support of the requisition or if the case is one which is bailable under the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure for the time being in force the Magistrate may release the fugitive criminal on bail

(6) The Magistrate shall report the result of his inquiry to the Government of India or the Local Government, as the case may be and shall forward together with such report any written statement which the fugitive criminal may desire to submit for the consideration of the Government.

Magistrate's report

tion of the Government.

(7) If the Government of India or the Local Government, as the case may be is of opinion that such report or written statement raises an important question of law, it may make an order referring such question of law, to such High Court as may be named in the order and the fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered until such question has been decided.

Reference to High Court
if Government thinks necessary

(8) If, upon receipt of such report and statement or upon the decision of any such question the Government of India or the Local Government, as the case may be, is of opinion that the fugitive criminal ought to be surrendered, it may issue a warrant for the custody and removal of such criminal and for his delivery at a place and to a person to be named in the warrant.

Warrant for surrender removal of such criminal and for his delivery at a place and to a person to be named in the warrant.

(9) It shall be lawful for any person to whom a warrant is directed in pursuance of sub-section (8), to receive, hold in custody and convey the person mentioned in the warrant, to the place named in the warrant and, if such person escapes out of any custody to which he may be delivered in pursuance of such warrant, he may be re-taken as a person accused of an offence against the law of British India may be re-taken upon an escape.

Lawfulness of custody and re-taking under warrant for surrender

(10) If such a warrant as is prescribed by sub-section (8) is not issued and executed in the case of any fugitive criminal who has been committed to prison under sub-section (4) within two months after such committal, the High Court may upon application made to it on behalf of such fugitive criminal, and upon proof that reasonable notice of the intention to make such application has been given to the Government of India or the Local Government as the case may be, order such criminal to be discharged unless sufficient cause is shown to the contrary

Discharge of fugitive criminal committed to prison after two months.

Government as the case may be, order such criminal to be discharged unless sufficient cause is shown to the contrary

Notes—1 Competency of Magistrate to take proceedings.—The competency of a Magistrate to hold an inquiry under this section depends on the authorization of the Executive Government. The words "local limits" in sub-section (1) do not refer to the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate selected by Government to conduct the inquiry, for "any Magistrate" may be so authorized if he be a first-class Magistrate or a Magistrate empowered by the Local Government in that behalf 39 C. 547 at p. 551. A Magistrate is not disqualified merely because the accused resided beyond the limits of his jurisdiction 39 C. 164. See 4 C. 31.

2 Illegality of arrest will not vitiate extradition proceedings.—Any irregularity in the original arrest is immaterial such as the want of a warrant or the absence of the fugitive within the local limits of the Magistrate's jurisdiction at the time of the issue of the warrant, provided that the subsequent proceedings are right, 39 C. 164, where R v. Hall, 9 Q. B. D. 701 is followed. The substantial question is not how the accused was brought before the Court [but whether the Court which inquired into his case had jurisdiction to do so. See also 35 B. 225, Reg v. Lopez 1853, Dearley and Bell, 52.

3. Magistrate cannot discharge.—Under this section, the Magistrate has no jurisdiction to discharge the fugitive. Under the English Act, however, the Police Magistrate has power to discharge.

4. Irregularities in the inquiry of the Magistrate.—More irregularities in the proceedings of the Magistrate which are unimportant in regard to the sufficiency of the proceedings are not reviewable, but where the objections are to the reception of evidence which it allowed would leave no residuum of evidence upon which the report of the Magistrate could be supported, the proceedings may be questioned. Per Mookerjee, J., in 39 C. 164.

5. Magistrate must give reasonable opportunity to accused to produce evidence.—A Magistrate who conducts an inquiry under sub-section (3) is bound to afford reasonable opportunity to the person arrested to produce his evidence and if he decline to do so, he fails to conduct the inquiry in the mode prescribed by the Legislature and the result is that the issue of a warrant upon such inquiry is invalid. 39 C. 164.

6. Competency of Government to issue warrant.—The only Government competent to issue the order for inquiry under sub-section (1) is the Government to whom the Foreign State has made the requisition for surrender of the fugitive criminal. Where therefore, a requisition has been made to the Government of India, that Government alone is competent to issue the order for inquiry to the Magistrate and that power cannot be delegated to any Local Government 39 C. 164.

7. Government must strictly comply with statutory provisions.—The Government when it issues a warrant for surrender under sub-section (8) does so in exercise of a statutory authority, such power can be exercised validly only after strict compliance with the necessary preliminary provisions formulated by the Legislature in this very Act. Consequently, if the provisions of the Act have been contravened, the action of the Government may be successfully challenged even though the warrant for surrender may have been already issued. The jurisdiction of the Court is not ousted merely because the Government has issued a warrant. 39 C. 164.

8 High Court has no jurisdiction to revise proceedings of Magistrates under the Extradition Act.—Section 15 of the Charter Act gives the High Court "superintendence over all Courts which may be subject to its appellate jurisdiction." The District Magistrate acting under the Extradition Act is not subject to any appellate jurisdiction; he makes inquiry and reports the result to Government; his powers are specially conferred for the limited purposes of the Act. No appeal lies to the High Court from the decision which any Magistrate may arrive at under the Act. The High Court cannot, therefore, revise the proceedings of Magistrates under ss. 3 and 4 of this Act 39 C. 547; 38 C. 550 (footnote). See also 39 C. 164 and 19 C. W. N. 221 = 21 C. L. J. 68 = 16 Cr. L. J. 31.

9 High Court has jurisdiction under s. 491, Cr. P. C., to examine legality of extradition proceedings.—The High Court has jurisdiction under s. 491 to give a direction in the nature of Habeas Corpus and to examine whether a person detained in public custody under this Act is legally detained. The High Court however, will not sit in appeal to review and weigh the evidence, if there should be some evidence of the offence upon which the Magistrate may reasonably act. If there is no evidence the High Court will interfere 39 C. 164. The absence of jurisdiction in the High Court to interfere in revision with the orders passed by Magistrates in execution of the warrant issued by a Political Agent, does not in any way conflict with its power to interfere otherwise than by revision. The power of the Court to interfere under s. 491 of the Code is untouched, as that is a power not created by this Act or exercisable by way of revision but vested in Presidency Courts to protect the liberty of the subject in appropriate cases whatever may be the occasion of deprivation of which complaint is made. 19 C. W. N. 221 = 21 C. L. J. 58 = 16 Cr. L. J. 31

10. High Court has power to direct bail.—The High Court has the fullest discretion having regard to the provisions relating to bail in the Criminal Procedure Code by which the matter must be regulated, to allow bail to a prisoner against whom proceedings under this Act are pending. 15 C. W. N. 736 = 12 Cr. L. J. 358

11. High Court not competent to transfer inquiry from one Magistrate to another.—As the competency of a Magistrate to hold an inquiry under s. 14 of the Extradition Act XXI of 1879 (corresponding to s. 3 of this Act) depends on the authorization of the Executive Government the High Court has no power to order the transfer of the inquiry. 33 C. 550 (footnote) = 15 C. W. N. 735. See 46 C. 31

12. Proceedings under s. 3 do not overlap proceedings under s. 4. See Note 1 under s. 4 infra.

4. (1) Where it appears to any Magistrate of the first class or any Magistrate specially empowered by the Local Government in this behalf that a person within the local limits of his jurisdiction is a fugitive criminal of a Foreign State he may if he thinks fit issue a warrant for the arrest of such person on such information or complaint and on such evidence as would, in his opinion justify the issue of a warrant if the crime of which he is accused or has been convicted had been committed within the local limits of his jurisdiction.

Power to Magistrate to issue warrant of arrest in certain cases

Issue of warrant to be reported forthwith

(2) The Magistrate shall forthwith report the issue of a warrant under this section to the Local Government.

Person arrested not to be detained unless order received

(3) A person arrested on a warrant issued under this section shall not be detained more than two months unless within that period the Magistrate receives an order made with reference to such person under section 3 sub-section (1)

(4) In the case of a person arrested or detained under this section the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure for the time being in force relating to bail shall apply in the same manner as if such person were accused of committing in British India the crime of which he is accused or has been convicted.

Notes.—1 Scope of Section.—This section does not contemplate any inquiry, it provides for ad interim arrest of the alleged fugitive criminal so as to render effective the proceedings under s. 3, when they are subsequently instituted. An arrest under s. 4 may be effected before the receipt of the requisition from a Foreign Government mentioned in s. 3 otherwise the criminal might escape if the receipt of the requisition in the usual diplomatic way had to be waited in every case. The two sections do not overlap each other, as soon as arrest has been effected under this section and the question of bail or detention has been determined, its operation for all purposes is exhausted. There is no conceivable reason why thereafter a proceeding under s. 3 should not be instituted. 39 C. 164.

2 Procedure for extradition to Foreign States.—The English Statute of 1870 (33 and 34 Vict., c. 52), as amended 1 regulates the surrender to Foreign States of fugitives running away from the United Kingdom and British Possessions not specially excepted. The offence must be extraditable under the Act and be included in the treaty. See Ch. II of this Act.

There are two ways of making the application. Firstly—demand for extradition is addressed to Government which if the application is an order and evidence sufficient, will require the Magistrate concerned to issue warrant for apprehension of fugitive. Document accompanying requisition together with the warrant of Foreign State, will be sent to the Magistrate along with Government order. The fugitive on arrest will be brought before the Magistrate issuing the warrant. Secondly in cases of urgency a first-class Magistrate of a Presidency Magistrate in Madras may issue under s. 4 (1) of the Indian Extradition Act of 1903 on such information or complaint and on such evidence as would justify the issue of a warrant if crime of which the fugitive is accused or has been convicted had been committed within his jurisdiction. A sworn information by a reasonable suspicion of commission of crime and guilt of accused should be required before issue of warrant and the information must purport to be based upon a letter or telegram from a diplomatic, judicial or public authority of the State, stating the offence charged, the issue of warrant for fugitives arrest and that extradition will be demanded. The Magistrate should report to Government through District or Chief Presidency Magistrate the fact of issue of provisional warrant together with copies of evidence and information and the fugitive so arrested should not be detained for more than two months unless in the interval the Magistrate receives the order of Government as stated in the foregoing paragraph. An arrest otherwise than under s 3 (2) or s 4 (1) of this Act must not be had except in the most urgent and exceptional cases and if a person is so arrested under the ordinary law a warrant under s 4 (1) should be obtained at the earliest opportunity. The Magistrate must after arrest under s 3 (2) or s 4 (1) of the Act proceed as provided in s 3 (3)—(5) and submit a report to Government as required by sub-section (6) through the District Magistrate or the Chief Presidency Magistrate. After commitment to jail a prisoner should not be released except on Government order under s 3 (8) or s 5 or upon discharge in High Court under s 3 (10) of the Act and such order of discharge will be issued only when proceedings against the fugitive are delayed. Magistrates and Police-officers should therefore take special care that a discharge is not made through their neglect or default. In cases where foreign fugitives take refuge in any Native State in India the demand will be made to Government which if it is justified by the treaty with the State will instruct the Resident or Political Agent to obtain offender's arrest and surrender him. A full statement of the expenses incurred for arrest and detention should be submitted by the Magistrate to Government whether the proceedings terminated in the ultimate release or surrender of the accused. See Madras Extradition Manual, 1911

Power of Government to refuse to issue order under section 3 when crime of political character

5 (1) If the Government of India or any Local Government is of opinion that the crime of which any fugitive criminal of a Foreign State is accused or alleged to have been convicted is of a political character it may if it think fit refuse to issue any order under section 3 sub-section (1).

Power of Government to discharge any person in custody at any time

(2) The Government of India or the Local Government may also at any time stay any proceedings taken under this Chapter and direct any warrant issued under this Chapter to be cancelled and the person for whose arrest such warrant has been issued to be discharged.

References to Police Magistrate and Secretary of State in section 3 of Extradition Act 1870 and 34 of 1912

6 The expressions 'the Police Magistrate' and 'the Secretary of State' in section 3 of the Extradition Act 1870 shall be read as referring respectively to the Magistrate directed to inquire into a case under section 3 of this Act and to the Government of India or the Local Government as the cases may be.

CHAPTER III

SURRENDER OF FUGITIVE CRIMINALS IN CASE OF STATES OTHER THAN FOREIGN STATES

7* (1) Where an extradition offence has been committed or is supposed to have been committed by a person not being an European British subject in the territories of any State not being a Foreign State and such person escapes into or is in British India and the Political Agent in or for such State issues a warrant addressed to the District Magistrate of any district in which such person is believed to be † or if such person is believed to be in any Presidency town to the Chief Presidency Magistrate of such town for his arrest and delivery at a place and to a person or authority indicated in the warrant such Magistrate shall act in pursuance of such warrant and may give directions accordingly.

(2) A warrant issued as mentioned in sub-section (1) shall be executed in the manner provided by the law for the time being in force with reference to the execution of warrants and the accused person when arrested shall † be produced before the District Magistrate or Chief Presidency Magistrate as the case may be who shall record any statement made by him such accused if all then unless released in accordance with the provisions of this Act, be forwarded to the place and delivered to the person or authority indicated in the warrant.

* The Political Agent may issue a warrant for the arrest and surrender of any person accused of having done in any State against the law of that State an act which would if done in any part of British India be a crime under the Criminal Tribes Act XXI of 1871 or in force in the constituted an offence against any of the provisions of the latter Act (Gazette of India 1899 Pt. I, p. 1195).

- (3) The provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure for the time being in force in relation to proclamation and attachment in the case of persons absconding shall with any necessary modifications apply where any warrant has been received by a District Magistrate * or Chief Presidency Magistrate under this section as if the warrant had been issued by himself

Proclamation and attachment in case of persons absconding

Notes.—See ss 70—86 Cr P C as to issue of warrant of arrest ss 87—89 as to proclamation and attachment

1 Section applies to Presidency Towns.—The words "Chief Presidency Magistrate" were newly inserted in this section in order to remove doubts as to the applicability of the provisions of this section to the execution of warrants in the Presidency towns and to empower the Chief Presidency Magistrate to execute such warrants in the Presidency towns.—Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Bill (a) Extradition warrant must be signed by the Political Agent.—A warrant of extradition signed by the Assistant British Envoy of Nepal Court is not a valid warrant when that officer is not empowered as a Political Agent within the meaning of section 7 of Indian Extradition Act. 25 Cr L J. 687 = 81 I C 175

2 Rules framed by the Governor General in Council regulating procedure and prescribing forms.—

(1) The Political Agent shall not issue a warrant under this section in any case which is provided for by treaty, if the State concerned has expressly stated that it desires to abide by the procedure of the treaty, nor in any case in which a requisition for surrender has been made by or on behalf of the State under s 9 infra

(2) The Political Agent shall not issue a warrant under this section except on a request preferred to him in writing either by or by the authority of the person for the time being administering the executive government of the State for which he is a Political Agent, or by any Court within such State which has been specified in this behalf by the Governor-General in Council or by the Governor of Madras or Bombay in Council as the case may be by notification in the Official Gazette

(3) If the accused person is a British subject the Political Agent shall before issuing a warrant under this section consider whether he ought not to certify the case as one suitable for trial in British India and he shall instead of issuing such a warrant to certify the case if he is satisfied that the interests of justice and the convenience of the witnesses can better be served by the trial being held in British India. See 6 B 622

(4) The Political Agent shall in all cases before issuing a warrant under this section satisfy himself by preliminary inquiry or otherwise that there is a prima facie case against the accused person

(5) (i) The Political Agent shall before issuing a warrant under this section decide whether the warrant shall provide for the delivery of the accused person—(i) to the Political Agent or to a British officer subordinate to the Political Agent or (ii) to an authority of the State with a view to his trial by the State Courts

(6) Before coming to a decision the Political Agent shall take the following matters into consideration—(i) the nature of the offence charged (ii) the delay and trouble involved in bringing the accused person before himself (iii) the judicial qualification of the Courts of the State (iv) whether the accused person is a British subject or not and if he is a British (other than a European British) subject whether the Courts of the State by custom or by recognition try such British subjects surrendered to them (v) whether the Courts of the State have by custom or by recognition powers to inflict the punishment which may be inflicted under the Indian Penal Code for an offence similar to that with which the accused person is charged.

(7) Notwithstanding anything in rule 5 the Political Agent shall make the warrant provide for the delivery of the accused person to himself or to an officer subordinate to himself or to an authority of the State concerned as the case may be if he is generally or specially instructed by the Governor-General in Council, or by an accused person himself or to make him over for trial to the proper Courts of such State.

(8) In the case of an accused person made over for trial to the Court of the State the Political Agent shall satisfy himself that the accused receives a fair trial and that the punishment inflicted on conviction is not excessive or barbarous and if he is not so satisfied he shall demand the restoration of the prisoner to His Majesty pending the orders of the Governor-General in Council (As to trial for an offence other than that for which extradited see 17 B. 269 at p. 374 and 375 and ss. 227 and 337 Cr P C)

(8) A return of all persons made over for trial to the Courts of the State shall be submitted half yearly by the Political Agent to the Government of India or to the Government of Madras or Bombay, as the case may be in the following form —

Number	Name of the person	Nationality	Offence for which charged.	Where arrested	Date of surrender	Native State to which surrendered for trial	Reasons for surrender	Name of sentence passed.	REMARKS.
--------	--------------------	-------------	----------------------------	----------------	-------------------	---	-----------------------	--------------------------	----------

(9) Accused persons arrested in British India on warrant issued under this section or s 9 infra shall be treated as far as possible in the same way as persons under trial in British India.

(10) A person sentenced to imprisonment by a Political Agent shall if a British subject be conveyed to the most convenient prison under British Administration and shall there be dealt with as though he had been sentenced under the Local Law.

Provided always that this rule shall not be constructed so as to give such person any right of appeal other than that allowed by the rule for the time being in force regulating appeals from the Political Agent. [Gazette of India 1904 Pt I p 364] See s 22 infra as to power to make rules.

3 Extradition to Native States.—Chapter III (ss 7—18) of this Act, together with the rules framed under s 22 regulates the procedure to be followed in British India upon the receipt of requisition for surrender of criminals who have fled from justice out of a Native State into British India. The provisions of subsisting treaties with Native States are however preserved by s 18 but as there are no treaty obligations regarding the five Native States under political control of the Madras Government and there is no treaty with Mysore and Hyderabad has by agreement of 1887 waived its right to the procedure prescribed by the treaty of 1887 in favour of that laid down by the Extradition Act, the procedure in Chapter III of this Act, should therefore be followed in all these cases. Regarding other Native States in India reference should be made to Aitchison Treatise etc. to ascertain if there are subsisting treaties with them to govern the procedure. Where there is no subsisting treaty a Native State can under their Act obtain the surrender of its fugitive in two ways—(i) by applying under s 7 to the Political Agent who is authorized to comply in cases of grave offences set out in Schedule I to the said Act or (ii) by making a requisition to Government under s 9 where the offence is of a political character or is not an extradition crime. Action under the latter section should not be taken unless specially pressed for and should the Durbar desire to proceed under s 9 the Political Agent should forward the requisition for orders of Government with a report of the circumstances of the case and his own recommendation as to whether the Durbar's request should be granted or refused and then the question whether extradition should be granted is one entirely for disposal by Government.—See Madras Extradition Manual 1911

4 Preliminary inquiry by District Magistrate not a condition precedent to execution of warrant.—There is no provision in this Act making an inquiry by a competent British Court in British India into the truth of the accusation whether in the presence of the accused or otherwise a condition precedent to the issue and execution of the warrant of the Political Agent under this section.—Per ASTON J in 7 Bom L R 463 = 2 Cr L J 439 See also 41 C 400

5 Accused should be present.—In all cases where inquiries are held by Magistrates with a view of extraditing accused persons it would be desirable that they should if possible be present thereat.—Per RUSSELL J ibid

6 Warrant of Political Agent not open to revision.—In 36 P W R 1908 = 3 P R 1909 = 9 Cr L J 3, the Punjab Chief Court held that it had no power to interfere in respect of a warrant issued by a Political Agent of a Native State under s 7 of the Act on the grounds either (1) that there is no prima facie case against the petitioner or (2) that the circumstances under which that officer was originally moved do not justify him exercising his power under the said section. See also 19 C W N 221 = 21 C L J 68 See 7 Lah 159

7 Proceedings of Magistrates on a warrant issued by the Political Agent not open to revision.—When a warrant is issued by the Political Agent under s 7 its execution by the District Magistrate in accordance with the provisions of the Act is an executive act and the High Court cannot interfere in revision with such execution. If the fugitive criminal arrested considers himself aggrieved he can invoke the action of the Government under s 15. 19 C W N 221 = 21 C L J 68 = 16 Cr L J 31

8. Political Agent cannot issue warrant after certifying under s. 188 of the Code.—Where a Political Agent has issued a certificate under s. 188 of the Code that the accused should be tried in British India, it is not open to him to recall the certificate and direct the accused to be handed over to the Native States for trial 14 Bom. L. R. 377 = 1 Bom. Cr. G. 140 = 13 Cr. L. J. 837.

9 When High Court will revise orders purporting to be made under the Act.—See Note 2 to s. 15 supra.

8. (1) Where a Political Agent has directed by endorsement on any such warrant that the person for whose arrest it is issued may be released on executing a bond with sufficient sureties for his attendance before a person or authority indicated in this behalf in the warrant at a specified time and place the Magistrate to whom the warrant is addressed shall on such security being given release such person from custody

Release on any ne security

Magistrate to retain bond.

(2) Where security is taken under this section the Magistrate shall certify the fact to the Political Agent who issued the warrant and shall retain the bond.

(3) If the person bound by any such bond does not appear at the time and place specified the Magistrate may, on being satisfied as to his default, issue a warrant directing that he be re-arrested and handed over to any person authorized by the Political Agent to take him into custody

Re-arrest in case of default

(4) In the case of any bond executed under this section the Magistrate may exercise the powers conferred by the Code of Criminal Procedure for the time being in force (in relation, to taking a deposit in lieu of the execution of a bond and with respect to the forfeiture of bonds and the discharge of sureties).

Deposit in lieu of bond and forfeiture of bonds.

Notes.—1 Jurisdiction of Magistrate to hold the arrested person to bail to appear before a tribunal in a Foreign State.—A Magistrate could bind over the prisoner to appear before himself and then when the prisoner has surrendered to his bail after receiving the warrant from the Political Agent to the State could proceed to execute it under s. 7 cl. (2) supra or if the warrant had been duly endorsed by the Political Agent under sub-sec. (1) of this section could bind the prisoner over to appear at the time and place indicated in the warrant. Neither the Code of Criminal Procedure nor this Act authorizes a Magistrate to hold a person to bail to appear before a tribunal in a Foreign State to which the Act applies. 33 C. 1032. See 20 Bom. L. R. 1009

2. Jurisdiction of Magistrate to release arrested person on bail, without endorsement by Political Agent.—Where a person was arrested upon a warrant issued by a Political Agent and the Magistrate released him on bail and directed him to appear before the Political Agent on a date specified although there was no endorsement on the warrant giving the Magistrate power to pass such an order held that in the absence of such endorsement, the order of the Magistrate was one passed without jurisdiction 12 C. W. N. 802 = 7 C. L. J. 171 = 7 Cr. L. J. 198. See 20 Bom. L. R. 1009

8A *Notwithstanding anything contained in section 7, sub section (2) or in section 8 when an accused person arrested in accordance with the provisions of section 7 is produced before the District Magistrate or Chief Presidency Magistrate as the case may be and the statement (if any) of such accused person has been recorded such Magistrate may, if he thinks fit before proceeding further report the case to the Local Government and pending the receipt of orders on such report may detain such accused person in custody or release him on his executing a bond with sufficient sureties for his attendance when required

Power to report case for orders of Local Government

9 Where a requisition is made to the Government of India or to any Local Government by or on behalf of any State not being a Foreign State for the surrender of any person accused of having committed an offence in the territories of such State such requisition shall (except in so far as relates to the taking of evidence to show that the offence is of a political character or is not an extradition crime) be dealt with in accordance with the procedure prescribed by s. 3 for requisitions made by the Government of any Foreign States as if it were a requisition made by any such Government under that section

Requisition by States not being Foreign States

Provided that if there is a Political Agent in or for any such State the requisition shall be made through such Political Agent.

10. (1) If it appears to any Magistrate of the first class or any Magistrate empowered by the Local Government in this behalf that a person within the local limits of his jurisdiction is accused or suspected of having committed an offence in any State not being a Foreign State and that such person may lawfully be surrendered to such State or that a warrant may be issued for his arrest under s. 7, the Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, issue a warrant for the arrest of such person on such information or complaint and on such evidence as would, in his opinion justify the issue of warrant if the offence had been committed within the local limits of his jurisdiction.

(2) The Magistrate shall forthwith report the issue of a warrant under this section if the offence appears or is alleged to have been committed in the territories of a State for which there is a Political Agent to such Political Agent and in other cases to the Local Government.

(3) A person arrested on a warrant issued under this section shall not without the special sanction of the Local Government be detained more than two months unless within such period the Magistrate receives in order made with reference to such person in accordance with the procedure prescribed by s. 9 or a warrant for the arrest of such person under s. 7.

(4) In the case of a person arrested or detained under this section the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure for the time being in force relating to bail shall apply in the same manner as if such person were accused of committing in British India the offence with which he is charged.

Notes.—1 Scope of Section.—This section confers on Magistrates in British India jurisdiction to make preliminary inquiries and to take evidence on the information given or complaint laid in regard to offences alleged to have been committed by Native Indian or British subjects of His Majesty, within and beyond the limits of British India not being in a Foreign State as defined in this Act and to order warrants to issue for the arrest of such accused persons. 8 Bom L.R. 507 = 4 Cr L.J. 49. This section applies only to cases if the warrant issued under s. 7 is legal but absconding from jail not being an offence mentioned in Schedule I of the Indian Extradition Act 1903 a warrant for arrest on such a charge does not fall within s. 7. In spite of certain powers of Government under s. 15 the High Court has jurisdiction to interfere in a case where action under the Act has not been taken under a valid warrant. Section 9 applies only when a requisition has been made to Government and not when a warrant has been addressed to the District Magistrate. 1 Patna 57. See s. 188 Cr P C. As to the effect of irregularity in issuing warrant, see Notes to s. 537, supra.

2 Police officer may arrest without warrant.—See s. 54 (7) Cr P C. and Notes thereto and see s. 23 infra.

11 (1) A person accused of an offence committed in British India not being the offence for which his surrender is asked or undergoing sentence under any conviction in British India, shall not be surrendered in compliance with a warrant issued by a Political Agent under s. 7 or a requisition made by or on behalf of any State not being a Foreign State under s. 9 except on the condition that such person be re-surrendered to the Government of India or the Local Government, as the case may be on the termination of his trial for the offence for which his surrender has been asked.

Provided that no such condition shall be deemed to prevent or postpone the execution of a sentence of death lawfully passed.

(2) On the surrender of a person undergoing sentence under a conviction in British India, his sentence shall be deemed to be suspended until the date of his re-surrender, when it shall revive and have effect for the portion thereof which was unexpired at the time of his surrender.

12 The provisions of this Chapter with reference to accused persons shall with any necessary modifications apply to the case of a person who, having been convicted of an offence in the territories of any State not being a Foreign State, has escaped into or is in British India before his sentence has expired.

13. Every person who is accused or convicted of abetting or attempting to commit any offence shall be deemed for the purposes of this Chapter, to be accused or convicted of having committed such offence and shall be liable to be arrested and surrendered accordingly.

Abettor and attempt

14. It shall be lawful for any person to whom a warrant is directed in pursuance of the provisions of this Chapter to receive, hold in custody and convey the person mentioned in the warrant, to the place named in the warrant, and if such person escapes out of any custody to which he may be delivered in pursuance of such warrant, he may be retaken as a person accused of an offence against the law of British India may be retaken upon an escape.

15. The Government of India or the Local Government may, by order, stay any proceedings taken under this Chapter, and may direct any warrant issued under this Chapter to be cancelled and the person for whose arrest such warrant has been issued to be discharged.

Notes.—1. Ouster of the jurisdiction of the High Court.—This section ousts the jurisdiction of the High Court to inquire into the propriety of the warrant, but leaves open the question of the High Court's power to interfere with a Magistrate's action, if it is proved that such action was consequent upon a warrant issued by a Political Agent which was plainly illegal. 7 Bom. L. R. 463 = 2 Cr. L. J. 439. See also Note 4 to s. 7, supra.

2. High Court has general revisional powers to set aside illegal orders, purporting to be made under the Act.—S. 16 of the Act no doubt ousts the jurisdiction of the High Court to inquire into the propriety of a warrant issued under Chapter III, but where the order of the Magistrate is sought to be justified under an authority supposed to be derived from the law, but is, in fact, without jurisdiction, not being sanctioned by it, it cannot but be assumed that the Magistrate has acted in his general jurisdiction and as such, his order is liable to be set aside by the High Court in the exercise of its revisional powers, at the instance of the party whose liberty is affected by it. 7 Bom. L. R. 463 = 2 Cr. L. J. 439 and 21 P. R. 1888 approved, 41 C. 400. In this case one G, Nepalese subject was caused to be arrested by a Sub-Divisional Magistrate of M in British territory in pursuance of an inquiry from the Sub-Divisional Magistrate in Nepal, who required his arrest in connection with a murder committed in Nepal and promised to send proof of criminality and nationality. G was subsequently released on bail and on receipt of the evidence of criminality and nationality and after examining witnesses for the prosecution and the defence, the Sub-Divisional Magistrate of M directed the surrender of G to the Nepalese authorities. Held, on a reference by the Sessions Judge, that the order of the Magistrate was bad, (i) because the issue of warrant against G was on mere information without any evidence, and was contrary to the provisions of cl. (1) of s. 10 of this Act, (ii) because he did not report the issue of the warrant to the Political Agent in Nepal, under cl. (2) of s. 10, (iii) because the inquiry was made into the case without a warrant issued by the Political Agent for Nepal, as required by s. 7, (iv) and because he ordered the surrender of the fugitive on a procedure unknown to the Extradition Act. 41 C. 400.

16. The provisions of this Chapter shall apply to an offence or to an extradition offence, as the case may be, committed before the passing of this Act, and to an offence in respect of which a Court of British India has concurrent jurisdiction.

17. (i) In any proceedings under this Chapter, exhibits and depositions (whether received or taken in the presence of the person against whom they are used or not) and copies thereof, and official certificates of facts and judicial documents stating facts, may, if duly authenticated be received as evidence.

(2) Warrants, depositions or statements on oath which purport to have been issued, received or taken by any Court of Justice outside British India, or copies thereof and certificates of, or judicial documents stating the fact of conviction before any such Court, shall be deemed duly authenticated,—

(a) if the warrant purports to be signed by a Judge, Magistrate or officer of the State where the same was issued or acting in or for such State

(b) if the depositions or statements or copies thereof purport to be certified, under the hand of a Judge, Magistrate or officer of the State where the same were taken or acting in or for such State, to be the original depositions or statements or to be true copies thereof as the case may require

- (c) if the certificate of, or judicial document stating the fact of a conviction purports to be certificated by a Judge, Magistrate or officer of the State where the conviction took place or acting in or for such State—
- (d) if the warrants, depositions, copies, certificates and judicial documents, as the case may be, are authenticated by the oath of some witness or by the official seal of a minister of the State where the same were respectively issued, taken or given.

Definition of "warrant."

(3) For the purposes of this section, "warrant" includes any judicial document authorizing the arrest of any person accused or convicted of an offence.

18. Nothing in this Chapter shall derogate from the provisions of any treaty for the extradition of offenders, and the procedure provided by any such treaty shall be followed in any case to which it applies, and the provisions of this Act shall be modified accordingly

Chapter not to derogate from treaties

CHAPTER IV.*

RENDITION OF FUGITIVE OFFENDERS IN HIS MAJESTY'S DOMINIONS

Application of Fugitive Offenders Act 1881, 44 and 45 Vict. c. 69.

19. For the purpose of applying and carrying into effect in British India the provisions of the Fugitive Offenders' Act 1881, the following provisions are hereby made—

- (a) the powers conferred on 'Governors' of British possessions may be exercised by any Local Government,
- (b) the powers conferred on a 'Superior Court' may be exercised by any Judge of a High Court,
- (c) the powers conferred on a "Magistrate" may be exercised by any Magistrate of the first class or by any Magistrate empowered by the Local Government in that behalf, and
- (d) the offences committed in British India to which the Act applies, are piracy, treason and any offence punishable under the Indian Penal Code with rigorous imprisonment for a term of twelve months or more, or with any greater punishment.

CHAPTER V.

OFFENCES COMMITTED AT SEA

Requisition for surrender in case of offences committed at sea.

20. Where the Government of any State outside India makes a requisition for the surrender of a person accused of an offence committed on board any vessel on the high seas which comes into any port of British India, the Local Government and any Magistrate having jurisdiction in such port and authorized by the Local Government in this behalf may exercise the power conferred by this Act.

CHAPTER VI.

EXECUTION OF COMMISSIONS ISSUED BY CRIMINAL COURTS OUTSIDE BRITISH INDIA.

Execution of commissions issued by Criminal Courts outside British India.

21. The testimony of any witness may be obtained in relation to any criminal matter pending in any Court or tribunal in any country or place outside British India in like manner as it may be obtained in any civil matter under the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure for the time being in force with respect to commissions, and the provisions of that Code relating thereto shall be construed as if the term "suit" included a criminal proceeding.

Provided that this section shall not apply when the evidence is required for a Court or tribunal in any State outside India other than a British Court and the offence is of a political character.

CHAPTER VII

SUPPLEMENTAL

Power to make rules.

22. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules to carry out the purposes of this Act†

EXTRADITION RULES BETWEEN THE BRITISH AND FOREIGN POSSESSIONS IN INDIA.

I—British and French Indian Governments

1. By the tacit consent of both the contracting powers—the French and English Governments—the clause in the Convention of March 1915 relating to the extradition of Debtors has been treated as not in force and has not been acted on consequently it must be considered null and void. Further, although the 9th Article of the Treaty speaks of offences generally, the subsequent and uniform exposition of the Article, by the Acts and Declarations of the two Governments, has virtually put an interpretation to some extent upon the word offences so as to limit its meaning to offences of a grave character and to exclude from the operation of the treaty (a) mere petty local offences which would not necessarily be treated as criminal acts by the laws of both countries and (b) political offences. The Governor in Council resolves to give a general direction to all District Magistrates to surrender to the French Authorities all persons claimed by them, as fugitives from justice in respect of offences of a grave character. All felonies and all crimes described as “heinous” in the Fugitive Foreign Offenders Act No VII of 1834 would of course come within the category of grave offences. Other cases of grave offences might easily be suggested and where there is room for doubt, a reference to Government will be requisite before surrender is made, while a report of his proceedings in every case of surrender should be invariably made by the Magistrate with a view to his protection by the ratification of his act—(C O 14th March 1872, No 359 19th November, 1881, No 2391, and 18th January, 1887, No 89 Judicial.)

2. With reference to the above proceedings the several District Magistrates will in future submit the reports referred to at the close of para 4 of G O 14th March 1872 No 359 in a form containing the following particulars—

(1) Names of offenders (2) nature of offence (3) to what authority surrendered (4) date of surrender (5) remarks—(G O, 24th October 1888 No 2194 Judicial.)

3. It was pointed out in G O 14th March 1872 No 359 that although the 9th Article of the Treaty with France speaks of offences generally practice has long since limited the meaning to offences of a grave character. Looking at the Schedule attached to Act XXI of 1879 [now Schedule I to Act XXV of 1903] the Government consider that the sections of the Indian Code there enumerated furnish a generally sufficient list of grave offences. The offence for which the present French warrant was issued is described as abus de confiance. If this may be rendered by Criminal Breach of Trust it is a grave offence and is inserted as such in the list abovementioned but as the Acting Magistrate seems to consider that the French term has a wider meaning and would include a departure from French territory by a mere debtor it is competent to him to ask for particulars after a reference to the articles of the Code Penal cited in the warrant, the extradition of debtors as well of course as of political offenders not being within the Treaty as interpreted by practice. As regards the question whether a resident of British Territory, sojourning in the French Territory for a few weeks or months on business affairs (with the animus revertendi) and returning to his own village thereafter should be deemed to take refuge within our territory or to become a fugitive from justice within the meaning of the Treaty of 1815 it is obligatory on the British Government to deliver up all persons against whom judicial proceedings shall be instituted within the French limits for grave offences committed within the said limits, and who shall take refuge out of the same. The form of the Mandat d'Arret issued by the French authorities appears unobjectionable but the authority to deliver up fugitive offenders has been vested by Government in District Magistrates only—the attention of the French authorities should be invited to the necessity of making the requisitions to such officers only in future cases.—(G O 19th May, 1882 No 735 Judicial)

6. In cases where surrender is applied for of persons escaping into British Territory on conviction by French Courts, regard should be had to the nature of the offence with which the person was originally charged. By G.O., 14th March 1872, No 359, and connected papers the word "offences" is limited to mean only offences of a grave character and this distinction should be borne in mind whether the person has been only charged or both charged and convicted of an offence in French Territory.—(G O 31st January 1889 No 178 Judicial)

9. Where it is doubtful whether the offence committed is a grave crime as contemplated by the received interpretation of the Treaty of 1815 the Magistrate should ask for a copy of the complaint and submit it to Government for orders before taking any step for the apprehension of the accused.—(G O 25th March, 1888 No 747 Judicial)

Police Convention

The following Police Convention of 1872 regarding the suppression of offences and crimes committed in French and British territories will be followed in all parts of the Presidency which adjoin French Territory—

(1) The Police of both territories will respectively communicate any useful information regarding what they do

(2) They will exchange lists of vagrants and people without fixed residences who wander from one territory to another

(3) The officers of the Judicial Police belonging to French Territory will arrest provisionally on either written or verbal requisitions of officers of the British Police—

(a) All French subjects suspected of theft with droncy of gang robbery on the high roads, of theft with force of homicide or of murder. They will draw up reports of the arrest and submit information as to what has been done by them

(b) British subjects suspected of grave crimes and offences other than those relating to the Revenue and Customs Laws.

(4) They will proceed on similar requisitions to search for articles stolen and prepare reports regarding their seizure

(5) They will forthwith send the arrested prisoners and the articles seized to Pondicherry for the orders of the Solicitor General

(6) In no case and under no pretext will they themselves make over the prisoners arrested or the articles seized to foreign agents (unknown parties)

(7) They are prohibited from performing any of their duties in foreign territory

(8) The above provisions are reciprocal and will be observed by the officers of the British Police on requisitions made by officers of the French Judicial Police

Such arrest if not supported by a warrant issued by a Magistrate having jurisdiction under [s. 4 of the Indian Extradition Act, 1803] would be illegal. It will accordingly be an instruction to the Police on receiving a requisition for provisional arrest, to apply to the Magistrate having jurisdiction for a warrant under [s. 4 of Act XV of 1803] and it is probable that in most cases the Magistrate will be satisfied in the first instance with the mere production of the French requisition.—(G O, 9th February, 1887, No 276 and 20th May, 1887, Nos 1068 and 1078, Judicial)

Letter to Commissioners

The following letter, dated 28th June, 1884, from the Secretary to the Government of Bengal all commissioners of Divisions and District Magistrates, is important with reference to extradition between the French and British possessions in India—I am directed to state, for your information, that the question of extradition between the French and British possessions in India has recently been under the consideration of the Government of India and Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India. The practical question at issue was whether the procedure in cases of extradition should be regulated by the stipulation of Article IX of the Treaty of 7th March, 1815, between Great Britain and France, which relates exclusively to the Indian possessions of the two countries and under which persons accused of non political offences of a grave character have hitherto been surrendered upon application, supported by a warrant and summary of the charges, no depositions of witnesses being required; or whether it was necessary to observe the more stringent provisions of [s. 3 of the Indian Extradition Act, XV of 1903] and ss 3 and 10 of Statute 33 and 34 Vict., c. 52, relating to extradition. The decision at which Her Majesty's Government has arrived is, that the existing practice is to be maintained, and that the Indian Act of 1903 and the English Statute of 1870 do not apply.

See Punjab Record 1893, p. 47

II.—Hyderabad

1. AGREEMENT made between the British Government and that of His Highness the Nizam by which the Treaty concluded between both those Governments in 1837 has been modified, so far as the procedure to be observed in cases of extradition of offenders from British India to the Hyderabad State is concerned.

Article 1st—The two Governments hereby agree to act upon a system of strict reciprocity as herein after mentioned.

Article 2nd—Neither Government shall be bound in any case to surrender any person not being a subject of the Government making the requisition. If the person claimed should be of doubtful nationality, he shall, with a view to promote the ends of justice, be surrendered to the Government making the requisition.

Article 3rd—Neither Government shall be bound to deliver up debtors or civil offenders or any person charged with any offence not specified in Article 4th.

Article 4th—Subject to the above limitations, any person who shall be charged with having committed within the territories belonging to or administered by, the Government making the requisition any of the undermentioned offences and who shall be found within the territories of the other, shall be surrendered, the offences are mutiny, rebellion, murder, attempting to murder, rape, great personal violence, maiming, dacoity, kidnapping, abduction, thuggi, robbery, burglary, knowingly receiving property obtained by dacoity, robbery or burglary, thefts of property exceeding 100 rupees in value, cattle stealing, breaking and entering a dwelling house and stealing therein, setting fire to a village house or town, forgery or uttering forged documents, counterfeiting current coin, knowingly uttering base or counterfeit coin, embezzlement whether by public officers or other persons, and being in accessory to any of the above mentioned offences.

Article 5th—In no case shall either Government be bound to surrender any person accused of any offence except upon requisition duly made by, or by the authority of the Government within whose territories the offence shall be charged to have been committed, and also upon such evidence of criminality as, according to the laws of the country in which the person accused shall be found, would justify his apprehension and sustain the charge, if the offence had been there committed.

Article 6th—The above treaty shall continue in force until either one or the other of the high contracting parties shall give notice to the other of its wish to terminate it, and no longer.

Article 7th—All existing engagements and agreements shall continue in full force.

2. Whereas a Treaty relating to the extradition of offenders was concluded on the 25th May, 1867, between the British Government and the Hyderabad State, and whereas the procedure prescribed by the Treaty for the extradition of offenders from British India to the Hyderabad State has been found by experience to be less simple and effective than the procedure prescribed by the law as to the extradition of offenders in force in British India. It is hereby agreed between the British Government and the Hyderabad State that the provisions of the Treaty prescribing a procedure for the extradition of offenders shall no longer apply to cases of extradition from British India to the Hyderabad State, but that the procedure prescribed by the law as to the extradition of offenders for the time being in force in British India shall be followed in every such case—
(G O, 28th November, 1887, No 2697, Judicial.)

3. When offenders from the Hyderabad State are apprehended in British Territory by the Nizam's Police and made over to the British authorities in view to their formal surrender to the Nizam's Government, the receipt of the Magistrate having jurisdiction in the place in which the offenders are arrested, shall, in all cases, be required as a voucher—(G.O., 18th June, 1870, No. 814, Judicial)

The following direction by the Governor General, dated 22nd May, 1885 has been published.

(6) So much of the notification of the Government of India in the Foreign Department No 29, Judicial, dated the 18th January, 1869, as applies to the Hyderabad Residency Bazaars, is hereby cancelled.

II No 1639 J—In exercise of the powers conferred by [s. 22 of Act XV of 1903, The Indian Extradition Act] and of all other powers enabling him in this behalf, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct as follows—

(1) The Superintendent of the Hyderabad Residency Bazaars for the time being shall exercise, within the limits of His Highness the Nizam's Territories (in all cases in which such powers may lawfully be exercised by the Governor-General in Council within such territories, the powers of a District Magistrate as described in the Code of Criminal Procedure.

(2) The First Assistant to the Resident at Hyderabad for the time being shall exercise, within the limits of His Highness the Nizam's Territories in all cases in which such powers may lawfully be exercised by the Governor-General in Council within such territories, the powers of a Court of Sessions as described in the Code of Criminal Procedure.

(3) The Resident at Hyderabad for the time being shall exercise the powers of a High Court as described in the said Code in respect of all offences over which magisterial jurisdiction is exercised by the Superintendent of the Hyderabad Residency Bazaars within the said territories, and in respect of all offences over which the jurisdiction of a Court of Sessions is exercised by the First Assistant to the Resident within the said territories.

(4) In the exercise of the jurisdiction of a Court of Sessions conferred on him by this notification, the First Assistant to the Resident may take cognizance of any offence as a Court of original criminal jurisdiction without the accused person being committed to him by a Magistrate, and shall, when so taking cognizance of any offence, follow the procedure laid down by the Code of Criminal Procedure for the trial of warrant cases by Magistrates.

(5) This notification applies to all proceedings, except proceedings against European British subjects or persons jointly charged with European British subjects and it applies to proceedings which may be pending at the date of this notification if they have been instituted and are being conducted in conformity with the provisions herein contained.

(6) Nothing in this notification shall be deemed to extend to any Cantonment, or to the Hyderabad Residency Bazaars, or to any railway lands situate within the said territories—(Gazette of India, 23rd May, 1885 Part I p 304)

III—Mysore

1 Any person liable to be tried for an offence committed within the limits of the territories described in Chapter I section I of the Indian Penal Code, may be arrested within the territories of Mysore by an officer of Police subordinate to the Chief Commissioner of Mysore or other person duly authorized for the purpose in the same way and under the same conditions with or without warrant as if the offence had been committed in the territories of Mysore.

2 If the person, so arrested, be a British subject or other than a subject of Mysore he shall be surrendered for trial to the British authorities.

3 If the person, so arrested, be a subject of the Government of Mysore, he shall either be tried in the Courts in Mysore or surrendered for trial in British Courts as may be found most convenient.

4 Any subject of the Mysore Government liable to be tried for an offence committed beyond the limits of the Mysore territories may be dealt with by the Mysore Courts in the same manner as if such offence had been committed within the said territories—(G O Notification 6th January 1871 No 5 Judicial, Foreign Department.)

5 Officers exercising the powers of a Magistrate when requiring the surrender of an accused person who is within the territories of His Highness the Maharaja of Mysore shall apply to the Commissioner of the Division in which the accused is supposed to be forwarding with the application copies of the evidence and any other papers on which the requisition is based the reasons for laying down this procedure being that it is the Commissioner who is to issue the warrants for the arrest of the accused and who is to be held responsible for the propriety of their issue against persons who are within his territorial jurisdiction, and that it is but reasonable that the Commissioner should have sufficient evidence of criminality laid before him to justify his action in arresting and delivering up the accused.—(G O 3rd May 1869 No 741 and 7th April 1873 No. 223 Judicial)

6 For the purpose of having the house of a person searched in the Mysore Territory, the Magistrate in the British Territory is not to issue any warrant himself which he has no power to do but to apply to the Commissioner of the Division having jurisdiction over the locality to issue his warrant for the purpose the application being supported by the required evidence.—(G O 1st May 1877 No 1109 Judicial)

IV—Ceylon

The law of Extradition which governs Ceylon is contained in the Statute 6 in 17 Vict. c. 34, and it is under that law alone that extradition of offenders escaping from India into Ceylon can be rightly obtained by the Indian Government. The course to be taken was communicated to the Inspector General of Police and to all District Magistrates by G O dated 27th May, 1884 No 757. The essential parts of the procedure are as follows—

I—That the Magistrate must have some satisfactory evidence before him to justify the issue of a warrant for the apprehension of the offender.

II—That true copies of the depositions etc. on which the warrant was issued must be furnished to the constable who is to proceed with the warrant to Ceylon.

III—That the constable should be in a position to swear that the depositions, etc., are true copies and to the seal and signature of the Magistrate granting the warrant.

IV—That on arrival in Ceylon, the constable is to place himself in communication with the Colonial Police, in view to obtaining the endorsement of Her Majesty's Judge and to the taking of the other steps necessary to the warrant being executed.—(G O 18th April 1871 No 970 Judicial.)

V—Penang

Where the Lieutenant Governor of Penang telegraphed to the Chief Police Officer of Negapatnam requesting him to arrest an accused person who had escaped from Penang the arrest made by the Police Officer without a warrant from a duly authorized Magistrate was held improper and the delivery of the accused without the warrant of the Local Government still more irregular. What a Magistrate, subordinate to the District Magistrate should do after issuing the warrant of arrest in any such case is to report his action to Government through the usual channel or channels and the District Magistrate in submitting the report to the Chief Secretary should state that he has telegraphed to the Executive Government or Foreign Power concerned requesting that a requisition to give up the accused person may be made to the Governor in Council in accordance with [The Indian Extradition Act 1903]—(G O 29th April 1882 No 314 Judicial)

VI.—Other States.

With reference to the provisions of s. 13 of Act XXI of 1879 the Governor General in Council was pleased to direct that, for offences committed in any of the following States, viz. Patiala and Nalhar Malek Kotla Kalsia, Dujana Patwadi and Loharu Bahawalpur Chikma Landkot, Mandi Suket, Simmur (Nahr) Kahluri (Nahrspur), Bhashir, Naligarh Keonthal Baghri Baghri, Jubhri Kunharain, Bhaji Mailog Babon Dhami Kuthur Mangal Raja Drakuti Taroch Singri the persons accused shall be handed over by the Political Agent concerned to the Courts of the State for trial. But this direction was subject to the instructions contained in the notifications published in the Gazette of India No 87 J dated the 16th August 1876 and to the further condition that should there be in any particular instance special reason for so doing the Political Agent might dispose of the case himself. Letter dated Sumt 14th August 1880 Foreign Secretary to Government of Punjab (Punjab Rec. Circular Or p 28).

VII.—Miscellaneous

1. Bail—When a prisoner has been arrested under the provisions of the Extradition Act under a Political Agent's warrant (s. 7) or under a warrant issued in the Governor General in Council or any Local Government but cannot be taken under s. 10 (4) and the person arrested must be removed in custody and delivered up at the place and to the person named in the warrant.—(Letter from the Government of India, 6th May 1875 No 51 J read in G.O., 17th June 1875 No 867 Political)

2. Act XI of 1903—Act XI of 1903 does not profess to deal with the matter of requisitions for the surrender of criminals who have fled from justice out of British India into a Native State but with the converse. The standing order on the subject by the Government of India is that where such a demand is made it should be made by our Magistrates not to the State direct but through the Political Officer, and the demand should invariably be accompanied by a copy of any depositions made or where no evidence has yet been taken by a statement of the information on which the arrest of the offender is deemed necessary. It should rest with the Political Agent if necessary to call on the Magistrate for further information but if the Political Agent possesses the influence and weight he ought to have he will seldom fail to obtain compliance with any reasonable demand made to the Durbar to which he is accredited for the surrender of an absconded criminal. As to what is a reasonable demand the Government of India state that it certainly includes the case of all offences (vide Schedule I of Act XI of 1903) for which the arrest and removal of criminals escaping into British India is allowed and that some cases outside of that catalogue may probably be added with propriety. Such instances however would be exceptional and the requisitions for surrender should not be made without the sanction of the Governor in Council where the offence is not one of those mentioned in the Schedule above cited or where the Political Agent doubts the reasonableness of the grounds of the requisition and the Magistrate of the District continues to press it.—(G.O. 12th April 1875 No 219 Political)

3. Procedure in arrest—Officers or the Magistracy in applying for the arrest and surrender of criminals who have escaped from British India into a Native State should do so by means of a letter addressed to the Political Agent concerned. The issue of a warrant in such cases is clearly irregular and unauthorized.—(G.O. 3rd May 1875 No 258 Political)

4. The surrender of accused persons escaping into British India is governed by the provisions of ss. 3, 7 or 9 as the case may be of the Indian Extradition Act XI of 1903 the necessary formalities prescribed being the following—

- (a) There must first be a requisition made to the Governor in Council by the authority administering the Executive Government of any part of the dominions of Her Majesty or the territory of any foreign Prince or State that any person accused of having committed an offence in such dominions or territory should be given up
- (b) The Governor in Council has then to issue an order to the Magistrate who would have had jurisdiction to inquire into the offence if it had been committed within his local jurisdiction directing him to inquire into the truth of the accusation.
- (c) Such Magistrate has thereupon to issue his summons or warrant for the arrest of the person named as the case may be according to the nature of the offence and inquire into the truth of the accusation.
- (d) On closing his inquiry the Magistrate has to report the result to the Government.

(c) It satisfied on such report that the accused ought to be delivered up the Governor in Council, may issue his warrant for the custody and removal of the accused person and for his delivery at a place and to a person to be named in the warrant.

It is not until these several formalities have been observed and complied with that the accused can be surrendered to the authority making the requisition—(G.O., 8th February 1878 No 283 Judicial)

5. Charges—In the matter of defraying charges connected with the sending of European British subjects to the High Court at Madras for trial for offences committed in Native States, the Governor in Council resolves to direct that the practice heretofore observed be uniformly followed, viz for the Madras Government to defray the expenses of prosecutors and witnesses and for the Native Government to defray the expenses on account of the accused—(G.O. 6th April 1872, No 478 Judicial)

- (iii) Putting a person in fear of accusation in order to commit extortion s. 389 IPC
- (iv) Dishonestly receiving stolen property s. 411 IPC.
- (v) Dishonestly receiving stolen property in the commission of a dacoity

1A. House-breaking to commit adultery—The offence of outraging a woman's modesty not being punishable with whipping house-breaking in order to commit that offence cannot be so punished. A L R. (1925) All 891

2. Reasons for imposing whipping must be given.—When a sentence of whipping is imposed the grounds for awarding it should be stated in the judgment. 5 M 183

3. Whipping can be imposed only "in lieu of" other punishment and not in addition.—Where an accused person is sentenced to whipping under this section the punishment of fine or imprisonment of both cannot be legally inflicted under the IPC in addition to the whipping. 16 B 337, 10 Bar L T 211; U B R (1917) 3rd Cr 32 A sentence of whipping in addition to another punishment for one of two offences of the same character of which the prisoner is simultaneously convicted is not warranted by law. 8 P R 1885 But when an illegal sentence of whipping and imprisonment has been passed and the whipping has been carried into execution and where the sentence as a whole is unduly lenient the High Court will not necessarily set aside the sentence of imprisonment. Weir I 935 See Weir I, 934, where an accused convicted for the first time under ss. 404 and 380 IPC was sentenced to imprisonment and whipping and the High Court amended the sentence by allocating the sentence of imprisonment to one of the offences and whipping to the other. See also 1884 W R. 38, 1 W R. 24; 2 W R. 63, 4 W R. 20, 25 Cr L J 1185, 32 I C. 49 (1)

4. Punishment.—The word punishment in this section means the total of punishments awardable under the IPC. 16 B 337, see also 5 L B R. 22 = 10 Cr L J 120 and Note 5 to s. 5 *infra

5. Double sentence in simultaneous conviction.—When a person is convicted at one time of two or more offences punishable under the IPC the Court is empowered to sentence the prisoner in the one case to imprisonment, and in the other case to whipping under Act VI of 1864. 5 Mad. H C. R. App. XVIII (FB) but in 9 W R. 41 (FB) it was held by the majority that when a person is convicted at one time of two or more offences it is illegal to sentence him to whipping for one of those offences in addition to imprisonment or fine for the other or others, but it is not illegal to sentence him to one whipping in lieu of all other punishment. See also 4 Bom L R. 929 at p. 930 and Ratanlal 364, where it was held that a double sentence of whipping is illegal.

6. Sentence under IPC need not be imposed.—When a sentence of whipping is passed under this section it is not necessary first to pass a sentence provided for the offence under the IPC and then to convert such sentence into one of whipping. Ratanlal 906 Such a procedure would not be legal. 5 L B. R. 22 = 10 Cr L J 120

7. Attempt not punishable with whipping.—Attempt to commit the offence of house-breaking by night is not punishable with whipping. 3 Bom. H. C. R. Cr Ca. 37.

8 Abetment of an offence by person not a juvenile offender not punishable with whipping—The Whipping Act is not a special enactment but is a highly penal enactment and should be construed in the sense most favourable to the subject. Persons who are not juvenile offenders convicted of abetment of theft or abetment of any other offence mentioned in this section are not liable to the punishment of whipping. 7 L. B. R. 63 = 13 Cr. L. J. 3

9 Concurrent sentences of whipping illegal—It is illegal to pass concurrent sentences of whipping the word concurrent in s. 35 of the Code applies only to sentences of imprisonment. 6 L. B. R. 22 = 12 Cr. L. J. 365

2. Section must be read subject to ss. 391 and 393 of the Cr. P. C.—A sentence of whipping when the imprisonment awarded is for a term less than three months is illegal. 4 Bom. L. R. 436, see s. 391 (3) supra

3. Section applicable to juveniles also.—See 7 Bom. H. C. R. Cr. Ca. 70.

Juvenile offenders when punishable with whipping

5. Any juvenile offender who abets, commits or attempts to commit—

(a) any offence punishable under the Indian Penal Code except offences specified in Chapter VI and in ss. 153A and 505 of that Code and offences punishable with death, or

(b) any offence punishable under any other law with imprisonment, which the Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, specify in this behalf, may be punished with whipping in lieu of any other punishment to which he may for such offence, abetment or attempt be liable

Explanation—In this section the expression ‘juvenile offender’ means an offender whom the Court, after making such enquiry (if any) as may be deemed necessary, shall find to be under sixteen years of age, the finding of the Court in all cases being final and conclusive

Notes.—1 This section is same as s. 5 substituted by s. 3 of Act V of 1900 for the corresponding section in the Act VI of 1864 except the italicized portion which is new

2. This section is not meant to supersede ss. 3 and 4 but to be applied in the p^rotively with those sections. Sections 3 and 4 supra apply to juvenile offenders also. Ratan 3 to s. 4 above

3. Juvenile offender.—The explanation is in accordance with 8 Bom. L. Under this section the finding of the Magistrate on the question of age is final 538 (Bar).

4. Sentence of imprisonment cannot be commuted to whipping.—Under the Whipping Act, the Court cannot, after passing a sentence of imprisonment commute it to a sentence of whipping, which ought to be passed directly 5 L. B. R. 22; 1 L. B. R. 292. See also Note 5 to s 3 above

5. "In lieu of any other punishment."—Under s 5, a juvenile offender may be punished with whipping in lieu of any other punishment to which he may be liable, but the words "in lieu of" mean in lieu of the whole punishment to which he is liable (see 18 B. 337, Note 3 to s 3 above) So it is illegal to pass a sentence of whipping in lieu of imprisonment, under the Whipping Act and, at the same time, to pass sentence of fine under the IPC 5 L. B. R. 22 = 10 Cr. L. J. 120; A. I. R. (1924) All. 455.

6. Notification of the Governor-General—No 350—In pursuance of s. 5, cl. (b) of the Whipping Act, 1909 (IV of 1909), the Governor-General in Council is pleased to specify offences under the laws mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed, being offences punishable under the said laws with imprisonment, as offences for the abetment or commission of or attempt to commit which juvenile offenders may be punished with whipping in accordance with the provisions of the said section

(2) But all proceedings taken orders passed officers appointed or authorized and rules made under the said Act shall as far as may be be deemed to have been respectively passed appointed or authorized and made under this Act.

(3) Any enactment or document referring to the said Act shall as far as may be be construed to refer to this Act or to the corresponding portion thereof

Note—Rules under repealed Act to be followed as far as may be.—Having regard to the provisions of this section it was held in 21 M 430, that a Magistrate was bound to follow the rules framed under the old Act (V of 1876) and direct the detention of a juvenile offender until he attains the age of eighteen. The rules under the old Act have to be followed in so far as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act—Ibid., p 431

Section 399 of Act X of 1902 repealed on date fixed by a notification under s 1 sub-sec (3)

3. From the day fixed by any notification issued under s. 1, sub-sec. (3), s. 399 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1882, shall be repealed in the province to which the notification relates Note.—Section 399 Cr P C., is in force only in Coorg and it will cease to be in force in that province on the extension of this Act to that province. See the newly added sub-sec. (3) to s. 399. See 25 G. 333 and 12 M. 94.

II—Reformatory Schools

Power to establish and discontinue Schools

5. With the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council the Local Government may—

- (a) establish and maintain Reformatory Schools at such places as it may think fit,
- (b) use as Reformatory Schools kept by persons willing to act in conformity with such rules, consistent with this Act, as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf,
- (c) direct that any school so established or used shall cease to exist as a Reformatory School or to be used as such.

Note.—Reformatory Schools.—The following have been declared to be Reformatories under this Act.—In BURMA—the Reformatory at Poungdoh (Br Bur Gaz., p 340), and at Insan (Br Bur Gaz 1887, Pt. I, p 301), in MADRAS—the Reformatory School at Chingleput (Fort St. George Gazette, 1887, Pt. I, p 811), in BOMBAY—part of the Poona City Jail (Bombay Gazette, 1873 Pt. I, p 98) and Yerrowda, in SINDH—the Juvenile Prison at Shikarpore for all juvenile offenders sentenced in the Districts of Karachi and Hyderabad (Sindh Gazette, 1875, Pt. I p 556), in PUNJAB—the Reformatory School at Delhi, in the UNITED PROVINCES—the Reformatory School at Bareilly (All Man p 309).

Regulations of Schools

6. Every school so established or used must provide—

- (a) sufficient means of separating the inmates at night,
- (b) proper sanitary arrangements water supply food clothing and bedding for the youthful offenders detained therein,
- (c) the means of giving such youthful offenders industrial training,
- (d) an infirmary or proper place for the reception of such youthful offenders when sick.

7. (1) Every school intended to be established or used as a Reformatory School shall, before being used as such, be inspected by the Inspector-General and if he finds that the requirements of s 6 have been complied with and that in his opinion, such school is fitted for the reception of such youthful offenders as may be sent there under this Act, he shall certify to that effect and such certificates shall be published in the local Official Gazette, together with an order of the Local Government establishing the school as Reformatory School or directing that it shall be used as such, and the school shall thereupon be deemed to be a Reformatory School

(2) Every such school shall from time to time and at least once in every year be visited by the said Inspector General who shall send to the Local Government a report on the condition of the school in such form as the Local Government may prescribe

8. (1) Whenever any youthful offender is sentenced to transportation or imprisonment and is, in the judgment of the Court by which he is sentenced a proper person to be an inmate of a Reformatory School, the Court may, subject to any rules made by the Local Government, direct that instead of undergoing his sentence he shall be sent to such a school, and be there detained for a period which shall be not less than three, or more than seven years.

Power of Court to direct youthful offenders to be sent to Reformatory Schools

* For the word "fifteen" in section 4 "a teen" is substituted by Bombay Act VIII of 1906 (The Bombay Children Act)

(2) The powers so conferred on the Court by this section shall be exercised only by (a) the High Court, (b) a Court of Sessions, (c) a District Magistrate and (d) any Magistrate specially empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, and may be exercised by such Courts whether the case comes before them originally or on appeal.

(3) The Local Government may make rules for—

(a) defining what youthful offenders should be sent to Reformatory Schools, having regard to the nature of their offences or other considerations, and

(b) regulating the periods for which youthful offenders may be sent to such schools according to their ages or other considerations.

Notes.—1. Rules.—For the rules regulating the period for which youthful offenders may be sent to Reformatories, see as to BENGAL—Calcutta Gazette, 1899, Pt. I, p. 226, BOMBAY—List of Local Rules, Edition 1896, Vol. I, p. 160, CENTRAL PROVINCES—List of Local Rules and Orders, Edition 1796 p. 23, BURMA—Burma Gazette, 1897, Pt. I, p. 307, MADRAS—List of Local Rules and Orders, Edition 1903 Vol. I, p. 147, N.W. PROVINCES—See N.W.P. Gazette, 30th July 1897, Pt. VI, p. 167. See pp. xlii and xliii, infra.

2. Contents of the Order.—The language of this and s. 9 shows that in all cases of conviction, a sentence must first be passed and then a direction given according to this section. 1 Bom. L. R. 162. In 24 M. 13 at pp. 15-16 SHEPARD, J. remarked that—“As a general rule it is clearly the duty of a Magistrate when pronouncing a sentence, to define precisely the nature of the sentence intended. Generally the sentence like the decree in a civil case, I apprehend, to be self-contained, so that the functionary who has to execute it should have nothing more to do but to obey the directions given without making any inquiry on his own account. There are no words in the Act, that I can find, to indicate that a Magistrate acting under this section is not to proceed in accordance with this principle.” See also 15 A. 208.

3. Clear finding as to age necessary.—A Session Judge cannot pass an order for detention of the prisoner in a Reformatory in supersession of the order for imprisonment, without taking evidence as to his age as required by s. 11 4 C. W. N. 225. In order that a Magistrate may have jurisdiction under the Act it is necessary that the offender should be under 15 years of age at the time of conviction and the Magistrate must on inquiry be satisfied on this point. Weir I, 879. Where there is no clear finding as to the age of the offender the High Court might interfere with such an order as one made without jurisdiction, either in appeal or in revision, 21 A. 391 (F.B.).

4. Sentence of transportation or imprisonment precedent to detention.—In the absence of a sentence of transportation or imprisonment, an order directing that an offender be sent to the Reformatory School is illegal. Weir I, 878 and 879, see also 5 C. W. N. 210, Ratanlal 726; 34 P. R. 1910 = 12 Cr. L. J. 56 and 4 Bur. L. T. 69 = 12 Cr. L. J. 244. In the case of a juvenile offender whom it is desirable to send to a Reformatory, a Magistrate must on convicting him sentence him to imprisonment or to transportation, and then make a further order for detention. Ratanlal 518. When the accused was only bound over to appear, and no order for transportation or imprisonment was made, such an order is not a sentence of imprisonment or of transportation, but an order for detention. Instead of which he may be detained in a Reformatory. 7 Bur. L. R. 80.

5. Order of detention not a sentence within meaning of the Act.—Sections 8, 10 and 30 of this Act make a distinction between an order for detention and a sentence. Such an order is not included among punishments in s. 53, I.P.C. A Session Judge cannot therefore prevent the carrying out of the order for detention by suspending the sentence pending the disposal of the appeal before him. 6 Cr. L. J. 134 (M).

6. Who may be sent to a Reformatory School.—It is not every boy that is convicted that can be sent to a Reformatory School, but only such as are found to be proper persons to be the inmates of such a school. As a rule, no boy should be sent to the school on a first conviction unless there be reasonable cause for supposing that he is likely to lapse into crime. Weir I, 878 at p. 879. A youthful offender convicted of murder and sentenced to transportation for life, is eligible for despatch to a Reformatory School. But he should not ordinarily be sent to it where, e.g., the conduct of the accused argued great depravity. 4 N. L. R. 180 = 9 Cr. L. J. 99. See also Ratanlal 726, where it was held that the inmates of the school ought not to be obliged to associate with a person convicted of a serious offence, such as rape. In A. L. R. (1924) Rang 16 it was held down that under s. 4 of this Act a boy ceases to be a youthful offender at the age of 15, therefore it is illegal to order detention of a boy of 16. The section is too clear to require any authority.

7. Minimum period of detention to be three years.—Where a juvenile offender (14 years old) was convicted of the offences of house-breaking and theft in a building (ss 454 and 380 IPC), and sentenced to one year's rigorous imprisonment for each offence and in lieu of undergoing the imprisonment directed to be detained in the Reformatory for a period of two years held that the order was illegal being contrary to the provisions of sub-sec. (1) of this section. Ratanlal 947; 25 C. 333.

8 Magistrate specially empowered.—All Presidency Magistrates of the first class are empowered to exercise the powers conferred by this section.—G O No 914 Judicial dated 2nd July 1897 The order of a Magistrate not specially empowered directing the detention of a juvenile offender in a Reformatory School is liable to be set aside by the High Court as illegal. Ratanlal 947 and 936

9 Rules defining what youthful offenders should be sent to the Reformatory School, etc.—(A) Bengal Rules.—(1) Youthful offenders whom the Court or the District Magistrate as the case may be does not think fit to discharge after due admonition or to deliver to their parents guardians or nearest adult relatives on the execution of a bond for good behaviour, under s 31 of the Act should subject to the next following rule be sent to a Reformatory School if they are convicted of offences against property or any other offences showing dishonesty or depravity, (a) in all cases when they have been previously convicted of any such offence and (b) on first conviction when a chief term of imprisonment is considered an undesirable and inadequate punishment or they are without proper parental or other control or there is reasonable cause for supposing that they are being trained to or are likely to relapse into crime

(2) Youthful offenders should not be sent to a Reformatory School when they are convicted of an unnatural offence or have on previous conviction undergone imprisonment in a jail for more than six months, or are seriously deformed or of weak intellect or subject to epileptic fits or other well-marked nervous disease

(3) Youthful offenders should be sent to a Reformatory School for not less than seven years when they are under eleven years of age and for not less than five years when they are over that age unless in the latter case they shall attain earlier the age of eighteen.

(4) The foregoing rules shall not however debar the authorities having the control and management of a Reformatory School from recommending to the Government the discharge under the provisions of s 14 of the Act of any youthful offender who in their opinion may safely and with advantage to himself be released before the expiry of the full term for which he was sent to Reformatory School.—Calcutta Gazette 1899 p 226

(B) Madras and Bombay Rules.—No boy shall be sent to the Reformatory School if under ten years of age for a less period than seven years if over ten years of age for a less period than five years unless he shall sooner attain the age of eighteen years.—Fort St. George Gazette 1887 Pt. I p 580 Bombay Gazette 1930 Pt. I p 758 For effect of Government Notification see 24 M 13 and Weir I, 484.

(C) Punjab Rules.—1 It should be noted that the only Courts empowered to direct youthful offenders to be sent to the Reformatory School are—(a) the Chief Court (b) the Court of Sessions (c) a District Magistrate and (d) any Magistrate specially empowered by the Local Government in this behalf. Local Government do not at present propose to specially empower any other Magistrates but any Magistrate who has not been so empowered may under s 9 of the Act refer the case of any youthful offender to the District Magistrate to whom he is subordinate and all Magistrates should do so in suitable cases

11 A youthful offender is defined as meaning any boy who has been convicted of any offence punishable with transportation or imprisonment and who at the time of such conviction was under the age of fifteen years and it is incumbent on all Courts and Magistrates dealing with cases of youthful offenders whether specially empowered or not to make a preliminary inquiry and to record a finding as to the age of the offender. In taking the medical evidence mentioned in paragraph IV (a) of this Circular the opinion of the medical officer as to the age of the boy should invariably be recorded.

III Under Punjab Government Notification No 427 A dated the 2nd October 1903 a Court or Magistrate convicting any youthful offender of any of the offences noted below must send the offender to the Reformatory School provided such Court or Magistrate is of opinion that the offender should not be—(a) whipped, or (b) dealt with under s. 562 of the Code of Criminal Procedure or (c) dealt with under s. 31 of the Reformatory Schools Act the provisions of which are very similar to those of s. 562 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

It will be observed that this gives Courts and Magistrates no discretion they must either sentence every youthful offender, upon conviction of one of the specified offences to be whipped, or must deal with him under s 562 of the Code of Criminal Procedure or under s 31 of the Reformatory Schools Act. If the Court or Magistrate is of opinion that the youthful offender cannot be adequately dealt with in any of these three ways such Court or Magistrate has no option but to send the offender to the Reformatory School.

List of offences specified (1) Chapter XII, Chapter XVI, except ss. 302, 303, 304, 307, 308, 311 to 318 (inclusive), 328, 354, 367, 372, 373, 376 and 377, Chapter XVII, except ss 384 to 389 (inclusive), 395 to 402 (inclusive) and 413 and Chapter XXII of the Indian Penal Code,

(2) section 19 (1) of the Criminal Tribes Act XXVII of 1871, or

(3) any abetment or attempt in connection with any such offence as above detailed

IV It should be borne in mind that before recording an order directing the detention of a boy in the Reformatory School, Courts and Magistrates should satisfy themselves—

(a) after taking medical evidence that he is not blind, insane, idiot, leprosy, tuberculous, epileptic or suffering from any permanent physical incapacity for industrial employment, or

(b) that he has not been twice previously convicted and sentenced for any offence under Chapter XII or Chapter XVII of the Indian Penal Code. Two or even more previous convictions under other Chapters of the Indian Penal Code do not in themselves render a boy inadmissible to the Reformatory School, provided that the aggregate amount of imprisonment undergone does not exceed three months; or

(c) that he has not been previously convicted under s 377 of the Indian Penal Code, or

(d) that he has not undergone detention in jail for a period or periods amounting in all to three months

A youthful offender with any of these disqualifications will not be admitted into the Reformatory School, and Courts or Magistrates must deal with such an offender in the ordinary course under the Indian Penal Code, or under s 562 of the Code of Criminal Procedure

These rules will, it is hoped, secure inmates of the Reformatory School casual criminals and first offenders capable of reformation, and will exclude the corrupting influence of incorrigible offenders, and of boys who have already learnt the evil that can be learnt in jail

V Section 8, sub-sect. (1) of the Reformatory Schools Act prescribes the period for which Magistrates must order detention in the Reformatory School. This period cannot be less than three or more than seven years. This section should be read in connection with Punjab Government Notification No 427B, dated the 2nd October, 1903, which further limits the Magistrate's discretion as to the period of detention he can order. It should, nevertheless, be borne in mind that a boy ordered to be detained in the Reformatory School for seven years will not necessarily be kept in the school for so long. He will in any case be discharged when he attains the age of 18 years. Besides this Local Government has discretion to order any youthful offender to be discharged at any time, and the Superintendent of the Reformatory School may license youthful offenders to employers of labour, and may also apprentice any licensed youthful offender, under certain conditions, and on being so apprenticed the youthful offender shall be discharged from the Reformatory School, the unexpired term of his sentence being cancelled.

VI Besides the case of youthful offenders convicted by a Court or Magistrate of one of the offences specified (vide list subjoined to paragraph III of this circular), s 10 of the Reformatory Schools Act contemplates another case in which detention in the Reformatory School may be directed. This section gives the Superintendent of a jail power to produce before the District Magistrate any boy who is under the age of 15 years. In deciding whether any youthful offender brought to his notice in this manner should be sent to the Reformatory School, the District Magistrate will, of course, be guided by the rules made by the Local Government under s 8 sub-sect. (3) clause (a) of the Reformatory Schools Act, published as Punjab Government Notification No 427A, dated the 2nd October 1903. Should the District Magistrate consider that the youthful offender, though not admissible to the Reformatory under those rules, is a proper person to be an inmate of the school he must refer the case to the Local Government.

VII Magistrates should make free use of the provisions of the Whipping Act of s. 562 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and of s 31 of the Reformatory Schools Act in dealing with boys—and should refrain from sending boys to the Reformatory School in cases where they can be suitably dealt with under the foregoing provisions of the law. Boys sentenced to whipping and found unfit for it should be sent to the Reformatory School and not to jail.

VIII Under the rules made by the Local Government for the classification separation and daily employment of youthful offenders boys detained in a Reformatory School will be classed in two divisions, a senior and a junior, and each division will be subdivided into two sub-divisions A and B. The senior division will consist of boys above 14 and the junior division of boys under 14 years of age. Sub-division A will contain boys not in sub-division B and sub-division B will contain (1) boys who by reason of previous offences, whether the subject of criminal prosecution or not or of the character of their offence or the circumstances under which it was committed (offences against morals and serious or organized offences whether against property or against the person) appear to have marked criminal propensities, (2) boys who have been in jail except those sent to jail under the proviso to s. 12 of the Reformatory Schools Act temporarily ie, detained in jail for want of accommodation in the Reformatory School (3) boys whose parents are habitual criminals and boys who have been subjected to family influences and surroundings which are likely to prejudice to a life of crime. In directing the detention of a boy in the Reformatory School Magistrates should with reference to this rule record their opinion as to the sub-division in which the boy should be placed while under the detention.

IX. When a Magistrate orders a boy to be detained in the Reformatory School he should by telegram ascertain from the Superintendent thereof whether accommodation is available. If there is accommodation the boy should be sent at once to the school otherwise he should be sent to the jail prescribed by the Local Government in Notification No 42^c dated 2nd October 1907 and the Superintendent of the Reformatory School should be informed of the jail to which he is sent or to which he may thereafter be transferred.

X. The Honourable the Judges trust that the foregoing instructions will be observed strictly, Appellate, Revisional and Controlling Courts are specially enjoined to keep a watchful eye on Subordinate Courts, and should report to this Court any Magistrate who disregards these instructions. 1903 Punj Rec., Pt. II, pp 20 to 23

For Forms of warrants of commitment to a Reformatory prescribed in the Punjab, see 1903 Punj Rec., Executive No 2, pp 4 to 6

(D) Burma Rules.—

- If (a) either of the youthful offender's parents is a habitual criminal or
- (b) the youthful offender is destitute, or
- (c) circumstances under which the youthful offender is convicted indicated a general corruption of moral character or
- (d) the youthful offender having been once previously convicted is again convicted of a similar offence then the period for which he may be sent to a Reformatory School shall not be less than
 - (i) if he is not over ten years of age seven years
 - (ii) if he is not over ten and not over thirteen years of age five years
 - (iii) if he is over thirteen years of age such period as may bring him to the age of eighteen.

The period for which a youthful offender whose case does not fall within the above rule may be sent to a Reformatory School shall not be less than (i) if he is over ten years of age five years, (ii) if he is over thirteen years of age three years—Burma Gazette 1897 Pt. I p 301

(E) United Provinces Rules.—

(1) No person may be ordered to be detained in a Reformatory School unless

- (a) he is a male
- (b) he is under the age of fifteen years
- (c) he is convicted of an offence (as defined in the General Clauses Act 1897 s 3 (37) punishable with transportation or imprisonment,
- (d) he is actually sentenced to transportation or imprisonment and
- (e) he is of a class declared by the rules made by Government under s. 8 (3) suitable for Reformatory treatment.

- (2) Before ordering detention in a Reformatory School, the Court must pass a substantive sentence of transportation or imprisonment, and such sentence should in view of s. 12 Act VIII of 1897 not be a nominal but an adequate punishment for the offence. The Court has no power to direct detention in Reformatory School either without a substantive sentence of transportation or imprisonment or in addition to such a sentence, but must order that the offender instead of undergoing a sentence imposed shall be detained in the Reformatory School.
- (3) The period for which the Court may order the detention in a Reformatory School of youthful offenders admissible under the Act and rules must not be less than three years nor more than seven years. The following table shows the period of detention in the case of boys between the ages of nine and fourteen who alone should as a rule be sent to the Reformatory School—

Age of youthful offender	Period of detention.
9 years	Seven years
10 do	Not less than five years and not more than seven years
11 do	do do do do
12 do	Not less than five years and not more than six years
13 do	Five years
14 do	Four do

- (1) The most proper subjects for Reformatory treatment are those who are without proper parental or other control and who have committed an offence or offences against property.
- (2) As a rule no boy should be sent to a Reformatory School on a first conviction unless there is reasonable cause for supposing that he is being trained up to or likely again to lapse into crime.
- (3) As a rule it is not desirable to send boys to a Reformatory School before they have completed their ninth or after they have completed their fourteenth years of age.
- (4) No boy belonging to any of the undermentioned tribes whether such tribes have or have not been formally proclaimed in these provinces under the Criminal Tribes Act, 1871 should be sent to a Reformatory School. The tribes are—Aherahs Benahs Baunahs Barwahs Bhutus, Dalahs Doms Haburahs Kanjars Nats Samrahs Sansahs.

Other boys who appear to be habitual offenders should be sent (if at all) at an early stage in the career being less amenable to reforming influences as they approach the age of 15.

- (5) No boy should be sent to a Reformatory School who has been convicted of an unnatural offence or whose antecedents afford reasonable grounds for assuming habitual immorality.
- (6) A youthful offender convicted of murder should not ordinarily be sent to a Reformatory School. Assam N. W. P. Gazette 20th July 1897 Pt. VI pp. 161-168.

(F) Assam Rules—

Rule I—No boy shall be sent to a Reformatory School on a first conviction (except as provided in Rule III) if under ten years of age for a less period than five years if over ten for a less period than three years unless he shall sooner attain the age of 18.

Rule II—On a subsequent conviction for a similar offence a boy under ten years of age shall not be sent to a Reformatory School for a less period than seven years if over ten for a less period than five years unless he shall sooner attain the age of 18.

Rule III—A first conviction may bring a boy under Rule II—

- (1) if he belongs to a criminal tribe within the meaning of Act XXXII of 1871 s. 2
- (2) if either of his parents is a habitual criminal
- (3) if he is destitute and
- (4) if the offence of which he is convicted is one of great depravity—Gazette of India 1895 Pt. I p. 507 Assam Gazette 1895 Pt. III p. 840

10. Power to make rules.—Under s 22 of the old Act, the power to make rules was vested in the Governor-General in Council while sub-sect. (3) of this section confers such power on the Local Governments. The Madras Government in an order (G.O. No. 934, Judicial, dated 23rd July, 1897), has observed that the operation of the rules framed by the Government of India has been saved by sub-sect. (2) to s. 2, supra and has decided that it is necessary to frame new rules. 21 M 430 at p. 431.

9. (1) When any Magistrate not empowered to pass an order under the first foregoing section is of opinion that a youthful offender convicted by him is a proper person to be an inmate of a Reformatory School he may without passing sentence, record such opinion and submit his proceedings and forward the youthful offender to the District Magistrate to whom he is subordinate.

Procedure where Magistrate is not empowered to pass an order under s. 8

(2) The Magistrate to whom the proceedings are so submitted may make such further inquiry (if any) as he may think fit and pass such sentence and order for the detention in a Reformatory School of the youthful offender, or otherwise, as he might have passed if such youthful offender had been originally tried by him.

Notes.—1. Superior Magistrate must first pass sentence.—On a conviction for a theft a youthful offender was forwarded by a third-class Magistrate to the District Magistrate as a proper person to be an inmate of a Reformatory School. The District Magistrate without passing any sentence ordered the accused to be detained in a Reformatory School. Held that the language of ss. 8 and 9 shows that a sentence must first, in all cases of conviction, be passed and then a direction given that instead of undergoing the sentence the youthful offender shall be sent to a Reformatory School. 1 Bom. L. R. 162. See also 18 Cr. L. J. 32 (M) and Note 4 to s. 8 above.

2. Period of detention must be fixed.—A District Magistrate before whom the case of a youthful offender came under this section found him to be thirteen years old and on sentencing him to six months rigorous imprisonment directed that in lieu of the imprisonment awarded he should be detained in a Reformatory for five years unless he should attain the age of eighteen years at an earlier date. Held that the order was wrong inasmuch as it failed to fix the exact period of detention. 24 M 12. Following this case it was held in 15 Bom. L. R. 306 = 14 Cr. L. J. 256, that fixing an alternative period of time or until he attains the age of eighteen years to an order directing a youthful offender to be detained in a Reformatory School was objectionable. Consequently those words were deleted leaving only the period of five years as the exact period for which the boy was to be detained in the Reformatory.

3. Superior Magistrate cannot transfer case submitted. A District Magistrate to whom a case was submitted transferred the case to a Sub-divisional Magistrate who passed orders under this section. Held that the orders of the District Magistrate and Sub-divisional Magistrate were illegal. 2 L. B. R. (1903-4) 121.

10. The officer in charge of a prison in which a youthful offender is confined in execution of a sentence of imprisonment may bring him if he has not then attained the age of fifteen years before the District Magistrate within whose jurisdiction such prison is situate, and such Magistrate may if such youthful offender appears to be a proper person to be an inmate of a Reformatory School direct that instead of undergoing the residue of his sentence he shall be sent to a Reformatory School and there detained for a period which shall be subject to the same limitations as are prescribed by or under s. 8 with reference to the period of detention thereby authorized.

Lower of Magistrates to direct byss under fifteen sentenced to imprisonment to be sent to Reformatory School

Notes.—1. Exact age must be ascertained.—A Magistrate acting under this section is bound to ascertain the age of the juvenile offender and in accordance with that finding direct his confinement in a Reformatory School. It is not sufficient for the Magistrate merely to find that the prisoner is under a particular age. 14 B. 381. See also 25 C. 333 at p. 340, 24 M 13.

2. Proceedings of Magistrate judicial.—The order of a Magistrate under this section is not an executive act but a judicial proceeding and the High Court has jurisdiction to revise it. Under s. 11 infra the Magistrate has to take evidence as to the age of the prisoner and as his proceedings is clearly a judicial proceedings involve the alteration of a sentence after the due exercise of a judicial discretion such proceeding within the scope of ss. 4 and 435 Cr. P. C. 14 B. 381, Ratanlal 494. It is doubtful whether it is a case within the meaning of s. 23 of the Letters Patent. 14 B. 383 at p. 333. See Notes 4—6 to s. 16 infra.

3. Procedure for Magistrate desiring to commute sentence of offender in jail to detention.—A District Magistrate who is of opinion that any juvenile offender in jail undergoing a sentence of imprisonment should be sent to a Reformatory, he should communicate with the officer in charge of the jail and request him to send the offender to be dealt with under this section. If his request is not complied with the matter must be brought to the notice of the Inspector General of Prisons or before Government. Bom. H. C. Cr. Rollings 55 of 1889

11. (1) Before directing any youthful offender to be sent to a Reformatory School under ss 8, 9 or 10 the Court or Magistrate shall inquire into the question of his age and after taking such evidence (if any) as may be deemed necessary shall record a finding thereon stating his age as nearly as may be

(2) A similar inquiry shall be made and finding recorded by every Magistrate not empowered to pass an order under s 8 before submitting his proceedings and forwarding the youthful offender to the District Magistrate as required by s 9 sub-sec. (1).

Note.—Clear finding as to age necessary.—Before an order for detention in a Reformatory School can be passed in lieu of a sentence of imprisonment, there should be a definite finding as to the age of the accused and as to his being a fit subject for a Reformatory School. 3 C. W. N 576. See also Weir I, 879, 14 B. 331, Ratanlal 726, 25 C. 333, and see Note 3 to s 8 and Note 1 to s 10 above. It is generally desirable that when it is procurable there should be some reliable evidence as to the age of the accused especially when it may be necessary to determine the period of the detention which is limited to his attaining eighteen years of age. 27 C. 133. See also 11 C. W. N XI. In some cases it is not necessary to ascertain the exact age of the prisoner boy so long as he is not over fifteen the Magistrate may rightly fix a period of three years or if the boy is not over eleven he may safely fix a period of seven years without further inquiry. But if inquiry is necessary in order to fix the period as it would be when the boy is over eleven and the Magistrate wishes to make the period as long as possible, then the Magistrate must find as well as he can the exact age of the boy and he is not at liberty to leave the decision of the question to the Reformatory officials. PER SHERIFFARD J. 25 M. 13 at p 16; 3 Rang 215.

Government to determine Reformatory School to which such offenders shall be sent

12. Every youthful offender directed by a Court or Magistrate to be sent to a Reformatory School shall be sent to such Reformatory School as the Local Government may by general or special order, appoint for the reception of youthful offenders so dealt with by such Court or Magistrate

Provided that if accommodation in a Reformatory School is not immediately available for such youthful offender he may be detained in the juvenile ward or such other suitable part of a prison as the Local Government may direct—

(a) until he can be sent to a Reformatory School or

(b) until the term of his original sentence expires

whichever event may first happen. Should the term of his original sentence first expire he shall thereupon be released but should he be sent to a Reformatory School then the period of detention previously undergone shall be treated as detention in a Reformatory School

13 (1) If at any time after a youthful offender has been sent to a Reformatory School it appears to the Committee of Visitors or Board of Management as the case may be that the age of such youthful offender has been understated in the order for detention and that he will attain the age of eighteen years before the expiration of the period for which he has been ordered to be detained they shall report the case for the orders of the Local Government

Persons found to be over eighteen years not to be detained in Reformatory Schools

(2) No person shall be detained in a Reformatory School after he has been found by the Local Government to have attained the age of eighteen years.

Discharge or removal by order of Government.

14 The Local Government may at any time order any youthful offender—

(a) to be discharged from a Reformatory School,

(b) to be removed from one Reformatory School to another such school situate within the territories subject to such Government. Provided that the whole period of his detention in a Reformatory School shall not be increased by such removal.

Power to Governor General in Council to direct use of Reformatories in one province for reception of youthful offenders from another

15. (1) The Governor General in Council may by general or special order direct that any Reformatory School situated in one province shall be available for the reception of youthful offenders directed to be sent to any Reformatory School by any Court or Magistrate in any other province.

(2) Any such order may also provide for the removal of the youthful offender and the cost of his maintenance and may give any such further directions as may be necessary.

Note.—In sub-sec. (1) of this section for the words 'one province' and 'any other province' respectively the words 'British India' and 'the Hyderabad Assigned Districts the Hyderabad Residency Bazaris the Cantonment of Secunderabad Hyderabad Cantonment stations of Aurangabad Nizam Hingoli Jolpur Monirabad and Raurpur, and the railway lands in the territories of His Highness the Nizam (other than the railway lands referred to in the Notification of the Government of India in the Foreign Department No 4564 I, dated the 18th November 1891, and No 3244 I B dated the 26th August 1897)' shall be substituted. 3 C. W N XVI—Government of India Notification No 2779-I P

16. Nothing contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure 1882 (now 1898) shall be construed to authorize any Court or Magistrate to alter or reverse in appeal or revision any order passed with respect to the age of a youthful offender or the substitution of an order for detention in a Reformatory School for transportation or imprisonment.

Certain orders not subject to appeal or revision

Notes.—1 Section, how to be construed.—"This section is not well drawn up but apart from obvious verbal criticisms its object is clear enough. It does not exclude the exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction under Cr P C. in all cases where the subordinate Court has ordered an offender to be detained in a Reformatory School. The exclusion is limited to two specific matters in regard to which the Legislature considered the Court trying a youthful offender better placed in arriving at a sound conclusion than an Appellate or Revisional Court. First of these is the age of the youthful offender a finding on which is under 16. If a necessary condition precedent to every order for detention in a Reformatory School and which might often be difficult to determine and in determining which a subordinate Court which saw the offender would have considerable advantage over a superior Court which did not. Second is the substitution of an order for detention in a Reformatory School for transportation or imprisonment. These words are not very general and if read in the absolute literalness would protect the most illegal orders substituting detention for imprisonment from any sort of interference. So to read them would I think defeat the plain intention of the Legislature. It appears to me that they refer only to the propriety or suitability of such substitution in the particular case having regard to all circumstances. They do not include the legality of the substitution directed or the competency of the Court or Magistrate to direct it. The Legislature may well have thought that upon the question whether the offender would benefit by detention in a Reformatory School or whether under the circumstances imprisonment would be more suitable as well as upon the question of age the Court having the youthful offender before it and observing his appearance and demeanour would be more likely to be right than a superior Court not having that advantage. But there the advantage ends. This section cannot have been intended to enable the most junior Magistrate in the country to make at pleasure orders substituting detention in a Reformatory School for imprisonment in any case whatever for prisoners of any age or class or either sex for any period of time in absolute disregard of the Act without the possibility of correction. If this view is right the words in this section protecting from appellate or revisional interference the substitution of an order for detention in a Reformatory School for transportation or imprisonment must be read with absolute literalness. The substituted orders to which the section refers are orders made under ss. 8 or 9 or 10 not orders made outside the Act and wholly unauthorized by it. If the order is an order for substitution within the meaning of these sections then s. 16 applies and the order cannot be altered or reversed in appeal or revision. If it is not an order for substitution within the meaning of these sections then s. 16 does not apply and it may be altered or reversed like any other illegal order. I do not think that this construction does violence to the terms of this section. It cannot be said that the section is unambiguous but in such a case we are at liberty to put on it a construction in accordance with the intention of the Legislature."—PER STRACHEY C J in 21 A 391 at pp. 395 396, referring to Caledonian Railway Company v North British Railway Company (1881) L. R. 6 App Case 114, ex-parte Bradlaugh (1878) L. R. 3 Q B D 509, and the Colonial Bank of Australasia v Gillan (1874) L. R. 5 P C 417 on the question of construction.

2. Order of detention without conviction illegal.—In 20 A 160, the High Court interfered in revision with a Magisterial order directing the detention of the petitioner in a Reformatory School when the petitioner had not been convicted of any offence and had not been sentenced to any term of imprisonment or transportation for which alone detention in a Reformatory could be substituted.

3. There should be reliable evidence of the age of accused.—In 27 C. 133, at p 136, PRINSEP and HILL, JJ, observed —“We do not desire to be understood as holding that a Magistrate is under no circumstances competent to find from the appearance of a person convicted by him that he is a youthful offender within the definition given in the Act but we think that it is generally desirable that when it is procurable, there should be some reliable evidence on the point, and especially when it may be necessary to determine the period of detention which is limited to his attaining eighteen years of age.”

4. Revision and appeal.—This section only precludes interference of a superior Court with the original Court's order so far as it (a) determines the age of a youthful offender, or (b) directs the substitution of detention in a Reformatory School for transportation or imprisonment, where such detention is not made without jurisdiction, or is not otherwise illegal having regard to the provisions of the Act. 21 A. 391 (F.B.) overruling 20 A. 158 and ibid 159 where it was held that the High Court was in no case competent to interfere in appeal or revision with an order for detention in a Reformatory School passed in substitution for transportation or imprisonment, even though the order is made without jurisdiction or is otherwise illegal. See also 20 A. 160; 1 Bom. L. R. 162; 6 Bom. L. R. 530; 21 M. 430; 25 C. 333; 6 P. R. 1892. It does not affect the jurisdiction of the High Court to consider in revision the legality, etc., of sentence or conviction. 5 C. W. N. 210. See ibid. 211; 2 P. R. 1908 = 7 Cr. L. J. 279; 11 C. W. N. XI.

5. High Court may consider propriety or legality of any sentence.—In 28 C. 423, it was held that the power of the High Court remains intact to consider the propriety or legality of any sentence passed upon a juvenile offender. Cancelling therefore an order of detention for four years, the High Court directed the youthful offender to be whipped by way of discipline. See also 5 C. W. N. 210; 16 P. R. 1907 = 43 P. W. R. 1907, and 5 B. L. R. 173. See, however, 3 C. W. N. 576; 25 Cr. L. J. 1312.

6. What orders may be revised.—(a) Orders of detention of offenders belonging to classes or tribes exempted by the rules. 21 A. 391; 21 C. 133. (b) Order directing a person bound over to furnish security to keep the peace or in default to be imprisoned. 7 Bur. L. R. 80. (c) Order directing detention without passing proper sentence of transportation or imprisonment. 20 A. 160; 27 C. 133; 28 C. 423; 5 C. W. N. 210. (d) Orders containing no clear finding as to age. 24 M. 13; 27 C. 133. (e) Orders of Magistrates not specially empowered. Ratanlal 936, 12 M. 94. (f) Orders directing less than the minimum period of detention.

III—Management of Reformatory Schools

17. (1) For the control and management of every Reformatory School the Local Government shall appoint either (a) Superintendent and a Committee of Visitors or (b) a Board of Management.

(2) Every Committee and every Board so appointed must consist of not less than five persons of whom two at least shall be natives of India.

(3) The Local Government may suspend or remove any Superintendent or any Member of a Committee or Board so appointed.

18. (1) Every Superintendent so appointed may, with the sanction of the Committee, by license under his hand permit any youthful offender sent to a Reformatory School who has attained the age of fourteen years, to live under the charge of any trustworthy and respectable person named in the license, or any officer of Government or of a Municipality, being an employer of labour and willing to receive and take charge of him on the condition that the employer shall keep such youthful offender employed at some trade, occupation or calling.

(2) The license shall be in force for three months and no longer, but may, at any time and from time to time until the expiration of the period for which the youthful offender has been directed to be detained be renewed for three months at a time.

19. The license shall be cancelled at the desire of the employer named in the license.

20. If during the term of the license the employer named therein dies, or ceases from business or to employ labour, or the period for which the youthful offender has been directed to be detained in the Reformatory School expires the license shall thereupon cease and determine.

21. If it appears to the Superintendent that the employer has ill-treated the youthful offender, or has not adequately provided for his lodging and maintenance, the Superintendent may cancel the license.

Superintendent to be deemed guardian of youthful offenders.

22 (1) The Superintendent of a Reformatory School shall be deemed to be the guardian of every youthful offender detained in such school within the meaning of Act XIX of 1850 (concerning the binding of apprentices).

(2) If it appears to the Superintendent that any youthful offender licensed under s. 18 has behaved well during one or more periods of his license the Superintendent may with the sanction of the Committee apprentice him under the provisions of the said Act and on such apprenticeship the right to detain such youthful offender in a Reformatory the unexpired term (if any) of his sentence shall be cancelled.

Power to apprentice youthful offender

Note.—Act XIX of 1850 is an Act for better enabling children and specially orphans and poor children brought up by public charity to learn trades crafts and employments by which when they come to full age they may gain a livelihood.

Duties of Committee of Visitors

(2) If any member of a Committee of Visitors so appointed fails or neglects during a period of six consecutive months to visit the school and assist in the discharge of the duties aforesaid he shall cease to be a member of such Committee.

24 If in exercise of the power conferred by s. 17 the Local Government appoints a Board of Management for any Reformatory School such Board shall have the powers and perform the functions of the Superintendent under ss. 18 to 22 both inclusive and the license mentioned in s. 18 may be under the hand of their Chairman and they shall be deemed to be the guardians of the youthful offenders detained in such school.

Powers of Board of Management

25 The Local Government may declare any body of Trustees or Managers of a School who are willing to act in conformity with the rules referred to in s. 5 clause (d) to be a Board of Management under this Act and thereupon such body or Managers shall have all the powers and perform all the functions of such Board of Management.

Power to appoint Trustees or other Manager of a School to be a Board of Management

26 (1) With the previous sanction of the Local Government every Board of Management of a Reformatory School may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act—

 - (d) visits to and communication with youthful offenders
 - (e) the terms and conditions under which any articles declared by the Board to be "prohibited articles" may be introduced into or removed out of the school

 - (i) the penalties to be imposed for the supply or possession of such articles when supplied or possessed without due authority
 - (j) the punishment of offences committed by youthful offenders and

(2) In the absence of a Board of Management the Local Government may make rules consistent with this Act to regulate for any Reformatory School the matters mentioned in any clause of sub-sec. (1) other than clause (II) (a) and also the mode in which the Committee of Visitors shall conduct their business.

29. A Police-officer may without orders from Magistrate and without a warrant arrest any youthful offender sent to a Reformatory School under this Act who has escaped from such school or from his employer and take him back to such school or to his employer

V—Miscellaneous

- 30 [Repealed by Act III of 1900 Schedule III]

31 (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act or in any other enactment for the time being in force any Court may if it shall think fit instead of sentencing any youthful offender to transportation or imprisonment or directing him to be detained in a Reformatory School order him to be—

(a) discharged after due admonition or

(b) delivered to his parent or to his guardian or nearest adult relative on such parent guardian or relative executing a bond with or without sureties as the Court may require to be responsible for the good behaviour of the youthful offender for any period not exceeding twelve months

(5) The District Magistrate to whom the proceedings are so submitted may thereupon make such order or pass such sentence as he might have made or passed if the case had originally been tried by him.

Held the boy could not be delivered to his parents under this section on their giving a bond as the section did not contemplate a bond being given after the whipping had been inflicted 3 L B R 30 See 25 C 333, as to the class of cases fit to be dealt with under this section

32. When a youthful offender during his period of detention in a Reformatory School is again convicted by a Criminal Court, the sentence of such Court shall commence at once notwithstanding anything to the contrary in s. 397 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882 (now 1898), but the Court shall forthwith report the matter to the Local Government which shall have power to deal with the matter in any way in which it thinks fit.

3. In this Act "Person of European extraction" includes—

(a) persons born in Europe America the West Indies Australia Tasmania New Zealand Natal or the Cape Colony,

(b) the sons and grandsons of such persons, but does not include persons commonly called Eurasians or East Indians

Vagrant

"Vagrant" means a person of European extraction found asking for alms, or wandering about without any employment or visible means of substance

Master of a ship

And in Parts III and V of this Act Magistrate means within the limits of the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay a Presidency Magistrate and outside those limits a person exercising powers under the Code of Criminal Procedure not less than those of a Magistrate of the second class.

PART II—Procedure;

4 Any Police-officer may within the limits of the towns of Calcutta Madras and Bombay, require Power to require apparent vagrant to go before Magistrate.

any person who is apparently a vagrant to accompany him or any other Police-officer to and to appear before the nearest Presidency Magistrate and may without those limits require any such person to accompany him or any other Police-officer to and to appear before the nearest Justice of the Peace exercising the powers of a Magistrate

5 The Presidency Magistrate or Justice shall in such case or in any other case where a person

Summary inquiry into vagrant's circumstances
Declaration of vagrancy

apparently a vagrant comes before him make a summary inquiry into the circumstances and character of the apparent vagrant and if he is satisfied that such person is a vagrant he shall record in his office a declaration to that effect.

If he is further of opinion that the vagrant is not likely to obtain employment at once or if he has reason to believe that a declaration of vagrancy has on any former occasion, been recorded in respect of such vagrant he shall require the vagrant to go to a Government work-house and shall draw up an order to that effect

Order to go to work-house

The vagrant shall then be placed in charge of the Police for the purpose of being forwarded to the work-house and the said order shall be a sufficient authority in the Police for retaining him to their charge while he is on his way to the work-house and to the Governor of the work-house for receiving and detaining such vagrant.

Such order shall be a sufficient authority to the Police for retaining the vagrant in their charge while he is on his way to such place of employment

Note.—Transfer to other Provinces not competent.—Under the terms of this section the transfer of European vagrants from the United Provinces to the other Provinces is contrary to law s. 6 merely authorizes the transfer of a vagrant from the dominions of any allied Prince or State to the jurisdiction of an adjacent local administration, or from one part of a local administration to another Vagrants arrested within the limits of the United Provinces should be dealt with strictly in accordance with the terms of the Act. Such officer shall thereupon to the best of his ability, assist the vagrant in seeking employment, and may, in the meantime, if he thinks fit, keep the vagrant in the charge of the Police.

Should the vagrant fail to obtain suitable employment, within a reasonable time not exceeding fifteen days from such arrival, such officer shall forward him to a Government work house in the manner provided by s 5.

8. Every person while in charge of the Police, whether before inquiry as to his vagrancy, or while he is on his way, under s 5, to the work house, or, under s 6, to a place of employment Subsistence allowance shall be entitled to an allowance for his subsistence at the rate of eight annas per diem.

The Presidency Magistrate or Justice before whom any vagrant is taken under s 7 may, if he thinks fit, order the vagrant to receive a similar allowance while he is seeking employment.

The Local Government shall cause such allowance to be paid out of such funds at its disposal and to such manner as it may, from time to time direct.

9. Any Presidency Magistrate or Justice of the Peace exercising powers as aforesaid may, on being Power to give certificates satisfied that any person of European extraction is not likely to become a vagrant give such person a certificate under his hand stating that for a certain time (mentioning it) not exceeding six months from the date of the certificate, and within certain limits (mentioning them) nothing in ss 4, 5, 6 and 7 shall apply to the holder of such certificate, and thereupon, so long as the certificate remains in force, nothing in ss 4, 5, 6 and 7 shall apply to such person within such limits as aforesaid.

Every such certificate shall be in the form set forth in the first schedule to this Act annexed or as near Form of certificate thereto as circumstances will admit.

10. The cultivator or occupier of any land, or any person who has advanced cash for the cultivation of the crop or produce on any land, or the vendee or mortgagee of such crop or produce or any part thereof, may seize or cause to be seized any cattle trespassing on such land, and doing damage thereto or to any crop or produce thereon and send them or cause them to be sent within twenty-four hours* to the pound established for the village in which the land is situate

All officers of police shall when required aid in preventing (a) resistance to such seizures and (b) rescues from persons making such seizures.

Notes.—1. Negligence is no defence.—The provisions of this section are applicable where a person is guilty of negligence in guarding an animal which strays into the ground or a person not its owner. 9 B 273, Ratanlal 185, 189, Weir I, 437.

2 When cattle may not be seized.—Certain cattle had escaped from the pound and were next day found grazing in charge of their owner, who resisted their being seized again. Held that under the offence under s. 24 Ratanlal 294. Cattle can be seized and impounded Weir I, 709 But where there is no damage done by the trespassing

3 Who may seize cattle.—Where the accused had grown indigo on their own land for a certain factory which supplied the seed and paid for the labour of sowing the crop receiving a certain amount per bhaiga sown, and a factory peon finding some buffaloes grazing on the land and damaging the plants seized them and while taking them to the pound was attacked by the accused and the cattle rescued. Held the factory peon was not a person authorized to seize within the scope of this section as the factory was neither the cultivator nor the occupier of the land and though the factory had some interest in the crop yet the interest was not such as is covered by this section and consequently the accused were not liable to be convicted for rescuing the buffaloes. 9 C. W. N 624 = 2 Cr. L. J. 343 See also Weir I, 437 = 5 M. H. C. R. Ap 29

4 Intentionally causing cattle to enter upon land.—Where the owner actually and wilfully causes cattle to enter upon land to cause damage he is guilty of mischief under s. 425 I. P. C. Weir I, 492, 7 B. 126 See also 29 A 565

11.7 Persons in charge of public roads †; pleasure-grounds plantations canals drainage works embankments, and the like and officers of police may seize or cause to be seized any cattle doing damage to such roads grounds, plantations canals, drainage works embankments and the like or the sides or slopes of such road canals drainage works or embankments or found straying thereon, and shall send them or cause them to be sent within twenty four hours‡ to the nearest pound.

* These words are to be substituted for the original words take them or cause them to be taken without unnecessary delay by Act I of 1891 s. 3
† As to the application of s. 11 to Forests see Act XII of 18 8 s. 69 Act XIX of 1891 s. 69 and Regulation VI of 1892 s. 46
‡ As to the application of s. 11 to Forests see Act XII of 18 8 s. 69 Act XIX of 1891 s. 69 and Regulation VI of 1892 s. 46
The words in square brackets have been substituted for the words take them or cause them to be taken without unnecessary delay by Act I of 1891 s. 4

Notes.—1 Cattle liable to be seized.—The accused forcibly opposed the seizure of their cattle by village officers who found them grazing in a reserved forest. They were acquitted on the ground that there was no trespass, as the cattle had not gone into the reserved forest of themselves but had been driven into it by the accused. On appeal against acquittal held that under s. 63 of Act VII of 1878 and under this section the cattle were liable to seizure. Ratanlal 602

2 No damage necessary under Forest Act.—[This section having been applied to Forests by s. 69 of the Indian Forest Act VII of 1879 the seizure by a Forest-officer of cattle found straying in a reserved forest is legal even if no damage has been actually done. 22 B 933

3 Power of D P W Officer to seize cattle.—Cattle are not liable to seizure by the officers of the Public Works Department unless they were trespassing on public property in charge of the officers of the department. Where therefore the Magistrate had not decided whether the land on which the cattle were seized was public property and in charge of the Public Works Department the conviction was quashed and the case directed to be re-tried. 24 M. 318

12. For every head of cattle as aforesaid the pound-keeper shall levy a fine in accordance with the scale for the time being prescribed by the Local Government in this behalf by notification in the Official Gazette. Different scales may be prescribed for different local areas.

All fines so levied shall be sent to the Magistrate of the District through such officer as the Local Government may direct.

A list of the fines and of the rates of charge for feeding and watering cattle shall be posted in a conspicuous place on or near to every pound.

[S. 12 was substituted by the present section by Act XXII of 1911]

Notes.—1 Fine levied under this section does not exempt owner from punishment.—A fine levied by a pound-keeper is not a punishment on conviction for an offence and it is an error to hold that a person cannot be tried for an offence of having contravened the Municipal Rules by allowing his cattle to stray, because he has paid a fine under this section. 7 B H C R Cr Ca 55

2 Areas within which fines at double rates are leviable.—On every head of cattle which may be seized and impounded fines at double the rate specified in this section shall be levied in (a) portions of the Nilgiris District (Fort St. George Gazette 1897, Pt. I p. 1077), (b) The Cantonment of Wellington (Fort St. George Gazette 1899 Pt. I p. 1110) (c) Wynaad Taluk Malabar District (Fort St. George Gazette, 1891 Pt. I p. 844) (d) The area comprised within a radius of 3 miles from The Emerald Valley (Fort St. George Gazette 1903 Pt. I p. 767) (e) The Cantonment of St. Thomas Mount (Fort St. George Gazette, 1903 Pt. I p. 1065)

CHAPTER IV

DELIVERY OR SALL OF CATTLE

13 If the owner of impounded cattle or his agent appear and claim the cattle the pound-keeper shall deliver them to him on payment of the fines and charges incurred in respect of such cattle.

The owner or his agent on taking back the cattle shall sign a receipt for them in the register kept by the pound-keeper.

14. If the cattle be not claimed within seven days from the date of their being impounded, the pound-keeper shall report the fact to the officer in charge of the nearest Police-station or to such other officer as the Magistrate of the District appoints in this behalf.

Such officer shall thereupon stick up in a conspicuous part of his office a notice stating—

- (a) the number and description of the cattle
- (b) the place where they were seized
- (c) the place where they are impounded and shall cause proclamation of the same to be made by beat of drum in the village at the market place nearest to the place of seizure.

Procedure when owner claims the cattle and pays fines and charges

Procedure if cattle be not claimed within a week.

If the cattle be not claimed within seven days from the date of the notice they shall be sold by public auction by the said officer or an officer of his establishment deputed for that purpose at such place and time and subject to such conditions as the Magistrate of the District by general or special order from time to time directs

Provided that if any such cattle are in the opinion of the Magistrate of the District, not likely to fetch a fair price if sold as aforesaid they may be disposed of in such manner as he thinks fit.

15 If the owner or his agent appear and refuse to pay the said fines and expenses on the ground that the seizure was illegal and that the owner is about to make a complaint under s 20 then upon deposit of the fines and charges incurred in respect of the cattle the cattle shall be delivered to him

Duty to owner disputing legality of seizure but not to deposit

16. If the owner or his agent appear and refuse or omit to pay or (in the case mentioned in s 15) to deposit the said fines and expenses the cattle or as many of them as may be necessary, shall be sold by public auction by such officer at such place and time and subject to such conditions as are referred to in s. 14

Procedure when owner refuses or omits to pay the fines and expenses.

Deduction of fines and expenses

The fines leviable and the expenses of feeding and watering together with the expenses of sale if any shall be deducted from the proceeds of the sale.

Delivery of unsold cattle and balance of proceeds

The remaining cattle and the balance of the purchase-money, if any, shall be delivered to the owner or his agent, together with an account showing—

- (a) the number of cattle seized
- (b) the time during which they have been impounded
- (c) the amount of fines and charges incurred
- (d) the number of cattle sold
- (e) the proceeds of sale and
- (f) the manner in which those proceeds have been disposed of.

Receipt The owner or his agent shall give a receipt for the cattle delivered to him and for the balance of the purchase-money (if any) paid to him according to such account.

Disposal of fines, expenses and surplus proceeds of sales.

17 The officer by whom the sale was made shall send to the Magistrate of the District the fines so deducted

The charges for feeding and watering deducted under s 16 shall be paid over to the pound-keeper who shall also retain and appropriate all sums received by him on account of such charges under s 18

The surplus unclaimed proceeds of the sale of cattle shall be sent to the Magistrate of the District who shall hold them in deposit for three months and, if no claim thereto be preferred and established within that period shall at its expiry dispose of them as hereinafter provided

Application of fines and unclaimed proceeds of sales

18 Out of the sums received on account of fines and the unclaimed proceeds of the sale of cattle shall be paid—

- (a) the salaries allowed to pound keepers under the orders of the Local Government
- (b) the expenses incurred for the construction and maintenance of pounds or for any other purpose connected with the execution of this Act and the surplus * (if any) shall be applied under orders of the Local Government to the construction and repair of roads and bridges and to other purposes of public utility

Officers and pound keepers not to purchase cattle at sales under Act

19 No officer of police or other officer or pound-keeper appointed under the provisions herein contained shall directly or indirectly purchase any cattle at a sale under this Act.

No pound-keeper shall release or deliver any impounded cattle otherwise than in accordance with the former part of this Chapter, unless such release or delivery is ordered by a Magistrate or Civil Court.

* As to the credit of the surplus to Local Fund see s 21 infra

Note.—Purchase not at a sale.—Where the accused, a Sub-Inspector of Police was convicted of a criminal breach of trust in respect of a pony impounded at his station in contravention of the provisions of this section, and the Magistrate found that there had been no public sale, but that the accused paid almost the approximate value of the animal. Krup, OIRG C.J., observed in setting aside the conviction "It is to be regretted in this case that the Magistrate did not proceed under s 19 of Act I of 1871, taken with s 169, I.P.C.; but as the Magistrate found on evidence that no sale took place and has convicted the accused, we must hold as a point of law that the prisoner has not committed any offence under s 405, I.P.C." 8 B. L. R. Appx. I

CHAPTER V.

COMPLAINTS OF ILLEGAL SEIZURE OR DETENTION

20. Any person whose cattle have been seized under this Act, or, having been so seized, have been detained in contravention of this Act, may, at any time within ten days from the date of the seizure, make a complaint to the Magistrate of the District or any Magistrate authorized to receive and try charges without reference by the Magistrate of the District.

Power to make complaint

Notes.—1. Illegal seizure of cattle is an "offence"—By s 4 (c) of the Cr P C. as now enacted the word "offence" includes an act in respect of which a complaint may be made under this section, therefore an illegal seizure of cattle is now an offence. 29 M 517; 4 L. B. R. 11 = 6 Cr. L. J. 122 and 34 C. 926 The Rulings under s 22, infra reported in 9 M. 102; 13 C. 304, 15 C. 712, 23 C. 249, 18 A. 353, 2 C. L. R. 507; 9 M. 374, and 233 C. 442, at p 445 are now superseded. See Notes under s 4 (c) of the Code.

2. Summary trial.—Offences under this section may be tried summarily. See s 260 (1) (m) Cr P C

3. District Magistrate may transfer.—s. 192 (1) Cr. P. C.—Although a complaint under this section must be entertained by a District Magistrate or a Magistrate specially authorized, such Magistrate has now power, under s 192 (1), Cr P C, to transfer the case after taking cognizance of it, to any Subordinate Magistrate. 34 C. 926; 23 C. 300 and 442 are no longer law. See also 26 P. R. 1879.

4. Any Magistrate may try the offence.—Though a complaint under this section must be entertained by the District Magistrate or Magistrate specially empowered, any Magistrate may try the same on transfer, as it is an 'offence' (see Note 1 above) falling within the first clause of Schedule II to the Cr P C. 34 C. 926.

5. Suit for compensation will lie for wrongful seizure.—The provisions of this Act are no bar to a suit for compensation for wrongful seizure. 16 C. 159 where 15 W. R. 279 Civ. is followed, while 2 C. L. R. 344 is dissented from.

6. Impounding in private pound.—It is no offence if the owner of a field distrains cattle damaging his crops and impounds them in his private pounds and realizes compensation for the damage from the owners of the cattle before releasing the cattle. 14 C. W. N. CCXXXVIII.

7. Charges means complaints.—See 11 C. P. L. R. 10.

21. The complaint shall be made by the complainant in person, or by an agent personally acquainted with the circumstances. It may be either in writing, or verbal. If it be verbal, the substance of it shall be taken down in writing by the Magistrate.

Proceed in complaint

If the Magistrate, on examining the complainant or his agent sees reason to believe the complaint to be well-founded, he shall summon the person complained against, and make an enquiry into the case.

Note.—Who may complain.—The person entitled to complain under this section is either the complainant in person or in person or personally acquainted with the circumstances. Where the cattle belonging to one person are in the custody of another and are seized from that custody the owner if he is not personally acquainted with the facts and circumstances is not entitled to institute a complaint under this section. 5 Bom. L. R. 205.

22. If the seizure or detention be adjudged illegal, the Magistrate shall award to the complainant for the loss caused by the seizure or detention, reasonable compensation, not exceeding one hundred rupees, to be paid by the person who made the seizure or detained the cattle, together with all fines paid and expenses incurred by the complainant in procuring the release of the cattle

And, if the cattle have not been released, the Magistrate shall, besides awarding such compensation order their release and direct that the fines and expenses leviable under this Act shall be paid by the person who made the seizure or detained the cattle

Notes—1. Compensation for loss caused by the seizure and detention—Court fees.—"These words do not necessarily refer only to such special damage as is sustained by the seizure and detention prior to the release of the cattle, but also include all expenses necessarily incurred by reason of such seizure and detention, though it may be after the release. The Legislature intended to provide a summary and expeditious mode of recovering compensation for loss caused by such seizure and detention, probably on the ground that it is generally so small that it would be deemed inexpedient to have recourse to a regular suit for its recovery. The language is wide enough to include the Court and process fees necessarily paid on account of the refusal to make compensation or refund the fine paid and a narrower construction would, I think, defeat the intention of the Legislature.—Per MUTTUSAMY AIVAR, J. 7 M. 345 at p 346; see also 4 L B. R. 11 = 6 Cr L. J. 122. An order which awards distinct amounts for compensation and for Court and process fees, though improperly worded is not bad in law if the intention was to include the costs in the compensation. Weir I, 715.

2. Complainant not entitled to compensation unless he makes a specific claim—A complainant who makes no claim for compensation for loss caused by the illegal seizure of cattle, is not entitled to any compensation, but he is entitled to a refund of the expenses incurred in procuring the release of the cattle from the pound keeper and is also entitled under s 31 of the Court Fees Act to the refund of the fees paid on the complaint and the process fees which he had paid, because the word offence in the Cr P C includes any act in respect of which a complaint may be made under this section. 4 L B. R. 11 = 6 Cr L. J. 122.

3 Sufficiency of compensation—Where some compensation was awarded in addition to the sum allowed on account of the fines paid and 'expenses incurred in procuring the release of cattle,' it was held, that the High Court would not consider the sufficiency or insufficiency of the amount allowed. Weir I, 715.

4. Nature of Proceedings—Proceedings under this section are quasi civil in their nature, a Magistrate being at liberty under this section to assess and enforce, in a summary manner, compensation for an injury for which a civil action might be brought. An order, therefore for the payment of a sum as fine and compensation, passed against two persons under this section, which does not specify the proportionate amount payable by each, is good. 14 C 175.

5. Magistrate cannot refer parties to Civil Court.—This chapter of the Act has no penal clause. It is compensation that is to be awarded and the granting of the power to award compensation ought to carry with it the power of deciding if the grounds on which the compensation is asked are good or bad. Where there was a dispute as to the ownership of the land on which cattle were found grazing before they were impounded, it was held that the order of the Magistrate referring the parties to the Civil Court was illegal, and that the Magistrate should have disposed of the case himself under this section. 23 W. R. 2.

6. Fine cannot be imposed under this section—A Magistrate is not competent under this section to pass any sentence of fine. He can only award compensation for illegal seizure of cattle. 27 C. 992; 25 F. R. 1878. A sentence of fine in addition to the amount awarded as compensation is illegal. 7 M H C. R. App 24; 5 P R. 1860. Where an order under this section designated the amount payable as a fine, it was held the irregularity was merely one of form, and that the order was not illegal, as the intention to award compensation was clear. Weir I, 715.

7. Imprisonment in default of payment bad—A sentence of imprisonment, in default of payment of compensation adjudged, is illegal. Weir I, 711 followed in Weir I, 712; 27 C. 992; 2 C. L. R. 507 followed in 22 C. 139; 19 M. 238

8 Procedure on default of payment of compensation—In default of payment of compensation, the procedure to be followed is that prescribed in s. 386 Cr P C Weir I, 711 and see next section

9 Appeal lies against order granting compensation, etc—Having regard to the definition of offence in s. 4 (o) of the Cr P C. of 1898 it was held that an appeal lies under s. 407 Cr P C., against an order under this section and that the person against whom the order is made is a person convicted on a trial Weir I, 712 = 29 M 517, 4 L. B. R. 10 = 6 Cr. L. J. 121 The Rulings in 10 B 230, 11 M 359, Weir I, 711, Ratanlal 520, 15 C. 712, 23 C. 300, 9 M 374 and 19 M 238 must be regarded as no longer law An order awarding compensation and repayment of fines etc. under this section is appealable under s. 408 of the Cr P C The compensation so awarded is not a fine and consequently the restrictive provisions of s. 413 of the Cr P C. do not apply 46 Bom 58 = 23 Bom. L. R. 836

10 Distinction between compensation under s. 250, Cr P C., and under this section—S. 250 of the Cr P C. applies to a case in which compensation is awarded to an accused person because a frivolous complaint is made against him Under this section compensation is awarded not to the accused but to the complainant. 29 M 517 and see Notes under s. 250 Cr P C.

11. Acts amounting to theft should not be treated as illegal seizure.—An accused was found to have loosed the complainant's cattle at night from a cattle-pen and to have driven them to the pound with the object of sharing with the pound keeper the fees to be paid for their release He was proceeded against under this Act and under the provisions of this section ordered to pay compensation to the complainant and in default to undergo one month's rigorous imprisonment. Held that this section was inapplicable to the facts of the case and that the order must be set aside On the facts it was not a case of illegal seizure and detention of cattle but rather one of theft as all the elements of that offence were present and the accused should have been charged with and tried for that offence 22 C 139

23 The compensation fines and expenses mentioned in s. 22 may be recovered
 Recovery of compensation as if they were fines imposed by the Magistrate

Notes.—The General Clauses Act X of 1897 s. 3 (2c) declares the provisions of I P C s. 70 and Cr P C., s. 386 as to levy of fines applicable to fines imposed under other Acts and Regulations. The ordinary mode of levying a fine is laid down by s. 386 22 C 139 See Note 8 to s. 22 supra

PENALTIES.

24 Whoever forcibly opposes the seizure of cattle liable to be seized under this Act
 Penalty for forcibly opposing the seizure of cattle by opposing the same and whoever rescues the same after seizure either from a pound or from any person taking or about to take them to a pound such person being near at hand and acting under the powers conferred by this Act shall on conviction before a Magistrate be punished with imprisonment for a period not exceeding six months or with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees or with both

Notes—1 Opposing seizure of cattle not "liable to be seized" no offence.—(i) Certain cattle impounded in a cattle-pound escaped. The next day they were grazing in charge of their owner the accused. The Police patel attempting to seize them again the accused resisted and the patel instead of attempting to seize the cattle lodged a complaint before a Magistrate who under this section fined the accused Rs. 3 Held that to resist the seizure of cattle under the circumstances was not an offence punishable under this section. Ratanlal 294; 4 P. R. 1891 (ii) When cattle have left the place where they were doing damage they are not liable to be seized and if any person opposes their seizure he is not guilty of any offence under this section 4 P. R. 1891 (iii) The conviction under this section can only be supported if the cattle were "liable to be seized under this Act otherwise their rescue is no offence and the fact the rescuers had a special remedy under s. 20 supra does not affect the matter" 24 M. 318, see 23 C. W. N. 337, 1 Pat. L. J. 176. See also Notes 2 and 3 to s. 10 above.

2 Where the accused removed bullocks from the cattle-pound and returned them to the true owner held they were not guilty of theft as there was no dishonest intent but only of an offence of pound breach under this section Wair I, 716

* 25. Any fine imposed † [under the next following section or] for the offence of mischief by causing cattle to trespass on any land may be recovered by sale of all or any of the cattle by which the trespass was committed whether they were seized in the act of trespassing or not and whether they are the property of the person convicted of the offence or were only in his charge when the trespass was committed

26. Any owner or keeper of pigs who through neglect or otherwise damages or causes or permit to be damaged any land or any crop or produce of land or any public road ‡ by allowing such pigs to trespass thereon shall on conviction before a Magistrate be punished with fine not exceeding ten rupees

[The Local Government by notification in the Official Gazette may from time to time with respect to any local area specified in the notification direct that the foregoing portion of this section shall be read as if it had reference to cattle generally or to cattle of a kind specified in the notification instead of to pigs only or as if the words 'fifty rupees' were substituted for the words 'ten rupees', or as if there were both such reference and such substitution] §

[The Local Government may at any time by notification in the Official Gazette cancel or vary a notification under this section] §

Notes—1 Neglect must be proved—Before any person can be convicted under this section the prosecution must establish that the owner has through neglect or otherwise damaged or caused or permitted to be damaged land etc by allowing his cattle to trespass thereon. A personal neglect on the part of the owner and his allowing his cattle to trespass must if they cannot be inferred from the circumstances of the case be shown affirmatively to exist Ratanlal 867

2 Where a Magistrate passed the maximum sentence in the absence of clear evidence of damage the High Court reduced the sentence 2 Bom L R 335

3 Proof of intention or knowledge necessary in case of other animals—In the case of other animals there must be an intention to cause damage or a knowledge that damage is likely to be caused. When therefore the accused admitted that he was the owner of a buffalo and that it had done damage to complainant's property but when intention or knowledge on the part of the owner was neither charged nor proved the conviction and sentence were reversed Ratanlal 60, 21 Bom L R 247.

NE—It will be observed that this Ruling will be applicable until the Local Government have published the notification referred to in clause 2 of this section. When such notification is published an intention to cause damage will not have to be proved &c other cattle will be equi to pigs

4 Extension of the section—This section shall be read as if it had reference to cattle generally instead of pigs only and as if the words 'fifty rupees' were substituted for the words 'ten rupees' in the following areas in the Madras Presidency:—(a) Portion of the Nizami District (Fort St. George Gazette 1897 Pt I p 1077) (b) The Nyanad Taluk Malabar District (Gazette 1891 Pt I p 894 and 1898 Pt I p 171) (c) (Kodankanal Gazette 1894 Pt I p 1221) (d) Deputy Commissioner's Division of Tercut Salem District (Gazette 1891 Pt I p 128) (e) certain Pudugais in the Salem District (Gazette 1899 Pt I p 298)

* As to its applicability in the case of cattle trespassing see Ratanlal 865—Act IX of 1899 s 195 (1)

† These words in s 25 were inserted by Act I of 1891 s 7

Added by Act I of 1891 s 8

27. Any pound keeper releasing or purchasing or delivering cattle contrary to the provisions of s. 19, or omitting to provide any impounded cattle with sufficient food and water, or failing to perform any of the other duties imposed upon him by this Act, shall, over and above any other penalty to which he may be liable, be punished on conviction before a Magistrate, with fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

Such fines may be recovered by deductions from the pound keeper's salary.

Notes.—1. Who is not a pound-keeper.—A person merely entrusted by a Police pahel who is ex officio pound keeper, to look after the impounded cattle and to water them, cannot be convicted under this section. 9 B. H. C. R. 164.

2. A cattle pound keeper levied Rs. 5 for five buffaloes in his charge, but gave a receipt for Rs. 4 only to the owner of the cattle and entered only Rs. 4 in his accounts but before the money was paid into the treasury altered his accounts and entered the proper amount. In such a case he cannot be charged under this section, but he should be charged under ss. 409 and 511, I. P. C. Ratanlal 632.

Application of fines recovered under ss. 25, 26 or 27

28. All fines recovered under ss. 25, 26 or 27 may be appropriated in whole or in part as compensation for loss or damage proved to the satisfaction of the convicting Magistrate.

CHAPTER VII

SUITS FOR COMPENSATION

Saving of right to sue for compensation

29. Nothing herein contained prohibits any person whose crops or other produce of land have been damaged by trespass of cattle from suing for compensation in any competent Court.

Set off

30. Any compensation paid to such person under this Act by order of the convicting Magistrate shall be set off and deducted from any sum claimed by or awarded to him as compensation in such suit.

CHAPTER VIII

SUPPLEMENTAL

(b) direct that the whole or any part of the surplus accruing in any district under s. 18 of this Act shall be placed to the credit of such Local Fund or Funds as may be formed for any local areas or local areas comprised in that district,

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the laws relating to Coroners in the Presidency-town, It is hereby enacted as follows —

(a) in any case in which the Local Government may by rule so require

(b) in any case in which death appears to have been caused by violence or there is any doubt regarding the cause of death

(c) in any other case in which the Police-officer considers it expedient so to do he shall cause the body to be examined by a medical officer appointed in this behalf by the Local Government.

Every person so summoned shall be bound to attend and to answer truly all questions other than questions the answer to which would have a tendency to expose him to a criminal charge or to a penalty or forfeiture.

(5) If the facts do not disclose a cognizable offence to which s. 170 applies such persons shall not be required by the Police-officer to attend a Magistrate's Court

175 Power to make rules and orders with respect to investigations by other authorities than officers in charge of Police stations. (1) The Local Government may make rules and the Commissioner of Police may from time to time make general or special orders consistent with those rules defining—

(a) the circumstances in which an officer in charge of a Police station after giving intimation to the Commissioner of Police of any such event as is mentioned in clause (a) clause (b) or clause (c) of sub-sec. (1) of the last foregoing section is not to proceed to discharge any of the further functions of such an officer under that section and

(b) the circumstances in which and in such circumstances the authority by whom those further functions are to be discharged.

(2) The authority to whom the discharge of such further functions may be entrusted by rules or orders under sub-sec. (1) may be the Commissioner of Police or any of his Deputies or Assistants or any other officer of rank not below that of Inspector and such authority in discharge of those functions may exercise any of the powers and shall perform the duties which but for such rules or orders might be exercised and should be performed by the officer in charge of the Police station

176 Provisions with respect to inquiries by Presidency Magistrates and the disinterment of dead bodies. (2) Whenever the Commissioner of Police or a Presidency Magistrate considers it expedient for the discovery of the cause of death of a deceased person whose body has been interred that an examination should be made of the dead body such Commissioner or Magistrate as the case may be may cause the body to be disinterred and examined

CHAPTER III.

DUTIES AND POWERS OF CORONERS

8. When a Coroner has reason to believe that the death of any person has been caused by accident homicide, suicide, or suddenly by means unknown, or that any person, being a Jurisdiction to enquire into deaths prisoner, has died in prison and that the body is lying within the place for which the Coroner is so appointed, the Coroner shall enquire into the cause of death.

Every such enquiry shall be deemed a judicial proceeding within the meaning of s. 193 of the Indian Penal Code

Notes.—1. Amendment.—The words “has reason to believe” were substituted for the words “is informed” by s. 5, Coroners’ Act of 1881

2. Right of Coroner to hold inquests.—The Coroner has not an absolute right to hold inquests in every case in which he chooses to do so (See R v Kent, JJ, 41 East, 229.) It would be intolerable if he had power to intrude without adequate cause upon the privacy of a family in distress, and to interfere with their arrangements for a funeral. Nothing can justify such interference except a reasonable suspicion that there may have been something peculiar in the death—that it may have been due to other causes than common illness. In such cases the Coroner not only may, but ought to hold an inquest R v Price, 12 Q. B. D. 247. And a Coroner is justified in holding an inquest if he honestly believes in the truth of the information given to him which if true would make it his duty to hold such inquest. R v Stephenson, 13 Q. B. D. 331.

3. No analogy between a Coroner’s inquest and inquiry by Magistrate under s. 176, Cr. P. C.—Some comparison has been made between a Coroner’s inquiry and the inquiry under s. 135 (now s. 176), Cr. P. C. As far as I can see the only semblance of any basis for that comparison arises out of the word ‘inquest’ which is used not in s. 176, but in the earlier sections where the Legislature apportions the various duties of Magistrates. I think that we ought not to introduce any analogy which does not really exist. The proceedings of a Coroner are in their nature regular criminal proceedings having a distinct result and a result upon which, if it affects any particular person at all ulterior proceedings can be taken against that person. I think also I am speaking correctly, when I say that even in some cases where no particular person was affected still the result of the verdict of the Coroner’s jury might be to affect a forfeiture of property to the Crown. No doubt some of the results do not exist now and have fallen into disuse, but we must I think, remember what the Coroner’s inquest originally was when we are asked to consider why it results in a finding’—Per MARKBY, J, in 3 C. 742 at p. 752 = 3 C. L. R. 59.

9. Whenever a prisoner dies in a prison situate within the place for which a Coroner is so appointed the Superintendent of the Prison shall send for the Coroner before the body is disposed of* Any Superintendent failing herein shall on conviction before a Magistrate be Coroner to be sent for when prisoner dies punished with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Nothing in the former part of this section applies to cases in which the death has been caused by cholera or other epidemic disease

Note.—The words ‘disposal of’ have been substituted for the word ‘buried’ by s. 2 of Act IV of 1908

10. Whenever an inquest ought to be holden on any body lying dead within the local limits of the jurisdiction of any Coroner, he shall hold such inquest whether or not the cause of death arose within his jurisdiction.
Power to hold inquests on bodies within local limits wherever cause of death occurred

11. A Coroner may order a body to be disinterred within a reasonable time after the death of the deceased person, either for the purpose of taking an original inquisition where none has been taken or a further inquisition where the Coroner considers it necessary or
Power to order body to be disinterred desirable in the interests of justice to take a further inquisition

Note.—The words in italics were substituted for the words ‘where the first was insufficient’—S 3 of Act IV of 1908 Cf s. 176, para 2 of the Code

12. On receiving notice of any death mentioned in s. 8 the Coroner shall summon five, seven, nine, eleven, thirteen or fifteen respectable persons to appear before him at a time and place to be specified in the summons for the purpose of enquiring when, how and by what means the deceased came by his death.

Summoning jury

Inquest may be on Sunday

Any inquest under this Act may be held on a Sunday

13. When the time arrives the Coroner shall proceed to the place so specified open the Court by proclamation and call over the names of the jurors.

Opening Court.

14. When a sufficient jury is in attendance, he shall administer an oath to each juror to give a true verdict according to the evidence and shall then proceed with the jury to view the body.

Jurors to be sworn

15. The Coroner and the jury shall view and examine the body at the first sitting of the inquest, and the Coroner shall make such observations to the jury as the appearance of the body requires.

View of body

[^a Provided that the Coroner may, with the concurrence of a majority of the jury dispense with a view of the body if he is satisfied from medical evidence or medical certificates that no advantage would result from such viewing.]^{*}

16. The Coroner shall then make proclamation for the attendance of witnesses or where the inquiry is conducted in secret shall call in separately such as know anything concerning the death.

Proclamation for witnesses

17. It shall be the duty of all persons acquainted with the circumstances attending the death to appear before the inquest as witnesses the Coroner shall enquire of such circumstances and the cause of the death and if before or during the inquiry he is informed that any person whether within or without the local limits of his jurisdiction can give evidence or produce any document material hereto may issue a summons requiring him to attend and give evidence or produce such document on the inquest.

Summoning witnesses.

Any person disobeying such summons shall be deemed to have committed an offence under ss. 174, 175 or 176 of the Indian Penal Code, as the case may be.

For the purpose of causing prisoners to be brought up to give evidence the Coroner shall be deemed Criminal Court within the meaning of [Part IV of the Prisoners Act 1890].[†]

18. The Coroner may direct the performance of a Post mortem examination with or without an analysis of the contents of the stomach or intestines by any medical witness summoned to attend the inquest.

Post mortem examination not obligatory.

and every medical witness (other than the Chemical Examiner to Government) shall be entitled to such reasonable remuneration as the Coroner thinks fit.

Fees to medical witnesses

18A. Any document purporting to be a report under the hand of any Chemical Examiner or Assistant Chemical Examiner to Government upon any matter or thing duly submitted to him for examination or analysis and report in the course of any proceeding under this Act, may be used as evidence in any inquest under this Act and in any subsequent inquiry trial or other proceeding under the Code of Criminal Procedure 1894.

Report of Chemical Examiner

Note.—This section has been added by s. 6 of Act IV of 1908.

19. All evidence given under this Act shall be on oath and the Coroner shall be bound to receive evidence on behalf of the party (if any) accused of causing the death of the deceased person.

Evidence to be on oath
Evidence on behalf of accused

[†] The first two parts of s. 17 have been substituted by Act X of 1961 s. 4

[‡] Portions in brackets added by s. 6 of Act IV of 1908.

Witnesses unacquainted with the English language shall be examined through the medium of an interpreter, who shall be sworn to interpret truly as well the oath as the questions put to and the answers given by the witnesses

After each witness has been examined, the Coroner shall enquire whether the jury wish any further questions suggested by questions to be put to the witness, and if the jury wish that any such questions should be put, the Coroner shall put them accordingly

Note.—A statement made on oath by an accused person before the Coroner is inadmissible in evidence against the accused inasmuch as the whole spirit of the Coroners' Act is that all persons acquainted with the crime except the person implicated shall be examined as witness on oath by the Coroner under s 19 of this Act. If, by inadvertence, any such person is put on oath and examined, such a statement, immediately it is found that he is in the position of an accused, should be struck off the record and the person told that he is in the position of an accused person and if he wishes to make a statement he might and that otherwise he is not bound to make any statement at all 50 B. 55.

Contrary to the above decision, it was held in 50 B. 111 that the statement of a suspect under s 19 of the Coroners' Act was admissible against the suspect in a Sessions trial as a confession under s 26 of the Evidence Act, or as a statement made by a party to a proceeding under ss 18 and 21 of that Act, per FAWCETT, J.—The Coroners' Act distinctly contemplates that the Coroner may take the statement of an accused person who is in the custody of the police, because s 20 of the Coroners' Act provides that a Coroner shall be deemed to be a Magistrate for the purpose of s 26 of the Evidence Act. Emperor v Dawood Kazi, 50 B. 55 dissented from

20. The Coroner shall commit to writing the material parts of the evidence given to the jury, and shall read or cause to be read over such parts to the witness, and then procure his signature thereto

Any witness refusing so to sign shall be deemed to have committed an offence under s 180 of the Indian Penal Code

Every such deposition shall be subscribed by the Coroner

For the purposes of s 26 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, a Coroner shall be deemed to be a Magistrate*

21. The Coroner may adjourn the inquest from time to time, and from place to place

Whenever the inquest is adjourned, the Coroners shall take the recognizances of the jurors to attend at the time and place appointed, and notify to the witnesses when and where the inquest will be proceeded with

The amount of such recognizances shall in each case be fixed by the Coroner [and the whole, or such part thereof as the Coroner seems fit, shall, in default of attendance by the jurors be recoverable in the same manner as a fine imposed under section 31]†

22. When all the witnesses have been examined, the Coroner shall sum up the evidence to the jury, and the jury shall then consider their verdict.

23. When the verdict is delivered the Coroner shall draw up the inquisition according to the finding of the jury, or, when the jury is not unanimous, according to the opinion of the majority

Every inquisition under this Act shall be signed by the Coroner with his name and style of office and by the jurors, and shall set forth—

- (1) where, when and before whom the inquisition is holden,
- (2) who the deceased is,
- (3) where his body lies
- (4) the names of the jurors and that they present the inquisition upon oath,
- (5) where, when and by what means the deceased came by his death and
- (6) if his death was occasioned by the criminal act of another, who is guilty thereof

* This clause has been added by Act V of 1881 s 7

† Added by s 7 of Act IV of 1895

If the name of the deceased be unknown, he may be described as a certain person to the jurors unknown.

Every such inquisition shall be in the form set forth in the second schedule hereto annexed with such variation as the circumstances of each case require.

Note.—Inquisition.—A Coroner's inquisition is a certificate of the verdict of the jury "setting forth so far as such particulars have been proved to them, who the deceased was, and how, when, and where the deceased came by his death, and if he came by his death by murder or manslaughter, the person, if any, whom the jury find to have been guilty of such murder or manslaughter, or of being accessories before the fact to such murder"—WHARTON, 'Such an inquisition amounts to an indictment [R v Ingham, 5 B. and S. 237 = 33 L. J. (Q. B.) 183] and by LORD COKE, and the older law writers, is frequently designated by that name, and a defendant is arraigned upon it in the same way as upon an indictment, and he may plead, or take exception to it precisely as if it had been found by a grand jury'—ARCHBOLD, p. 159 and see 31 G. 1

25. When the jury or a majority of the jury find that the death of the deceased person was occasioned by an act which amounts to an offence under any law in force in British India, the Coroner shall immediately after the inquest, forward a copy of the inquisition, together with the names and addresses of the witnesses, to the Commissioner of Police

Procedure where death is found due to an act amounting to an offence

Notes.—1. Amendment.—The Amending Act IV of 1908 s. 8, substituted this section for the old section which was as follows—

'When the verdict is that the death has been caused by culpable homicide amounting to murder or by culpable homicide not amounting to murder, or by rash or negligent act not amounting to culpable homicide, the Coroner shall bind by recognizance any person knowing or declaring anything material touching such murder, homicide or act to appear at the next criminal sessions at which the trial is to be, then and there to prosecute or give evidence against the party charged.

Procedure where verdict amounts to murder culpable homicide or killing by negligence

The Coroner shall certify and subscribe such recognizances and shall, immediately after the inquest, deliver them together with the inquisition and evidence to the proper officer of the Court in which the trial is to be

Coroner to certify and deliver inquisition, depositions and recognizances

2 Effect of Amendment.—Coroners cannot commit.—Under the Act as it stood before the Amending Act IV of 1908, it was held that in view of the provisions contained in ss. 24, 27 and 29 of this Act and s. 11 of the Prisoners Act 1900 the drawing up of an inquisition by the Coroner had the effect of a commitment of the accused to the High Court in the exercise of its Original Criminal Jurisdiction. (1887) Ind. Jar. (N.S.) 101; changes to avoid the conflict between the two concurrent jurisdictions, namely those of the Coroner and the Magistrate. The Amendments made deprive the effect of a commitment to the inquisition and now the Coroner can only send under s. 26 of the accused to the Magistrate empowered to commit for trial.

26. The Coroner may also where the verdict justifies him in so doing, issue his warrant for the apprehension of the person who is found to have caused the death of the deceased person and send him forthwith to a Magistrate empowered to commit him for trial.

Power to arrest and commit for trial

Amendment.—This section has been substituted by s. 9 of Act IV of 1908 for the old section which was as follows—

'The Coroner shall also where the verdict justifies him in so doing, issue his warrant for the apprehension of the person accused and commit him to prison until he is thence discharged by due course of law, or, if he be already in prison, issue a detainer to the officer in charge of the jail in which he is.'

Warrant may not be issued

27. [Repealed by s 10 of Act II of 1903]

Note.—The repealed section was as follows —

In cases where the jury has found against any person a verdict of culpable homicide not amounting to murder or of killing by a rash or negligent act not amounting to culpable homicide the Coroner may if he thinks fit, accept bail with sufficient sureties for the appearance of such person at the next Criminal Sessions and thereupon such person, if in custody of any officer of the Coroners Court or in any jail under a warrant of commitment issued by the Coroner shall be discharged therefrom."

28 When the proceedings are closed or before it it be necessary to adjourn the inquest, the Coroner shall give his warrant for the disposal of the body on which the inquest has been taken.

Warrant for burial

29 No inquisition found upon or by any inquest shall be quashed for any technical defect

Inquisition not to be quashed for want of form

In any case of technical defect a Judge of the High Court may if he thinks fit order the inquisition to be amended, and the same shall forthwith be amended accordingly

Amendment of non est

Note.—Defective Inquisition.—In England if the inquisition is defective it may be brought up with the depositions by certiorari to the King's Bench Division of the High Court and quashed. R v Clerk of Ass of Oxford Circuit (1897) 1 Q B. 370 — 18 Cox 518

30 It shall no longer be the duty of the Coroner to enquire whether any person dying by his own act was or was not felo de se, to enquire of treasure-trove or wrecks to seize any fugitive goods to execute process or to exercise as Coroner any jurisdiction not expressly conferred by this Act.

Coroner not to enquire as to treasure-trove wrecks etc.

Felo de se

A felo de se shall not forfeit his goods.

Deodand

Deodands are hereby abolished.

Note.—1 Felo de se.—"A felo de se is he that deliberately puts an end to his own existence or commits an unlawful malicious act the consequence of which is his own death as if attempting to kill another he runs upon his antagonist's sword or shooting at another the gun bursts and kills himself. The party must be of years of discretion and in his senses else it is no crime. But this excuse ought not to be strained to that length to which our Coroner's juries are apt to carry it, that the very act of suicide is an evidence of insanity as if every man who acts contrary to reason has no reason at all. If a real lunatic kills himself in a lucid interval he is a felo de se as much as another man."—BLACKSTONE Vol IV p 189

2. Deodand.—"By this is meant whatever personal chattel is the immediate occasion of the death of any reasonable creature which is forfeited to the King to be applied to pious uses, and distributed in alms by his High Almoner though formerly destined to a more superstitious purpose. If an adult person falls from a cart and is killed the thing is certainly forfeited. If a horse or ox or other animal of his own motion kill, as well an infant as an adult or if a cart run over him they shall in either case be forfeited as deodand. In all cases of homicide the instrument of death may be claimed by the King as deodand but no deodands are due for accidents happening on the High Seas, that being out of the jurisdiction of the Common Law but if a man falls from a boat or ship in fresh water and is drowned the vessel and cargo are a deodand."—BLACKSTONE Vol I pp 300—302

OFFENCES IN RELATION TO PRISONERS

Penalty for introduction or removal of such thing as is prohibited from prison and communication with prisoners

42. Whoever, contrary to any rule under s. 60, introduces or removes or attempts to introduce or remove, into or from any person or supplies or attempts to supply to any prisoner outside the limits of a prison, any prohibited article, and whoever, contrary to any such rule, communicates or attempts to communicate with any prisoner, and whoever abets any offence made punishable by this section shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, or to fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, or to both.

Note.—Conveyance of food to under-trial prisoners.—It was held in 2 A. 301 by SRI ART, C.J. and OLIPHANT, J. that the conveyance of food into a daraz (lock up) to an under-trial prisoner is not an offence punishable under this section. See also s. 31, supra.

In the Allahabad case cited above, it was further held by SRI ART, C.J. that the fact that a person who entered a daraz to convey or attempt to convey food to an under-trial prisoner was acquitted of house-breaking was no bar to his being tried subsequently for an offence under this section. In the Lahore case cited under s. 3 above it was held that conversation with under-trial prisoners in the judicial lock-up was an offence under s. 42 of this Act. 4 Lahore 313. A person who carries a bundle of newspapers from a prisoner inside a jail to some one outside the jail premises commits the offence punishable under s. 42 of the Prison Act 1944 read with article 485 of the Bombay Jail Manual, 1911. 38 Bom. When any person, in the presence of any officer of a prison, commits any offence specified in the last foregoing section, and refuses on demand of such officer to state his name and residence, or gives a name or residence which such officer knows, or has reason to believe, to be false, such officer may arrest him, and shall without unnecessary delay make him over to a Police-officer, and thereupon such Police-officer shall proceed as if the offence had been committed in his presence.

44. The Superintendent shall cause to be affixed in a conspicuous place outside the prison a notice in English and the Vernacular setting forth acts prohibited under s. 42 and the penalties imposed by their commission.

(b) The Commanding Officer of any Military Station occupied by troops in the service of Her Majesty provided British India.

Note.—A Magistrate acting under s 164 Cr P C is a Court acting in the discharge of the duty imposed on him by law and is therefore authorized to administer oaths under this section 29 M 89 following 16 M 421 and see Notes to s 164 Cr P C

(b) In respect of witnesses put to, and evidence given by witnesses

(c) Jurors

* See the Indian Articles of War (Act V of 1869) the Indian Evidence Act XX of 1859 and the Indian Oaths Act XII of 1873

Nothing herein contained shall render it lawful to administer in a criminal proceeding an oath or affirmation to the accused person, or necessary to administer to the official interpreter of any Court, after he has entered on the execution of the duties of his office an oath or affirmation that he will faithfully discharge those duties.

Notes.—1. Intentional omission to administer oath.—See Notes to ss 6 and 13 below

2. Where Courts have no authority to administer oath.—(i) No oath can be administered to an accused s 342 (4) Cr P C, supra, and notes thereto. An accused cannot, therefore, be prosecuted for having sworn to a false affidavit in support of an application for transfer, Weir I, 822; and see also 28 A. 703; 19 A. 200. (ii) Where the petitioner made certain allegations against a Munsiff before a Judge and on examination by the Judge made a statement on affirmation in support of his allegations which were subsequently found to be false, he could not be proceeded against for perjury because the Judge had not authority to examine him on oath and the oath having been made and the evidence given coram non-judice, could not form the subject of a prosecution for perjury 1864 W. R. Gap. 45. (iii) Similarly a pleader giving a false explanation on solemn affirmation when asked to explain his conduct under the Legal Practitioners' Act 6 M. 252. (iv) An heir of an employee in the Telegraph Department supporting his claim before the District Judge by false witnesses under an oath which the Judge was not competent to administer 6 A. 103. (v) A Native Christian giving false evidence before a Magistrate applicable to Christians 6 M. H. C. R. 185. to act under the Registration Act but not so statement in a verified petition presented under s. 19 of the Income-tax Act to a Tahsildar who was not an officer competent to receive such a petition, 5 M. H. C. R. 326, were all held not guilty of giving false evidence. See also 11 Bom. H. C. R. 11, 12 B. H. C. R. 1; 20 C. 724; 5 A. 17, 14 C. 633; 24 C. 755; 6 M. 252, 11 B. 702 (F.B.) and see Notes to ss 4 (m) and 476 of the Code.

3. Where oath could legally be administered.—In proceedings under s. 133, Cr P C, since a party to such a quarto Civil Proceeding is not an accused person, within the meaning of s 369, Cr P C, an oath could be legally administered 2 C. L. J. 189. An oath could also validly be administered to a witness making a statement under s 164, Cr P C 16 M. 421 at p 423; 29 M. 89, but not where the person examined is an accused person. 27 C. 535. See s 342, Cr P C. An accomplice, if he is not an accused under trial in the same case, is a competent witness, and may be examined on oath 4 Cr. L. J. 145 = 10 C. W. N. 262 and see s 4 (m) of the Cr P Code and Notes thereto. See also 37 C. 52.

4. Oath or solemn affirmation.—A witness may be examined on oath or solemn affirmation but he cannot be both sworn and put on solemn affirmation at the same time. 13 W. R. 17.

5. Effect of omission or irregularity.—The omission to take any oath or any irregularity in the form in which it is administered does not invalidate the proceedings. 21 W. R. 31; 20 W. R. 19. See s. 13 infra and s. 537, Cr P C.

6. Omission to administer oath to interpreter.—The omission to administer an oath to an interpreter under s 5 (b) of the Oaths Act (X of 1873), does not by reason of s. 13, render the evidence of a witness whose evidence was interpreted by him inadmissible against the latter on his subsequent trial for giving false evidence. The only effect of the omission is to make it incumbent on the prosecution to prove the accuracy of the translation. 20 W. R. 19, approved 36 C. 808.

6. Where the witness, interpreter or juror is a Hindu or a Muhammadan, or is a person objecting to take an oath in objection to making an oath, he shall instead of making an oath make an affirmation

In every other case the witness, interpreter or juror, shall make an oath

Notes.—1. Effect of omitting to administer oath intentionally.—This section imperatively requires that no person shall testify as a witness except on oath or affirmation, and notwithstanding s. 13, the evidence of a child of 8 or 9 years of age is inadmissible if it has been advisedly recorded without any oath or affirmation. 10 A. 207, contra see 14 B. L. R. 294; 23 W. R. 12; 14 B. L. R. 295 n; 22 W. R. 1; 18 B. 359; 10 C. C. 367 = 7 Cr. L. J. 89; 18 C. W. N. 1323. (See Note 4 to s. 13) 25 Cr. L. J. 317.

2 Having regard to the language of the Act a Court has no option when once it has elected to take the statements of a person as evidence, but to administer to such person either an oath or affirmation as the case may require. In a trial for murder before the Court of Session one of the witnesses was a boy of 12 years of age and in answer to questions put by the Sessions Judge, he said that he worshipped Debi and understood the difference between truth and falsehood that he did not know what would be the consequences here or hereafter of telling lies, but that he would tell the truth. The Sessions Judge proceeded to record the boy's statement but without administering to him any oath or affirmation. Held that there was nothing in the law to sanction this procedure on the part of the Judge. 11 A. 183.

3. The evidence of a witness who was examined on simple affirmation under the direction of the Judge is admissible as evidence (JACKSON, J. dissenting) 23 W. R. 12, 14 B. L. R. 294; 22 W. R. 14.

IV—FORMS OF OATHS AND AFFIRMATIONS

Forms of oaths and affirmations

7. All oaths and affirmations made under s 5 shall be administered according to such forms as the High Court may from time to time prescribe.

And, until any such forms are prescribed by the High Court such oaths and affirmations shall be administered according to the forms now in use.

Explanation.—Repealed by the Lower Burma Courts Act VI of 1900 Sch II

8 If any party to, or witness in, any judicial proceeding offers to give evidence on oath or solemn affirmation in any form common amongst or held binding by persons of the race or persuasion to which he belongs and not repugnant to justice or decency and not purporting to affect any third person the Court may if it thinks fit notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained tender such oath or affirmation to him.

Power of Court to tender oaths

Note.—Provisions of this Act do not apply to criminal proceedings.—The expression party to a 'judicial proceeding' does not include either the complainant or the accused in a criminal case and a Magistrate is not bound to decide the case on the evidence of the witness who swears the special oath. 13 B. 329; 8 B. L. R. 129 = 13 Cr. L. J. 23. The provisions of the Act are applicable only to proceedings in which the matters litigated are civil rights which the parties are at liberty to forego and of which the Courts are competent to enforce a renunciation. Weir 1, 232.

9 If any party to any judicial proceeding offers to be bound by any such oath or solemn affirmation as is mentioned in s. 8 if such oath or affirmation is made by the other party to, or by any witness in such proceeding the Court may if it thinks fit, ask such party or witness or cause him to be asked whether or not he will make the oath or affirmation

Court may ask party or witness whether he will make oath proposed by opposite party

Provided that no party or witness shall be compelled to attend personally in Court solely for the purpose of answering such question.

Note.—A party who has agreed to be bound by the oath of a witness under this section ought not to be allowed to withdraw arbitrarily from the agreement. 1906 A. W. R. 290, where 4 A. 302 and 18 A. 46 are referred to.

10 If such party or witness agrees to make such oath or affirmation, the Court may proceed to administer it, or if it is of such a nature that it may be more conveniently made out of Court, the Court may issue a commission to any person to administer it, and authorize him to take the evidence of the person to be sworn or affirmed and return it to the Court.

Admin. of oath if agreed

Nothing herein contained shall render it lawful to administer in a criminal proceeding an oath or affirmation to the accused person or necessary to administer to the official interpreter of any Court, after he has entered on the execution of the duties of his office an oath or affirmation that he will faithfully discharge those duties

2. Where Courts have no authority to administer oath.—(i) No oath can be administered to an accused s 342 (4) Cr P C, supra and notes thereto. An accused cannot, therefore, be prosecuted for having sworn to a false affidavit in support of an application for transfer, Wheeler 1, 822; and see also 28 A. 705, 19 A 200. (ii) Where the petitioner made certain allegations against a Munsiff before a Judge and on examination by the Judge made a statement on affirmation in support of his allegations which were subsequently found to be false, he could not be proceeded against for perjury because the Judge had not authority to examine him on oath and the oath having been made and the evidence given coram non-judice could not form the subject of a prosecution for perjury 1864 W. R. Gap 45. (iii) Similarly a pleader giving a false explanation on solemn affirmation when asked to explain his conduct under the Legal Practitioners' Act. 6 M 252. (iv) An heir of an employee in the Telegraph Department supporting his claim before the District Judge by false witnesses under an oath which the Judge was not competent to administer 6 A. 103. (v) A Native Christian giving false evidence though solemnly affirmed under Act V of 1840 not applicable to Christians. 4 M H C. R. 185. (vi) A person making a false statement before a person purporting to act under the Registration Act but not legally authorized to do so 20 C 719. (vii) A person making false statement in a verified petition presented under s. 19 of the Income-tax Act to a Tahsildar who was not an officer competent to receive such a petition. 5 M H. C. R. 326, were all held not guilty of giving false evidence. See also 11 Bom. H. C. R. 11, 12 B. H. C. R. 1, 20 C. 724, 5 A. 17, 14 C. 653, 24 C. 753, 6 M 252, 11 B 702 (FB) and see Notes to ss 4 (iii) and 47b of the Code.

3. Where oath could legally be administered.—In proceedings under s. 133 Cr P C since a party to such a quasi Civil Proceeding is not an accused person, within the meaning of s 369, Cr P C, an oath could be legally administered 2 C. L. J. 149. An oath could also validly be administered to a witness making a statement under s 164 Cr P C 16 M. 421 at p 423, 29 M. 89, but not where the person examined is an accused person, 27 C. 455. See s 342 Cr P C. An accomplice if he is not an accused under trial in the same case, is a competent witness and may be examined on oath 4 Cr. L. J. 145 = 10 C. W. N. 382 and see s 4 (iii) of the Cr P Code and Notes thereto. See also 37 C 52.

4. Oath or solemn affirmation.—A witness may be examined on oath or solemn affirmation but he cannot be both sworn and put on solemn affirmation at the same time 13 W. R. 17.

5. Effect of omission or irregularity.—The omission to take any oath or any irregularity in the form in which it is administered does not invalidate the proceedings 21 W. R. 31, 20 W. R. 19. See s 13 infra in l s. 537, Cr P C.

6. Omission to administer oath to interpreter.—The omission to administer an oath to an interpreter under s 5 (b) of the Oaths Act (V of 1873) does not by reason of s. 13 render the evidence of a witness whose evidence was interpreted by him inadmissible against the latter on his subsequent trial for giving false evidence. The only effect of the omission is to make it incumbent on the prosecution to prove the accuracy of the translation 20 W. R. 19, approved 36 C. 808.

7. Where the witness interpreter or juror is a Hindu or a Muhammadan or has Affirmation by natives or by persons objecting to oaths in objection to making an oath he shall instead of making an oath make an affirmation

In every other case the witness interpreter or juror shall make an oath

Notes.—1. Effect of omitting to administer oath intentionally.—This section imperatively requires that no person shall testify as a witness except on oath or affirmation and notwithstanding s. 13 the evidence of a child of 8 or 9 years of age is inadmissible if it has been admittedly recorded without any oath or affirmation 10 A 207, contra see 14 B. L. R. 294; 23 W. R. 12, 14 B. L. R. 295 n, 22 W. R. 1, 16 B 339; 10 C. 367 = 7 Cr. L. J. 89; 15 C. W. N. 1323 (See Note 4 to s 11) 25 Cr. L. J. 317.

2. Having regard to the language of the Act, a Court has no option, when once it has elected to take the statements of a person as evidence, but to administer to such person either an oath or affirmation as the case may require. In a trial for murder before the Court of Session one of the witnesses was a boy of 12 years of age, and in answer to questions put by the Sessions Judge, he said that he worshipped Debi and understood the difference between truth and falsehood that he did not know what would be the consequences here or hereafter of telling lies, but that he would tell the truth. The Sessions Judge proceeded to record the boy's statement, but without administering to him any oath or affirmation. Held that there was nothing in the law to sanction this procedure on the part of the Judge. 11 A. 183

3. The evidence of a witness who was examined on simple affirmation under the direction of the Judge is admissible as evidence (JACKSON, J. dissenting) 23 W. R. 12; 14 B. L. R. 294; 22 W. R. 14.

IV—FORMS OF OATHS AND AFFIRMATIONS

Forms of oaths and affirmations

7. All oaths and affirmations made under s 5 shall be administered according to such forms as the High Court may from time to time prescribe.

And until any such forms are prescribed by the High Court such oaths and affirmations shall be administered according to the forms now in use.

Explanation.—Repealed by the Lower Criminal Courts Act VI of 1900, Sch. II

8 If any party to, or witness in, any judicial proceeding, offers to give evidence on oath or solemn affirmation in any form common amongst or held binding by persons of the race or persuasion to which he belongs and not repugnant to justice or decency, and not purporting to affect any third person the Court may if it thinks fit notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, tender such oath or affirmation to him.

Power of Court to tender certain oaths

Note.—Provisions of this Act do not apply to criminal proceedings.—The expression party to a "judicial proceeding" does not include either the complainant or the accused in a criminal case and a Magistrate is not bound to decide the case on the evidence of the witness who swears the special oath. 13 B. 389; 5 B. L. R. 129 = 13 Cr. L. J. 23. The provisions of the Act are applicable only to proceedings in which the matters litigated are civil rights which the parties are at liberty to forego and of which the Courts are competent to enforce a renunciation. Weir 1, 222.

9 If any party to any judicial proceeding offers to be bound by any such oath or solemn affirmation as is mentioned in s 8 if such oath or affirmation is made by the other party to or by any witness in such proceeding the Court may if it thinks fit ask such party or witness or cause him to be asked whether or not he will make the oath or affirmation

Invid that no party or witness shall be compelled to attend personally in Court solely for the purpose of answering such question.

Note.—A party who has agreed to be bound by the oath of a witness under this section ought not to be allowed to withdraw arbitrarily from the agreement. 1906 A. W. N. 230, where 4 A. 302 and 12 A. 66 are referred to.

10 If such party or witness agrees to make such oath or affirmation, the Court may proceed to administer it, or if it is of such a nature that it may be more conveniently made out of Court, the Court may issue a commission to any person to administer it, and authorize him to take the evidence of the person to be sworn or affirmed and return it to the Court

Evidence can lawfully be given against person offering to be bound.

11. The evidence so given shall, as against the person who offered to be bound as aforesaid, be conclusive proof of the matter stated.

Note.—Conclusive proof.—This expression must be understood in the sense in which it is defined by s. 4 of the Indian Evidence Act. 5 Bom. L. R. 19, where 4 B. L. R. 97 (F.B.) is followed.

In a proceeding under s. 144, Cr. P. C., one of the parties undertook to withdraw his claim to the matter in dispute if the other party should take an oath. The latter took the oath in the form proposed. Held that the oath is not binding as conclusive proof in any proceeding other than that in which it was taken, there being nothing to indicate that it was intended that the oath should bind the person at whose instance it was made, as being conclusive in any proceeding other than the one which the parties had in their minds when the challenge was accepted. 33 C. 386. In 24 M. L. J. 321, it was held, distinguishing 33 C. 386 and approving 26 M. 444, that the effect of taking the oath was merely to furnish conclusive evidence on the matter to which it relates whether the matter would be decisive of the whole controversy or not. In a pre-emption suit the guardian ad litem of one of the defendants who was a minor, agreed that if the plaintiff took an oath, etc. then his suit should be decreed. The plaintiff took an oath. Held that so far as the statement of fact—that the plaintiff had not refused to purchase the property—was concerned the minor defendant was bound but not with regard to the agreement that the suit should be decreed. 46 All. 117.

12. If the party or witness refuses to make the oath or solemn affirmation referred to in s. 8 he shall not be compelled to make it but the Court shall record as part of the proceedings the nature of the oath or affirmation proposed, the facts that he was asked whether he would make it, and that he refused it together with any reason which he may assign for his refusal.

V—MISCELLANEOUS

13. No omission to take any oath or make any affirmation, no substitution of any one for any other of them and no irregularity whatever in the form in which any one of them is administered shall invalidate any proceeding or render inadmissible any evidence whatever, in or in respect of which such omission, substitution or irregularity took place or shall affect the obligation of a witness to state the truth.

Notes—1 Scope of the Section.—This section is only one of many instances indicating the settled policy of the Indian Legislature to prevent justice being defeated by a technical irregularity. It maintains the legal obligation of a witness to speak the truth while at the same time it provides against the possible failure of justice through a technical irregularity. —PER PARKER, J., in 16 M. 105 at p. 116. "It is clear that there is a difference between acts of omission and acts of commission, and as this section mentions only acts of omission I decline to extend the section to acts of commission." —PER COLLINS, C.J. in ibid at p. 111.

2 "Omission."—This word is not limited to accidental or negligent omissions. 19 C. 353. It includes any kind of omission. 16 B. 359, per JARVIS, J., also see 14 B. L. R. 294 (F.B.). It also refers to omissions to administer oaths to interpreters and jurors as well as to witnesses. 36 C. 808. See s. 537, Cr. P. Code.

3. Oath not a (sine qua non) to the offence of giving false evidence.—The omission to administer the oath or affirmation though intentional is an irregularity cured by s. 13. 16 B. 359; 21 W. R. 31; 18 C. W. N. 1323 = 16 Cr. L. J. 151. The offence of perjury as defined in s. 193, I. P. C. may be committed although the person giving evidence has neither been sworn nor affirmed. 19 C. 355; 18 C. W. N. 1323 = 16 Cr. L. J. 151.

4. Presumption regarding administering of oath.—Where it does not appear from the record that oath was administered to a witness the reasonable presumption would be in the absence of any suggestion to the contrary, that the proper procedure in respect to the administering of the oath was followed. There is no provision of law requiring a Court to record the fact that an oath was administered to the witness. 11 A. L. J. 933; 18 C. W. N. 1323.

5. Intentional omission to administer oath or affirmation.—Even in the case of a child if the Judge elects to take his statements as evidence he should proceed to administer oath or affirmation. But if he deliberately refrains from doing so on the ground that the child cannot understand the nature of a solemn affirmation the omission of a parent or guardian will nevertheless be admissible. 5 Bom. L. R. 551. In 41 C. 406, MOOKERJEE, J., observed that there was divergence of judicial opinion on this point and that the question was by no means free from difficulty. The case was, however, decided on other grounds. See also 14 B. L. R. 295 (foot note) and 16 M. 105. In 15 Cr. L. J. 181 (M.) it was held following 16 M. 105, and dissenting from 10 A. 207, that though s 5 was imperative, the failure to administer the oath was an irregularity cured by this section.

The competency of a person to testify as a witness is the condition precedent to the administration to him of an oath or affirmation, and is a question distinct from his credibility when he has been sworn or affirmed. In determining the question of competency, the Court under s 118 of the Indian Evidence Act has not to enter into inquiries as to the witness's religious belief or as to his knowledge of the consequences of falsehood in this world or the next. It has to ascertain in the best way it can whether from the extent of his intellectual capacity and understanding he is able to give a rational account of what he had seen or heard on a particular occasion. If a person of tender years or of a very advanced age can satisfy these requirements, his competency as a witness is established, 11 A. 183. Where a person is competent to testify according to the provisions of s. 118, Indian Evidence Act, but is unable owing to his tender age to comprehend the nature of an oath or affirmation, this section relieves the Court of the necessity of administering an oath or affirmation to him and the evidence of such a person recorded without oath or affirmation, may be admitted 10 On. Ca. 337 = 7 Cr. L. J. 89. Where, in a trial for murder, the Sessions Judge deliberately abstained from administering an oath or affirmation to the only eye-witness to the murder on the ground that she was only six or seven years of age, held, that the evidence was admissible. 6 Patna L. J. 157.

14. Every person giving evidence on any subject before any Court, or person hereby authorized to administer oaths and affirmations, shall be bound to state the truth on such subject.

Persons giving evidence bound to state the truth

Note.—Nullity of trial does not exempt from liability for giving false evidence.—The verdict of a jury in a dacoity case was set aside and trial de novo was directed on the ground that one of the jurors originally empanelled was deaf and partially blind. Held that the nullity of the original trial did not exonerate a witness from the obligation to speak the truth at the first trial imposed by this section. Weir I, 851. See also 19 M. 375; 10 C. 604.

Amendment of Penal Code ss 178 and 181

15. The Indian Penal Code, ss. 178 and 181, shall be construed as if, after the word "oath" the words "or affirmation" were inserted.

16. Subject to the provision of ss. 3 and 5, no person appointed to any office shall before entering on the execution of the duties of his office, be required to make any oath, or to make, or subscribe any affirmation or declaration whatever

Official oaths abolished

INDIAN CRIMINAL LAW (AMENDMENT) ACT No XIV OF 1908.

[Received the assent of the Governor General on the 11th December, 1903]

An Act to provide for the more speedy trial of certain offences and for the prohibition of associations dangerous to the public peace

SECTIONS.

- 1 Preamble.
- Short title and extent.

PART II

Unlawful Associations

- 2 Definitions.
- 3 Power to declare associations unlawful.
- 4 Penalties.
- 5 Continuance of association.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the more speedy trial of certain offences and for the prohibition of associations dangerous to the public peace It is hereby enacted as follows —

Note.—See the remarks of JENKINS C.J. in 38 G. 839 at 579 where owing to the course adopted by the prosecution most of the accused were in custody for over a year and without the benefit of any legal adviser The learned Chief Justice doubted whether when the Act XIV of 1908 was passed it could have been contemplated that a procedure was being sanctioned that would render it possible for accused persons to be incarcerated for months without any access to legal advice

Short title & extent 1 (1) This Act may be called the Indian Criminal Law Amendment Act 1908

(2) It extends to the Provinces or Bengal and of Eastern Bengal and Assam but the Governor General in Council may at any time by notification in the Gazette of India extend the whole or any part thereof to any other Province *

PART II

Definitions 15. In this Part—

- (1) association means any combination or body of persons whether the same be known by any distinctive name or not and
- (2) unlawful association means an association
 - (a) which encourages or aids persons to commit acts of violence or intimidation or of which the members habitually commit such acts or
 - (b) which has been declared to be unlawful by the Governor General in Council under the powers hereby conferred

16. If the Governor General in Council is of opinion that any association interferes or has for its object interference with the administration of the law or with the maintenance of law and order or that it constitutes a danger to the public peace the Governor-General in Council may by notification in the Official Gazette declare such association to be unlawful

17. (1) Whoever is a member of an unlawful association or takes part in meetings of any such association or contributes or receives or solicits any contribution for the purpose of any such association or in any way assists the operations of any such association shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months or with fine or with both.

(2) Whoever manages or assists in the management of an unlawful association or promotes or assists in promoting a meeting of any such association or of any members thereof as such members shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years or with fine or with both 18 An association shall not be deemed to have ceased to exist by reason only of any formal act of dissolution or change of title but shall be deemed to continue so long as any actual combination for the purpose of such association continues between any members thereof.

Note.—1 Held that the accused's act did not come within the purview of either clause (1) or (2) of s. 17 of the Act as he did not contribute to the funds or assist in the management of an existing association.

Held however, that the accused instigated the formation of an association which was unlawful under s. 15 (2) (a) of this Act and therefore abetted its formation and as any one becoming a member of that association or contributing funds to it would be guilty of an offence under s. 17 (1) of this Act accused's act amounted to an abetment of an offence. 5 Lah. 1 See also 26 P. L. R. 409 and 411

2. A person convicted and punished under s. 6 of the Prevention of Seditious Meetings Act cannot be convicted subsequently for the same acts under s. 17 (2) of this Act

Held also that an ordinary procession in which no members of an unlawful association take part does not fall within the definition of a meeting of unlawful association 23 Cr. L. J. 323

to say —

The words "Magistrate of the district" shall mean the chief officer charged with the executive administration of a district and exercising the powers of a Magistrate, by whatever designation the chief officer charged with such executive administration is styled —

The word "Magistrate" shall include all persons within the general Police district exercising all or any of the powers of a Magistrate.

The word "Police" shall include all persons who shall be enrolled under this Act.

The words "General Police District" shall embrace any Presidency, Province or place, or any part of any Presidency, Province or place, in which this Act shall be ordered to take effect.

[The words "District Superintendent" and "District Superintendent of Police" shall include any Assistant District Superintendent or other person appointed by general or special order of the Local Government to perform all or any of the duties of a District Superintendent of Police under this Act in any district.] *

The word "property" shall include any moveable property, money or valuable security.

Words importing the singular number shall include the plural number, and words importing the plural number shall include the singular number.

Word importing the masculine gender shall include females.

The word "person" shall include a company or corporation.

The word "month" shall mean a calendar month.

The word "cattle" shall, besides horned cattle, include elephants, camels, horses, asses, mules, sheep, goats and swine.

Notes.—Notwithstanding this provision, the Governor General in Council may, under s. 2 of the Police Act III of 1888, create a General Police District consisting of parts of two or more Presidencies, Provinces or places.

2. The entire Police establishment under a Local Government shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be one Police Force and shall be formally enrolled and shall consist of such number of officers and men and shall be constituted in such manner and the members of such Force shall receive such pay as shall from time to time be ordered by the Local Government subject to the sanction of the Governor General of India in Council.

Constitution of the Force

Notes.—1 This section so far as it relates to Bengal was repealed by Act VII of 1869.

2. Shall be deemed to be one Police Force.—The Police Force employed in cantonments is part of the General Police Force, under the Local Government. See the Cantonments Act XIII of 1889 s. 12.

3. The Superintendence of the Police throughout a General Police District shall vest in and subject to the general control of the Governor-General of India in Council shall be exercised by the Local Government to which such district is subordinate and except is authorized under the provisions of this Act no person officer or Court shall be empowered by the Local Government to appoint, supersede or contr. any Police functionary.

Superintendence in the Local Government

4. The administration of the Police throughout a General Police District shall be vested in an officer to be styled the Inspector-General of Police and in such Deputy Inspectors-General and Assistant Inspectors-General as to the Local Government shall seem fit.

Inspector-General of Police

The administration of the Police throughout the local jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the district shall, under the general control and direction of such Magistrate be vested in a District Superintendent and such Assistant District Superintendents as the Local Government shall consider necessary.

The Inspector-General and his officers and subordinates shall from time to time be appointed by the Local Government, and may be removed by the same authority.

Note.—Power of Magistrate to give sanction.—The Magistrate of the District in whom are vested under this section powers of a general control and direction over the Police in his District, may sanction prosecution under s 195(1) Cr P C for the offence of preferring a false complaint to the Police. 6 P. R. 1910. See also 47 P. R. 1867; 9 P. R. 1868; 27 A. 292; 32 G. 180; contra 27 G. 432. See Notes under heading 'Superior Officer' to s. 195 of the Code

Powers of Inspector General Exercise of Powers

5. The Inspector General of Police shall have the full powers of a Magistrate* throughout the General Police District, but shall exercise those powers subject to such limitation as may from time to time be imposed by the Local Government.

Note.—Complaint to Inspector-General against Subordinate Police-officer would amount to instituting a false charge.—Where a person sent to the Inspector General of Police a few specific charges of bribery against a Sub-Inspector of Police, and asked for investigation—the Inspector General who is a Magistrate under this section and is empowered by s 36, infra to inquire into and determine as a Magistrate any charge against a Police-officer above the rank of a Constable, ordered the District Superintendent of Police to investigate, and that officer forwarded the result of his investigation to the District Magistrate, held, that a false charge of an offence preferred to a person empowered to order investigation by the Police, though not followed by further proceedings in any Court brings the matter of the charge within the first part of s 211, IPC 26 P. R. 1908 = 7 Cr. L. J. 291.

6. [Magisterial powers of Police-officers] Repealed by Act X of 1882.

7. The appointment of all Police-officers other than those mentioned in s 4 of this Act shall, under

of inferior officer

such rules as the Local Government shall from time to time sanction, rest with the Inspector-General, Deputy Inspectors-General, Assistant Inspectors-General and District Superintendents of Police who may, under such rules as aforesaid, at any time dismiss suspend or reduce any Police-officer whom they shall think remiss or negligent in the discharge of the or more of the following punishments to any Police-officer or negligent manner, or who by any act of his own shall—
(a) fine to any amount not exceeding one month's pay;
(b) confinement to quarters for a term not exceeding fifteen days with or without punishment, drill extra guard, fatigue or other duty, (c) deprivation of good-conduct pay, (d) removal from any office of distinction or special emolument.]†

Note.—Appointment under wrong section not invalid.—Where certain persons were granted certificates of appointments as Police-officers under this Act and in the form attached to this Act, with the modification of the words 'cl (2) section 34 of' before Act V of 1861, the words 'for the detection and prosecution of cases of cruelty to animals under s. 34 of Act V of 1861,' were added at the end of the certificate after the words 'Police-officer' Held that the insertion of the words 'cl. 2, s 34 of' was clearly due to a mistake, as the appointment could only have been made under this section, but the appointments were not rendered invalid by the mistake 10 G. W. N. 727 = 3 C. L. J. 475 = 3 Cr. L. J. 420.

8. Every Police-officer so appointed shall receive on his appointment a certificate in the form

officers

annexed to this Act, under the seal of the Inspector-General or such other officer as the Inspector-General shall appoint by virtue of which the person holding such certificate shall be vested with the powers, functions and privileges of a Police-officer

[Such certificate shall cease to have effect whenever the person named in it ceases for any reason to be a Police-officer, and, on his ceasing to be such an officer, shall be forthwith surrendered by him to any officer empowered to receive the same. A Police-officer shall not, by reason of being suspended from office, cease to be a Police-officer. During the term of such suspension the powers functions and privileges vested in him as a Police-officer shall be in abeyance but he shall continue subject to the same responsibilities, discipline and penalties and to the same authorities, as if he had not been suspended.]‡

Notes.—1. Defect in Certificate—See 10 G. W. N. 727 = 3 C. L. J. 475 = 3 Cr. L. J. 420 noted under c 2,

* i.e. the powers of a Magistrate of the first class. See s 3(1) of the Criminal Procedure Code

† Substituted by s 3 of Act VIII of 1900.

‡ Substituted by s 3 of Act VIII of 1895

2. Scope of authority.—Where the superior authority appoints a constable at all, he can only appoint him under this section, and in that case he appoints him a constable for all purposes whatever, and his power cannot be limited, but it is open to the superior officer to give a direction not to act in certain cases. The act does not sanction the appointment by the Police authority of any person who is not to be under his order and for whose conduct he is not, from a disciplinary point of view, to be responsible. 10 C. W. N. 727 = 3 C. L. J. 475 = 3 Cr. L. J. 420.

3. Suspension and confinement for unlimited term.—An order for suspension and confinement of a Police-officer for an unlimited period of time exceeding the limits laid down in clause (b) of this section is illegal and is not such an order which a District Superintendent of Police can legally pass at all nor one which he can pass in the alternative under this section. Held, therefore, that no conviction under s 29 infra for disobeying such order is maintainable. 2 C. L. J. 616.

4. Effect of suspension.—On suspension, the powers, functions and privileges vested in a Police-officer by the certificate under this section cease to have effect. He is no longer a Police-officer and his disobedience to the order of the District Superintendent to remain in the Police lines during suspension is not punishable under s. 29, infra. 8 B. L. R. Appx. 58, followed in 10 A. 459.

9. No Police-officer shall be at liberty to withdraw himself from the duties of his office unless Police-officer not to resign without leave or two months notice expressly allowed to do so by the District Superintendent or by some other officer authorized to grant such permission, or, without the leave of the District Superintendent, to resign his office, unless he shall have given to his superior officer notice in writing, for a period of not less than two months, of his intention to resign.

10. No Police-officer shall engage in any employment or office whatever
 other than his duties under this Act, unless expressly permitted to do so in writing by the Inspector General.

11. [Police Superannuation Fund] Repealed by Act XVI of 1874

12. The Inspector General of Police may, from time to time, subject to the approval of the Local Government, frame such orders and rules as he shall deem expedient relative to the organization, classification and distribution of the Police Force, the places at which the members of the Force shall reside, and the particular services to be performed by them, their inspection, the description of arms, accoutrements and other necessaries to be furnished to them, the collecting and communicating by them of intelligence and information, and all such other orders and rules relative to the Police Force as the Inspector-General shall, from time to time, deem expedient for preventing abuse or neglect of duty, and for rendering such Force efficient in the discharge of its duties
Power of Inspector-General to make rules

13. It shall be lawful for the Inspector General of Police, or any Deputy Inspector-General or Assistant Inspector General, or for the District Superintendent, subject to the general direction of the Magistrate of the District on the application of any person showing the necessity thereof to depute any additional number of Police-officers to keep the peace at any place within the general Police district, and for such times as shall be deemed proper. Such Force shall be exclusively under the orders of the District Superintendent, and shall be at the charge of the person making the application
Additional Police-officers employed at cost of individuals

Provided that it shall be lawful for the person on whose application such deputation shall have been made, on giving one month's notice in writing to the Inspector-General, Deputy Inspector General, or Assistant Inspector General, or to the District Superintendent, to require that the Police-officers so deputed shall be withdrawn, and such person shall be relieved from the charge of such additional Force from the expiration of such notice

Note.—Jurisdiction of Magistrate to recover costs.—A Magistrate has no power to realise from any individual the cost of deputing a Police constable. He must act either under this section when the party makes an application for deputation of special Police Force or under s. 15 infra, obtain the sanction of Government for deputation of extra Police and for the assessment of charges. 1 W. R. 113.

- 14. Whenever any railway, canal or other public work, or any manufactory or commercial concern, shall be carried on or be in operation in any part of the country, and it shall appear to the Inspector General that employment of an additional Police Force in such place is rendered necessary by the behaviour or reasonable apprehension of the behaviour of the persons employed upon such work, manufactory or concern, it shall be lawful for the Inspector General with the consent of the Local Government, to depute such additional Force to such place and to employ the same so long as such necessity shall continue, and to make orders, from time to time, upon the person having the control or custody of the funds used in carrying on such work, manufactory or concern, for the payment of the extra Force so rendered necessary and such person shall thereupon cause payment to be made accordingly

Appointment of additional Force in the neighbourhood of railway and other works

- *15. (1) It shall be lawful for the Local Government, by proclamation to be notified in the Official Gazette, and in such other manner as the Local Government shall direct, to declare that any area subject to its authority has been found to be in a disturbed or dangerous state, or that, from the conduct of the inhabitants of such area or of any class or section of them it is expedient to increase the number of Police

Quartering of additional Police in disturbed or dangerous districts

- (2) It shall thereupon be lawful for the Inspector General of Police, or other officer authorized by the Local Government in this behalf, with the sanction of the Local Government, to employ any Police Force in addition to the ordinary fixed complement to be quartered in the area specified in such proclamation as aforesaid

- (3) Subject to the provisions of sub-sec. (5) of this section, the cost of such additional Police Force shall be borne by the inhabitants of such area described in the proclamation.

- (4) The Magistrate of the District, after such enquiry as he may deem necessary, shall apportion such cost among the inhabitants who are, as aforesaid, liable to bear the same and who shall not have been exempted under the next succeeding sub-section. Such apportionment shall be made according to the Magistrate's judgment of the respective means within such area of such inhabitants.

- (5) It shall be lawful for the Local Government, by order, to exempt any persons or class or section of such inhabitants from liability to bear any portion of such cost

- (6) Every proclamation issued under sub-sec. (1) of this section shall state the period for which it is to remain in force, but it may be withdrawn at any time or continued from time to time for a further period or periods as the Local Government may in each case think fit to direct.

Explanation—For the purposes of this section, "inhabitants" shall include persons who themselves or by their agents or servants occupy or hold land or other immovable property within such area, and landlords who themselves or by their agents or servants collect rents direct from ryots or occupiers in such area notwithstanding that they do not actually reside therein

Note.—Apportionment must be made by District Magistrate.—Where the number of coolies has been increased under sub-sec. (2) it becomes the duty of the District Magistrate under sub-sec. 4 to apportion the cost among the inhabitants. Where, therefore, the apportionment was made by the Deputy Magistrate and on appeal the District Magistrate refused to alter the apportionment and dismissed the appeal, Acid, that such apportionment was illegal. 18 In. Ca. 112.

- †15-A. (1) If, in any area in regard to which any proclamation notified under the last preceding section is in force, death or grievous hurt or loss of, or damage to, property has been caused by or has ensued from the misconduct of the inhabitants of such area or any class or section of them, it shall be lawful for any person, being an inhabitant of such area who claims to have suffered injury from such misconduct to make within one month from the date of the injury or such shorter period as may be prescribed an application for compensation to the Magistrate of the district or of the subdivision of a district within which such area is situated.

Awarding compensation to sufferers from misconduct of inhabitants or persons interested in land

(2) It shall thereupon be lawful for the Magistrate of the district, with the sanction of the Local Government, after such enquiry as he may deem necessary, and whether any additional Police Force has or has not been quartered in such area under the last preceding section, to—

- (a) declare the persons to whom injury has been caused by or has ensued from such misconduct,
- (b) fix the amount of compensation to be paid to such persons and the manner in which it is to be distributed among them and
- (c) assess the proportion in which the same shall be paid by the inhabitants of such area other than the applicant who shall not have been exempted from liability to pay under the next succeeding sub-section

Provided that the Magistrate shall not make any declaration or assessment under this sub-section, unless he is of opinion that such injury as aforesaid has arisen from a riot or unlawful assembly within such area and that the person who suffered the injury was himself free from blame in respect of the occurrences which led to such injury

(3) It shall be lawful for the Local Government by order to exempt any persons or class or section of such inhabitants from liability to pay any portion of such compensation

(4) Every declaration or assessment made or order passed by the Magistrate of the district under sub-section (2) shall be subject to revision by the Commissioner of the Division or the Local Government, but save as aforesaid shall be final

(5) No civil suit shall be maintainable in respect of any injury for which compensation has been awarded under this section.

(6) Explanation—In this section the word inhabitants shall have the same meaning as in the last preceding section.

Recovery of moneys paid or recovered under ss. 13, 14, 15 and 15-A and disposal of same when recovered

*16. (1) All moneys payable under ss. 13, 14, 15 and 15-A shall be recoverable by the Magistrate of the district in the manner provided by ss. 386 and 387 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1882, for the recovery of fines or by suit in any competent Court.

(2) All moneys paid or recovered under ss. 13, 14 and 15 shall be credited to a fund to be called 'The General Police Fund' and shall be applied to the maintenance of the Police Force under such orders as the Local Government shall pass.

(3) All moneys paid or recovered under s. 15-A shall be paid by the Magistrate of the district to the persons to whom and in the proportions in which the same are payable under that section.

17. When it shall appear that any unlawful assembly, or riot or disturbance of the peace has taken place or may be reasonably apprehended and that the Police Force ordinarily employed for preserving the peace is not sufficient for its preservation and for the protection of the inhabitants and the security of property in the place where such unlawful assembly or riot or disturbance of the peace has occurred or is apprehended it shall be lawful for any Police-officer not below the rank of Inspector to apply to the nearest Magistrate to appoint so many of the residents of the neighbourhood as much Police-officer may require to act as special Police-officers for such time and within such limits as he shall deem necessary and the Magistrate to whom such application is made shall unless he sees cause to the contrary comply with the application.

Special Police-officer

Notes.—1 Scope of Section—The section refers to cases of unlawful assembly, riot or disturbance of the peace only and not to other classes of crime. The order of an Assistant Magistrate therefore, directing certain villagers to show cause within ten days why special constables should not be quartered in their village as two travellers were robbed and brutally murdered in broad daylight while passing through the village was held illegal because the circumstances which alone could render such order legal did not arise, nor was any one of those circumstances reasonably to be apprehended at the time of making the order

2. When special constables may be appointed.—The circumstances which justify the appointment of special constables are (i) that a disturbance of the peace is apprehended and (ii) that the Police Force available is insufficient to preserve the peace and protect the inhabitants of the place where the disturbance is apprehended. Whereupon the report of a Sub-Inspector of Police that there was a dispute about certain land in which the petitioners were concerned, which was likely to lead to a breach of the peace, the Magistrate appointed them special constables under this section and they refused to receive their letters of appointment but were afterwards told that their services would not be necessary, held, that the order of appointment of the petitioners under this section and their convictions under s 19, infra were illegal. 35 C. 454 followed in 12 C. W. N. 727 = 8 C. L. J. 66 = 7 Cr. L. J. 507. See Note 2 to s. 19, infra.

3. High Court's powers of interference.—An order passed by a Magistrate under this section is a purely executive one, which the High Court has no power to interfere, even though such order is illegal. 10 B. L. R. Appx. 4, but see Note 2 above.

16. Every special Police-officer so appointed shall have the same powers, privileges and protection and shall be liable to perform the same duties and shall be amenable to the same penalties and be subordinate to the same authorities, as the ordinary officers of Police.

Powers of special Police officers

Note.—For effect of this section on s 29, see 10 C. W. N. 322 and Note (12) under s. 29, infra.

19. If any person being appointed a special Police-officer as aforesaid shall, without sufficient excuse neglect or refuse to serve as such, or to obey such lawful order or direction as may be given to him for the performance of his duties, he shall be liable, upon conviction before a Magistrate, to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every such neglect, refusal or disobedience.

Refusal to serve as special Police officers

Notes.—1. What does not constitute 'refusal to serve'—Refusal to accompany a Police-officer to the Police station, situated at some distance not for any purpose of Police duty, but simply to obtain the authority of appointment to serve as special constables and the necessary badges and arms, does not constitute a refusal to serve as special constable, and is not therefore an offence under this section. 28 C. 411.

2. Refusal to serve where appointment is bad is no offence.—Where it was not clear that there was any danger of a disturbance of the peace or that if there was such a danger, the ordinary Police Force was not sufficient to cope with it, held that the appointment of the accused was unnecessary and inexpedient and that he could not be prosecuted under this section for not complying with such appointment. 12 C. W. N. 727 = 8 C. L. J. 66 = 7 Cr. L. J. 507 following 35 C. 454. Note 2 to s 17 above. See also 10 C. W. N. 82 = 2 C. L. J. 655 = 3 Cr. L. J. 189.

20. Police-officers enrolled under this Act shall not exercise any authority, except the authority provided for a Police-officer under this Act and any Act which hereafter be passed for regulating criminal procedure.

Note.—This section has been declared not to apply to an Assistant District Superintendent of Police whose duties are exercised in connection with the unenrolled Border Police Force. See s. 2 of the Punjab Frontier Police officers Regulation VII of 1893 (Gazette of India, 1895 Pt. I, p. 285).

21. Nothing in this Act shall affect any hereditary or other village Police-officer, unless such officer shall be enrolled as a Police-officer under this Act. When so enrolled such officer shall be bound by the provisions of the last preceding section. No hereditary or other village Police-officer shall be enrolled without his consent and the consent of those who have the right of nomination.

Village Police-officers

If any Police-officer appointed under Act XX of 1858 (to make better provision for the appointment and maintenance of Police-Chaukidars in Cities, Towns, Stations, Suburbs and Buzars in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal) is employed out of the district for which he shall have been appointed under that Act, he shall not be paid out of the rates levied under the said Act for that district.

Police Chaukidars in the Presidency of Fort William

22. Every Police-officer shall, for all purposes in this Act contained be considered to be always on duty, and may at any time be employed as a Police-officer in any part of the general Police district.

Police-officers always on duty and may be employed in any part of district

23. It shall be the duty of every Police-officer promptly to obey and execute all orders and warrants

Duties of Police-officers lawfully issued to him by any competent authority, to collect and communicate intelligence affecting the public peace to prevent the commission of offences and public nuisances, to detect and bring offenders to justice, and to apprehend all persons whom he is legally authorized to apprehend and for whose apprehension sufficient ground exists and it shall be lawful for every Police-officer for any of the purposes mentioned in this section without a warrant to enter and inspect any drinking-shop, gaming house or other place of resort of loose and disorderly characters

Notes—1 Police officer not bound to arrest if no sufficient grounds—Under this section a Police officer is not bound to arrest a person against whom no proceedings have been directed if he believes that he has not sufficient grounds for apprehending him. 26 W R. 8

2 Police-officer liable for defamation.—A Police-officer is liable to be prosecuted and convicted under s 500 I P C. if he maliciously makes to his superior a defamatory report against any person unless he can show that he is protected by some statutory privilege such a case is not covered by the maxim omnia presumantur rite esse acta. 4 P. W R. 1910 = 11 Cr L J 205 where 23 P. R. 1880 is distinguished

Police-officers may lay information etc 24. It shall be lawful for any Police-officer to lay any information before a Magistrate and to apply for a summons, warrant search warrant or such other legal process as may by law issue against any person committing an offence *

Note—A Police-officer making a defamatory report to his superior—A Superintendent of Police is not protected under this section which deals only with information before Magistrates 4 P W R. 1910 = 11 Cr L J 205 — Per JOHNSTON J

Police-officers to take charge of unclaimed property and be subject to Magistrate's orders as to disposal 25 It shall be the duty of every Police-officer to take charge of all unclaimed property, and to furnish an inventory thereof to the Magistrate of the district

Note.—The Police-officers shall be guided as to the disposal of such property by such orders as they shall receive from the Magistrate of the district.

Magistrate may detain property and issue proclamation 26. (1) The Magistrate of the district may detain the property and issue a proclamation specifying the articles of which it consists and requiring any person who has any claim thereto to appear and establish his right to the same within six months from the date of such proclamation

[(2) The provisions of s 525 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1882 shall be applicable to property referred to in this section] †

Notes—1 S 525 deals with power to sell perishable property

2 Effect of order of Civil Court in execution of decree on jurisdiction of District Magistrate.—A application made by a decree-holder against certain absconders for sale of the goods which had already been detained by the order of the District Magistrate and in respect of which no action had been taken under the provisions of ss 87 and 88 of the Cr P C. established a right to have the right title and interest of the judgment-debtor or the absconders to be sold by the Civil Court. 8 Bur L T 113—13 Cr L J 568

† 27 (1) If no person shall within the period allowed claim such property or the proceeds thereof, it may if not already sold under sub-sec. (2) of the last preceding section, be sold under the orders of the Magistrate of the district.

Confiscation of property if no claimant appears (2) The sale-proceeds of property sold under the preceding sub-section and the proceeds of property sold under s. 26 to which no claim has been established shall be at the disposal of Government.

28 Every person having ceased to be an enrolled Police-officer under this Act who shall not forthwith deliver up his certificate and the clothing accoutrements appointments and other necessaries which shall have been supplied to him for the execution of his duty shall be liable on conviction before a Magistrate to a penalty not exceeding 1000 hundred rupees or to imprisonment with or without hard labour for a term not exceeding six months or to both.

Persons refuse to deliver up certificates etc on ceasing to be Police-officers

* The words "and to prosecute such person up to final judgment" were repealed by Act X of 1901 s 1 c. 1

† Added by s 7 of Act XIII of 1895

‡ Substituted by s 4 of Act VIII of 1895

- 29. Every Police-officer who shall be guilty of any violation of duty, or wilful breach or neglect of any rule or regulation or lawful order made by competent authority, or who shall withdraw from the duties of his office without permission, or without having given previous notice for the period of two months * [for who, being absent on leave, shall without reasonable cause, to report himself for duty on the expiration of such leave], or who shall engage without authority in any employment other than his Police duty, or who shall be guilty of cowardice, or who shall offer any unwarrantable personal violence to any person in his custody, shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to a penalty not exceeding three months' pay, or to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a period not exceeding three months, or to both

Notes—1. Section must be cautiously applied—This section is an extremely stringent provision of the law which should not be put in force except in extreme cases and where milder remedies have been tried and failed. 10 C. W. N. 79 = 2 C. L. J. 565 = 3 Cr. L. J. 178

2. Offence Magisterial—A Magistrate alone has power under this section to try cases and not a Sessions Judge 1 W. R. 3; 9 W. R. 36. A Deputy Magistrate exercising powers of the first class has jurisdiction to fine Police-officers for violation of duty 4 W. R. 2. So, too, a Cantonment Magistrate has power to try cases under this section without complaint. But the summary conviction of two Police-officers under this section by a Cantonment Magistrate without formal trial was held irregular and illegal. 1 Agra H. C. R. Cr. 24.

3. Convictions appealable—Convictions under this Act are appealable like other convictions. 8 W. R. 22.

4. No jurisdiction over European British subjects—This section does not give jurisdiction to a Magistrate over European British subjects. If prisoner raises a plea of jurisdiction, the Magistrate is bound to take it into his consideration and determine the same. 3 N. W. P. H. C. R. 128.

5. Section applies only to Police-officers—The section is not applicable to persons who are not Police-officers. In 20 C. L. R. 521 where a Magistrate, acting merely on certain information contained in a letter addressed to him, convicted the Secretary of the Chittagong Brahmo Samaj for obstruction and nuisance, the High Court set aside the conviction on the ground that there was no complaint and no evidence.

6. Disobedience of lawful order—Refusing to turn out for drill on being ordered to do so by the Head Constable in charge of the Tana is punishable under this section. 1896 A. W. N. 105. A Police-officer negligently or improperly submitting an incorrect report of local investigation may be punished under this section in cases where proof is insufficient to bring home a charge under s. 218, I P C. 15 W. R. 17.

7. Disobedience of illegal orders, no offence—Where a Police constable failed to attend an extra drill imposed upon him by the District Superintendent for refusing to comply with the order to cut down the jungle in the vicinity of Police lines, held that the omission to attend such extra drill does not amount to an offence under this section as it did not appear that the Superintendent's order was lawful. 12 C. 427. The words "lawful order" mean an order which the authority mentioned therein is competent to make. Therefore the order of a Superintendent of Police directing constables to cut down jungle in the vicinity of their line, not being such as he was competent to make, conviction for its disobedience is not punishable under this section. 12 C. 427. An order for suspension and confinement of a Police-officer for an unlimited period of time is illegal and the Police-officer cannot be convicted under this section for disobeying such order. 2 C. L. J. 616. An order directing a Police constable to purchase rafters and bamboos for repair of the Tana is not lawful. 1891 A. W. N. 179. Rules made by District Superintendent of Police (and not by Inspector-General of Police under s. 12) requiring constables to be within the lines at the time of the roll-call are illegal and disobedience to such rules is not an offence under this section. 15 C. 194. A Police constable was convicted of an offence under this section for disobeying an order directing him to join a fatigue party for the purpose of removing certain articles from the office of the Inspector-General of Police. This conviction was confirmed by the Sessions Judge on appeal. On revision to the Chief Court, it was contended that the order which the petitioner refused to comply with was not a lawful order, and that, therefore, no offence had been committed as the work he was called upon to do was of penal character, which he was not legally bound to carry out, being one specified in the 'Table of punishments' given in Chapter XVI of the Punjab Police Rules. Held, that the conviction was not illegal as there was nothing unreasonable or unlawful in an order of this kind because it was not outside the scope of a constable's duties to perform work of this nature when necessary. 13 P. W. R. 1911 = 181 F. L. R. 1911 = 12 Cr. L. J. 143.

* Words in brackets were added by Act V [II] of 1895

8. Wilful breach or neglect of duty.—Before a Police-officer can be convicted of an offence under this section, it must be found that he is guilty, not of mere neglect, but of deliberate and intentional violation of duty. 8 B. L. R. Appx. 60 = 17 W. R. 34; 19 W. R. 7; 1893 A. W. N. 42. The accused were Police constables taking under-trial prisoner by a Camel Cart on a dark night. At night the prisoner wanted to get down to make water and was permitted to do so and then he got himself free from the rope which was tied to his handcuffs and bolted. Held that there was no wilful breach or neglect of any rule to come under s. 29. 89 I. C. 663.

9. Whether section applies to special constables.—In 10 C. W. N. 79 = 2 C. L. J. 565 = 3 Cr. L. J. 178, the Judges were of opinion that it was very doubtful if the provisions of this section were applicable to special constables, but the point was not decided.

10. Refusal to act as Special Police.—A person who refused to act as a special constable cannot be prosecuted under this section, as the provisions of this section were not intended to apply to special constables and cannot be interpreted as so applying by the operation of the provisions of s. 18, supra. 10 C. W. N. 322, and see Note 2 to s. 19 above. A Police-officer (Chief constable) being authorized by law to depute his subordinate to proceed to the place where crime is reported to have been committed, cannot be convicted under this section of wilful violation of duty, if he fails to proceed himself to such spot. 1 Agra H. C. R. Cr. 1.

11. Overstaying leave without permission.—The failure of a Police constable to resume his duty on the expiration of his leave, does not constitute an offence under this section. 6 C. 625 = 8 C. L. R. 56. See also 6 A. 495. But in 29 M. 192 it was held that a Police-officer who having obtained casual leave, does not return to duty on the expiration of the period of leave, but stays behind without fresh leave, is guilty under s. 44 of Act XXIV of 1859 (Madras District Police Act), of the offence of "ceasing to perform the duties of his office without leave." The additional words introduced by Act VIII of 1895, s. 9, leave now no room for any doubt on the point.

12. Trial for offences under this section, regulated by the Code of Criminal Procedure.—Acts or omissions punishable under this section come within the category of offences punishable under any law other than the Indian Penal Code" (s. 5 of the 1893 Code) and these offences likewise fall within the terms of s. 204 of the present Code (s. 148 of the 1872 Code). 25 W. R. 20.

13. Officer under suspension.—A Police-officer under suspension cannot be convicted under this section of withdrawing from the duties of his office without permission. 8 B. L. R. Appx. 55 = 17 W. R. 12, followed in 10 A. 459.

(3) On such application being made he may issue a license specifying the names of the licensees and defining the conditions on which alone such assembly or such procession is to be permitted to take place and otherwise giving effect to the section

31. for the conduct of assemblies and processions, shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees

Notes —1. Merely playing music at night in a house is not an offence and does not therefore require any license as this Act does not apply S G. P. L. R. 92.

After an application for license to take out a procession is made under s 30 of this Act the applicant is free to take out the procession whether the license applied for is issued or not. If the license has been issued the licensee is bound to obey the conditions upon which it is granted whether it has been delivered or not, if, on the other hand, it has not been issued he is only bound to see that the general law is not broken, where therefore the petitioner applied for a license to take out a religious procession, but the license was not in fact delivered to the applicant who, without waiting for delivery of license took out the procession, held that no offence punishable under s 32 of this Act was committed as there was neither failure to apply for license nor a violation of an order issued under s 30. Held also that the word "issued" in that section signifies that if the District Superintendent of Police, etc., signs the license and delivers it to some one with directions that it shall in due course be delivered to the applicant, the license has been issued within the meaning of s 30 4 Pat. 795

Saying of control of Magistrate of districts

33. Nothing in the last [four] preceding sections, shall be deemed to interfere with the general control of the Magistrate of the district over the matters referred to therein

34. Any person who, on any road in any [open place] or street or thoroughfare within the limits of any town to which this section shall be specially extended by the Local Government, commits any of the following offences, to the obstruction, inconvenience, annoyance, risk, danger or damage of the residents or passengers, shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, or to imprisonment [with or without hard labour] not exceeding eight days, and it shall be lawful for any Police-officer to take into custody, without a warrant, any person who within his view commits any of such offences, namely —

Second.—Any person who wantonly or cruelly beats, abuses or tortures any animal,

Cruelty to animals

Third.—Any person who keeps any cattle or conveyance of any kind standing longer than is required for loading, or unloading, or for taking up or setting down passengers, or who leaves any conveyance in such a manner as to cause inconvenience or danger to the public,

Fourth.—Any person who exposes any goods for sale,

Obstructing passengers

Sixth.—Any person who is found drunk or riotous or who is incapable of taking care of himself,

Being found drunk or riotous

Seventh.—Any person who wilfully and indecently exposes his person, or any offensive deformity or disease, or commits nuisance by exposing himself or by bathing or washing in any tank or reservoir not being a place set apart for that purpose.

Indecent exposure of person

* Inserted by Act I of 1901 s 3 Sch II

NOTE.—The words in brackets in ss 32, 33 and 34 are not inserted or added by Act VIII of 1891 ss 22 and 23

Neglect to protect dangerous places

Eighth—Any person who neglects to fence in or duly to protect, any well, tank or other dangerous place or structure,

Notes.—1. Slaughtering of Cattle, etc.—The slaughtering of a cow in an open verandah, so as to cause annoyance to the residents of the locality, and in spite of their remonstrance, is a breach of the law, being an act in an 'open place' within the terms of this section as amended by Act VIII of 1895. The words 'open space' coupled with "road, street or thoroughfare" should be interpreted ejusdem generis. It seems rather that the addition of these words was intended to have a wider significance and this is shown by another amendment in the same section made at the same time, by which annoyance, etc., caused must be not to the residents and passengers, but to the residents or passengers. The intention of the Legislature was to extend the Act not only to passengers who would be on such a road, street or thoroughfare, but to the residents who are not passengers. 27 C. 655. See also 1837 A. W. N. 67. Overloading a horse by allowing a greater number of men to sit in an ekka is not an offence under this section. 23 P. R. 1885.

2. Obstruction.—Placing lanbans in a public thoroughfare is an offence under this section. 2 N. W. P. H. C. R. 8. Even if the obstruction, such as placing a board in front of one's house over a water channel thereby temporarily diminishing the width of a public road be not punishable under this section, the obstructor would be liable under ss. 268 and 290, I P. C. 1906 A. W. N. 317 = 4 A. L. J. 46 = 4 Cr. L. J. 492. In this case the point was also discussed whether vouchers for bets regarding Government opium sales would be "good" within the meaning of cl. (4) of this section.

3. Limits of any town.—Town here includes a Cantonment. See Cantonments Act, XIII of 1889, s. 12(2).

4. Specially extended.—In the Presidencies of Madras and Bombay there are special Acts. See Note to s. 46, infra.

5. A sentence of imprisonment under this section whether substantive or in default of payment of fine, must be simple. 1 Burma S. R. 57

Note.—6. What amounts to exposing Goods for Sale—Held the expression "exposes for sale" in sub-clause 4 implies that every person taking any quantity of the article exposed has to pay for it. So erecting a chowki at a public place to supply water freely to all who wanted it and some, however used to give tips but there was no evidence that the chowki obstructed the passers by, was held not to amount to exposing any goods for sale within the meaning of sub-clause (4) 30 24 A. L. J. R. 292.

If the local area in which any such tax is to be imposed or any such rate is to be assessed, is a Municipal district, the amount of the charge shall be paid by the Municipality from the Municipal fund or the rate shall be assessed by the Municipality conformably to the direction given by Government under sub-section (2).

‡ (5) It shall be lawful for Government, by order, to exempt any persons from liability to bear cost

Notes.—1. A Collector of revenue has no power to recover the cost of punitive post from the talukdar of the village if he was not an inhabitant of the village, because such cost could only be defrayed, by a local rate imposed on the inhabitants of the place in which the punitive post was established. 16 Bom. 433.

2. After the serious riots which broke out at Malegaon on 26th April, 1921, much property and life was lost. The Commissioner authorized the District Magistrate under s. 25-A of this Act to determine the amount of compensation for damage caused by the riots and to recover the amount from the adult male Mahomedan inhabitants of the area. Side by side with this Government also took action under s. 24 of this Act.

Held, that neither of the taxes levied was wanton, arbitrary or oppressive, but was purely within the exercise of the discretion vested by ss. 25 and 25-A of this Act.

Held also, that Government notification of 6th June, 1922, was not ultra vires, for it was competent to Government to decide to levy the police charges from the male adult Mahomedans, and then to direct the whole of it to be levied from the shopkeepers under s. 21 of the Bombay General Clauses Act. 26 Bom. CHAPTER IV.

(3) Every rule promulgated under the authority of article (j) of clause (1) of this section shall be forthwith reported to the Commissioner† and shall be in force for not more than fifteen days unless extended by the Commissioner† for a longer period and in such case for so long as the Commissioner† directs.

(4) It shall be the duty of all persons concerned to conform to any order duly made as aforesaid so long as the same shall be in operation.

Notes.—1 Clause (a).—The structure contemplated by the section must be on the road itself and cause some nuisance to the public. If no part of the structure touched the road it could not be said to be constructed on the road. 22 Bom. 742

2. Clause (m).—Illegal Orders.—Orders forbidding sticks to be carried by persons attending a certain jatra (fair) Ratanlal 394, and a warning or advice given by the Police not to go alone on a particular road as the country was believed to be infested with dacoits are not legal orders. Hence persons disobeying these are not guilty of offences under this section.

3. Legal Orders.—Issuing a notification ordering people to drive on the proper side of the road. Ratanlal 35 See s. 61, clause (b) infra.

4. Operation of orders.—The orders of Magistrates issued under this section become at once operative in all places within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate, without having been specifically extended thereto by Government notification. 5 Bom H C. Cr 100.

* Certain words after this were repealed by the Bombay District Police (Amendment) Act IV of 1912, s. 4 (1)

† Substituted by Bombay Act III of 1915

* 39-A. With the previous sanction of the Governor in Council, the Magistrate of the district may from time to time make rules for licensing and controlling theatres and other places of public amusement entertainment or assembly, including the entrance and exit of persons thereat, and the decent and orderly conduct of proceedings therein, and in order to prevent obstruction, inconvenience, annoyance, risk danger, or damage of the residents or passengers in the vicinity, prohibiting the keeping of places of public amusement entertainment or assembly

District Magistrates may make rules for blasting and excavation

40. Every Magistrate of a district may from time to time make rules for the blasting of rocks or for making excavations in or near any street in any town or village in his district and may provide in such rules for the grant of licenses or such operations.

41. On complaint being made to a Magistrate of a district or of a sub-division that any house in a town or village in his district or sub-division to which Government has by notification extended this section is used as a common brothel or lodging house or place of resort for prostitutes or disorderly persons of any description, to the annoyance of the respectable inhabitants of the vicinity, the said Magistrate may summon the owner or tenant of the house to answer the complaint and on being satisfied that the house is so used may order the owner or tenant within a reasonable period which shall be set forth in the order, to discontinue such use of it.

Notes.—1. Ingredients of an offence under this section.—To constitute an offence under this section two ingredients are necessary (i) the character of the house, i.e., the use of the house as 'common brothel or lodging house or place of resort for prostitutes or disorderly persons of any description', (ii) the nuisance, i.e., it must be to 'the annoyance of the respectable inhabitants of the vicinity' 5 B L R. 224 = 14 Cr. L J. 282.

2 Complaint under this section, no offence within meaning of s 4 (c) of the Code.—The complaint filed under this section is not a complaint of an offence as defined under s 4 (c) of the Code, as this section does not make the use of a house as a brothel an offence, the only order which a Magistrate can pass under this section being the discontinuance of the user. A Magistrate has therefore no jurisdiction to award compensation under s 230 of the Code 5 B L R. 264 = 14 Cr. L J. 320.

42. (1) The Magistrate of the district, or in his absence and subject to his order the Magistrate of the first class having jurisdiction in any town or village and present therein or in the neighbourhood thereof may whenever and for such time as it shall appear necessary, by a notification publicly promulgated or addressed to individuals, prohibit in such town or village or the vicinity thereof the carrying of arms, cudgels or other weapons, the carrying, collection and preparation of stones or other missiles or instruments or means of casting or impelling missiles, the exhibition of persons or of corpses or figures thereof, the public utterance of cries singing of songs,† playing of music † delivery of harangues and use of gestures or mimetic representations and the preparation, exhibition or dissemination of pictures, symbols, placards or of any other object or thing which may be of a nature to outrage morality or decency or, in the opinion of such Magistrate, may probably inflame religious animosity or hostility between different classes or incite to the commission of an offence, to a disturbance of the public peace or to resistance to or contempt of the law or of a lawful authority

Issue of orders by Magistrates for prevention of disorder

(2) If in any town or village or the vicinity thereof there are two or more Magistrates of the first class having jurisdiction therein, a prohibition as aforesaid may be made by any one of them

Any one of several Magistrates having jurisdiction may issue order

(3) An order made under this section by a Subordinate Magistrate shall be forthwith communicated to the Magistrate of the district, who shall thereupon confirm, cancel or modify the same as shall seem expedient.

Note.—Scope of this Section.—This section is of a penal character and must be strictly construed as it affects the liberty of the subject.

Accused was found to have sold almanacs containing pictures of a certain person in disobedience of an order of the District Magistrate promulgated only at the Taluka head-quarters and containing no reference to period of time or the geographical area, at a village twelve miles away from where the District Magistrate was

* This section was newly inserted by the Bombay District Police (Amendment) Act IV of 1912, s 6 (1)

† These words were inserted by Bombay Act III of 1868, s 10

Held, that the District Magistrate was not empowered by the section to pass such an order and that a conviction for disobedience of such order was illegal. 14 Bom. L. R. 133 = 13 Cr. L. J. 430. Per Chandavarkar, J.—'The section is not clearly worded, but the preliminary conditions essential for the exercise of the jurisdiction are first, the jurisdiction is conferred on the Magistrate of the district or in his absence and subject to his own order, the Magistrate of the first class, secondly, these must have jurisdiction in the town or village where the jurisdiction is intended to operate, thirdly, they must be present in such town or village or in the neighbourhood thereof at the time the jurisdiction is set in motion' Per Bachelor, J.—The words 'having jurisdiction in any town' or village refer equally to the Magistrate of the first class as well as to the District Magistrate. To hold otherwise would be simply to enact a new section in substitution for this section. A distance of twelve miles from where the Magistrate is present, cannot be regarded as either 'neighbourhood' or 'vicinity'.

- 43. In order to prevent an impending or apprehended not or grave disturbance of the peace the Magistrate of the district may temporarily close or take possession of any building or place, and may exclude all or any persons therefrom, or may allow access thereto such persons only and on such terms as he shall deem expedient. All persons concerned shall be bound to conduct themselves in accordance with such order as the Magistrate may make and notify in the exercise of the authority hereby vested in him.

Issue of orders by Magistrate of the district for prevention of riot or grave disturbance of the peace

- 44. (1) In any case of an actual or intended religious or ceremonial or corporate display or exhibition or organized assemblage in any street as to which or the conduct of or participation in which it shall appear to the Magistrate of the district that a dispute or contention exists which is likely to lead to grave disturbance of the peace, such Magistrate may give such orders as to the conduct of the persons concerned towards each other and towards the public as he shall deem necessary and reasonable under the circumstances, regard being had to the apparent legal rights and to any established practice of the parties and of the persons interested. Every such order shall be published in the town or place wherein it is to operate, and all persons concerned shall be bound to conform to the same.

Issue of orders by Magistrate of the district for maintenance of order at religious ceremonies, etc.

- (2) Any order made under the foregoing sub-section shall be subject to a decree, injunction or order made by a Court having jurisdiction, and shall be recalled or altered on its being made to appear to the Magistrate of the district that such order is inconsistent with a judgment, decree, injunction or order of such Court, on the complaint, suit or application of any person interested as to the rights and duties of any persons affected by the order aforesaid.

Orders to be subject to decrees, etc., of Courts

Notes—1. Scope of section.—The Bombay District Police Act is not intended to confer any right upon any individual or class of His Majesty's subjects which had not been given by the common law. The Act was passed in the interests of public peace. All that section 44 of the Act contemplates is that where a District Magistrate has passed an order in the interests of peace, it is open to any party to go to a Civil Court and get an adjudication in favour of his right, if any. The legislature merely assumes that there is a right which the District Magistrate's order has opposed and which can be vindicated in a Court of law. 11 Bom. L. R. 372 = 2 In. Ca. 494.

2. An order issued under this section need not be in writing. Disobedience to a verbal order is also punishable. 7 Bom. H. C. Cr. 2.

3. An order under this section is merely an executive Police order and not a judicial one.—An order under this section is not an order by an inferior Criminal Court or by any Court at all, but is a mere executive Police order. This section empowers the 'Magistrate of the District' to issue orders for the maintenance of by such an order is to appeal to the executive Government, or it so advised to establish his claim in a Civil Court. 12 Bom. L. R. 1075 = 11 Cr. L. J. 703.

4. Section empowers Magistrate to give directions for regulation of procession.—It is competent to a District Magistrate acting under this section to give to persons forming a religious procession, in the interests of the public, directions as to carrying a particular emblem, as to the time and route of the procession, and to the presence of the Police. 13 Bom. L. R. 1029 = 11 Cr. L. J. 703.

45. (1) Whenever it shall appear to the Magistrate of a district that any place in the district at which on account of a fair, pilgrimage or other such occurrence large bodies of persons have assembled or are likely to assemble, is visited or will probably be visited with an outbreak of any epidemic disease, he may take such special measures and may by public notice prescribe such regulations to be observed by the residents at the said place and by persons present thereat or returning thereto or returning therefrom as he shall deem necessary to prevent the outbreak of such disease or the spread thereof.

(2) It shall be lawful for the Magistrate of the district or for the Collector on the requisition of the Magistrate of the district subject to the orders of the Commissioner* to assess and levy such reasonable fees on persons filling under the provisions of sub-section (1) and will provide for the expenses of the arrangements for sanitation and the preservation of order at and about the place of assemblage.

Levy of fees on such persons

Recovery of expenses from Municipalities

(3) When the place of assemblage is within the limits of a Municipality such sums as shall be necessary for the purposes aforesaid may be recovered from the Municipality.

46. Whenever it shall appear to the Magistrate of a district or to any Subdivisional Magistrate that the movement or encampment of any gang or body of persons in the district is causing or is calculated to cause danger or alarm or reasonable suspicion that unlawful designs are entertained by such gang or body or by members thereof such Magistrate may by notification addressed to the persons appearing to be the leaders or chief men of such gang or body and published by beat of drum or otherwise to such Magistrate think fit direct the members of such gang or body so to conduct themselves as shall seem necessary in order to prevent violence and alarm or to disperse and each of them to remove himself to such place by such route as such Magistrate shall prescribe.

47. Notes.—1. A conviction under this section is illegal if the prohibition is not contained in the Ratanial 55.

2 Clause (h)—Expediency of order not to be inquired into.—It is not necessary for a Magistrate trying an accused, under this section for disobedience of an order issued in proper form by the District Magistrate, to inquire into the expediency of the order, if being only necessary to prove the disobedience and not the existence of the danger or other occasion for making the order as is essential under s. 188, I P C. But mere presence of a person at a procession in which music was played in contravention of an order of the District Magistrate, does not by itself constitute an abetment of an offence under the Act. Ratanlal 708.

3. Clause (j)—In s 31 of Bombay Act No VII of 1867, the words "commits nuisance" had been used in place of 'obeys a call of nature.' In Ratanlal 134 those words were construed to include the offence of making water in a public gutter. To make water in a public street is an offence, provided there be evidence of annoyance to residents or passengers. Ratanlal 303.

4 School-master's responsibility for nuisance committed by his boys.—In Ratanlal 291 it was held that children once outside the school are not so under the control of the master as to make the latter criminally responsible, as their parents might be for nuisance created by their children. If a school is so conducted as to be a nuisance, the complainant can get a remedy by injunction.

5. Clause (i)—The corresponding expression for the words "Magistrate having lawful authority in that behalf" in the earlier Act was "Resident Magistrate," and that expression was held not to include a Magistrate who happens on his tour to stay a few days at the place, mere presence not being the same thing as residence. Ratanlal 493

6. Clause (m)—The mere act of fishing in a public tank, without proof that something that would defile the water was used as bait, cannot sustain a conviction under this clause. Ratanlal 865.

62. (1) Whoever cruelly beats, goads overworks, ill-treats or tortures or causes or procures to be cruelly beaten, goaded overworked ill-treated or tortured any animal, shall be punished with imprisonment which may extend to one month or with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees or with both.

Punishment for cruelty to animals

(2) Jurisdiction in cases arising under this section shall not be exercised by a Magistrate of lower rank than the second class unless such Magistrate be specially invested with jurisdiction for that purpose by Government.

Notes.—1. Cruelty, what is—A man who after firing at a dog refrains from again firing at it to put it out of pain does not commit an offence under this section. Ratanlal 183. To support a conviction for cruelty, it should be found as a fact that pain or suffering has been inflicted. Ratanlal 739

2. Imprisonment in default of payment of a fine inflicted under the Act, ought to be simple not rigorous. 5 Bom. H. C. Cr. 43.

3. Bombay Act III of 1915 has substituted the word "second" for the word "first" in sub-section (2) of this section.

Where the provisions of the prevention of cruelty to Animals Act, 1890, are extended by the Bombay Government to a certain district under sub-section (2) of section 1 of the Act, the extension does not by itself operative to repeal section 62 of the District Police Act (Bombay Act IV of 1890) within that district. I. L. R. 24 Bom. P. 203 Cr. Reference.

(5) The plaintiff shall set forth that a notice as aforesaid has been served on the defendant and the date of such service, and shall state whether any, and, if any, what tender of amends has been made by the defendant. A copy of the said notice shall be annexed to the plaint endorsed or accompanied with a declaration by the plaintiff of the time and manner of service thereof

Notes.—1. Sanction of Government is not necessary in order to give a Magistrate jurisdiction to entertain complaint against an Inspector of Police of an offence committed in his capacity of a Police-officer Ratanlal 142. See Note to s. 8 above

2. Notice.—The protection intended to be afforded to Police-officers by the Act by means of notice, is not a condition precedent to a prosecution relating to a violent assault by a Police-officer. The protection extends to official acts done in good faith, and which may reasonably be supposed to be done in pursuance of official duty, even though legal powers may be exceeded but not to acts for which there is a total absence of authority Ratanlal 486.

3. Protection to apply to criminal prosecutions as well as civil actions.—Under the corresponding section of Bombay Act VII of 1867 it was held that these provisions applied to criminal prosecutions as well as to civil actions, Ratanlal 220

4. Limitation.—In 10 Bom. H. C. 204, it was held under s. 42 of Bombay Act VII of 1867 (corresponding to this section) that the period provided in that section applied to suits brought against a Police-officer and not those in the Limitation Act XIV of 1859

81. (1) In the case of any rule or order made by Government under an authority conferred by this Act and requiring the public or a particular class of persons to perform some duty or act, or to conduct or order themselves or those under their control in a manner therein described, it shall be competent to any person interested to apply to Government by a memorial given to a Secretary to Government to annul, reverse or alter the rule or order aforesaid on the ground of its being unlawful, oppressive or unreasonable

(2) After such an application as aforesaid and the rejection thereof wholly or in part, or after the lapse of four months without an answer to such application or a decision thereon published by Government, it shall be competent to the person interested and deeming the rule or order contrary to law to institute a suit against Government in the District Court of the district wherein the rule or order operates, for a declaration that the rule or order is unlawful either wholly or in part. The decision in such a suit shall be subject to appeal, and a rule or order finally adjudged to be unlawful shall by Government be annulled or reversed or so altered as to make it conformable to law

Police-patels may be appointed for different divisions of town or place

6. The Police-patel shall subject to the orders of the Magistrate of the district act under the orders of the Magistrate within whose local jurisdiction his village is situated, whom he shall furnish with any returns or information called for, and keep constantly informed as to the state of crime and all matters connected with the village Police, the health and general condition of the community in his village

10 Bom. L. R. 630 = 8 Cr. L. J. 141.

2. A Police-patel has no authority under the Village Police Act to prevent persons from performing famashas in their houses. Ratanlal 237.

7. The Police-patel shall have authority to require all village servants, in whatever capacity ordinarily employed, to aid him in performing the duties entrusted to him, and it shall be the duty of the village-revenue accountant, whether hereditary or stipendiary, to frame all written returns and proceedings for the Police-patel.

such accusation, and that the close of such inquiry, if the said Magistrate shall consider him guilty of misconduct meriting such punishment, he may suspend him from office for a further period not exceeding six months, or dismiss him

Provided that no person of the rank of patel, if he is an officiator under the provisions of the Bombay Hereditary Offices Act, shall be dismissed under this section without the sanction of Government.*

Note.—Encroachment made by villagers on public road.—A Police-patel cannot be convicted for neglecting to report an encroachment made by the villagers on the public road 7 B. H. C. R. 88

† 9-A. Nothing in the last preceding section shall affect the liability of any Police-patel or other member of a village establishment to a criminal prosecution for any offence with which he may be charged

Any Magistrate of the first class may suspend any person subjected to any such prosecution pending the inquiry and trial.

Note.—Sanction for prosecuting Police-patel.—The prosecution of a Police-patel, for an offence committed by him in his official capacity as such, needs no previous sanction. The provisions of Bombay Act VIII of 1867, s 9, as amended by Bombay Act I of 1876 render a Police-patel removable from his office without the previous sanction of Government, and therefore s 466 of the Cr P C (Act X of 1872 does not apply) 6 Bom. 337.

10. If a crime shall have been committed within the limits of the village, and the perpetrator of the crime has escaped or is not known, the Police-patel shall forward immediate information to the Police-officer in charge of the District Police-station within the limits of which his village is situated, and shall himself proceed to investigate the matter, obtaining all procurable evidence relating to it which he shall forward to the said officer

11. (1) If any unnatural or sudden death occur, or any corpse be found, within the bounds of any village, the Police-patel shall forthwith assemble an inquest, to be composed of two or more intelligent persons belonging to the village or neighbourhood who shall investigate the cause of death and all the circumstances of the case, and make a written report of the same, which the Police-patel shall cause to be forthwith delivered to the Police-officer in charge of the District Police-station within the limits of which the village is situated.

(2) Any person who, on being called upon by the Police-patel to serve as a member of such inquest, shall without justifiable cause refuse or neglect to do so, shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate to punishment not exceeding fifty rupees fine, or in default of payment to imprisonment for one month

(3) If the results of the inquest afford reason for supposing that death has been unlawfully occasioned the Police-patel shall give immediate notice to the officer in charge of the District Police-station within the limits of which his village is situated, and, if the corpse can be forwarded without the risk of putrefaction by the way, shall at once forward to the nearest Civil Surgeon or other medical officer appointed by Government to examine corpses under such circumstances, who shall endeavour to ascertain the cause of death.

Should the Police-patel be unable to forward the corpse without the risk of putrefaction rendering examination useless or dangerous he shall nevertheless prevent the burning or burying of such corpse until the Police-officer in charge of the District Police-station within the limits of which his village is situated, or one of his subordinates deputed by him or a Magistrate, shall have assented thereto

Notes.—1. Act unaffected by Code.—The ancient village system of Police, as regulated by Bombay Act VIII of 1867, remains unaffected by the Code of Criminal Procedure except where the latter contains a specific provision. 19 Bom. 612.

* R 9 A was inserted by Bombay Act I of 1876 s 3

† R inserted by Bombay Act III of 1876

2. Object of the inquest.—The inquest which s. 11 of the Act requires must be held forthwith, so that all the circumstances of the murder may be reported forthwith to the District Police. This law, which imposes on the Police-patel the duty of holding an inquest, and arresting the murderers, and empowers him to take evidence on oath is obviously intended to make justice effectual by means of prompt inquiry in the face of all the villagers, and by delivery of a verdict of men not open to the suspicions of undue zeal often alleged against the District Police. Like any other Coroners inquests, it saves the innocent from false charges, as people are not likely to bring such charges against an innocent man, when they have kept silence at the inquest. Ratanlal 740

3. Penalty for refusal to serve at inquest.—A refusal to serve on an inquest when called on by a Police-patel specially empowered under s. 15 is not a refusal to obey a lawful order of a Police-patel punishable by the Police-patel himself under s. 15 of the Act. Ratanlal 614.

4. Medical testimony in case of unnatural death.—The testimony of a medical witness, especially in a case of murder, ought, when he is present to be taken fully, and not supplemented by reading over his testimony given elsewhere and recording an answer that the earlier testimony is true. Ratanlal 792.

12. (1) The Police-patel shall apprehend any person within the limits of his village who, he may have reason to believe has committed any serious offence and shall forward such person together with all articles likely to be useful as evidence, to the Police-officer in charge of the Police-station within the limits of which his village is situated.

Police-patel to apprehend person he believes has committed serious offence

Person apprehended to be forwarded to Police station

(2) Every person so apprehended shall be forwarded within twenty four hours to the District Police-station within the limits of which the village is situated.

Note.—Bail to persons sent up by village Police.—The power of the Police to take bail being regulated by the Code of Criminal Procedure, s. 100, a Police-patel is not competent to admit to bail persons sent up to them by Police-patels. Ratanlal 26.

13. (1) The Police-patel, in making any inquiry coming within the scope of his duty, not being a case in which it is competent for him to inflict punishment, shall have authority to call and examine witnesses, and record their evidence on solemn affirmation, and to search for concealed articles taking care that no search be made in a dwelling house between sunset and sunrise without urgent occasion.

Power to call and examine witnesses, record evidence, and search for concealed articles

(2) He shall also have authority, in carrying out any search or any pursuit of supposed criminals, to enter any dwelling house, being bound however to give immediate notice to the owner or occupant, who shall afford him all the assistance in continuing the search and pursuit.

Power to enter limits of villages

14. The Police-patel shall have authority to try and, on conviction, to punish with confinement in the village-chavadi, for a period not exceeding twenty four hours, any person charged with committing within the limits of the village petty assault or abuse. Provided the charge be laid within eight days of the offence having been committed.

Power to try and punish for petty assault or abuse

Notes.—1. Power of District Magistrates to stay or transfer proceedings.—A District Magistrate has no power to stop the judicial proceedings already in progress before the Police-patel. S. 6 deals with purely executive duties of a Police-patel. See Note to s. 6 above. 10 Bom. L. R. 630 = 5 Cr. L. J. 161. S. 528 (4), Cr. P. C., has no application. See 25 M. 394 (F.B.), for a case under the Madras Village Police Regulation 1816

2. Interest a bar to exercise of authority.—A Police-patel is disqualified from trying a case in which he is personally interested since though the Code of Criminal Procedure does not apply to village Police-officers still the principle stated in s. 553 of the Code is based on a general principle of justice. Ratanlal 321.

3. A village Police-patel has no authority to inflict a fine. Ratanlal 187.

4. Revision—Jurisdiction of High Court.—Apart from the power expressly conferred by the Act upon the Magistrate in that connection the only right of superintendence over the judicial functions of the Police-patel created by this Act, is vested in the High Court by clauses 26 and 27 of the Letters Patent. 10 Bom. L. R. 630 = 5 Cr. L. J. 161. Compare Weir I, 924 and 786.

Comm ss oner of Police may authorise Magistrate to comm ss on Police-patel to try certain offenders

15. (1) It shall be lawful for the * Magistrate of a district to issue a commission to any person exercising the office of a Police-patel empowering such Police-patel to try any person charged with any of the following offences committed within the limits of the village in which he is Police-patel that is to say — mischievous or petty theft when the estimated value of the property stolen or of damages sustained does not exceed two rupees resistance or refusal to obey a lawful order issued by such Police-patel personally

(2) And it shall be lawful for a Police-patel so empowered to sentence any person convicted before him

Power of patel to punish of any of the above acts to punishment by fine not exceeding rupees five or confinement in the village-chavadi for a period not exceeding forty-eight hours, the confinement in cases of resistance or refusal to obey a lawful order, to be awardable only on a failure to pay a fine

Notes—1 What is a lawful order?—A Police-patel has authority to summon a person to appear before him in reference to an offence of which he can take cognizance since s. 6 of the Act imposes on him the duty of detecting and bringing offenders to justice and such a summons signed by him is a lawful order issued by him personally within the meaning of s. 15 the refusal to obey which is an offence triable by the patel. Ratanial 850

2 What are not?—A Police-patel has no power to order the removal of a piece of wood lying on a public road Ratanial 980 Nor can he order any person to attend at his office in the case of an offence of which he cannot take cognizance. The disobedience of such orders therefore are no offences under s. 15 of the Act. Ratanial 851 A verbal order sent through a messenger by a Police-patel under s. 15 asking a person to present himself before him to answer an accusation is not a lawful order issued by the Police-patel personally within the meaning of the section 8 Bom. L. R. 118 = 3 Cr. L. J. 239.

3 Mere omission to obey is not refusal—Where there is a mere omission to obey and no deliberate refusal to obey an order given by a Police-patel personally, a conviction under s. 15 of the Act cannot be sustained. Ratanial 624 A refusal to answer questions put by a Police-patel in a criminal proceeding is not refusal to obey a lawful order issued by Police-patel personally within the meaning of s. 15 (1) of the Act Ratanial 610

† 16. The Police-patel when and as long as he shall be empowered under section 15 clause 1 shall also have authority to punish by a fine not exceeding one rupee or in default of payment by confinement in the village-chavadi for a period not exceeding twelve hours any person committing any of the nuisances or disorderly acts below described and to forbid the continuance or repetition of such nuisances or acts that is to say —

|--|---|
| Beating etc an male | (1) Any person who wantonly or cruelly beats ill uses or tortures any animal |
| Bathing washing or defiling well etc | (2) Any person who bathes or washes in or otherwise defiles or causes to be defiled any public well tank or reservoir so as to render it less fit for any purpose for which it is set apart |
| Depositing dirt etc | (3) Any person who deposits in forbidden places any dirt filth or rubbish |
| Committing nuisance etc | (4) Any person who on any public street passage or thoroughfare commits nuisance by exercising himself or who is from intoxication riotous disorderly or incapable of taking care of himself |
| Accumulating offensive matter in cess-pools etc | (5) Any person who without sufficient cause wilfully allows to accumulate any offensive matter in cess-pools dung-heaps or the like so as to cause annoyance to the neighbouring residents or to passengers or |
| Allowing offensive matter to issue or thoroughfare | who without sufficient cause wilfully allows any offensive matter to issue on to any public thoroughfare from any house factory, stable privy or the like or |
| Depositing dead bodies or as to corrupt water for drinking | who deposits the bodies of dead animals or refuse or filth of any description either in channels which in the rainy season feed any tank or reservoir set apart for drinking or in other places where to deposit such is offensive to the community |

Notes.—1. Scope of the Section.—S. 16 is a special section expressly confined in its operation to the Police-patels duly empowered under s. 15 (1) of the Act and does not extend to their official superiors (the Magistrates in charge of the Talukas within which they are patels). Ratanlal 196

2. Clause 2 does not apply to rivers.—S. 16, cl. 2, applies to offences regarding public wells, tanks or reservoirs, but not to those regarding rivers. Ratanlal 609.

3. Clause 4.—To ease oneself close to a public road is not an offence under the Act, unless the Act is committed within sight of a public road so as to cause obstruction, annoyance, risk, danger or damage, to residents or passengers. Ratanlal 161.

4. Clause 5—It is a general principle of law that the head of the house is responsible for all nuisances which emanate from the house. Ratanlal 33.

Milk bush put in a river for catching fish is not refuse or filth within the meaning of s. 16, cl. 5, para. 3. Ratanlal 379.

17. The proceedings under ss. 14, 15 and 16 shall be oral and held in presence of the parties and it shall be optional with the complainant to withdraw his complaint at any time before conviction is recorded.

The Police-patel shall record the names of the parties, the finding, sentence or order or the withdrawal of the charge, with the date of proceedings, and shall forward the same to the Magistrate to whom he is immediately subordinate, in such form and through such channel, and at such times, as the Magistrate of the district shall prescribe.

18. It shall be lawful for the Magistrate of a district,* by an order in writing, to cancel either in whole or in part any commission issued under section 15*

19. The Police-patel shall take charge of all unclaimed property found within his village, or made over to him under the provisions of the Bombay District Police Act of 1867, and shall forthwith make a report to the Magistrate † to whom he is subordinate, and act thereafter as he may be directed by the said Magistrate unless the property be of a description coming within the provisions of the Cattle Trespass Act 1871, ‡ in which case the Police-patel shall be guided by that enactment.

20. Nothing contained in this Act shall be construed to prevent the prosecution of any person under any other Regulation or Act for any offence made punishable by this Act, or from being liable under any other Regulation or Act to any other or higher penalty or punishment than is provided for such offence by this Act

If it does enter, the controlling authority of the Commissioner comes into play and it becomes a matter of Police discipline. When, therefore, the Commissioner of Police in Bombay under the powers vested in him by s. 12 prohibited any member of the Police Force from calling or attending a meeting to discuss any subject connected with the Police Force without his permission and the accused disobeyed the same held that the accused was rightly convicted under s. 18 of Act IV of 1902. 31 Bom. 430.

Note.—The meaning of s. 16 of the Act is that even when a Police-officer is not actually at his post discharging the duty assigned to him he is for the purposes of the Act to be regarded as being at that post, with all the rights and obligations of his office attaching to him.
